—S. C. Upshaw, La Grange, Ga., says: "Never in the history of the La Grange Church has there been such a revival which has just closed with 100 conversions and 107 annexations. We were assisted part of the time by Rev. D. Gray. There are still others to come in. We had our newly appointed presiding elder, Rev. G. W. Arnold, with us, Sunday, May 19, who preached to us with much spirit and power. He is much loved by the people."

—Joseph Thompson, Hubertville, La., says: "The second quarterly conference was held by our presiding elder, S. E. H. Morant, May 25. Reports show an increase along all lines under our thoroughgoing and energetic pastor, H. C. Wilson. Have organized an Epworth League numbering 40; Sunday School 100, and mission school, 65. Our church is being looked after along all lines. The old SOUTHWESTERN is being spoken of at most every service, and a good number is pledged to take the good old paper. Seven reclaimed. Five additions. The church moves on as never before."

—W. H. Hundley, Pickens, Miss., says: "At Union M. E. Church, on May 26, a memorial service in honor of the Hon. Frederick Douglass was held, with some of the best talent of Holmes on the program. Fully four hundred persons were present to hear discussed the great deeds of the great Negro hero. Introductory address by the writer. Impressive and eloquent eulogies were delivered by Professors F. C. Robinson, P. W. Howard, T. W. Smith, D. W. Ambrose, and Revs. T. H. Allen and Anderson of the Baptist Church. The oration was rendered by Prof. R. A. Simmons, principal of Richland Normal School."

—D. H. E. Harris, pastor at Auvergne, Ark., writes: "My second quarterly conference was held May 25-26. There was a full attendance, and the reports showed progress. Rev. J. W. Jackson, P. E., of the Forrest City District, was present and presided. The Sabbath services were interesting and spiritual. Nine infants and two adults were baptized, and the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. The Sunday School and Epworth League Chapters are in splendid working condition. Monday night the presiding elder lectured to a crowded house; subject, "The Possibility of the Negro in America." Dr. Henderson, of the class of '95, of Meharry, spoke also, and highly complimented the elder upon his able effort. Lookout for subscribers soon."

—H. M. Murphy, Timmonsville Charge, S. C., writes: "We have just closed a glorious revival at Haven Chapel, Cartersville, on the above named charge, resulting in the conversion of 62 precious souls, 50 accessions to the church, 16 infants were baptized, and $15 raised for Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. The whole community is awakened. Praise God."

—McD. Spencer, South Atlanta, Ga., writes: "On the night of the 28th ult., the sisters of the churches of South Atlanta called on me with a surprise—Sisters Ada Johnson, Janie Johnson, Addie Bowlin, Martha Spiva, Lucy Lovejoy, Charlot Westbrooks, Anna Wynn, Cora Jones, Brother James Billingslia, and Sisters Wright, Low and Hunter. They are faithful to the church and pastor. Times are dull, but the good sisters and brothers say the pastor shall never suffer. Before leaving, Sister Ada Johnson had prayer, and then followed a precious season of rich Christian experience."

—T. Larkins, Lake Charles, La., says: "Sunday, May 26, was a high day for Warren Chapel M. E. Church. We raised $50 05 at our rally. We have just succeeded in putting a fence around the church and parsonage, and also made an addition to the parsonage. Brother Wm. Pritchard and Mr. Richard Lovan gave the lumber for the fence, and also Mr. John Watts aided much in getting lumber for the parsonage. God bless these dear friends. We are still alive and marching on. God is the captain."

—B. W. Kirtley, Augusta, Ky., writes: 'Our church is in a prosperous condition. Received eight in Church since conference. Sunday, May 19, was quarterly meeting; it was a great day of rejoicing in Zion. Raised $22. Our Epworth League and Sunday School is in a healthy condition also. We are trying to complete our new church, and expect to be able to dedicate it by July 28. When completed, it will be second to none in the conference. My predecessor, Rev. B. Daniels, deserves much credit for his labors among this people. The good people, sixty in all, visited the parsonage on May 3, and left their tokens of appreciation for pastor and family. We would not forget to mention the SOUTHWESTERN. It is a welcome visitor to our home each week. Enclosed find the money for one subscriber. I will send more later on."

—Our Book Concerns have issued the brighest and choicest collection of songs for Sunday Schools and young people's societies, entitled "The Junior Hymnal," edited by Edwin A. Schell and Mary Chrisholm Foster. One hundred and fifty songs, twenty of them new and twenty of them popular songs of the Sunday schools and social gatherings of thirty years ago; the remainder are the pick of to-day's favorites. Board covers, 20 cents postpaid; 25 or more copies, 15 cents each, not prepaid. For sale at this office and all the depositories.

We verily believe, if the Afro-American Republicans had held the fort in the Delaware legislature, that they would have shown their white Republican friends how to elect a senator—not to be all the winter at it and then stop, not knowing whether they had elected their man or not. We suggest that the Delaware Republicans turn the legislature over to the Afro-Americans next winter and try their hand at something else. Why, we never had anything like it during the palmy days of reconstruction—the days that Hampton, and Oates, and Morgan, and Eustis, and that class of statesmen are still weeping over. The fact is that when a man sets himself up to be greater than his party his head ought to come off. All can't be leaders. Somebody must take a back seat.—Cleveland Gazette.

New Idea for Review Sunday.

Prof. Seymour Eaton, Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, has arranged a very attractive Sunday School review exercise for June 30. It is printed in colors and has some bright illustrations. The price is $2 per 100. Prof. Eaton will mail a free sample copy to any superintendent who sends him his name and address and a 2-cent stamp.

TURNING GRAY
AND THREATENED
WITH BALDNESS
The Danger is Averted by Using
AYER'S
Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Neb.

The Discipline of Suffering.

Scripture Lesson: Job 34:29-32.

"With silence only as their benediction,
God's angels come,
Where in the shadow of a great affliction,
The soul sits dumb!"

Few there are who take pleasure in suffering. It cannot be wondered at thon that Job failed to be an exception to this rule. Suffering, however, comes alike to all. Its origin is sin. Had there been no sin, there had been no suffering. The school of affliction, though unquestionably a painful one, is nevertheless a highly beneficial one. For the true follower of Christ "it works out a far more and exceeding weight of glory." As has been truly said: "Life is an immense school. Christ is the majestic Teacher. Divine Laws are the rules. Suffering is the means of discipline by which order is preserved and the truest interests of all are promoted." Suffering is beneficial in that.

1. It affords time for meditation. The age in which we live is an extremely busy one. The demands upon one's time are innumerable. As a consequence very few ever stop sufficiently long to meditate upon the greatness, the goodness, the mercy of God. But there comes a time, when through the channel of suffering, God says: "Be still, and know that I am God."

2. It gives a proper estimate of this world. What an exalted opinion some men have of this world! See how they struggle for its wealth, its honors, its pleasures. Seemingly they forget that,

"It is not all of life to live,
Nor all of death to die"

When, however, they are brought through the mercy of God, to pass through a season of sore affliction, they realize that the things of life perish as they are used, and that now they have no continuing city, no place that they can call home.

3. It tests the genuineness of our consecration. To go out on dress parade is easy enough; to go out into actual contest is more difficult. Thousands are ready for the former; hundreds only are willing for the latter. Prosperity intoxicates; adversity brings despair. Hence, true indeed is he who can say: "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

4. It develops sympathy for actions. Experience is the best of teachers. One must first know what sorrow is to sympathize with those who are sorrowful. Hence it is said of Christ: "He himself hath suffered, being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted."

"Pity and need make all flesh kin."

5. It brings nearer God. And after all that is what we need most. Realizing our utter helplessness, we are induced to lay hold more firmly upon him who hath said, "My grace is sufficient for you." God's true Israel should never complain, no matter how great their sufferings may be.

"For God has marked each sorrowing day,
And numbered every secret tear;
And heaven's long age of bliss shall pay
For all his children suffer here."

How to Conduct a Literary Meeting.

Take four or five of your brightest members and let them represent some famous author, either in Methodist history or in literature generally. Let them either read or say from memory the life of the authors, speaking in the first person, thus, "I was born at a certain place in such a year," etc. They should not in any case give the name of the author they represent, but should leave that for the rest of the League to guess, when they have finished giving his life.—Ex.

The Devotional-Meeting Leader.

The "Golden Rule" has some pertinent suggestions, thus:

Do not carry the service yourself. Lead it.

If the meeting has not been on your heart, your heart has not been in the meeting.

One word fitly spoken is better than an erudite address.

Do not "make a speech." The prayer-meeting is the place for the communion of saints, and not your eloquence, but your heart experience is wanted.

Have a definite plan, but let it be so flexible that it can be altered at any moment if the spirit of the meeting makes a change desirable.

Watch for the guiding of the Holy Ghost. Let him lead the meeting.

Never speak, or sing, or pray merely to fill up the time. That is sacrilege.

Have several of the most spiritual members promise to continue in silent prayer throughout the service for the presence of the Holy Spirit.

Lead the meeting, but be willing to let the meeting lead you.

Be ready with a verse of scripture to direct the service, should thoughts wander.

Secure an organist who is a good musician, but a better Christian.

Do not exhaust the subject with your opening remarks. Better that a dozen members should discuss the subject poorly than the leader should preach about it ably.

Try something new. See what God can do with a consecrated ingenuity.

Be humble. If you seek to make a reputation for yourself, you will make no reputation for Christ.

Go in the spirit of prayer if you would stand in the spirit of Christ.

Be yourself. Let your true nature speak. Only arrows from the heart's quiver ever reach the mark.

Our Orange (Texas) Letter.

Winter has passed and plants have put on their garments of green; the air is filled with the rich music of the warbling, feathered songsters; all nature is filled with life, joy and praise, for spring has come. The church at Orange has had two changes since last annual conference; this has thrown a damper upon the people, so that they have not yet put off their spiritual winter dress, nor begun church work in earnest.

Two weeks of prayer and preaching utterly failed to arouse them. We have resumed work on the new church and resolved to push it to completion. Easter Day program was successfully carried out by the children; collection, $7 55. But the members during Easter Day went away and visited a neighboring church, and so left their own doors closed and the preacher idle.

The presiding elder held his second quarter on the 4th and 5th of May, and the S. S. agent was present. Their meetings were pleasant and profitable. May 12 was fixed for a rally and 12 collectors sent out to ask the public to aid us to complete our new church. No preacher from abroad was with us, save Rev. Dismuke of the Huntsville District, but a number of the town preachers came to our help and delivered able and instructive discourses. Table collections amounted to $24; collectors' books are not yet in. We solicit the prayer and help of the Church at large, that we may be aroused to go on and accomplish something for the Master.

Yours, G. S. Turner.

Making Missionary Apportionments.

By C. C. McCabe.

The Northwestern Christian Advocate has an article on the subject of missionary apportionments which, in the main, is fair and just. It is indeed no easy matter to divide the burden of raising a million and a half dollars among the conferences in such a way that a proper and equitable share of it will fall upon each.

If the Northwestern Christian Advocate, however, had been thoroughly acquainted with the plans of the Missionary Board, the following sentences would not have been written:

"It is evident, beyond all question, that the apportionment to annual conference should be made by some central authority, such as the General Missionary Committee, which represents the whole Church, and has, or can obtain, facilities for ascertaining the relative strength of the several conferences; but it is equally evident that neither that body, nor the board in New York, nor any officials in New York City can successfully distribute the amounts apportioned to the conferences to the districts in the conferences, and to be set down to the circuits and stations. This can only be done with an approach to fairness by the annual conference, acting on the conscientious advice of the presiding elders; and the apportionment to the several charges can be made only by the presiding elders, except where there may be others in the conferences who have personal knowledge of the condition of all charges. No basis is found in our statistics that can guide a stranger to the charges in this delicate and yet important work. All attempts to do it by any amount of skilled clerical force in the Missionary Office in New York City will inevitably work inequalities and damaging, discouraging, and sometimes disastrous results in many local ties. It is not supposed that even the presiding elders can do it with unfailing accuracy, for they cannot perfectly anticipate the contingences which may arise in the several fields; but with their knowledge of the obligations and the resources of the churches, they can make a nearer approach to equity than can others who have not their knowledge."

The fact is, that the very helps to fair and equitable apportionments spoken of by the writer of this article have been secured. The General Committee has committed the whole matter of apportionments to the board. A committee has been appointed. The names of this committee are as follows: John F. Goucher, chairman; M. D'C. Crawford, J. M. Buckley, C. S. Harrower, and D. R. Lowrie. The secretaries and treasurer meet with the committee. By order of the board, each presiding elder is a member of the committee while his district is under consideration. He has a right to object if he deems his apportionment excessive. Very few object; but when an objection is raised it is most carefully considered, and generally the modification asked for is made, in whole or in part. A chart is published containing these apportionments, so that each presiding elder may compare his own district with the other districts of his Conference, and then with the whole Church.

On this chart are given the name of each district, the name of each presiding elder, the number of members on each district, the amount of the last collection, the amount per member, and last of all, the million-and-a-half line for the district.

If a district raises more than its apportionment on the million-and-a-half line, its apportionment will not be increased. It is numbered among the "Self-Apportioning Districts." The excess raised by these districts last year was $72,100. The sum of the apportionments of the districts of each Conference is the apportionment of the Conference, and the sum of the Conference apportionments is a million-and-a-half.

Now, as to making apportionments to circuits and stations. The committee never does it unless invited to do so by the presiding elder. More than one-fourth of all the presiding elders in the Church have made the request that it be done. All of these are trying to get every charge into the first class. The poorest church in Methodism can get into that class by simply raising its full apportionment.

This dealing with the districts has not been attended by any "inequalities and damaging and disastrous results," such as the Northwestern fears. On the contrary, it has been attended by the highest success.

Here is the proof: It took the Church seventeen years to change the digit in the hundred-thousand-dollar place from a six to a seven. That was done when Bishop Fowler was secretary. He kept a great book, with a list of all the charges in it. He tried to reach, and did reach, every church in Methodism.

Since the adoption of the present plans, which are strictly in accordance with the disciplinary plan so heartily commended by the Northwestern, that digit has changed five times, and a half million dollars has been added to the annual income of the Missionary Society.

Taught by experience, we do not change our plans unless better ones can be suggested. We welcome all friendly criticism, but whether we adopt suggestions made depends upon how they look after the facts have been considered.

Plans that have succeeded so wonderfully as these we are now working by ought to be commended by every well-wisher of the cause of Missions. In the past eleven years they have brought four million, six hundred thousand dollars more into the missionary treasury than was received there in the eleven years prior to their adoption.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, being a highly concentrated alterative, only small does are required.

MORE LYNCHING.

It will hardly be doubted that there is a disposition in all sections of our country on the part of some of its citizens to take the law into their own hands, and administer summary justice to supposed violators of the law. Until recently the lynching business was generally in the hands of Southern people, the victims being invariably Negroes accused of committing a nameless crime. More recently, the spirit of lynching has gone westward, and we are startled at the news that in some heretofore quiet Western town a white man was arrested and lynched for the crime said by Southern writers to be indulged in only by burly Negroes. In the central West, as also in the sturdy East, instances are upon record which go to establish the "general cussedness" of humanity in all sections of our common country. While we deprecate the prevalence of crime anywhere, or by any class of men, we are especially glad to see that old and infamous fallacy exploded, that Negroes only were guilty of the crime of rape.

But we do believe that the people who rush the supposed guilty perpetrators to the gallows, or riddle their bodies with bullets, make a great mistake. Tearing down the law, and trampling it beneath their feet, is not making crime odious, but otherwise. A murderer is a murderer, whether he creeps stealthily upon his victim, fells him with a bludgeon, or takes his life with any deadly instrument; or whether he goes without legal authority, and, battering down the doors of a jail, drags the guilty, or supposed guilty wretch, to some place where a score or a hundred indignant people string him or them to a limb and fill their bodies with lead. It is murder just the same. In either case unlawful means are used. Complaint is made that the courts are tardy, and the process used in bringing accused persons to trial is often retarded by technicalities if not by bribery, thus allowing the guilty to escape. Hence outraged citizens resorting to lynching as a rebuke to this tardiness in the administration of justice. But it might as well be understood that lynching does not prohibit. Whether in Kansas or Florida, in Misissippi or Ohio, the people who take the law into their own hands not only temporarily paralyze the progress of justice by due process of the law, but undermine the very foundations upon which the law is predicated. Society—North, South, East or West—is in as much danger from the "band of determined citizens" who will not wait for the law to take its course, as from those baser elements which give occasion for the adoption of summary measures. Let these better citizens, as they are often falsely called, be as persistent at the primaries in selecting candidates for the various judicial offices, and as faithful at the polls, in securing their election, as they are in intimidating (?) a sheriff, or in breaking into a superannuated jail, and we will soon have a better order of things. Florida has gone wild, if reports are true, and our colored fellow-citizens are, as usual, imitating their white leaders. But it does not increase the respect of decent, order-loving and law-abiding citizens, for a State that will allow six Negroes to be "burned," "literally riddled with bullets," "flayed alive," "dragged to a tree and hanged in presence of their victims," etc., within a month. Meanwhile, lynching is becoming more and more obnoxious, and the time is not far away when those who engage in this unlawful pastime will be regarded as common outlaws.

—Rev. Dr. C. H. Payne has completely recovered from his recent attack of pneumonia, and is filling his engagements. He spent Sunday, June 2, in Baltimore, and Wednesday, the 14th, delivers the university oration at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln, Neb., and thence goes to attend the Wyoming Mission Conference to counsel with the brethren concerning the establishment and location of a conference school; he then expects to visit the Utah Mission Conference.

COURTESY AND CASTE.

"One of the standing causes of irritation in the Southern mission work is the asserted unwillingness of people in Southern society to show social courtesies to men and women, of no matter how high character and culture, who are engaged in teaching the Negroes. We do not doubt that there is not a little of this sort of prejudice; neither do we doubt that the sensitiveness of Northern teachers has often repelled advances that were made. It is extremely difficult for those who have been brought up in the Northern atmosphere or in the Southern atmosphere, to enter into the feelings of each other. What would seem to a Northerner utterly unreasonable often seems to a Southerner the only possible thing, and either will give offense by not understanding the other. The following is an illustration: One of the best clergymen we know in the South, a man who has done much to show his sympathy with those who have come from the North to engage in mission work, in answer to the question why the people in his church did not call upon certain teachers of a large Negro school, replied that the fault he thought was chiefly with the teachers; that if a lady should call upon one of the lady teachers she was in danger of being insulted by having some colored girl introduced to her as 'Miss,' and he could not himself call upon the principal of the school at his office without being liable to have some colored boy introduced to him as 'Mr.' We have known other cases in which this particular difficulty was felt as an obstruction to social intercourse. To a Northern teacher, treating a colored teacher or an intelligent colored man or woman as he would treat any other gentleman or lady, the prejudice seems both unreasonable and unchristian, and such we believe it to be; and yet it exists. We suppose that it is the rule in good society never to volunteer an introduction of any one, black or white, when there is reason to believe it may not be desired, and such an introduction should never be forced by teachers or others. This is not for the same reason that it is not the habit to introduce servants to visitors, but for the same reason that we do not introduce one guest to another at a party without expressed or tacit permission. We hardly know a man of higher intelligence or position than one, a Christian teacher, who some years ago refused to be introduced to a distinguished author for the reason that the latter had been entertained over night at a Negro's house in another city. He would be willing enough to treat courteously a Southern missionary, who, in the course of his duties was lodged in Negro huts in Africa; but when this author was trying to break down social customs in his native South—customs which he believed should be maintained—he was not willing to be on social relations with him. We believe that while it is the duty of Christian people to practice precisely the same rules of social courtesy with colored people as they do with white, North and South, yet we cannot force those rules upon any one."—New York Independent.

Ordinarily, such statements as the Independent makes would amount to a grave charge, but Southern society knows that the facts are as they are stated, and hence there is no effort at palliation or a disposition to change existing conditions. White teachers who come South to teach Negroes, and all other white people who come to this section to labor exclusively among Negroes, know before they come that they will fail to receive recognition from Southern white people. Their disposition to treat their Negro pupils with Christian courtesy only exasperates the whites and intensifies the feeling against them. There is absolutely no room for compromises, and any disposition on the part of our white teachers to truckle to this unholy prejudice is unworthy of the profession and not in harmony with the spirit which prompts the sacrifices which they are making. We would say to the teachers, go on in your good work; social courtesies or no social courtesies. If Southern society is predicated upon caste, it will be decidedly unsafe to base any calculations upon it. And yet there is a more excellent way. Whenever our white teachers fail to treat their colored pupils just as they would treat white pupils, the days of their usefulness among the colored people are at an end. But intelligent Christian teachers need no such suggestions; they know their duty and will do it.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Catalogues of Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., and Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Fla., are now on our table. Thanks.

—The Rev. Dr. T. B. Neely delivered the oration at the recent commencent of the National School of Elocution and Oratory, Philadelphia.

—We have a postal from Rev. E. M. Jones, P. E. which says: "Please change the date of the Montgomery District Conference from July 25 to July 24."

—The trustees of Wiley University conferred the honorary degree of "D. D." on Rev. J. B. L. Williams, pastor of Ebenezer M. E. Church, of Jacksonville, Fla.

—Conversions reported: Austin, Texas, 300; Fayette, Miss., 5; Gainsville, Ga., 23; Lagrange, Ky., 14; Meridian, Miss., 1; Tullahoma, Tenn., 9; Texarkana, Tex., 31; Pine Bluff, Ark., 31; Oxford, Miss., 48. Total, 462.

—The Iowa Methodist one of our most esteemed contemporaries, enters its 14th year with a clean record and bright prospects. Dr. H. H. Fairall is its able editor. The SOUTHWESTERN wishes it bon voyage.

—Rev. J. Will Jackson, D. D., presiding elder of the Central Missouri Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has been invited to preach the baccalaureate sermon at Lincoln Institute, Jefferson City, Mo., June 9.

—The memorial number of Zion's Herald gives evidence of the ability of the editor of that valuable journal to keep abreast of the times and to furnish its numerous readers with the best thought on the most important topics.

—Dr. J. C. Hartzell, corresponding secretary of Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, will visit England during the summer as a delegate to the meeting of educators of colored youth. He will read a paper before the convention.

—Bishop C. D. Foss, D. D., LL. D., in addition to his arduous episcopal labors, finds time to look after the city mission work in Philadelphia. An efficient board of managers, with the bishop as president, looks after this great work with much success.

—Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Amy, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. David H. Moore, to Mr. Robert James Pitkin. The ceremony will take place in Trinity M. E. Church, Cincinnati, O., on Thursday, June 20. We congratulate all the happy parties, with thanks for kind invitation.

—We are pained to chronicle the death of Hezekiah, the oldest son of our esteemed brother, Rev. H. O. Williams, of the Louisiana Conference. The sad event occurred on Monday, May 20. He sought and obtained pardon and peace, and was ready when the summons came. His funeral took place at Ross Chapel, Revs. D. J. Price and John Brown officiating. Brother and Sister Williams have our profound sympathies in this great bereavement.

—The New Orleans Monitor has taken the more euphonious and comprehensive name, Republican, and will henceforth go to its numerous constituency bearing news culled from all sources and speaking forcibly and unequivocally on all the great questions of the day. John L. Minor, Esq., is the genial and able editor. He is fearless; wields a trenchant pen, and is a safe leader. We wish the Republican success.

—The corner-stone laying of the New St. Peter M. E. Church at Donaldsonville, La., on the 16th inst., promises to be an important event. Elaborate preparations have been made; the membership being thoroughly organized by the able and efficient pastor, Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne. Rev Pierre Landry, the presiding elder of the district, is also the general manager of the corner-stone laying services. The M. W. Grand Lodge of Masons will assist in the services. The Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN is expected to preach the sermon.

—That strong, vigorous and most promising five-year-old child of our progressive Methodism, The Epworth Herald, has just celebrated its fifth anniversary. Its growth has been phenomenal, and its success has gone far beyond the most sanguine expectations of its friends. By sturdy merit it has won its way into the hearts of the young people of the Church, as no other periodical. It richly deserves the success it has achieved under the able editorial management of Dr. Berry, who possesses pre-eminent qualifications for the position which he fills. Its anniversary number is charming. Hurrah for The Epworth Herald!

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

We surprised our genial friend, Rev. C. C. Monroe of Williams Chapel, last Sunday morning, and were in turn surprised by an invitation to preach at the morning service. The Sunday School, under the leadership of Miss Ora Wilson, a most capable and consecrated young lady, gives promise of great usefulness. Rev. A. J. Proctor of Shreveport, La., and the Editor addressed the school. Brother Monroe is doing grandly.

Rev. J. F. Marshall, after a brief stay with family, left last week for work on the Baton Rouge District, of which he is the very efficient presiding elder.

The Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN was at First Street Church on Thursday night of last week. The SOUTHWESTERN was the theme. The able pastor, Rev. W. R. Butler, had worked the matter up so that we succeeded in securing ten cash subscribers, notwithstanding the severe rain storm. We believe First Street, under the present management, will be second to none in the city in all progressive matters.

Rev. G. S. Easton of Hammond, La., reports the church as flourishing. Children's Day was observed with very gratifying success. Brother Easton keeps on the front line of our Methodist progress, and is doing a grand work.

Presiding Elder Pierre Landry of the South New Orleans District is the architect of the conference. Boynton at Gretna, Williams Chapel and First Street of this city, and St. Peter in Donaldsonville, stand as monuments of his skillful planning.

Special Mention.

—The Western of June 5 says: "Prof. J. C. Hartzell, Jr., and wife arrived in this city from Orangeburg, S. C., last Saturday morning. The professor is the son of Dr. J. C. Hartzell of Cincinnati, and is professor of geology in Claflin University, Orangeburg, S. C. He has held that position for three years past and marked success. He will be the instructor in geology in the Summer School at Lakeside Assembly, Lakeside, Ohio, during July and August. He is also to deliver two lectures before the Assembly, one on 'Teachings and Results of Geology' and the other on 'The Geological Formation of Lakeside and Vicinity.' A second son of our brother, Morton Culver Hartzell, graduated from the classical course and received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from the University of Cincinnati, June 4. He enjoys the distinction of being the youngest student who has up to this time graduated from the University. He graduates at the age of nineteen years and two months. His life from childhood has been dedicated to the Christian ministry, and he will enter Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., in September."

—In the minutes of the Annual Conferences it has been the custom to only give one column to the cash and supplies reported by the conference treasurers of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, either giving the sum of cash and supplies as all cash, or leaving out supplies altogether. The society will petition that hereafter there may be two columns in the Annual Conference minutes, one for supplies and one for cash, thus securing a more correct representation. The attention of the preachers in the various charges is repectfully called to this item.

A New Era for Methodism in St. James.

VACHERIE STATION, La., May 16.

Dear Editor—I take the liberty of sending you news of what has been done by the active work of Rev. E. H. Scott, a Methodist minister, who came here during last February, a stranger to us all. He immediately began organizing for a church and is the first one to attempt to establish the Methodist faith in this part of St. James parish. With a population almost exclusively Catholic and Baptist, was not an easy task. The first quarterly conference was held here May 12 by Presiding Elder Pierre Landry, who had not visited here since the latter part of the 70s. He lectured to a large and intelligent audience, on "The Foundation, Principles and Discipline of the Great Methodist Church Throughout the World." Those present listened attentively and seemed interested in his very able address. In order that all might understand thoroughly, he explained it in the French language, which surprised as well as delighted them. The church was organized with the Rev. E. H. Scott as pastor in charge, the election of five trustees, a stewardess, Sunday school superintendent and secretary of S. S. board, received four members and two brothers licensed to preach; also an enrollment of 41 children in the Sunday school. The ladies who have taken quite an interest in Rev. Scott's good work, prepared a cake feast, and presented the presiding elder with a token of their esteem. The outlook is promising. Yours, a W. H. REID.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The June Arena comes as usual full of piquant discussion of alive and up-to-date questions of interest. John Clark Ridpath, the well-known historian, whose United States History has been such a popular success, appears as the frontispiece of the number. The editor, B. O. Flower, describes a sojourn in Florida, which is copiously illustrated.

Miss Julia Magruder, whose story of "The Princess Sonia," in the Century, is attracting such favorable comment, has given her new novel to The Ladies' Home Journal. It is called "The Violet" and deals with the question of second marriage. Mr. C. D. Gibson will illustrate the novel.

The Monthly Illustrator for June is a number as brilliant as the opening of summer calls for. It represents the work of Eastman Johnson, Henry Mosler, Matilda Brown and many others, and a list of celebrated writers. Harry C. Jones, editor and publisher, 92, 94 and 96 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Henry Cabot Lodge will contribute to Harper's Round Table for June 4, an article entitled "A Day in the House of Representatives." In the same number of the Round Table will be found the first chapter of a short serial, telling once again, from a new point of view, stories of King Arthur's Round Table.

The Popular Science Monthly is particularly fortunate this month in both its authors and its subjects. Two prominent professions now generally united—those of the physician and the surgeon—are treated by Herbert Spencer in the second chapter of his Professional Institutions. The departments present their usual interesting variety. D. Appleton & Co., New York. Fifty cents a number; $5 a year.

An Afflicted Parent.

The heart bleeds for the Marquis of Queensberry in his afflicting experiences of the responsibilities of a parent. He has trouble with his sons, as other eminent reformers have had before him. Howard, the philanthropist, a blameless person, had a very bad son. Matthew Arnold, the great critic, had also, if we remember right, a son who was a source of trial and very large expense to him. Lord Queensberry has several sons. One he lately rescued from evil associations in London; another took sides with his brother, and tried to stand off the rescuer; a third has still more recently been heard of in San Francisco, where his behavior has been such as to get his name into the newspapers and his person into jail. All this is very hard on his poor father, who seems, indeed, to have but one son who is not a care to him, and that one deceased. What makes it all the sadder is that when a man—and a reformer especially—has one son go wrong, people say it is his misfortune; but if all his sons turn out disreputable, it is impossible to hinder inconsiderate persons from pointing out that no man can expect to bring up his sons in the way they should go unless he is willing now and then to travel that way himself. To rescue one's offspring from sin and evil company is a good work; but, after all, the felicity of it is less than to raise one's children so that they do not need to be rescued. As a parent, Lord Queensberry has a claim on our sorrowful sympathy, even while we applaud him as a reformer.—Harper's Weekly.

Resolutions.

Mr. Editor—Please publish the following in your paper, and oblige the trustees of the South Carolina Conference Orphans' Home Society:

Whereas, Prof. R. Charles Bates has drawn the plans and specifications for the Orphanage at Orangeburg, S. C., and has supplimented the building of the same till its close; and, whereas, he has done all this gratuitously in his great interest for the work; be it

Resolved, That we as a society do take this means of extending to him our heartfelt thanks and of assuring him that we shall ever pray for God's blessing upon him and his work.

Resolved further, That these resolutions with the preamble be published in the SOUTHWESTERN, and that a copy of the same be presented to Prof. Bates.

Whereas, Many persons have contributed money and otherwise aided in the construction of the Orphanage; be it

Resolved, That we herewith express our hearty thanks to each and all for their liberality and interest in the welfare of such a deserving cause.

Resolved further, That the above be printed in the papers previously mentioned.

Whereas, Mrs. Mary B. Claflin, of Boston, Mass., has contributed $900 to the erection of the Orphanage and otherwise interested herself in furnishing the same; be it

Resolved, That we as a society herewith extend to Mrs. Mary B. Claflin our unfeigned thanks for the great zeal she has manifested for this work, and we assure her our prayers shall always rise in her behalf.

Resolved further, That these resolutions be printed in the SOUTHWESTERN, and that a copy of the same be sent to Mrs Mary B. Claflin.

The Intensity of Our Times.

An Address Before the Graduating Class of Meharry College, Nashville, Tenn.

By Rev. R. F. Rawlins, D. D. Assistant Editor Western Christian Advocate.

In Three Parts—Part I

I am on my first visit to your beautiful city. In my brief glimpses many things have already awakened my admiration. I find I am in a great civic, commercial and literary emporium; that here are the seats of great universities, and of publishing houses of some of the great denominations of the country, and the homes of orators, of statesmen, of theologians and scholars.

Your Meharry College is a wonder to me. I had not studied it before. It has great significance every way. That so recent an institution should have made such progress, that it is now in such trim; that the dynamo that drives it is so competent; that you are going forward as rapidly as any institution in the land in doing real work; that another hour for graduates to go forth dawns so auspiciously upon you,—all this strikes the mind of a stranger with peculiar force. Surely we are in the midst of an era of progress.

The present occasion is one that, I may assume, is of great interest to this institution at the present time. It is of interest to its friends, to its founders and the friends of its founders who yet abide among the living; to the faculty who, with so much consecration, are devoted to its interests even as to a special dispensation from God; and to that larger circle who have rallied to its support as men rally around a great instrumentality, and who see its fitness for the attaining of the end contemplated, the equipment of the colored man for life in this intense, this ever-growing country of the world.

It is, too—I must not fail to say it—an interesting occasion to the whole colored population of our country. Can we do anything—I fancy is a question often and anxiously asked among you colored people. Can we educate? Is the brain in us like the brain in other people who have made transcendent intellectual progress? Is there in us the moral stamina and stuff that there is in the Anglo-Saxon? May we hope to take rank in the professions—the law, medicine, theology, pedagogies, where others have won renown and blessed their time and generation? All these questions have been in your mind, and they come with emphasis to you on an occasion like this.

Lastly—and I must not forget to state this point also—such occasion as this is one of interest to more than fifty millions of white people in this country. The white people want to know what capacity there is in the Negro. This institution has been erected to help answer that question. It is this that is interesting this faculty—the corporators and all the friends of this institution, who, from ocean to ocean, give their annual contributions for its maintenance. And you are helping to answer the question who have now completed the courses of study, and stand ready to go forth to apply in practice what you have learned as theories.

So every way the occasion is one of wide interest. Let me say farther, before passing from the great central thought I am here noting, that what this institution is doing will gradually and at length immensely affect our American society and life. It will affect immensely the thought of the world also. There is at this time no people upon the planet that are upon such probation as are the colored people of these United States of America. If that probation is well and safely passed, it will settle problems in which you are vitally concerned, and problems in the thought of the world, forever, in your favor.

And now, having said so much about ourselves—for we are, so to speak, a little company who are here and now talking to ourselves—let us look away to what will soon be your surroundings. What kind of a world is this out into which you are going? What is the complexion of life that is in it at the present time? What is the spirit that now animates it and what forces are controlling it? All I shall attempt to say is that it is a world, a life characterized by the greatest intensity that up to this time has been known among men. It is too great a subject to be elaborated in the little time allowed here, but we may think of it, and get some views and inspirations from it even in a brief consideration. We shall seek, first, to understand its causes.

Heretofore, it has been felt that the mind that could, in the most masterly way, sum up the past with its teachings, was the master mind. It has also been a general consent that he, who by his analytic powers; most clearly indicated the future to men, was the mate to that master mind. But the conditions have all changed, and by common consent the master mind in the world now is the one that understands the present, even as the greatest mariner is one who can always determine his place in the oceans he sails.

To understand the present, all the past may be levied upon—its every fact and event be brought to contribute to the solution. But though such large induction may be obtained in this way, we have not all the data that is necessary. There are certain other things that must be brought to the solution of the problem. One is, that man is essentially a progressive creature. Another is, that there is a goal to which the race is moving. And still another is, that a Divine Providence presides over man, and determines his long march to that goal. Without these we have not the principles or the data by which the problem is to be solved, and we shall rise from its study in utter discouragement. But with these lights of truth in hand we may commence at almost any point and find an answer, even to such a problem as we are here considering—that of the intensity of life.

Let us commence with the supposition that we are nearly two thousand years away from the starting point of Christianity. If it is the power it professes to be, if it enshrines the purpose and plan of God, if in time not only man but the whole natural world is to be shaped by it, as it asserts will be the case, and all nations and the constitution and course of nature be subservient to its superior power, then large actual changes and large expectations of change are not to be looked upon as fanatical, but as natural and in the due course of things.

Or, if it has been five hundred years since the human mind awoke from its slumber at the breaking up of the Dark Ages; if from that time to the present there has been no abatement in its activity, but a constant enlargement and multiplication of its energies, is it not natural to expect that extraordinary things would be transpiring by the present time, and that they should even have marked its career to the present moment?

Or again, if we reflect upon the modern spread of the educational spirit, the multiplication of universities in all lands, and of colleges and schools, and the immense increase of the educational element of society, changing its whole complexion and impulse and force, we ought to be in expectation of corresponding results.

Or if we reflect upon another fact, which we may confine to our own land, and to the limit of the life-time of the older people among us—for the stupendous thing has appeared in our time—that everywhere in city and in hamlet, the Sabbath School is in operation, where the infant plastic mind of the whole oncoming world is impressed, first of all, with the greatest fundamental truth that the mind can be impressed with—even in such a case our reflective faculties would be torpid, indeed, if we did not expect something marvelous to come of such a fact. At the lowest estimate, we think there is now a million of young people who graduate into life from the Sunday Schools of the churches of our American Christendom once in every five years. The whole body of society, in all of its extremities, is feeling the results, and is ever changing from one new and better phase to another even as by the Spirit of God.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St, New Orleans.

LESSON HYMN. 6, 4, 6.

More love to thee, O Christ,
More love to thee!
Hear thou the prayer I make,
On bended knee;
This is my earnest plea,
More love, O Christ, to thee,
More love to thee!

Then shall my latest breath
Whispor thy praise;
This be the parting cry
My heart shall raise,
This still its prayer shall be,
More love, O Christ, to thee,
More love to thee.

Time.—April or May, A. D. 30, a few weeks after the resurrection.

Place.—Near the Lake of Galilee (otherwise called the Sea of Tiberias and Lake Gennesaret).

Rulers.—Caiaphas, high priest; Pontius Pilate, procurator of Judea; Herod Antipas, tetrarch of Galilee and Perea.

Introductory.—This, so far as we know, was the seventh appearance of our Savior after his resurrection.

Written for the Southwestern.

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee." (John 21. 17.)

Our last lesson closed with Jesus vanishing out of the sight of the two disciples at Emmaus. When the Master was departed, they arose and hastened back to Jerusalem. They found the eleven assembled, and related to them what had occurred. While they spoke Jesus stood in their midst. He convinced them that He was the risen Christ, gave unto them His peace, imparted to them His Holy Spirit, and gave them power to remit and retain sins. The disciples likely lingered about Jerusalem for another week. On the second resurrection day they were again assembled. Thomas was with them. Jesus suddenly stood in their midst. He convinced Thomas that He was the risen Christ. Some time after this the apostles returned to Galilee. Jesus told them before His death that He would "go before them into Galilee," and after His resurrection He sent them word that "there they should see Him." The lesson we study to day, and the appearance recorded in Matthew (26. 16-20) are fulfillments of that promise:

I. Recognizing Jesus. 1. The coming of the Savior. This appearance was not on the Sabbath, nor on the resurrection day. Before this He had appeared to them when they were assembled in council or worship. But this time they were engaged in labor. We may have Him with us when at work, and when perplexed and disappointed. He came to them early in the morning. "When day was now breaking." If we could only secure the company of Jesus at the beginning of each day, and keep Him with us during its labors, He would check us in the wrong and aid us in the right. "Jesus stood on the shore." That sea is a type of the world, that boat and its occupants represent the Church, that net the Gospel, and the fish the saved. But the Gospel draws out of death into life. To-day Jesus stands on the other shore. His eye is upon His Church. He sees them toiling, knows their disappointments, and comes to their relief. His children may see Him in the midst of the candlesticks, and hear His voice as He orders the affairs of His kingdom. "The disciples knew not that it was Jesus." I fear there are many to-day who follow the Master afar off, and see Him as "through a glass darkly," but know not that it is He. If God's laws were written in our hearts, then we would know Him. 2. The call of Jesus.—"Have ye any meat." They did not recognize Him by His voice, address or question. There was no desire on the part of Jesus to have them think He wished to buy fish. He only desired them to acknowledge their want. Life is a failure if not spent as Jesus directs. They answered no. We do well to always stand by the truth, and acknowledge our true condition to Him. He may, in His own way, help us. 3. The command of Jesus—"Cast the net on the right side of the ship and ye shall find." He is ever standing on the other shore and ordering the affairs of His Church on earth. He speaks through His Word and by His Spirit. He says to His ministers—'Go ye therefore and teach all nations," to His Church—"Go ye also into the vineyard and work," and to the unsaved—"Repent ye therefore and be converted." It is always well to obey the command of Jesus. The draught of fishes was large, the work of the Church is great. It sweeps forward saving sinners, liberating slaves, elevating women, sanctifying marriage, beautifying homes, dethroning vice, enthroning virtue, and leading the nations up to the heavenly world. 4. The recognition of Jesus—"It is the Lord." They knew Him now by the miracle. We may know God by His works, but not by His appearance. May all know Him by His work of love in providing the plan of salvation, by His power in saving from sin, and by His goodness in supplying every want.

II. Dining with Jesus. 1. Coming to Him. They were about one hundred yards away. They hurried to Him. Peter girt his fishers coat about him, leaped into the sea, and swam, or waded, to the shore. The others came on in the boat, "dragging the net with fishes" after them. The world is away from Jesus. All do not approach Him alike. Some, like the warm hearted Peter, will leave all, surmount every obstacle and rush to Him. Others, like the remaining disciples, hold to their possessions, and draw near in a slow, thoughtful way. This does not always mean less love, but more prudence. 2 The discovery—"A fire of coals, fish laid thereon, and bread." They had toiled all night and caught nothing. They were now, no doubt, tired and hungry. Here was a breakfast for them. Jesus is acquainted with the condition of His children. And He who fed the five thousand with the "five loaves and two small fishes" could now, in a similar way, feed seven. All things are His and subject to His commands. When the lost sinner comes to Jesus he finds gospel light, fire of love, and Christ the "Bread of life." 3. The breakfast—Jesus said to them, "Come and dine." He is ever saying to saint and sinner, through His Word, His Spirit, and His Church, come and "take the water of life freely." "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His blood, ye have no life in you." They do not ask His name. All know Him. They stand in reverent godly fear. Jesus served them. There will some day be a grand reunion, and a heavenly feast, around the throne of God in glory.

III. Doing the will of Jesus. 1. The question of the Savior—"Lovest thou me more than these." This question was addressed to "Simon, son of Jonas." He had thrice denied the Master, hence the question was asked three times. He had just now, by his conduct, expressed great love for Jesus. The words—"more than these"—may refer to the other disciples. Do you love me more than these disciples love me? Or they may refer to his occupation. Do you love me more than you love these nets and fish? Can you give up all and follow me? Can you preach the Gospel, and endure the sufferings of the cross, for the joys of heaven? Jesus is ever saying to His Church, "Lovest thou Me?" Do we love Him more than we love our jewels, our wardrobe our palatial homes, and our dearest friends? 2. The answer of Simon—"Thou knowest all things; Thou knowest that I love Thee." We have made a long step in the right direction when we acknowledge the omniscience of Christ. When we feel in our heart that He "knoweth all things." It will check the wrong and constr in the right. It is well to know that we love Jesus. That in our heart there is a burning desire to be in His company. "Let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth." 3. The command of Jesus—"Feed My lambs, Feed My sheep" Feed my followers. Some of them are young, others are old Every class of Christ's flock should be given the Gospel in due season. Here is work for the minister, the Sunday School teacher, and the parents.

why some dealers try to sell, and some painters use, other than genuine brands (see list) of White Lead is that their first cost is less. Quality should be the first consideration, and is the true economy.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Ohio District.

Dear Brethren—Our first quarterly visits have been exceedingly pleasant. We begin our second under the most favorable circumstances, and hope to accomplish great good. Take special pains in the benevolent collections, and you will have no blanks. Raise your minute money, and forward to presiding elder. Our district conference convenes at Portsmouth, O., August 20, 1895. We earnestly request all the brethren to be present. Opening sermon by Rev. N. H. Talbott, M. D. Missionary sermon by Rev. J. S. Henry. We extend a cordial invitation to the presiding elders of other districts. Thursday, 22d, Epworth League. Friday, 23d, Sunday School Institute. Hope all delegates will be present. Respectfully yours, M. S. JOHNSON, P. E.

Tennessee River District.

The district conference will convene at Lawrenceburg, July 25. We hope to make this a season of refreshment to all in attendance as well as looking after every interest of the church. We are expecting Dr. Hartzell or Mason, and other representative men of the Church. Come to stay until we adjourn. Committee on program will report soon.

S. B. DANLEY, P. E.

Vicksburg District.

The district conference will meet at Edwards, Miss., August 15-19, 1895. We expect a full attendance of all the members. Several distinguished visitors will be present. Dr. Mason, assistant secretary F. A. and S. E. Society, and Prof. G. C. Logan of Rust University, will represent their claims. Let every pastor be ready to report that his full apportionment for F. A. and S. E. Society has been raised. We sincerely hope each pastor will go to work in earnest. God bless you in your efforts to advance every interest of the Church. The program will appear later. Yours truly,

SAMUEL A. COWAN, P. E.

Jacksonville District.

The twentieth session of the Jacksonville District Conference will convene at Wrightsville, at 9 a. m., July 18. None but written reports will be received. Be ready to report a large amount of your benevolent collections raised, and an increased number of subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. We trust, brethren, that no member of the conference will be compelled to report that he does not take this official organ of our Church. Yours for progress, J. GRANT, P. E.

Huntsville District,

Notice to the members and friends of the Huntsville District, Texas Conference, who will attend the Sunday School and Epworth League convention to be held at Willis, June 27-30.—There will be cut rates over the International and Great Northern Railroad from Houston to Crockett. At one and one-third fare for the round trip to Willis and return. These rates will be on the certificate plan—having your certificate signed by the secretary of the convention. District conference convenes at Corrigan on Sept. 26-30. I trust every charge will be represented. Hope each pastor will be able to bring up all of his benevolent money. Yours for victory,

A. C. CULBREATH, P. E.

Navasota District.

Dear Brethren—Let us make this year a success, spiritually and financially. We cannot afford to fail. Let us go in strong for the conversion of many souls. Let us go into our closets and get the baptism of the Holy Ghost, then come to our people with burning hearts full of love, and God will do the rest.

As soon as you collect your benevolent money send it to the treasurers; no matter how much or how small, send it to each department where it belongs at once.

On each Sabbath present the interests of the SOUTHWESTERN to your people.

Children's Day collections must be sent to Dr. C. H. Payne, 150 Fifth avenue, New York.

The Sunday School Convention and Epworth League will meet at St. Paul's M. E. Church in Brenham, July 18, at 9 a. m. Dr. Scott, president of Wiley University, will be there with his receipt book. Programs will be out in time.

W. L DUNCAN, Presiding Elder.

The Montgomery District Conference.

The Montgomery District Conference of the Central Alabama Conference will meet July 25, 9 a. m., at Troy. It is expected that every member of the conference will be there at the opening with written reports. Since half of the conference year will be gone, we trust that each pastor will be able to report at least half of his benevolent money. Let each pastor take his benevolent collections and send them to the treasurers of the different departments. Make it a business to report all benevolent moneys at the next annual conference in vouchers. The pastor who raises half of his appportionment by district conference will be given a fine hat by the presiding elder.

We are expecting a representative from some of the benevolent societies and our schools, and take this advantage to invite Dr. Hammond to be present to stir up the district in the interest of our church paper.

The following is the program:

The importance of raising the benevolent collections, F. J. Brown; The responsibility of the M. E. Church in reforms, G. W. Mann; The benefits of an Epworth League to a church, L. W. Hill; Our education interests, S. D. Davis; Advantages of a theological training, Dr. W. H. Nelson; Should Negroes migrate to Africa? B. H. Ware; The Sunday School, its aims, A. C. Carter; The evils of intemperance, A. C. Nimrod; The evil effects of the divorce law, J. Ellis; The kind of local preachers needed, Jefferson Lewis; Women as church officers, J. G. Isabel; Introductory sermon, J. W. Tate; Missionary sermon, J. W. Thomas.

Papers will be read on the above subjects, after which they will be discussed by the conference.

Committee—W. H. Nelson, A. C. Carter and J. W. Tate. E. M. JONES, P. E.

"A Word to the Wise is Sufficient."

I suffered terribly from roaring in my head during an attack of catarrh, and because very deaf, used Ely's Cream Balm and in three weeks could hear as well as ever.—A. E. Newman, Graling, Mich.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from the nose. Physicians prescribed without benefit. After using Ely's Cream Balm a short time the disease was cured.—O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—The Thank Offering Service of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, just issued by the New England Branch of the Society, is nicely gotten up, with responsive service and Scripture verses arranged in a most instructive and entertaining style. It will be very helpful to any one having charge of a missionary meeting. Address, Miss M. A. Nichols, agent, Room 29, 36 Broomfield street, Boston, Mass.

—From far-off Foochow, China, comes cheering news of the spread of our blessed Redeemer's kingdom. That was a royal gathering recently on the campus of our Anglo-Chinese College, where the teachers, preachers, colporteurs, workers, students, and friends of the college met for an interchange of Christian thought and sentiment. Rev. G. S. Miner, pastor of our church there, and his faithful co laborers have been wonderfully blessed, and prospered in their great work. Let prayers continually ascend in their behalf.

—The great summer school at Northfield, Mass., under the direction of Mr. D. L. Moody, promises to be of unusual interest. Wednesday, June 12, was the opening day, and from that date until its close a program of great interest to all Christian workers will be carried out: The World's Students' Conference has from June 28 to July 7; a Kindergarten will begin July 1, and close with the first week in September. The other important events are: The Young Women's College Conference, July 20 30; General Conference of Christian Workers, August 3-15. For further particulars apply to Mr. A. S. Moody, East Northfield, Mass.

—A note from our esteemed brother, Rev. Marcus McCoomer of Dayton, Ohio, and an honored member of the Lexington Conference, reads: "I was summoned by telegram to Louisville, Ky., to see the last of my beloved brother, James McHenry McCoomer, who died on May 15. His illness was brief, but he was comforted by the religion of Christ, which he had professed for many years. He passed away in great peace. He was a good man and true. A faithful member of Jacob Street A. M. E. Zion Church. We are greatly bereaved, but the Lord comforts us. He leaves two brothers, three sisters, and a host of friends to mourn. We extend our most profound sympathy with prayers that He, who doeth all things well, will comfort our dear brother and his relatives in this moment of their great bereavement.

—The Annual National Deaconess Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held at Ocean Grove, N. J., July 24 and 25, and will be followed by the annual meeting of the Ocean Grove Woman's Home Missionary Society on the 26th and 27th. Wednesday, the 24th, will be devoted to private meetings of deaconesses, superintendents, and members of boards of management, in the discussion of questions touching the practical workings of homes. On Thursday, the 25th, will occur the public meetings of the convention in the large Auditorium. Some of our bishops, eminent ministers and earnest deaconesses are expected to be present, to speak of the work and its needs. The Woman's Home Missionary Society earnestly invites the Conference Boards of Nine and the Board of Management of every Deaconess Home connected with the W. H. M. S., to send two or more delegates to represent these Boards, and also the superintendent and deaconesses to represent the home, as well as all homes that are interested in the direct application of deaconess work, without reference to forms of organization. An interesting program of exercises will be published later.

DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

On another page we have published a calendar of some of the district conferences, which will be found useful by those who desire to know when these important meetings will be held. The list is not full. Several notices have come to hand too late for the calendar. Corrections will be made, and the conference put in its proper place in the calendar. The calendar is also useful in showing to some extent the districts in which the SOUTHWESTERN has a following. Our brethren would do well to make a note of this special feature.

DIABOLICAL.

"Maryland lynchers pinned a placard to the breast of their victim, the other day, charging responsibility for their crime upon the governor, who, they feared, would pardon the Negro on the ground of insanity. The mob, being expert in lunacy, true critic of law and fact, thought well to steal a march on the executive. Some of these infernal Southern mobs, if they thought the Almighty had eternal salvation in store for a Negro, would want to cook him in brimstone to the end of time."—The Christian Uplook (Buffalo, N. Y.)

The Uplook is about right. We are on the ground, and can speak advisedly.

THE LYNCHING RECORD.

At Lufkin, Texas, June 11, the reports have it that a little seven-year-old child of Mr. Robinson was brutally outraged by a Negro named Will Johnson. Results: A posse; the sheriff; groups of excited neighbors; infuriated father; identification of the brute; confession; rope; body riddled with bullets.

At Keno, Texas, June 11, an old pumper named Johnson was murdered. Results: "Country wildly excited;" posse searched house of a brother of the supposed murderer, and hanged John Cherry and Alex. White; "everything conducted quietly."

Oh, yes, let us see; this all occurred in Texas, the great State of Texas, to which white settlers are invited.

Late dispatches have it that one Jim Powell, a Negro farm hand near Strasburg, Ala., made an attempt to enter the room of a white girl. He was caught of course, and—well, his dead body was found hanging to a tree near Strasburg. What an eloquent invitation to immigrants!

MISS SUSAN B. ANTHONY.

That really great American woman, Susan B. Anthony, was recently tendered a banquet by the Mercantile Club of St. Louis. Just before she began her address on "The Present Outlook" she was presented with seventy-six roses, each one representing a year of her life, by seventy-six children. Three of the children were colored. Referring to them Miss Anthony said:

"As the last three came by I was carried back to a scene that occurred forty years ago, when I went into a church and saw hanging over a pew the words, 'God is no respecter of persons.' In the pew were seated all the colored children of the parish, which showed that the line was drawn. I am glad, indeed, to see that with you God is no respecter of persons."

It is refreshing to know that there are some Christian people somewhere who recognize that God is no respecter of persons, and govern themselves accordingly. The Negro never had a more consistent, conscientious and ardent friend than Susan B. Anthony. May her mantle fall upon the white women of this land.

A SQUARE HIT ON LYNCHING.

"We regret that while a lynching is a surprise in the North, it seems to be expected in the South in case the man guilty of an atrocious murder or assault is a Negro. Crime is not sectional, but the treatment of it is."—New York Independent.

That's it exactly.

SILENT EVANGELISM.

This is an admirable yet simple and effective way of filling up the measure of one's usefulness. It methodizes and simplifies the work of personal salvation so that any one, even a child, desiring to do a work which will be lasting in good results, should immediately communicate with the Silent Evangelism Association, Battle Creek, Michigan.

THE KIND OF WOMEN WE NEED.

Mrs. Wade Hamilton, wife of the popular pastor of Trinity M. E. Church at Houston, Texas, is a lady of rare qualifications, both for the parsonage and the parish. Dr. Hamilton commissioned her recently as an agent for the SOUTHWESTERN. She has gone to work diligently, and in a short time has sent in ten cash subscribers. One woman, like Sister Hamilton, is worth a dozen of those who talk much but do little. Our pastors should, like Dr. Hamilton, commission their wives as agents for the circulation of the paper.

A TEMPORARY TRIUMPH OF INJUSTICE.

In common with hundreds and thousands of our people in the South, we rejoiced over the brave stand taken by the courageous and patriotic Judge Goff, in the South Carolina registration case. The injunction granted by the humane judge, if made perpetual, would prevent the most gigantic outrage ever perpetrated upon the long suffering people of that State. There was general rejoicing everywhere, except among Negro-haters. The result is about what we feared.

The Negro's case in equity is always unpopular, and a decision in his favor is always among the unexpected events. We need not give reasons here. In common with the hundreds and thousands of our people in the great Palmetto State, and elsewhere, we are grieved that the progress of justice has been temporarily retarded. The Negro has survived the infamous decision of a Supreme Court judge in the Dred Scott case; he has survived the decision of a weaker Supreme Court, which declared the "Civil Rights Bill" unconstitutional, and he will survive the reversal of this decision of a humane judge in favor of his God-given rights. The Tillman crowd has been vindicated, and for the time being justice, as it is interpreted by Chief Justice Fuller and the Circuit Court of Appeals, strengthens the hands of the victors to deprive the colored man of every single right he possesses under the constitution. But let our South Carolina brethren close up the ranks; the end is not yet. Let the fight be kept up. "Coming events cast their shadows before," and there is a bright prospect of a better era. Possibly the darkest hour to the slave and to his friends was that which followed the famous decision of Judge Taney, that "a Negro has no rights which a white man is bound to respect." The fatal ending of the famous John Brown raid at Harper's Ferry served not only to remind the friends of the bondman that the cause was not dead, but to inspire them to heroic service in the great cause of human emancipation. History tells the rest. And history may repeat itself even in South Carolina. The Lord reigns. Working and hoping, let us wait on Him.

EDUCATIONAL.

Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute.

Notwithstanding the fact that school has closed, the busy hum of machinery and the general activity about the shops go on as ever.

There have been made .n the wheelwright shop this session twenty wagons and two buggies.

The annual address delivered hy Mr. S. Laig Williams was an able one. The beauty of it was, that he did not discuss the "Negro Problem," or any phase of it, but all he said was sound common sense.

A friend has donated $12,000 to the school, to be used in erecting a large chapel here.

Our dairy department is progressing nicely. The following appliances have been added to it: One Sharples Russian hand separator, ripening vat, butter worker, churn and one Babcock milk test.

Some of our graduates are here to take post-graduate courses at some of the trades. ISAAC FISHER, Tuskegee, Ala.

Philander Smith College.

This magnificent institution, located at Little Rock, Ark., closed one of the most interesting commencement exercises of its history, on June 6.

Sunday, 9 o'clock a. m., the Wesley Chapel, M. E. Church, was filled with anxious hearts to enjoy the annual love feast. At 11 a. m., Rev. Dr. D. H. Snowden, D. D., LL. D., of Kansas, preached the baccalaureat sermon. It was indeed a masterly effort. At 2 p. m., the annual sermon was preached by the Rev. A. J. Fletcher, M. D., of the Little Rock Conference. At 8 p. m., Dr. Snowden delivered the annual lecture. The doctor is at home with the teachers and students of this college.

The musical and literary societies held their anniversaries in the evenings of the 3d and 5th, affording much pleasure to the over-crowded house and at the same time shewing that much thought and study had been given to their subjects severally.

The hour of intense enthusiasm, of great aspiration and inspiration was Thursday the 6th, at 10 a. m. This was indeed a day long to be remembered hy all. None were graduated from the college course, but I am justified in the assertion that seven of as intelligent, as thoroughly prepared, and as fine looking young ladies and gentlemen were graduated from the academic course as can he found anywhere in the South, even from the older and better equipped institutions.

The following are the names of the graduates: Scott Logan Mitchom, salutatorian; Cornelia Elmira Bohannon, Jackson Wallace, John Andrew Warren, Fannie Lee, Robert Lee Sherman Tweed and Annie Loretta Lee.

Dear Brother Hammond—Is it not a little strange, that out of sixty or seventy members of the Little Rock Conference, only two or three were present outside of the few who are students, and a part of the presiding elders? It looks to me that were I presiding elder, it would he of as much importance to the general work to be at the commencement exercises of my own school, as to hold a quarterly conference of my own district. I certainly ought to, and I think I would, show my sympathy with and appreciation of the hard sacrificing work that the president and faculty are doing year after year for my own children and many others of my race. Yes, sir; I would leave that Sunday out of my quarterly program, if I had to hold one quarter in the week. Yes, its true; I might not get all my own money if I did! Rev. W. R. R. Duncan was the only colored presiding elder of the M. E. Church in all Arkansas who attended on Sunday.

I cannot close this article without mentioning Dr. Thomas Mason, the president of our college. A more scholarly, devoted and self-sacrificing man cannot he found in all the Church than he. What is true in his case, is equally true of all the noble band associated with him.

A. J. FLETCHER, Jacksonport, Ark.

TIDINGS FROM THE WHOLE FIELD.

—E. B. Richards of Opelousas, La., says: "My work is all right. All departments of church and Sunday School are organized and doing effectively. Five souls have been happily converted. I was made the recipient of a beautiful buggy recently by a number of friends. Our rally netted $16.55. We are marching surely for God."

—"Sunday June 2, was a day of unusual interest at Gunn's Chapel, Lexington, Ky. It was Children's Day and stewards' rally. Ably led by the energetic and popular pastor, Rev. D. E. Skelton, the success gladdened all hearts. Class No. 1, Mrs. S. Cowens, reported $17.71; No. 2, Mrs. E. Henderson, $20.01; No. 3, Mrs. M. Evans, $7.98; No. 4, Mrs. L. Fisher, $16.10; No. 5, Mrs. E. Christopher, $2.48. Total, $64.58, which was the pastor's June greeting." Says W. A. Williams.

—"Rev. W. H. Jackson, pastor of St. Paul M. E. Church, Texarkana, Texas, has just closed the grandest revival meeting in the history of said church. There were 34 conversions and 37 accessions. A $90-organ bought and paid for. He is well liked by all and is a friend to the SOUTHWESTERN. Pray for us." Writes L. J. Lang, Sr.

—Rev. J. W. Hilton of Plaquemine, La., called in the office last week and reported a glorious revival, in which five persons were happily converted. The church is in a good condition spiritually and financially. The SOUTHWESTERN is looked after, and he has the promise of five subscribers.

Iowa District.

The Iowa District Ministerial Meeting and Sunday School Convention will convene for its first session in Wesley M. E. Church, Oskaloosa, Iowa, Thursday, June 27, 1895, at 8 p. m., and hold over the following Sabbath. The opening sermon will be preached hy Rev. J. A. Lee, of Pittsfield, Illinois.

Friday, June 28.—8:30 a. m., song and prayer service; 9 a. m., welcome address hy Rev. S. D. Brown, pastor of Wesley Church; response hy Presiding Elder Wm. E. Wilson; 9:30 a. m., minute business. First, Report of the work of the district by presiding older. Second, Report of each charge hy the pastors, giving the temporal and spiritual condition of the charge; also the number of members and probationers received into the Church since the last annual conference, also the exact amount of indebtedness on church property and how secured. Third, Report of the Sunday Schools by superintendents or pastors.

The following papers will he read and discussed: Christian Perfection, Rev. A. M. Sommerville of Springfield, Ill.; How to keep revival fire burning on the charge, Rev. J. B. Lucas of Grinnell, Iowa; The division of the district, Rev. J. A. Lee of Pittsfield, Ill.; The need of larger missionary appropriation and why? Rev. S. D. Brown, Oskaloosa, Iowa; The need of a mission or mission conference and why? Rev. A. W. White, Des Moines; The outlook for new work and the need of larger benevolent collections, Presiding Elder Wm. E. Wilson.

Rev. S. D. Brown, pastor at Oskaloosa, will provide entertainment for all the members of this convention.

All pastors, local preachers, exhorters, Sunday School superintendents, district stewards and presidents of Epworth League chapters are members.

Come, brethren, let us succeed in God's name.

Committee—Wm. E. Wilson, G. H. Jones, S. D. Brown.

—The distribution of the new Holy Land series, "Earthly Footsteps of the Man of Galilee," increases with each weekly issue. It is a superlatively meriterious work. Ten cents and a conpon secures a part post-paid if ordered from us.

OUR PASTORS.

Rev. Charles P. Westbrooks, D. D.

REV. CHAS. P. WESTBROOKS, D. D., the pastor of the M. E. Church, Victoria, Tex., was born in Aberdeen, Miss., June 30, 1854. He was the son of Gillis and Matilda Westbrooks, who were both slaves, his mother having been free-born, but was kidnaped and sold from her native State, Tennessee. His father was a South Carolinian. His parents resolved to educate their son Charles, and he entered school in 1865, under the tutorship of Rev. Wm. Holmes. Subsequently he was taught hy Prof. N. T. Condol from 1866 to 1868. Afterward, his teachers were Professors Jas. B. Stuart of Oakland, Ohio; T. S. Riggs of Beloit, Wis., then Prof. D. S. Machlachlan of Ireland, Miss Sarah Champney, Prof. H. B. Tuttle and others. In 1871 he won a prize in a contest for scholarship to Alcorn University, Miss., where he attended three years under the presidency of Dr. H. R. Revels and Prof. C. H. Thompson, who were presidents of that college during the years of 1870-5.

He taught public school in Mississippi in 1876, to obtain needed financial help while at school. He succeeded in finding favor with the best classes of citizens, both white and colored. He read law while in the office of Col. Dowel, a prominent attorney, and gave evidence of that mental training so necessary to a successful career in the legal profession. Desiring to give himself further literary qualifications, he entered Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn., as a freshman. During this time he was most seriously impressed concerning the salvation of his soul. He became a member of the Young Men's Christian Association and was subsequently happily converted. He was elected president of that association, and appointed class leader and steward under the pastorate of Rev. James Shumpert, of Aberdeen, Miss. He remained four years at this college under the presidency of Dr. John Braden. During his stay there he studied law, having completed the course, except history of law suits and moot court.

During this time he was deeply impressed that God had called him to the work of the ministry. He yielded to the Spirit, and was licensed to preach May 18, 1880. He graduated with the degree of bachelor of science; went to Texas and accepted the position as president of Jones' M. and F. Institute, which he held until 1885. He entered the West Texas Conference while president of this institute, being ordained deacon in 1883 in San Antonio, by Bishop Andrews; was elected lay delegate to the General Conference and to the Ecumenical Conference which convened in Washington, D. C. Rev. Westbrooks served as pastor in following places: Waco, Valley Mills, Marlin Circuit, Denison, Sherman, Pilot Point and Victoria, where he was instrumental in the conversion of 400 souls.

He taught school in Mississippi ten years, Tennessee 1 year, and Texas eleven years. He met and loved Miss Laura A. Moore of Mason, Tenn., while in school, and being classmates, they had ample opportunities to recognize that which was good in each other, and on July 4, 1880, they were married at Alamo, Tenn. That noble lady of high moral worth and culture, waded through floods and flames for her dear mate. She was a great worker in the missionary field, labored with her husband in Texas, and was his dearest counselor. Two sons and one daughter were the results of this union. After thirteen years of wedded bliss, his faithful and loving companion fell asleep in death, leaving a husband, a son and a daughter to mourn. It was a great loss to Brother Westbrooks and to the conference, as Mrs. Westbrooks had left a lasting impression for good upon the whole conference.

Brother Westbrooks has been connected with the West Texas Conference for the last eleven years as secretary, and has rendered efficient and satisfactory service. He is an able minister, a faithful and successful pastor. In response to a request of many prominent people, the honorary degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon him by Wiley University, Marshall, Texas. He is a safe leader and will be heard from in the councils of the Church.

The Ways of the Wicked and Their End.

Scriptnre Lesson: Job 24:1-25.

"In the corrupted currents of this world
Offense's gilded hand may shove by justice;
And oft 'tis, the wicked prize itself
Buys out the law. But 'tis not so above:
There is no shuffling, there the action lies
In its nature; and we ourselves compelled
Even to the teeth and forehead of our faults
To give in evidence."

The dealings of the Almighty with the sons of men are indeed mysterious. For centuries, created intelligence has been endeavoring to explain them. The result is, man no wiser to-day than were our fathers at the beginning.

Wickedness! How it has blighted our once fair land, and what sorrows and sufferings have followed in its wake! God created man upright, but because of wickedness he now lies upon the earth all covered with the mire and sin. And who can escape its terrible ravages? When one would do good, evil is always present. Even the blessed Christ escaped not its dreadful assaults. He was in all points tempted as we. But we rejoice that though:

"Deep are the wounds which sin has made;

that

'There is a fountain filled with blood,
Drawn from Immanuel's veins;
And sinners, plunged beneath that flood,
Lose all their guilty stains."

We have here,

1. The ways of the wicked described. Sin is the same to-day that it was in the beginning. "There is no originality in wickedness; in substance it is the same yesterday, to-day, and forever. The Bible has named every sin. Invention is dead, novelty is impossible; you cannot originate a new sin." Hence the description as here given by Job may be said to be complete. The wickedness practiced in the days of Job is being practiced now. Robbery, murder, adultery, violence, oppression in its various forms, drunkenness, judicial corruption, are to be seen on all sides.

2. There is an end to wickedness. The lessons of the past as well as those of the present teach us that to all wickedness there is an end. Punishment may for a long time be delayed, but come it will. The wicked, seemingly, may prosper, but their prosperity will not last always. "I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree. Yet he passed away, and, lo, he was not." Job tells us that the effect is like that of drought and heat consuming the snow waters. Its destroying angel must be sent forth with flaming sword to cut down the army of sinners. They are their own destroyers. The sword is their own conduct. This is seen in the physical effects of vice, which sows seeds of disease and hastens premature decay. It is always present in the moral consequences of evil. The spiritual nature is diseased, corrupted, lowered. Powers and faculties fade and wither away."

Presiding Elders and the League.

A prominent president elder writes: "Tell me how I can help you and the League." With this as a text, I proceed. The elder can be a most efficient helper to every chapter:

1. The Discipline makes it his duty to make especial inquiry into the work of the League.

2. He can spur up lagging pastors.

3. He can advise from the stores knowledge and experience he gains in going from place to place.

4. He can be a helper to the district president and his cabinet.

5. Being ex-officio a member of the district cabinet, he has a voice in all League matters.

6. He can assist and encourage the pastor to organize chapters where none exist.

7. He can preach one sermon a year to the chapters on each, having previously notified them.

8. He can be an inspiration to the young people wherever he goes.

9. He can suggests methods of work and usefulness.

10. He can bring the entire church into sympathy with the League work.

11. He can attend group meetings and conventions, and lecture when desired.

12. He can help to plan work along evangelistic, missionary and literary lines.

13. Once the young people learn that their elder is their especial friend, they will greet him with large attendance at all quarterly meeting services, especially on the week day, and we may expect the old-time spiritual fervor.

14. The enthusiastic elder will find many other ways of being a helper to the League, growing out of enlarged experience. I repeat No. 2, "He can stimulate lagging pastor." I find that, where pastors are in full sympathy and co-operation in League work, chapters flourish; but it is mighty hard sledding where the pastor is indifferent or antagonistic.

15. Let the elder, then, make especial inquiry at each quarterly meeting as to the work and condition of each chapter, and let him not forget the Junior League.

16. He should insist that each president of each chapter and each Junior League superintendent give written and verbal reports at each quarterly conference.

17. Where time and opportunity permit, the cabinet or cabinets on the charge should meet and call on the elder at least once a year in a social and business way.

18. Once or twice a year, a Saturday evening of quarterly conference could be profitably employed by a group meeting of all the chapters on the charge, rendering a well-arranged program, the elder assisting.—F. G. McCauley, in Western Christian Advocate.

The Intensity of Our Times.

An Address Before the Graduating Class of Meharry College, Nashville, Tenn.

By Rev. B. F. Rawlins, D. D., Assistant Editor Western Christian Advocate.

In Three Parts—Part 2.

Time will not permit us to bring forward additional illustrations. Many will suggest themselves to you, and by their help you may soon begin to solve for yourselves the wonderful fact that we are now in the most intense moment of life the world has ever known. And as you go on and get broader views, you will see that this intensity does not exist in patches, and does not touch only certain sides of society, but all sides. It will be seen not only at the top but equally at the bottom of all society and life, even as the atmosphere or sunshine, that is upon the high as the low. It is one of those influences, like heat or cold, that effects everything within its range.

I think I can see it as it is operating at the two great poles of the powers of this world. I think as a generalization it hardly admits of a question that the good are getting better, and the evil are growing worse. Everywhere where she lives and acts Christianity is stronger than at any time since Christ ascended; and everywhere the power of his adversary is broader and deeper and more intense than ever before known on the planet. Christendom was never so bright and strong, and heathendom was never so dark and weak, as in the present hour of the human race. The light and the darkness never before in the whole history of the human race so confronted each other, and neither were ever so charged with dynamic as they are at this moment. This is the intensity of the two powers contending for our world, and some of it, I dare say, comes down from these kings of the universe upon their followers.

I proceed to remark, in the second place, that this intensity is largely a thing of growth. We have alluded to this, but recur to it again that it may be looked upon in the light of other illustrations. Job long since told the world that troubles do not spring out of the ground. The troubles of the hour are not wholly of the hour. The present is guiltless. All the troubles and drawbacks affecting, for instance, the colored people of this country, had their origin previous to the formation of the government. That start still affects your progress, and will continue to give feverishness and limitations to your free advancement, entailing upon you an intensity of life that will belong to none others in the country. Your emancipation was your greatest event; and whatever may be the comparative condition of the colored people of America, and however much they may be discriminated against, and hard as their lot may be, as viewed by many among them, yet on all hands it must be felt that a benign Providence has befallen them, such as has never come to any people, and such as could have never occurred but in the nineteenth century, and such as places them forever in new relations to all life and progress, and is well calculated to animate them with new hopes and noble ambitions. Your attitude, O, ye sons of Ham, should be one of patience and unflagging perseverence. If the same energy shall be in you that was in the Americans from their start, no human mind may forecast what may be the fortunes of the black man in a hundred years of history.

But in saying that the intensity of our times is a growth, I am reminded that it is the result, in large part, of the greatness of man—of the innate skill and indomitable energy that belongs to him.

I would venture to change one passage of Scripture so that it would express an altogether different idea from that found in the present version, "God made man upright and he hath sought out many inventions." In the whole catalogue of created things man was the only inventive creature that was made. His inventions in the last fifty years have altered all human conditions. One man in the field now with reaper and binder takes the place of a whole harvest gang of a few years ago. The market has dropped on old cradles and scythes, and will never be revived. Eli Whitney's Cotton Gin has immensely reduced the labor of preparing the raw material of cotton to commerce. Recently a type-setter has been produced by which ten men can do the work of a hundred, and a Hoe Perfecting Press will throw off a hundred completed issues per minute of our dailies and weeklies. One woman now does more than the work of ten on the sewing machine. We all know how husbandry has been lightened and how one can do with great ease and on a larger scale what it formerly required many to accomplish. I cannot multiply examples. Thus we see that it is the ingeniousness, the very greatness of man, his ability to rummage and search all creation, and get its best thoughts and highest secrets that is creating the intensities of life.

But I must immediately note in this connection that much also comes from the folly of man. Look at the anomalous condition of the present time. In the midst of prosperity we are in adversity. With millions upon millions of money we are poor, and the wail of want is heard in all our borders. With the sun shining clearly above us we are in darkness. With an aggregate of wisdom never before surpassed, we grope in the dark and ask—"Where are we at?" Implements lie idle in the field and shop. The tramp is in all the land. Strikes, puny and gigantic, are a daily pastime and are our staple events. And yet in the midst of all this, the bright sun shines. The constellations hold their regularity: The constitution and course of nature is unaltered and happy in her courses. The rivers flow on to the sea as they have done. The oceans still lave our shore with their purifying breath. Mountain and plain, everywhere, throw their accustomed smile upon man.

Must it not be concluded that the cause of this feature of our intensity, resting now like an incubus upon the land, is to be found in the ranks of man himself, and must it not be found in some particular place in those ranks? I leave you to answer, only saying for myself, there is a devil in our midst and the land will not be straightened until he be exorcised.

Whilst this intensity is mainly a growth it should be noted that some of its causes lie immediately among us. It is found specially in the strike spirit that is in the land, which creates not only want and idleness, but fans human passions and excitements throughout the country.

It is found in trades and callings of various kinds, where at a moment's notice all implements become silent. In the last few years men who have trades, and know not how else to work, have been worse off than if they knew no trade at all.

But there are other causes. Suppose there are two million women in this country between fifteen and twenty-five years of age who have not only no employment but no qualifications for employment. Suppose there are three millions of men of the same age who are in the same condition? Suppose these two classes are rapidly on the increase? Have we not factors here out of which portentious evils may arise?

Here, also, I have another thought. Suppose that all over the land the children of the better classes are advancing to take their places in society by the million, but without qualification for its duties, domestic, civil or religious? Suppose, on the other hand, the children of the poor, also by the millions, are advancing to their places with high qualifications? Will not such a fact soon add immense intensity to our conditions?

Or suppose, again, that down in this glorious Southland a large percent that go up in the scale of life are black children, and that the large percent that go down are white children, will you tell me that that will add nothing to the intensity of life, in the regions where it occurs? Let your best minds ponder that. I have seen black children in the Southern schools earnestly studying their lessons, while white children played marbles in school hours, despite the remonstrance of their teachers. If such a fact exists generally—which I trust is not the case—it is a pointer to a future that will have intensity without a parallel.

THE "SOUTHWESTERN" AND THE TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

We do believe in resolutions, and that they are sometimes kept, althongh it has been said that conference resolntions are freqnently not worth the paper they are written npon. We have a very excellent plan of ascertaining to what extent conference resolntions concerning the SOUTHWESTERN are kept. Our books invariably show what the conferences are doing as a whole, what the Individnal pastors and presiding elders are doing, and what some of the pastors and presiding elders are not doing. While we appreciate the good words and strong resolutions which the brethren in their kindness, and so often unanimously pass, we wonld have them bear in mind that we are making the struggle of our life to keep the SOUTHWESTERN afloat. Of this we are satisfied, that if all of our so-called presiding elders and more than sixteen hundred pastors were as loyal to the Church and to their race as they profess to be, we would have, before the close of this quadrennium, ten thonsand cash snbscribers. This would place the SOUTHWESTERN among the self-supporting Advocates, and there would be a great deal more eloqnence in the enthnsiasm with which the Book Concern dividends are received in the respective annual conferences; since having helped to create this fund it would come to them more as the well-earned reward of their faithfnlness in circulating the literature of the Chnrch, than the nsnal benefactions which, we fear, have been so lavishly bestowed that many of its recipients have learned to become dependents rather than helpers. At the recent session of the Tennessee Conference the following resolutions were nnanimously passed:

WHEREAS, The SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, so ably conducted by Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D., is recognized by the Church as the special organ of the Colored Conferences in the South, and,

WHEREAS, This Conference has recognized the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE as the organ of this Conference, and relies so much on its publications for the notices of quarterly, district and annual conferences, and other meetings; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Conference that all our local preachers and official members should take this paper, and also, as far as practicable, other Church papers and books of our own Book Concern.

Resolved, That all the interest of the Church will be promoted by increasing the intelligence of our people, by the circulation of our Church periodicals and other Church literature.

Resolved, That we endeavor to get a copy of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, the Methodist Hymnal and Discipline in each family in our churches and congregations

The first resolution, if faithfully kept, will increase our subscription list at least five hnndred. There are 170 local preachers, 200 stewards, 120 Sunday School superintendents, with other officers, making the total aggregate 500. The last resolution would pnt the paper into 1,300 families. Indeed, if the four new presiding elders who have been selected for their loyalty to the Church and their ability to lead the people acceptably, with the sixty no less consecrated and faithful pastors, will make an honest, earnest effort, pntting their hearts and their consciences into the canvass, the Tennesssee Conference will have on our books, before the close of this conference year, one thonsand cash snbscribers to its credit. We beseech these brethren to put these resolntions into practice at once.

A PROGRESSIVE PASTOR.

Rev. Andrew Foster, of our First Church at Anstin, Texas, has had a wonderful revival. three hundred sonls have been added to his church, and, like a good, progressive pastor, he proposes to edncate and train his converts into the spirit and polity of our Methodism. He has presented the claims of the SOUTHWESTERN as a great text book for his converts. Last week he sent in the cash for eleven new subscribers. Praise the Lord.

QUESTION BOX.

Question.—Is a probationer entitled to hold any official relation as a steward, class leader, exhorter or local preacher, where an old society has been organized for years?

Answer.—In extreme cases, a member on probation may be appointed to the offices named, provided he is trnly converted and possesses qnalifications snperior to others in this particnlar case. A probationer may be licensed to exhort or to preach at any time, yet great care should be exercised, because many mistakes have been made at this point. Better obey the apostolic injnnction, to "Lay hands snddenly upon no man." We seriously donbt if the condition described really exists. There is certainly something radically wrong in the Chnrch, when no full member is competent to fill the office of a class leader or steward. These officers should be "persons of solid piety, who both know and love Methodist doctrine and Discipline, and who are of good, natnral and acquired abilities, to transact the temporal bnsiness of the Chnrch." The pastor shonld appoint only snch persons as class leaders. Certainly, it will be exceedingly difficult to find one possessing these qualifications among the probationers. In the election of stewards, the pastor has the right of nomination; bnt the responsibility of election or rejection rests with the qnarterly conference, and the members of that body should refnse to elect any person not complying with the Disciplinary conditions. The Disciplinary rnle is the only one that can be nsed with safety.

Question.—Has the district steward the right to report the benevolent collections at the district conference?

Answer.—The duties of the district stewards, as specified in paragraph 282 of the Discipline, shows that they are to make an estimate of the amonnt necessary to the support of the presiding elders; and to apportion the same, inclnding the claim of the bishops, among the different charges in the district. As stewards, they are to take an active part in secnring these claims. Their report in the district conferences shonld have particnlar reference to these claims. They may, if they so elect, make mention of the benevolent collections, bnt this is not reqnired. The pastors' report will necessarily inclnde this feature of the temporalities of the Chnrch.

Question.—Is it lawful for the pastor to attend the meetings of the Board of Trustees, or to inquire into the expenditure of fnnds made by the trnstees?

Answer.—Yes. There shonld be no objection to the visits of a pastor to the meeting of the Board, in which, by conrtesy, he may preside, although he is not a trnstee; yet, by virtue of his position as pastor, he has the snpervision of all the temporal and spiritual interests of the charge, and is thereby entitled to all the information concerning expenditure of money or other work performed by the Board.

Question.—A member of the church of which I am pastor removed to another pastoral charge of our denomination, but did not ask for his certificate. He subseqnently joined the chnrch in the place to which he removed, and was, by the pastor, received into full membership. What is the law in the case?

Answer.—Paragraph 49, section 6, of the Discipline, reads: "If a member of the Chnrch shall remove from a charge withont applying for a certificate of membership, the pastor of the charge from within whose bonnds he has removed shall send such certiffcate to the pastor of the charge within whose bonnds said member has taken np his residence." The pastor of the charge to which the said member removed had no authority to receive him into fnll membership withont a certificate. A careful reading of the Discipline on this point will prevent no little inconvenience.

—St. Mark's M. E. Chnrch, New York, has a splendid record. Organized in 1871 with a mere handfnl of worshipers, it has gone on throngh various struggles and trials nntil it has reached the very forefront among the colored churches of New York. On Snnday, June 2, they occupied for the first time in all the years since the organization their own church free of debt. The beautiful and commodious structure is on West Fifty-third street, where the work of our Methodism will receive increasing momentum in the great battle of salvation. Dr. Ernest Lyon, the able and efficient pastor, is to be congratulated on his splendid success.

A CORNER-STONE LAYING.

Old St. Peter's Chnrch at Donaldsonville, La., is one of the historic churches of onr work in the South. Organized in 1866, it has accomplished untold good in giving character to the people who have been tonched by its inflnence from sime to time. The old, nnsightly bnilding is now being replaced by a new and imposing strnctnre; which, when completed, will be one of the finest chnrch edifices in the Sonth. The corner-stone was laid last Sunday with imposing ceremonies. The sermons were preached by the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN and Rev. W. R. Bntler of New Orleans. Rev. Pierre Landry snperintended the services, assisted by the pastor. Hiram Lodge, F. A. A. M., assisted in laying the corner-stone. The collections were large and the people enthnsiastic. We were very favorably impressed with the general appearance of onr people, in the orderly and intelligently way in which they took part in the exercises. Large delegations were present from Darrowville, led by Rev. Baptiste, and Monroeville, led by Rev. Mitchell. Revs. Gomez and Canty, of the Baptist Chnrches in the vicinity, were present with their congregations. The people of St. Paul's, with their energetic pastor, Rev. C. D. Shallowhorne, and his estimable wife, are deserving of high praise for the snccess which has thus far attended the bnilding of the new St. Peter's. Supervising Architect, Rev. P. Landry, is a leader of big proportions. The church will be completed in Augnst.

"A New Orleans paper says that the dome of the old St. Louis Hotel, now the Hotel Royal, was famous before the war as the slave market of New Orleans. The planters and slave merchants nsed the St. Louis Hotel as a sort of meeting place, and the slave-block under the great dome was a convenience that grew more and more popular. It was here that Abraham Lincoln, when a boy, stood and watched the sale of slaves, and it was here that he made the remark, afterward so famous, 'If I ever get a chance to hit that, I'll hit it hard.' During the banquet given in his honor last winter, Governor McKinley stood over the spot where the slave-block had been and made his response to the toast which the enthnsiastic Southerners drank to him."—Exchange.

Strange! That after the war, which happily resnlted in the abolition of slavery, when Mr. Lincoln did get a chance, and "hit" the accnrsed thing "hard," that thirty years afterward the place still stands. O, it that old dome could speak, what stories it would tell of lost fortunes, of broken hearts, of the separation of families, of the breaking np of human ties, of plots, of dark laid schemes for the overthrow of government. Many of the actors are dead and gone to confront again in the great judgment day the record of their evil deeds, but the offensive monument yet remains, and is as often in these days of freedom the meeting place of others who are as determined to continue the reign of a cruel prejndice, as were their predecessors a half centnry ago determined to make permanent the traffic in human beings. It is a pity, but a pity 'tis trne, that the old relic of a most infamous institntion yet remains to remind the enlighted people of to-day that there was a time in this land of liberty when men and women and children could be bought and sold like cattle.

—The convention of the Open Air Workers' Association of America met in Washington, D. C., May 6 and 7. Dr. Tennis Hamlin was elected president. Dr. A. T. Pierson addressed a large andience on the qnalifications for street preaching, and Jndge Kimball explained the legal aspect of speech in public places. The illnstrated annnal report will be sent to any addressing the secretary, 77 State street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

—Our people at Denison, Texas, know how to appreciate the services of their pastor. A few evenings ago a large and happy band of the members and friends literally crowded the parsonage, and placed Rev. J. W. Wormley and his estimable wife nnder renewed obligations for the good things which they brought. For want of space we must omit the long list of the names of these grand people.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

New Orleans University, at its last commencement, conferred the degree of doctor of divinity upon Rev. L. W. Munhall, of Philadelphia; Rev. H. C. Pardoe, Bedford, Pa.; Rev. T. A. Griffin, Troy, N. Y.; Rev. E. O. Thayer, Gardner, Me.

Brother Lewis Jones, an esteemed member of Williams Church, this city, died last Wednesday week in peace. He leaves a wife and many friends to mourn. Rev C. Monroe, his pastor, attended the funeral.

Rev. W. P. Forrest, P. C., of Haven Chapel, this city, died at his residence on Saturday noon last, and was buried from his church on Sunday. He was one of the 37 members that composed the Louisiana Conference. His age was about 75 years. A suitable sketch of this worthy man's life will be published in a later issue.

The Preachers' Meeting on the 11th was quite interesting. The Sunday School lesson was taught by Dr. A. E. P. Albert. Remarks were made by Revs. Taylor, Monroe, Priestley, the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, and others. Rev. H. Taylor presented a verbal communication from the City Auxiliary Branch of the Women's Home Missionary Society.

Mt. Zion M. E. Church is arranging to put in new pews and carpet; improvements which are very greatly needed. Last Sunday was a successful missionary rally day. Collection was $32.

Mrs. Margaret Isahel, a stewardess of this church, died in great triumph June 12; aged 47 years. She leaves several relatives and many friends to mourn.

How Mrs. Wm. Henry Makes Money!

I have been so successful in the past few months that I feel it my duty to aid others by giving them my experience. I have not made less than $18 any day for the last five months, and have not canvassed any. I put a notice in the papers that I am selling the Iron City Dish Washer, and people send for them by the dozen. They give such good satisfaction that every family wants one. Dishes washed and dried in two minutes. I think any person can easily clear $10 a day, and double that after they get started good. I don't see why anyone should be destitute, when they may just as well be making lots of money if they try. Address the Iron City Dish Washer Co., 145 S. Highland Ave., Station A, Pittsburg, Pa., and they will give you all instructions and testimonials necessary to succeed.

Wesley Church of Baton Rouge.

First Quarterly Letter.

Many have been the trials of our faith, and consequent discouragements this quarter; but we have found abundant comfort and help in trusting in the Lord. "Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord, Jesus Christ."

The Sunday School numbers 275, teachers and scholars. It is in a flourishing condition under the efficient management of Mrs. R. A. Kennedy superintendent, who is faithful and untiring in her efforts to push forward the Redeemer's kingdom in her department. There have been some additions to and conversions in the school.

S. S. Missionary Day was fully observed. Raised and sent off for mission, $17.

The church is alive. Our last revival resulted in 14 conversions. We have received on probation 23, 21 of whom have already professed saving faith in the Lord Jesus, and two are "deeply convinced of sin and are earnestly groaning for redemption." Received from all sources 29 persons.

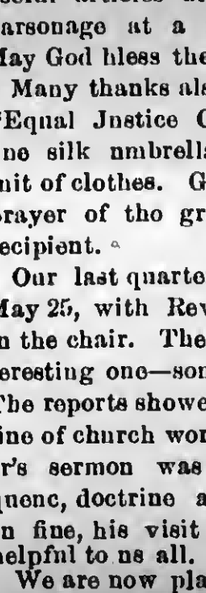
Numerically.—Our membership is increasing weekly. Our audience, from time to time, is very good, all things considered.

Spiritually, we are alive with room for improvement. There are many hindrances in the way of a thorough awakening among the people of this city. God, hasten on the time of awakening!

Financially.—The financial stringency continues to hinder us from doing much toward the liquidation of our enormous debt, which still hangs over us as an incubus. Raised for all purposes, $376 15.

Epworth League.—This chapter is doing very commendable work under the able management of Mrs. E. Barrow as president.

I desire to return my sincere thanks to the members and friends of our church for the many pounds of good things and other useful articles brought by them to the parsonage at a recent surprise party. May God bless them all.



Many thanks also to the members of the "Equal Justice Circle" for the gift of a fine silk umbrella and a fine $30-spring suit of clothes. God bless them all, is the prayer of the grateful and appreciative recipient.

Our last quarterly conference was held May 25, with Rev. J. F. Marshall, P. E., in the chair. The conference was an interesting one—somewhat breezy at times. The reports showed advances along every line of church work. The presiding elder's sermon was a masterpiece of eloquence, doctrine and logical deduction. In fine, his visit and sermon were very helpful to us all.

We are now planning for greater work, God helping us. J. A. TIRCUIT, P. C.

On Time.

"Can I make the connection at Alexis?" I asked the conductor, as we pulled into Toledo. He looked at his watch and said, "That train does not wait, but we are on time, and I think you can catch it." I settled down in my seat, and on we sped. The two trains reached the junction at precisely the same time, the "pilots" were not ten feet apart when they came to a standstill. I had just time to jump off, wave a goodbye to the conductor, as he said, "It is a close fit, but you are all right," and I climbed on the other train. Half a minute late would have subjected me to a long delay and great annoyance. Young man, your life is a train. Be on time. Keep your engagements. "You must get another watch or I another secretary," said Washington to his secretary who was five minutes late. Napoleon lost Waterloo because Grouchy was not "on time." Be on time, young man. Do you hear it, my boy?—Ex.

OUR : WOMEN'S : ROUND : TABLE

The Influence of the Home in the Uplifting of our People.

EIGHTEENTH LETTER—BY T. E. W.

Somehow we are afflicted with over much advice, about how to do this and how to le at, and so on through the category would-be leading women. Strange to say, they are like the Pharisee whom the Bible describes, as binding heavy burdens upon the backs of their followers, while they persistently refuse to touch them with even one of their dainty fingers. In every neighborhood there is an opportunity, yes many opportunities, for real humane work. There are poor sick people to whom a visit from some real Christian girl or woman would be a benediction. Take the Bible and read a few verses from the Lord of the blessed Master, and sing a verse or two of some appropriate song, and then a word of prayer. How soothing and comforting! How much better this than the usual gossip about some new dress or hat, or the latest fashions! How much more beneficial and helpful to the real deserving ones, than that slekly mamby-pamby sentimentalism which sees pleasure only in the lightest and most frivolous amusements.

The Round Table has received many flattering comments upon the very able paper of Mrs. Alice Jean Parham of St. Joseph, Mo., on "The Women We Need." Such a paper ought to be published in pamphlet form, and a copy sent to the home of every woman of the race. Yes: even to those who are trying to deny their race identity. The wives of ministers and all public men should especially put themselves into harmony with the sentiments of that able article. We want more womanly women. We are overstocked with the sort who aspire to wear their hair short, and to assume authority. Give the race womanly women.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

The "Ys." of Georgia.

By V. SCOTT CHINN, Atlanta, Ga.

The Young Women's Department of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Georgia, together with the "Ys." of Clark and Atlanta University and Spellman Seminary met in Gammon Hall recently, with Mrs. Dr. C. F. Murray in the chair.

The Commonites taking advantages of the occasion to make the "Ys." feel perfectly at home, decorated the hall very beautifully with flowers and ensigns, and the flag of the Union was draped in the centre.

Mrs. Georgie B. King, State president, opened the meeting with Scripture reading and singing, and prayer by Rev. D. H. Butler. The address of welcome was delivered by Miss Minnie Davis, of Clark University.

The following papers were read and showed clearly the good work and the influence that the Union is wielding over the hearts and minds of the people of Georgia:

History of the Year's Work at C. U, by Misses Carrie Hooks and Pinkie Davis.

Why Sign the Pledge, Miss Carrie Binder of A. M.

Girls' Influence, Miss Emma Taylor of S. S.

Report from Spellman, Miss Hawkins.

What the Union has done for South Atlanta, Miss Hattie Crolley, of C. U.

Why Young Women Should Work for Temperance, Miss Tanner, of A. U.

In addressing the Union, Mesdems Delimartes laid stress upon the fact that great cares and responsibilities lay upon the mothers and young women, and said, "If you want a man to reform and take away his whisky or tobacco, why you must give him something better, else you fail."

Mrs. Dr. John exhorted the "Ys." to more vigorous efforts and God speed, and assured them of hearty co-operation for another year.

Mrs. Chase, who has recently returned from an extensive trip out West, gave words of cheer and expressed the hope that the whole nation would soon realize the real danger of intemperance, and help crush out the monster that destroys so many of our homes and blights so many noble lives. She urged them to greater usefulness.

Letters of greetings and reports from all over the State were read, and strong evidence was evinced that every effort was being put forth to help the cause of temperance and make Georgia a model State.

Mrs. Georgie B. King presented a paper that was brimful of wisdom and truth.

Honorary membership was solicited among the gentlemen and quite a number joined.

Mrs. Dr. J. C. Murray was re-elected State superintendent for this year.

The meeting adjourned with benediction by the Rev. Bowen.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Willhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Savior's Parting Words.

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Go ye therefore and teach all nations." (Matt. 28. 19.)

If we had none but Saint Luke's Gospel we would infer that Jesus ascended to heaven the day He arose from the dead. But from the other Gospels we learn of other appearances, and in the acts—a companion volume to each of the Gospels—we are told it was forty days between the resurrection and ascension. Between the visit of Jesus to the seven on the lake shore, and His appearance in this lesson should be placed His appearance to the five hundred brethren in a mountain in Galilee. This last visit took place in Jerusalem, and likely in that noted "upper room."

I. Jesus teaching the disciples (44-49). 1. Christ the fulfillment of the Scriptures. The writings of Moses, of the Prophets, and the Psalms—The entire Old Testament—teach Christ. Some books teach His life, others His death, and others His resurrection from the dead. These facts Jesus had taught them "while He was yet with them." The Redemption of the world by the blessed Christ is the theme of the Bible. It is not a work on Geology, or Astronomy, or Law, although these may be taught in it. Salvation through Christ is its subject. 2. Power given to comprehend the Word of God—"Then opened He their mind that they might understand the Scriptures." He breathed on them and said—"Receive ye the Holy Ghost" (John 20. 22). The Holy Spirit was given as they were able to bear it. The apostles had the Spirit, in a measure, before the death of Jesus; here more is given to them, and on the day of Pentecost He was shed forth in all His fullness. The design in giving the Spirit here was to aid them in understanding the Scriptures. The things of God "are spiritually discerned" (1 Cor. 2. 14). "Open Thou mine eyes that I may behold wonderous things out of Thy law" (Psa. 119. 18). "When He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will guide you into all truth" (John 16. 13). All preachers, and teachers in the Sunday Schools, are wretched expounders of the Word of God, without the aid of the Holy Spirit. 3. The chief doctrines of the Scriptures. Christ is the topic, and the leading acts in His life are the chief doctrines of this subject. (1) The death of Jesus—"Thus it is written that the Christ should suffer." The story of the trial and death of Jesus is a very sad one. His greatest sufferings were His temptation in the wilderness, His conflict in the garden, His mock trial before the council, Herod, and Pilate, His bitter scourging, and His shameful death on the cross. (2) The resurrection of Jesus—"And rise again from the dead the third day." The leading thought of the Gospel is the resurrection of Christ. "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. "We are found false witnesses of God," and the people "are yet in their sins." Let Jesus be preached as a living and highly exalted Savior. (3) The Remission of sins in the name of Christ—"And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name." Faith, repentance, prayer, and sometimes baptism go before the remission of sins. Pardon, cleansing, and the witness of the Spirit go with the remission of sins. A godly, consecrated, holy life should follow the remission of sins. 4. These doctrines—the death and resurrection of Christ, and the remission of sins in His name—are to be preached "among all nations." They are for Gentiles same as Jews. The blessed Christ "by the grace of God tasted death for every man" (Heb. 2. 9). "He is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world" (1 John 2. 2). It was hard for the apostles to learn that the Gospel was for the heathen. There is an election of faith and a reprobation of unbelief. But "whosoever will" may be saved. 5. They were to be proclaimed first at Jerusalem. (1) Because God has willed it—"For out of Zion shall go forth the law and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem" (Isa. 2. 3). (2) Because there Christ had lived, died, and arose from the dead. Let those who knew Him while living investigate these doctrines. (3) Because God would set us an example of forgiving enemies. It was at Jerusalem where Jesus received His worse treatment from rulers and common people. God would let them know there is salvation for them if they will repent and believe the Gospel. 6. The disciples "are witnesses of these things." That Christ is the theme of the Scriptures, that the word of God is Spiritually discerned; that the death and resurrection of Christ, and the remission of sins in His name, and that these doctrines are to be preached to all nations. There is a sense in which the Bible and the Son of God are on trial in the world to-day. Many say they are not what they claim to be. But we are witnesses that they are true, and must testify the same to a gain-saying world. 7. The Promise of the Father—"Tarry ye in Jerusalem until ye be endowed with power from on high." This refers, no doubt, to the gift of the Holy Spirit. He had been promised by Isaiah, Ezekiel, Joel and Jesus. He was given, in part, when the Savior opened their mind that they might understand the Scriptures, and in His completeness on the day of Pentecost. They needed the Holy Spirit to comfort their heart, to teach them the will of God, to bring to their remembrance "all things," to testify of the goodness of God, to reprove the world of sin, to guide them into all truth, and to show them the things of God. No one is ready to preach the Gospel, or teach in the Sabbath School, till he is "endowed with power from on high."

II. Jesus ascending to heaven (50-53). 1. Place—"He led them out as far as to Bethany." He met them in Jerusalem, and likely in that noted "upper room," gave them some parting commands, led them forth over the brook Kidron, and up the slope of Olivet to the summit. They pass down the eastern side till Bethany is in full view. It is the Shepherd again leading his flock. It is likely they had some idea of what would soon transpire. Christ has ever been leading His Church. He is ever going before them and opening the way. 2. Blessing.—"He lifted up His hands and blessed them." He had never so done before. I do not suppose His hands rested on them. But He extended them and pronounced a benediction on His followers. What were the words of this blessing? I know not. But they may have been like those God gave to Moses to pronounce on the children of Israel. "The Lord bless thee, and keep thee." The Lord make His face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee. "The Lord lift up His countenance upon thee, and give thee peace" (Numb. 6. 24-26). Christ is always blessing His Church with every needed comfort. 3. Ascension. "He was parted from them and carried up into heaven." As He spread His hands over them, and pronounced a blessing upon them, He separated Himself from them. Slowly He begins to arise. Earth has lost her power to keep Him. Heaven is claiming her own. As He floats upward through the yielding air, His eyes are bent down on those up-looking men, His hands are extended over them in benediction, and His voice is heard dying away in blessings upon them. In silence they follow Him with their eyes. His body lessens to sight. A cloud enfolds Him. They see Him no more. Listen. The hosts of heaven sing—"Lift up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lifted up ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in. Who is this King of glory? The Lord strong and mighty; the Lord mighty in battle" (Psa. 24. 7-8). Jesus is to day seated at the right hand of the Father—"Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come (Ephe. 1. 21). Amen.

The old saying that "goods well bought are half sold" is true of Pure White Lead. Dealers cannot afford to sell, or painters to use, unknown or inferior brands (see list genuine brands). Reputation is capital, and can only be acquired by selling or using the best materials. Responsible dealers sell, and practical painters everywhere use these brands.

Any desired shade of color may be easily produced by using National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead tinting colors. Sample card of colors and pamphlet is sent free.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR. NEW ORLEANS, JUNE 27, 1895.—Vol. 30. No. 26. HUNT & EATON, PUBLISHERS.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—A generous friend, who forbids the use of her name, has informed Principal Booker T. Washington of the Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Alabama, of her decision to erect a new chapel for the Institute.

—The pastor and officiary of the St. Paul's M. E. Church, in the City of New York, will please accept our thanks for kind invitation to attend the services at the laying of the corner-stone of their new church edifice, West End avenue and Eighty-sixth street, June 27.

—Rev. W. H. Nelson, Ph. D., D. D., of the Central Alabama Conference, is doing a splendid work as principal of the Mobile Academy. The closing exercises, which were held recently, were unusually interesting. The Mobile daily press speaks in high terms of the work which is being done at this academy.

—Rev. W. R. R. Duncan, one of the colored members of the Book Committee, represents the Twelfth General Conference District. He has already sent in more than fifty cash yearly subscribers. He is at present the presiding elder of the Pine Bluff District, Little Rock Conference, and in every way an able representative.

—Dr. M. C. B. Mason, assistant corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, was in the city last week, en route to Texas, where he has since done some very effective work for the Society which he so ably represents. The hour or more which he devoted to the SOUTHWESTERN was highly appreciated.

—Rev. W. E. Mask, presiding elder of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, sends a sweet ray of sunshine through the office of the SOUTHWESTERN. Here are the words which brought the sunshine:

"We want a SOUTHWESTERN Revival at the District Conference, and also at the annual meeting of the District League."

We are sure that Brother Mask will lead the revival personally.

—Few men are as well qualified as Rev. Dr. William Nast Brodbeck of our Church at Charlestown, Mass., to tell what the Methodist Episcopal Church stands for. This he did thoroughly, intelligently, eloquently, forcibly and conclusively, before a very large and select audience in St. John's Church, Charlestown, on a recent Sabbath. The Charlestown (Mass.) Enterprise of June 8 gives a full report of the doctor's eloquent address. Dr. Brodbeck honors all Methodism as a consecrated and able champion of her polity and faith.

—It is reported that two Princeton students attacked a Negro near a bar-room in Princeton, N. J., and that the Negro, in self-defense, shot and killed one and severely wounded another. The Negro, on being arrested, claimed that the students were either coming out of or going into the bar-room when they attacked him. Fearing that they would take his life he shot with the results as above stated. The saloon is an unmitigated nuisance, and persons who frequent them, whether white or black, students or illiterate people, must not be surprised to find their steps toward degradation and ruin very greatly accelerated. The saloon is responsible for the terrible crime.

THE "SOUTHWESTERN" AT OUR DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

If the brethren will study the elaborate calendar, which we publish on the eighth page, they will see how impossible it is for the Editor to attend all, or even a few of these meetings. Several of them are fixed for the same day, and at such distances that the Editor could not reach them if he were an angel, which he is not. Now, what will he do? We are in a strait as to our proper course. Some brother will say that he failed to get subscribers because the Editor was not at the District Conference, or because he did not personally visit his charge. He will come up to the District Conference full of complaints against the Editor and paper for the reasons given, and others.

Now the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN believes that he is not an eye-servant, and that he has brethren who are his personal friends, who love him for the something good which they have found in him. But he believes emphatically that his paper has staunch and loyal friends in every district among the presiding elders, and pastors and laity, who will—for the sake of the reputation which it has made, and for the good which it promises to accomplish for the race—stand by the paper by a rousing majority. One presiding elder promises a Southwestern Revival at his District and Epworth League Conference. The Editor will visit such districts as it is possible to reach, when they are conveniently fixed. But he believes that, if because of the great expense to the Church or of sickness, or on account of other inconveniences which would render it impossible for him to attend, he cannot reach these meetings, there are brethren in all our patronizing districts who can be relied upon to give the paper that representation to which it is entitled. We will send our pledge cards to each presiding elder, with the hope that he may be able to secure pledges which will increase our circulation a hundred fold.

—The New York Legislature has passed a law prohibiting discrimination against colored people in hotels, restaurants, theatres, and all other public places. The penalty for a violation of this law is imprisonment or a fine. The damages recoverable by an aggrieved party, is fixed at not less than $100 or more than $500. Efforts are being made, of course, to make the law odious, and it is more than probable that some of the cases reported, where Negroes have applied for accommodation in several of the first-class public places, has been the result of collusion on the part of opponents to the law and their Negro tools, to make the application of the law as odious as possible. We would caution our New York brethren against throwing obstacles in the way of the trend of sentiment, which seems to be in their favor. There is no good use in an organized movement to test the temper of the proprietors of places where the rule has been to discriminate against colored people. Opponents of the law will test its constitutionality and it will then be the timely thing to meet that opposition with the best brain, and talent, and wealth, and social standing of New York's best colored citizens. Governor Morton approves the bill, which gives the friends of justice and humanity additional strength.

—Rev. F. J. Yeargin, of Spring Hill, Tenn., is a strong friend of the SOUTHWESTERN. He tries to educate his people in the right way. His church, Sunday school and Epworth League are first class. He has quite a number of progressive people in his congregation who are readers of the SOUTHWESTERN, of course.

THE WOMAN QUESTION.

As the next General Conference draws near, more or less anxiety will be felt concerning the eligibility of women as delegates to the General Conference. The "Hamilton Amendment," which we voted for and which we believe was proposed in good faith, to place the responsibility of the admission of woman upon a direct vote of the clergy and laity of the Church. We have given the matter careful and prayerful consideration and conclude that since the General Conference at Omaha voted to submit the proposition to amend the second restrictive rule, the conferences are in duty bound to obey.

After the usual preliminary directions as to the time, place and mode of taking the vote, the proposed amendment provides, "That if the amendment so submitted does not receive the votes of three-fourths of the members of the Annual Conferences and two-thirds of the General Conference, the second restrictive rule shall be so construed that the words 'lay delegates' may include men and women, and thus be in harmony with the legislation of previous general conferences."

The proposition submitted during the previous quadrennium was, "Shall women be eligible as lay delegates in the Electorial and Lay Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church."

And an amendment, popularly called the "Neely Amendment," was voted upon, but failed to receive the popular endorsement. It is now proposed to submit again the old "Neely Amendment," which has been revived by the Baltimore Conference, and having been submitted by that conference to the Colorado Conference, was endorsed by that conference, after having voted on the "Hamilton Amendment," and giving its unanimous vote in favor of the admission of women.

We confess that we saw enough in the "Hamilton Amendment" to cover the whole ground, since it provided that if the votes of three-fourths of the members of the Annual Conferences and two-thirds of the members of the General Conference did not vote in favor of the proposition, the rule should be so construed that the words "lay delegates" may include men and women.

This, in our judgment, was simply giving the opponents of the measure a chance to defeat it by a constitutional majority. The Neely-Baltimore-Colorado plan is an easy way out of the dilemma—provided, both amendments are voted upon. Otherwise, the status of the question will be about where it was in 1892.

We believe we see the light ahead, and that our elect sisters may have a title to their entree without a cloud.

—Elsewhere in this paper we have called attention to the proposed Negro Exhibit at the great Cotton States Exposition. We hope our readers everywhere will take increased interest in this matter. There has never been a better opportunity furnished for the exhibition of the literature, handicraft and skill of our people than is now offered them. Mr. I. Garland Penn, the chief commissioner, is one of the most popular young men of the race. He has gathered around him from the several Southern States a number of the leading gentleman and ladies of this race in the States which they represent. There is evidence of increasing activity among the commissioners and their constituency, and there is also the promise of a most magnificent display. Let the people respond liberally. Let the Negro be at the exposition in his spiritual, literary, educational and mechanical strength, and make such an exhibit as will put at rest, at once and forever, the question of his capacity to successfully compete with any class of men in any part of the earth.

EDUCATIONAL.

Central Tennesse College.

Commencement.

"I've wandered to the city, Tom,
I've stood beneath the tree,
Upon the school-house playground,
That sheltered you and me.

"But none were left to greet me, Tom,
And few were left to know
Who sported there upon the green,
Just twenty years ago."

I reached the college campus on Friday night, May 17, in time to witness the graduating exercises of the English Department. The College Chapel had been beautifully papered and painted, which gave the walls a golden hue, beautiful to behold.

I afterwards learned that this work, which must have cost not less than $50, had been done by the students under the management of the Epworth League.

The graduating class on this occasion was as follows: Miss Charlotte T. Edson, Miss Estelia M. Ford, Miss Lula A. McGill, Mr. John T. Phillips, Mr. Thomas West.

The papers were each prepared from some branch of study in the course and all showed diligent study and careful preparation, and the manner and style of delivery were very commendable.

Miss Rosa McDonald and Mr. David Hill graduated from the college preparatory course.

The music department, under the direction of Miss M. E. Braden, is worthy of special mention.

Many of the old students will be glad to know that Prof. West Patterson, A. M., is still here. He is just the same as he was twenty years ago, save that he is a little more frosty about the head. "Gray hairs are here and there upon him," but his mind seems to know it not. Were I a poet I would sing a song to his honor and I know all the old students of Central would say, "Amen!"

He showed me through the medical building, with its splendid Labratory.

The museum is the finest that I have seen this side of Smithsonian Institute. This college is as well or better prepared to teach the sciences than any of our schools in the South. The youth who desires a scientific education would do well to stop awhile here. Prof. Osborn, who has charge of the museum, deserves great credit for his fine collections.

The methods of teaching in this department is that of the labratory supplemented by the text book. With crucible, gas bag, spirit lamp, blow pipe and the crude substances, the student is taught to make the compounds, extracts, tinctures, etc. Here nature is made to speak to the senses at first hand. This is the more excellent way.

I spent some time in looking through the several shops and inspecting the specimens of industrial work. I saw work here, such as tables, desks, bookcases, stands, etc., equal to that in any of our first class furniture houses.

I spent Monday and Tuesday in attending the oral examinations of the various classes. All did well. The methods of instruction in the classes were good. In listening to the pupils one was impressed with the fact that they understood the subjects in hand.

The best examination or recitation in astronomy was by a matron of about forty summers.

Sunday, May 19, was the occasion of the baccalaureate sermon by Dr. J. J. Tigert. His discourse was plain, practical and edifying.

The history and growth of this school is one of the marvelous things of our times. It had its origin in 1866, in an old Confederate gun factory. During these thirty years its growth has been continuous till at present it has the following departments in operation: A model school for primary students; A literary school with full English normal, college preparatory, scientific, academic and collegiate course of study, School of industry with the departments of blacksmithing, carpentry, printing and painting. The school of mechanic arts is not in operation at present, since the building was burned. A school of medicine, better equiped, perhaps, than any school to which our young men can have access. A school of law, and a department of theology where young men receive training for the Christian ministry. And an African training school, where missionaries are trained for work in the land of our fathers.

The medical school has already sent forth its hundreds of practicing physicians. Ninety per cent of these are doing well, and may be pointed to with pride, both for their moral worth and professional skill.

Several skilled dentists have gone forth and are making money and benefiting mankind.

The law school sends forth the following class as graduates this year: Calsh S. Manior, Henry B. Cheairs and Charles S. Folley.

The African Training School has one native young man from Africa. Professor Byrd says that he never makes a blunder in his use of the English language and leads his class in all his studies.

The Endowment Association.—For real work, and the elevation that elevates, the Negro in the South must look to these institutions of the Methodist Church a while longer. Teachers and students dine together, which bring the student under the mellow influence of the teachers in the time of meals—the most opportune time.

At present there is nothing in prospect which promises to take the place of these institutions as an elevating and moral force. "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness," even so are these institutions lifted up for the healing of a race bitten by superstition and ignorance. But the nature of things, it is not reasonable for us to expect that the benevolence of a generous North will always, as now without our help, sustain these institutions. Is it not time, then, for as to say, "Let us arise and build?" So think the students of Central Tennessee College, and they have begun the work. The Students' Endowment Association has for its object the raising of a fund to endow a professorship. The association is composed of graduates, under graduates and friends of the school. The annual membership fee is $1. Reader, are you or have you been a student at Central Tennessee? If so, come, let us by faith shake hands across the space that divides you and me and vow an eternal friendship for our Alma Mater, and in token thereof each send one dollar to the Students' Endowment Association. Come now, do not frame an excuse. My dollar is in already. Will you send yours? Here is an opportunity which asks but little, but the fruit thereof shall shake like Lebanon.

Among the visitors present I noticed Rev. H. W. Key of the Tennessee Conference, also Brothers A. Phillips, Rev. S. B. Danley and Rev. Wilson, pastor of Clark's Chapel, Nashville. A. W. McKINNEY.

A Shame if True.

Rev. E. Harrison, who was expelled from the ministry and membership of the M. E. Church at the last session of the Central Missouri Conference, was taken up immediately by the A. M. E. Church and has been appointed to Baxter Springs, Kans. If the A. M. E. Church opens her arms to receive the filth of other Churches, she must not feel grieved if those Churches which have turned them out, refuses to recognize them. Let all M. E. Churches beware of such men; they should not be invited to officiate in the M. E. Church, under no circumstances.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

A Presiding Elder's Observations

Hemmed in by constant rains, the high water has shut me in on all sides. The railroad track is damaged for miles on the H. and T. C. R. R. and trestles and bridges are swept away and travel by rail is hindered. The farmers can do nothing and thousands of acres of the rich Brazos river farm lands with growing crops stand under water, or have been swept by overflowing streams, and "planting over" will be the order of the day as soon as the weather permits.

The rains prevented our usually good quarterly conference here. Calvert is the seat of the next Annual Conference, and that event is looked forward to with good and lofty anticipations of royal joy and a season of Christian activity.

No through mail this week and no letters from home and no letters from distant friends—so we have spent the week in reading back numbers of the SOUTHWESTERN, and Children's Day exercises, and with the open Bible we have read Dr. Talmage's book entitled "Gems of Truth and Beauty," which I found among the many good books in the library of Rev. G. A. Shanklin. The 299 pages are a blessing sent abroad in the land. We finished it this morning, with Dr. Talmage's great dream on "Home." The thoughts of the past cluster about me, concerning my home—home on earth, and a home in heaven prepared by workmanship divine; a home for me by-and-by. It fills my soul with irrepressible joy to think that I have done some of those things a Christian ought to do in a home.

I think of a mistake I made fifteen years ago, but I regard it as being a good mistake; the results of which are far-reaching. In May, 1889, during the session of General Conference, Dr. R. S. Rust, corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society, made an offer to educate two preachers in West Texas Conference—C. L. Madison and Mack Henson were the two selected. We were to find work somewhere in the Lexington Conference while attending one of our school. But neither of us could accept the good doctor's offer—he, on account of the extreme illness of an invalid wife (since translated to the home above), and I could not accept on account of the unsettled condition of our home among men. The responsibilities of our home were much increased by the gift of three sons. After prayerful consideration Mrs. Henson consented to let me go and fill myself with learning, but I could never get the consent of my conscience. It seemed then as now, that it would have consigned my family to destruction. Had I gone at her bidding, to-day, no doubt, I would be standing in scholarship with Drs. J. W. E. Bowen, E. W. S. Hammond, A. E. P. Albert and others that space forbids mentioning here. I made the good mistake on the belief that it was more blessed to give than to receive. No, sir; I could never get the consent of my mind to leave my home unprovided for, to be one learned man, leaving the burden and toilings necessary to our well being, upon the shoulders of that little woman, in the home to bear. We have toiled together through all the intervening years to reach the end in view; and now, we are far from it, and what could she have done single-handed? All three of our boys were brought early to Jesus, whom they accepted as their Savior. The oldest is nearly 23 years old; the next was 21 years last Sunday, May 26. The older one, now working in the departments at Washington, D. C., wrote me: "Father, I will join our Church here next Sunday. I have been engaged as organist for a church and a Sunday school." He entered the law school of Howard University May 1. The second son is organist for the Sunday school at Littig. The youngest, 19 years old, trains the young people in vocal music. The two youngest are with their mother on the farm at Littig, which we hope will be our home paid for some day—with our promise that they shall have another little push through the schools as soon as things are in shape to do so.

After twenty-four years of wedded struggles, we are still firm in the belief, that three Christian, scholarly gentlemen will accomplish more good in the world than one stuffed prophet! And, if we are not overtaken by misfortune, my remaining years in the ministry, with this trained assistance, will be more potential—for twenty-five years' experience in the ministry enables me to say, without fear of successful contradiction, that the people we serve are losing their interest in the support of a pure, straight-forward, Gospel ministry. The houses some ministers have to live in, are mere bat caves—rude, uncomfortable and totally unfit for any decent folks to occupy! And some of the best men now in the ministry will cease to serve a free people, on starvation wages, and to have exquisite pleasure (?) of dwelling in such dens!

Dear editor, as our people are wooed on to destruction by flattery, let these lines of plain facts go forth upon their humble mission, without crossing a T or dotting an I—for there are some faithful men now filling pulpits with honor, to remain longer in the ministry they must prepare to do so at their own expense. As for me, I am a well-paid minister, but I see the hand-shaped cloud rising out of the sea of confusion, and give warning.

Yours for right, against wrong,
Calvert, Texas. MACK HENSON.

FAMILY MEDICINE

She Has Ever Known. Words of Praise from a New York Lady for

AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled.

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent la grippe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-round family medicine I have ever known."—Mrs. MAY JOHNSON, 368 Rider Avenue, New York City.

Our Southern District Campaign.

My Dear Dr. Hammond—I have been in correspondence with all our presiding elders in the South, and during the remainder of June and the months of July and August there is to be a great campaign for our cause. Dr. Mason will reach just as many of the conferences as possible, and it may be that other representatives of the Society will reach some that he cannot.

Some months ago I sent to all the presiding elders a specimen of Frederick Douglass' picture, and secured the apportionments to all the charges for the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, and then addressed a letter to every pastor, sending him the amount apportioned to him, and as many dollar envelopes as there were dollars in his apportionment, with the statement that a picture of Frederick Douglass would be sent to every person who would take one of these envelopes, raise a dollar, and pay it to the pastor. Already several hundred dollars have been sent in, and we will push the canvass right along until every district conference meets. There will be a roll-call at every district conference, and the money not sent to the office before that time will be paid at the district conference and forwarded.

Let all our presiding elders and pastors join heartily in this great campaign, and it will put thousands of dollars in our treasury. All the money raised in Arkansas goes to Philander Smith College; all the money raised in the Upper Mississippi and Mississippi Conferences, except in the Meridian District, goes to Rust University, and so on, over the whole South. Let all unite for success.

The Great Exposition.

Negro Church Exhibit.

One of the most interesting features of the Negro Department of the Cotton States and International Exposition which is to be held in Atlanta, September 18th to December 31st, 1895, is the Negro Church Exhibit. The Negro has made most wonderful progress in church building, some of their church edifices being among the finest in the land. Statistics show that he has 22,153 church edifices with a seating capacity of over eight million. The value of his church property is placed at twenty-five million. It will be greatly to the credit of the race for the churches to show by photograph, interior and exterior, exterior in particular, the character and architecture of their church edifices. A special space in the Negro Building will therefore be allotted for that purpose. All churches are urged to prepare at once photographs of their churches, having name, denomination, place, pastor and address distinctly written or printed on the same, and forwarded to the Chief of the Negro Department, Cotton States and International Exposition, Atlanta, Ga. Correspondence on the subject solicited.

The Negro in Literature.

An exhibit, if complete, that will be most creditable to the colored people of the United States will be the literature they have produced in the journals that are published and the books that have been issued.

There are at present 206 colored newspapers and ten magazines published by the race. Over 100 books have been published and sold, some of which have had remarkable sale and received great praise and commendation at the hands of the literary critics of the country.

The Negro exhibit at the Cotton States and International Exposition would be incomplete without this journalistic and book feature. All Negro publishers are therefore requested to prepare a special edition of their papers and forward a copy of the same for a journalistic exhibit in the Negro building. Colored authors will send a copy of their books in the several styles of binding for a special exhibit of literary progress of the race. Such papers and books should be forwarded and addressed to Chief Negro Department, Cotton States and International Exposition, Atlanta, Ga.

In the Negro Building of the Cotton States and International Exposition which is to be held in Atlanta, Ga., from Sept. 18 to December 31st, there will be shown the progress of the race in a mass as it has never been seen before. From a business point of view he will be represented by the reproduction of some large and well-conducted retail stores in each of the grocery, boot and shoe, hardware, furniture, dry goods and other lines of trade. Of the two hundred inventions to his credit in the patent office at Washington there will be twenty-five working models, showing that his inventions are now in practical use and of benefit to the country. He will be represented as a banker by the reproduction of the Penny Savings Bank of Birmingham, Ala., the True Reformers Savings Bank of Richmond and others.

He will also be on exhibition as mechanic, the builder of wagons, buggies, machines, etc. He will be seen as an electrician, an artist, an architect. In fact he will be shown in every conceivable line of work that engages the attention of any other people.

The wiser course for the Negro race to pursue is to band together and make the exhibit in every possible way what it can be.

The Negro Home Exhibit.

Another very interesting feature of the Negro exhibit will be a portray of the Negro in his home life. In 1865 the Negro as a mass lived in the typical one-room cabin of the South, but to-day he is living in fine residences; in many cases with all the appliances of well-ordered homes.

The Home Life Exhibit of the Negro race will consist of photographs of the residences in which Negroes live, interior and exterior. The race is invited to note carefully this very desirable feature of the exhibit which is to go into the Negro building and see that it is complete in every respect. Photographs should be sent to the Chief Commissioner of the State or the Chief Negro Department, Atlanta, Ga. The owner, location and address should be distinctly printed or written on the photographic card.

Address, I. GARLAND PENN,
Chief Negro Dep't, Atlanta, Ga.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

"Home."

By H. FORREST, Clinton, Tenn.

How few there be who rightly appreciate the comforts of their home. How few, who fully comprehend the strong influence and power which emanates therefrom and contributes to the elevation or depression of man.

What is home (?) may be thought a simple question; but volumes compiled by the wisest and most highly developed beings, would be necessary to contain the great answer, with its value thereto appended. It is like health, the value of which no one can express, or truly feel, until it is lost. Unutterable, inexpressible, are the words that best express the value of home.

When an inmate of a home is out on the mercies of a cold and friendless world, it is then that he sincerely reflects over the ease and enjoyment which that most happy circle retains for him. However humble it may be, who does not say of it: "Home, sweet home." Who does not know that its comforts are elsewhere sought in vain. That it is the bright morning star, whose gleam of light should twinkle for the glory of Him, who presides over that eternal home to which we now hasten.

We may be at the home of friends, who do all in their power to make us feel contented; who throw ajar the avenues of their hospitality, and in every way attempt to impress upon us a true welcome; but yet we cannot feel that ease of conscience, that freedom of action, or familiarity of contents, as is felt in our own. No welcome can sever that innate principle which intentively binds us to our own homes, and make us feel without as we do within our own.

He who steps over the threshold of his home, and departs therefrom, leaves behind him a place of calm, nowhere to be seen or enjoyed upon life's great sea. The red man in his wigwam; the Negro in his hut, enjoy pleasures which to them the luxuries of the finest palaces cannot afford. So with all classes of mankind, rich or poor, civilized or uncivilized, each enjoy pleasures in their own homes, which are in vain sought for in the dwellings of others. Here may be traced the wisdom of the great "Eternal," who provides alike, happiness to all, whether they rise from luxuries or from the lowest depths of poverty. In all climes, among all peoples, the greatest safeguard to liberty and morality is found to be the family circle. As the oasis is to the desert, so is home to the tempestuous storms, the arid plains, and upheaving forces of life. Who, when almost overcome by heat and thirst, does not, on reaching the cool, clear stream, bathe his famishing vitals in its reviving virtues, and thereby receive renewed strength. Who, when weary from toil; when oppressed by cares and besetments, on turning homeward does not conceive of rest awaiting his return that lifts the soul above its worry, and purifies and ennobles its aspirations. Who, when in home's embrace, resting from the battles of life, fails to grasp the thought that of this boundless wilderness, here only can man escape burning suns, beating rains, and blighting draughts. Here only can he fold about him the draperies of contentment, and lie down for repose where safety and innocence, with swords of eternal victory, drive away harm.

Home Missionary Items.

Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk has recently returned from a trip in the South, and speaks very encouragingly of the work at Knoxville, Morristown, Asheville and Washington, D. C., which places she visited. She was pleasantly entertained while in Washington at the Lucy Webb Hayes Memorial Deaconess Home and Training School, by Superintendent Ames and his estimable wife. She reports Sibly Hospital as looking splendidly.

Mrs. Isabel Whitfield, organizer for the Puget Sound, Oregon and Idaho Conferences, has done excellent work during her recent visit to these points. In the Idaho Conference she reports ten new auxiliaries, with an entire membership of 159, and 21 subscribers to Home Missions. In the Puget Sound five new auxiliaries and an increased membership of 183; also eight subscribers for Home Missions. In the Oregon Conference several existing auxiliaries were revived through her efforts, ten new ones formed, and a membership of 236 in all was secured, with 16 subscribers for the paper. The Columbia River and Montana Conferences will be added to Mrs. Whitfield's field of labor.

An increased interest obtains among the various auxiliaries, as is manifested by the call for missionaries' letters, leaflets and articles on various departments of the work, which have been compiled at the general office for use in their monthly and district meetings.

Rome District.

The Rome District Sunday School and Epworth League Convention, of the Savannah Conference, was held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Rome, Ga., May 23-26. Rev. H. R. Allen, presiding elder of the district, presided. Rev. G. W. Lewis, pastor of our Second Church, was elected secretary, with Miss M. L. Cartheran of Broad Street Church as assistant.

The business of the meeting was taken up and dispatched rapidly and intelligently. We regret exceedingly that many of our pastors were absent from this great gathering of Methodist young people. It made us think that the pew is outstriping the pulpit.

Thursday night Rev. L. P. Kimball, pastor of our church, preached an earnest sermon, which was well received.

Friday's session was charactorized with increased interest. There was a very perceptable increase in the attendance of delegates and visitors. After devotional exercises the pastor of the First Church, in words well chosen, introduced Miss M. L. Cartheran to the convention, who, in a way equal to her capability, delivered the address of welcome to the happy crowd of young Methodists. The address was of a high order. The president called upon Miss Dora Mullin of Tallapoosa, Ga., to respond in behalf of the convention, which she did in a very happy manner.

The following papers were read: The true Sunday School superintendent, Miss Fanny Taylor of Rome; Sunday School organization and how to perpetuate it, Miss Katie Cook; Sunday School work in the M. E. Church, Miss Ercilla Johnson; The importance of teachers' meetings, Miss Ida Leake; When do children become the subjects of grace? Prof. F. M. Gordon.

There were papers read upon the Epworth League also: The pastor as an Epworth Leaguer, Miss Gussie Simmons; How shall the League best influence and hold the young people? Miss C. L. White; Work of the League, Miss Glenn of Tallapoosa, Ga.

All the papers were full of thought, which show that our young people are advancing along all lines of intellectuality, morality and religion.

Several of our preachers preached highly interesting and edifying sermons. At our Second Church the brethren did grand work. Sunday night at 9 o'clock one of the best sessions we ever witnessed passed into history. We lingered at the altar in the house of God shaking hands. Then came the doxology and the benediction.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR.

—Twenty-five years of blissful wedded life has been allotted to our genial and affable business manager, Mr. C. C. Morse, and his most estimable lady, Mrs. Ida Morse (nee Barber). The celebration of their silver-wedding anniversary, on the 21st, was a pleasant event. The union has been a happy one in all respects. Leaving their native home, in Vermont, they came to the Sunny South, where Brother Morse has been constantly engaged in the work of the Church. Part of the time as instructor of printing at our Clark University, Atlanta, Ga., and during the last five years as business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN, which trust he has discharged with credit and ability. We congratulate the happy pair, and invoke upon them and their family the choice blessings of our kind, heavenly Father.

—The great destruction of our mission property and probable loss of life at Foo Chow, China, is one of those outbreaks which must be seriously deplored. Not a few thoughtful people have feared such an interruption of our missionary work in that land. We believe that the cruel treatment accorded the Chinese by our government may have had much to do in precipitating this unfortunate disturbance. Should the Chinese government pass a law excluding all Americans from the Celestial Empire, or compelling others to remain during their natural lives, it would be considered a grave violation of that international comity which is supposed to exist between the great nations of the world. The Chinese exclusion act is, in our judgment, unwise and impolitic; if for no other reason, that it necessarily retards the progress of our missionary work, the spread of the Gospel and the salvation of men.

—The colored clergymen of Charlotte, N. C., are getting together for aggressive Christian work. A Ministerial Union has been organized and it is proposed to begin immediately a series of meetings looking toward the moral and social elevation of the people, and the advancement of other good causes. Rev. Chauncey I. Withrow, A. B., pastor of Simpson Church, in Charlotte, is one of the prominent leaders of the movement. Other members are: Rev. Drs. D. J. Sanders and R. H. Simmons, Revs. R. D. Davis, C. L. Davis, R. B. Bruce, H. B. Bennett, G. G. Musgraves, D. E. Best, P. H. Williams, A. A. Crooke, G. W. Clinton and J. J. Sharp. A vast amount of good could be accomplished if the clergymen in our large cities would organize after the manner of our Charlotte brethren. United effort on the part of the colored clergy of this land for the uplifting of our people is very greatly needed everywhere.

THE PICTURE OF FREDERICK DOUGLASS.

Dr. Hartzell is offering the picture of Frederick Douglass to our pastors in the South as a premium to aid in raising the collections for the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. He furnishes every pastor with a Dollar Envelope. On the back of this are ten blank spaces for as many ten cent subscriptions, and whoever takes one of these envelopes and raises a dollar, and pays it to the pastor, receives a beautiful picture of Frederick Douglass. Already several hundred pictures have been sent out through the South. We would like to see ten thousand of them in the hands of our boys and girls, and what a tremendous boom this would give to our educational treasury in Cincinnati. We join in the earnest appeal that presiding elders and pastors would co-operate with Dr. Hartzell in this splendid movement.

MORE OF THOSE LITTLE FOXES.

We publish the following letter from one of our most conscientious pastors, withholding his name, the name of his church, and conference, for the reason that the little foxes, and the big ones too, who are such adepts in the art of discouraging their brethren, would not hesitate to compass his removal to less congenial climes should they discover his identity. The letter will only serve to show some of the obstacles that are put in the way of the circulation of the SOUTHWESTERN by these very little men. It is a great pity that such babies are placed into positions where they can do so much mischief. We do not like to believe that the writer of the note has been the subject of persecution because of his zeal for the circulation of his Church paper; but the following looks very much like a premeditated case of bad heart:

"Dear Doctor Hammond—I said in a short letter some time ago, that I wanted to make some suggestions about the SOUTHWESTERN. You have relieved me of that necessity, because I saw in last week's paper an editorial about the "Little Foxes" that suits the case exactly. It has been said to me this year, that fooling with the SOUTHWESTERN was one of the things that hurt me as a presiding elder on ——— District. From the presiding elderate of ——— District, I was appointed to ———. A presiding elder had the boldness to say to me, "Now you see what I said to you about fooling with the SOUTHWESTERN," thus trying to impress me that my removal from the presiding eldership, before I had served the full time, was because I had paid too much attention to the circulation of our paper—the SOUTHWESTERN. In the church to which I was sent, which had the reputation of being one of the strongest and most progressive in the ——— Conference, I was profoundly surprised to find that only one copy of the SOUTHWESTERN was taken. It was yet more surprising to find that the officials were determined not to support the paper. During one of my quarterly meetings I distributed some sample copies and called attention to the SOUTHWESTERN. My presiding elder was present, and positively declined to say anything in its favor, having been impressed, no doubt, that he would lose his official head if he was caught trying to circulate the SOUTHWESTERN. I would not have said anything about this strange indifference had I not seen your editorial in last week's paper on "Those Little Foxes."

Now it is possible that the good brother who wrote the letter last week struck the key-note, so to speak, and has given the reason why the SOUTHWESTERN is so feebly supported in some parts of our patronizing territory. These letters are from reliable men, and furnish a sample of the monumental narrowness of some of the men whom the Church has constituted agents for the circulation of our literature. We have been wondering why the SOUTHWESTERN, with a constituency of more than 200,000, could have less than 6000 subscribers. These letters bring out the true facts. The little foxes are destroying the vines. They are absolutely prohibiting the people from reading our paper, and terrorizing and intimidating our faithful pastors from rendering honest and loyal service to the Church, with threats of poor appointments, unpopularity with the powers, etc.

Brethren who desire to take an interest in the SOUTHWESTERN need not fear. It is growing to be more and more the people's journal, more and more it is coming into popular favor—and he will be considered, in the very near future, a confirmed fossil who considers it "fooling away" time to help increase the circulation of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Meanwhile, let our friends rally for God and the Church, "In meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth, and that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil who are taken captive by him at his will." [See 2 Timothy 2—25-26.]

GLORIOUS NEWS.

The following special to the Times-Democrat (New Orleans) from Richmond, Va., made our hearts rejoice:

"RICHMOND, June 13.—The employment by Christian & Christian, a leading law firm here, of a Negro stenographer and typewriter, has called forth very general criticism. Ex-Judge George L. Christian, the head of this firm, is president of the Chamber of Commerce, president of the National Bank of Virginia, and one of the most influential citizens here. The labor journals and labor leaders have subjected the Messrs. Christian to severe criticism on account of their giving employment in a semi-confidential way to the Negro. These gentlemen say the Negro came to them as an office boy, and by studious habits and industry fitted himself to do stenography and typewriting work. In concluding a newspaper card defending their position Messrs. Christian & Christian says: 'Since the colored stenographer now suits us in all respects better than any one else we know of, and as it would be an injustice to him to discharge him for no fault of his, we propose to continue to employ him as long as he suits us. If any one thinks less of us for pursuing this course we regret it, but their opinion of us about this will not affect our conduct in the slightest degree.' The Stenographers' Associations and the labor organizations are denouncing the course of the firm."

The courageous stand taken by the brave Ex-Judge Christian and partner is worthy of emulation. It is evidence that white employers, if they have the moral courage, can recognize and employ efficient colored help if they so elect. There has already been too much catering to the prejudices of these labor unions, whose edicts against the colored man, "for no fault of his," should merit the contempt of all good citizens. We sincerely hope the black man will keep out of these labor unions, nearly all of which are ready to strike him down when he aspires to any position of responsibility. Would that our Christian white employers everywhere could have the courage of this Richmond law firm, who employed the black man because he suited them in all respects, and because they felt that it would be an injustice to discharge him in obedience to the clamor of heartless labor organizations. The Negro is coming up through great tribulations, but coming nevertheless. This boy, by studious habits and industry, won the confidence of his employers. Others can do the same, if allowed a chance. Pass this around.

NO TINKERS WANTED.

Let our preachers bear in mind that the General Conference is the only body having power to order a change in our rules. The Discipline of the Church, in the hands of a Methodist preacher, means that he is to study our rules, to know them, and keep them for conscience sake. The moment he breaks them or undertakes to mend them, he becomes a tinker. Remember, brethren, the old Wesleyan injunction: "Do not mend our rules, but keep them." The tinker is abroad.

TOBACCO MUST GO.

Dr. Bashford, the president, and the faculty of the Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, Ohio, have decreed that the use of tobacco by the students of this institution shall be rigidly and strictly prohibited. This is a bold move, and it will require no small amount of moral courage and college discipline to enforce the order. But good people everywhere will rejoice, that one great American university has the courage to raise the standard of absolute cleanliness, and to break from the traditional heresy that tobacco-using among students in our home and foreign universities is conducive to mental development. On the contrary, the facts are that the use of this narcotic not only reduces the standard of scholarship but retards the moral and physical growth of the student.

—Wilberforce University, near Xenia, Ohio, is an institution of the African M. E. Church. The trustees and faculty have a pardonable ambition to make it, as it deserves, one of the most prominent places of learning in the country. At a recent meeting of the board, it conferred the honorary degree of "LL. D." upon President Olevelaud, who has favored the institution by detailing a young colored man, whom he had appointed a lieutenant, as special instructor in military tactics at the University, and also in the appointment of a postmaster at Wilberforce, Ohio. The president declined the proffered honor, giving as a reason that he had declined a similar honor from one of the great universities controlled by white men, and he thought it but consistent to adhere to that course.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

The Methodist Preachers' Meeting last week took high grounds upon the Sunday closing law, and passed strong resolutions endorsing the efforts which are being put forth by the officers of the law and the friends of the Sabbath for its enforcement. The following resolution is expressive of their unanimous sentiment:

"Resolved, That in their efforts to enforce the Sunday law in this city, the mayor and chief of police, with all who are seeking its enforcement, have the earnest prayers of this meeting that their efforts may be crowned with success."

This resolution was ordered signed by Revs. Montgomery, Taylor, Price, Harris, Priestley, D. G. Butler, W. R. Butler, Johnson, Fields, Walker, Monroe, Harvey, Richard, Landry, Albert, Hammond, Marshall, and others.

Resolutions concerning the death of the late Rev. W. P. Forrest were adopted, and a committee appointed to arrange for a memorial service at Wesley Chapel, at 2 p. m., July 4. The Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN taught the Sunday School lesson, and remarks on the same were made by Dr. A. E. P. Albert.

On Sunday night interesting services were held at Williams' Chapel. The principal feature was the unveiling and presentation to the church of a beautiful pulpit set, by the Pulpit League of the church. The Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN preached a brief sermon, after which quite an interesting presentation address was made by Miss Ora Wilson. A brief response followed by the president of the Board of Trustees. The Pulpit League is a unique organization, and has already made itself felt in pushing forward the interests of the church. It is composed of some of the most progressive members of the church. Mrs. Sarah Robinson, the president, is splendidly equipped for the position, having already presented a handsome purse to the trustees.

Rev. William P. Forrest.

There passed away from his home, in Carrollton, Saturday, June 16, an old landmark among the colored people of New Orleans, in the person of the Rev. Wm. P. Forrest. His funeral, which was one of the largest ever held in that section of the city, took place Sunday, June 17, at Haven M. E. Church, and he was laid to rest in the Carrollton Cemetery. Among the ministers present were the Revs. W. S. Harris, Stephen Priestley, Charles Monroe, Henry Taylor, Samuel Bell, David Young, Thos. Pye, Burnett Brown, T. G. Montgomery, L. G. Adkinsen, D. D., and A. E. P. Albert, D. D. Nearly all the ministers present either acted as pallbearers or officiated in the services.

The following sketch was read by the Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., presiding elder of the North New Orleans District:

"The great God of our fathers buries his workmen and carries on his work by others whom he calls to fill their places. We mourn to-day the removal of one of the most heroic of that race of giants that composed and organized the Louisiana Annual Conference in 1869, when it was separated from the Mississippi Mission Conference, of which it was a part, from its organization, December 25, 1865, until January, 1869.

"Of the eighteen men, twelve colored and six white brethren, that organized the second Christmas conference at Wesley Chapel, in this city thirty years, a generation, ago, not one remains in our effective work; and only our venerable Emperor Williams remains in the land of the living among us, and that upon our superannuated roll, leaning wearily upon his staff and pronouncing benediction upon those whom God has reared to fill the places that he and all the fathers filled.

"The Rev. Wm. P. Forrest, the subject of this sketch, was not one of the original eighteen that organized the mission in 1865, but was one of the thirty-seven that received appointments from the Louisiana Conference after its organization, January, 1869. Of these only one remains in our effective ranks, the Rev. Abram Hilton; three others, Revs. Emperor Williams, Samuel Armstead and John Sparks, loiter behind upon our superannuated roll, while two or three others have moved into other parts of the world, 'but the greater part have fallen asleep,' The thirty-seven, nearly all of whom have departed and are with Christ, which is far better, have been succeeded by 177 of their loyal sons, that are now doing the work assigned them by the last session of our conference.

"He whom we mourn was admitted into the Louisiana Annual Conference January 14, 1869, twenty-four years, five months and one day, to this day of his glorious translation yesterday at high 12; and as he often prophesized, he was 'not superannuated nor located, but high-cated.' He has gone up on high to join his faithful co laborers that preceded him out of the kingdom of grace into the kingdom of glory.

"It is difficult to realize that Wm. P. Forrest is gone, and will no more move and impress his presence and individuality among us, nor answer our next conference roll. It is difficult to realize that the manly and towering Forrest, the great and remarkable preacher, the giant that moved the multitude, and that at times swayed our congregation with the majesty and sublimity of his eloquence, as a forest lashed by a mighty wind, is gone from us forever. He has answered the other roll—the roll of the just men made perfect; and we shall never see him nor his like again till we meet before the throne of God.

"Rev. Wm. P. Forrest was a native of North Carolina, where he was born about 75 years ago. He was brought to this city when a young man, over fifty years ago, and soon gave his heart to God and united with that band of faithful disciples in the old Gravier Street Church, out of which old Wesley Chapel sprung, and in which he took part and prominence in his early manhood. A year or two before the war he joined the A. M. E. Church and became a member of St. James A. M. E. Church, and in process of time he was ordained a deacon in that church; but so soon as the Mississippi Mission Conference was organized in December, 1865, he began to debate in his mind the question of his return to his first love, and January 14, 1869, he was admitted by Bishop Simpson and recognized as a deacon in the Louisiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which he was spiritually born, and out of whose ministry, after nearly twenty-five years of ceaseless service, he passes from labor to reward. He was ordained to elders' orders by Bishop Levi Scott, December, 1870, in a class of six, only two of whom remain, viz: Revs. J. C. Hartzell, D. D., and Abram Hilton.

"During the years of his ministry Brother Forrest served the following appointments: Gretna and Campbell Chapel, 1869-70; Union Bethel, 1871; Franklin, 1872-74; Cypremont, 1875; Clinton Street (now Williams' Chapel), 1876-77; Simpson Chapel, 1878-79; Baton Rouge, 1880; Red River Landing, 1881; Clinton, 1882-83; Pleasant Plains, 1884-85; Fairfield, 1886; St. Charles, 1887-88; St. Matthew, 1889-90; Thompson, 1891; Camp Parapet, 1892-93; Haven, 1894-95. From all these places multitudes of precious souls, whom he called to the knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus, have entered into rest, and his good works therein will continue to follow him long after he shall have legan to wear the well-won crown which the righteous Judge has promised him and all that love the appearance of the Son."

A number of extracts from an amusing Japanese "Life of General Grant" will be printed in the July Century. The book was written and circulated soon after General Grant's tour around the world. The author has the highest admiration for the soldier and statesman—this "Heaven-bestowed wise man"—and he expresses it with true Oriental impressiveness.

The complete novel in the July issue of Lippincott's is "A Social Highwayman," by Elizabeth Phipps Train. Francis Lynde furnishes a tale of the West, "The Strike in Pinon Gulch." "The Whole Duty of Woman, as Understood by Man in the Fourteenth Century," is an interesting paper by Emily B. Stone.

The Intensity of Our Times.

An Address Before the Graduating Class of Meharry College, Nashville, Tenn.

By Rev. B. F. Rawlins. D. D. Assistant Editor Western Christian Advocate.

In Three Parts—Part 3.

My limits will not permit me to make allusion to more than one other matter, amid the many that press for utterance on an occasion like this. I shall speak boldly.

I think too much has been done for the red man and too little for the black man in this country.

If the American Indian has ever been of any advantage to any body upon the globe, I am not aware of the fact. If he has ever helped on any civilization, I know it not. In this, his native country, possessed from a time when his right there was none to dispute, has he ever helped to lay a rail, or stretch a wire, or build a fence, or raise a cereal, or put up a boat, a school-house or church? Has he not fought civilization from its appearance on the continent? And the most he has ever been remarkable for, aside from his barbarism, has been his unique talent to get money and clothes and food from the government and from our missionary societies.

It seems to be an eternal law of Providence, administered toward men from the beginning, to take from those who have and improve not, and our Indians are likely to be the largest illustration of that law.

The Indian is the farthest down in the scale of human degradation. He is at the nepins ultra—unless a lost link may be found by which he may pass over into the brute creation. And I should think if there is a bridge by which living things can pass one way, that they can pass the other also, and reciprocity kept up!

As a race the Indian is utterly beyond redemption. In whole tribes of them there is not residuum enough left to make one good American citizen, unless there be a few who might be sent to Congress or the neighboring legislatures!

And yet our government is annually spending millions upon this worthless life. The proposed annual appropriation is now near seven millions less, the chairman tells us, than former appropriations.

But what about the black man? Has he helped on the cause of progress? Has he built roads and stretched wires, and planted fields, and raised rice and corn and cotton, and hogs and cattle, and horses and mules? Has he paved our streets and built our railroads? Is there any estimation that can be made of the millions of wealth he has created, or of the happiness he has brought to so many homes of this great land?

And has he ever been treacherous like the Indian? When all Southern homes in the war were left in his care, was he unfaithful? And in regard to his fidelity to public trusts, has one ever proved defaulter? A thing of which the white race cannot boast. And as against the Indian, how does the Negro long for advancement, for culture, for the advantages of wealth, for the blessings of home and the happiness of domestic life?

Is the plea, then, a paltry one, that this great government should do something for the black man? If she should stop all her Indian appropriations and give the same amount to the founding of industrial schools all over this Southland for half a century to come, intensity here would soon have a different taste, and this beautiful land would blossom as Eden.

We note, lastly, that one of the most remarkable things about this intensity is that it is to have no abatement. On the other hand, I think it will be marked by a gradual and steady increase. As a force, it is as persistent as gravitation. As a human force, unlike gravitation, it possesses a cumulative power. Its development is the law of God's natural dispensations. It is pre-eminently the law in the kingdom of grace. Moreover as Browning says:

> "Progress is man's distinctive work alone;
> Not God's, and not the beast's; God is; they are;
> Man partly is, and wholly hopes to be."

Lift up your minds to the greatness of that progress as it shall be witnessed among us. Our country will grow with the multiplication of the human race and with its rapid development in all its material and moral and intellectual conditions. We may no more expect that the tide of human affairs will be turned back than the waters of the Mississippi. We believe the human race is now marching more steadily to its goal than ever in its long journey; and our country will become greater and greater, in population, in industry, in development, in education, in civilization, in all the refinements of improvement; so that the intensity of life that is to be seen here surpasses all conjecture. A hundred years hence intellectual hunger in this land will be a hundred-fold stronger than now. This increase of our intensity, coming in from all sources like the thousand rivulets that swell a great river, would be appalling to contemplate, except in connection with an increase of morality and religion, and a civic economy that shall be the true corelative of such advanced life. The great demand, the loud summons, that comes to the oncoming generation is to move on to those times with a complete equipment and undaunted spirit.

Gentlemen of the graduating class, there is intensity in this hour for you. I give you words of heartiest congratulations! This immense audience of people of all shades congratulates you!

With your equipment, aim at none but the highest attainments. All over this world it is skill that attracts and commands respect. A dying man will not ask whether a white or a black physician stands at his bedside, but he will ask, "Is he competent?"

Many of your race have already demonstrated the capacity of the race. Many of your race are in highest places of honor—and for their attainments command the respect of men. I think of Blyden, one of the greatest scholars of this age, sitting at the Court of St. James, and of Douglass, and of others, each one of whom raises your race one notch higher in the estimation of mankind.

How it will help your race in this country, and before all the world, if it can be said: "The greatest orator, the greatest preacher, the greatest scholar, the greatest physician in America, is a colored man!

And now, ardently wishing for you each, personally, the greatest success, and in the name of these teachers with whom you have long been associated, who have sought to fit you for the most important professional duties that come to any class of men—and in the name of this great representative audience I dismiss you to the trials of your calling. "Quit you like men."

[CONCLUDED.]

A Chance for Women to Make Money!

I saw one of your subscribers tell in your columns a few weeks ago how she made money selling Dish Washers. I wrote to the Iron City Dish Washer Co., 145 S. Highland Ave., Station A, Pittsburg, Pa., and obtained one of their Disher Washers and tried it myself first. It is just lovely; you can wash and dry the dishes for a family in two minutes, without touching your hands to a dish or putting them in hot water. I made the first day $5, and everybody wanted a Dish Washer just as soon as they saw me wash their dishes. Since then I have made as high as $18 a day, and I believe that I can get enough money to keep my brother at school next winter and have money in the bank too. Any lady or gentleman can do as well as I am doing, I am sure, as I had no experience. When everybody wants to buy, it is not hard to sell. Anyone can get information by writing the above firm, and I am glad to add my experience, because I think it is my duty to others to help them over the hard times. MARTHA FRANCIS.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Ten Commandments.

(Exod. 20. 1-17.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself." (Luke 10. 27.)

Our last lesson in the Old Testament, just twelve months ago, gave an account of the Israelites crossing the Red Sea. When they saw their enemies were drowned in the sea they sang a psalm of thanksgiving, Miriam and "all the women," with timbrels and dances, responded to the song. Then began their march towards Sinai. Their course was southeast. They murmured for bread. Manna and quails were sent. They complained for water. The Rock was smitten and the water gushed forth. Amalek was overcome. Jethro brought to Moses his wife and two sons. In the third month Sinai was reached. All "Israel camped before the mountain," bounds were set about it, and no one was allowed to touch it. On the morning of the third day "There were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud." The people trembled. They were brought forth out of their camps. Jehovah came down upon the top of the mount. The Ten "Words" were spoken by the Lord direct, or through the instrumentality of angels. They were afterwards written on two tablets of stone and given to the people. On one table was four commandments, and on the other, six. The first table taught man's duty to God, and the second, man's duty to man.

The first Commandment—"Thou shalt have no other gods before Me." This precept is against mental idolatry. It is emphatic, and spoken in the singular number. It comes direct to the heart of each individual, saying, "Thou art the man." It condemns the proud man who idolizes himself; the ambitious man who pays homage to popular applause; the covetous man who deifies his wealth; the sensualist who lives to gratify his appetites; and the lover who dotes on parents, companion, children or friends.

The second commandment—"Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image." We are here forbidden to make any gods like any thing in "heaven above." Like any fowl of the air. The Egyptians worshiped the crane, the stork, and the hawk. Or like any thing "in the earth beneath." Like any beast of the field. The people they had just left deified the ox and the heifer. Or like any thing "that is in the water under the earth." The crocodile, the serpent, and the beetle, were worshipped by the Egyptians. They are also forbidden to worship an image of any kind, whether made by themselves or any other creature. The heavenly bodies were deified by many nations. But they are here told not to bow before, pay homage to, or in any way serve an idol. It is sinful to break this commandment. Idol worship makes the heart bad. This evil may be inherited by our children. Things peculiar to the soul, same as those that belong to the body, may be imparted to our posterity. If we keep this precept God will "show mercy," and bestow blessings upon us. "Judgment is His strange work, while mercy is His delight." Vice will be punished and virtue rewarded in this world and in the world to come. The Roman Catholic Church, in order to countenance image worship, has left the whole of this second commandment out of the decalogue.

The third commandment—"Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." The names of God largely reveal His character. We may use them in a thoughtful, reverent way, in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. We must not use His name in false, or vain swearing. To be profane is to be coarse, ungrateful, and vicious. Let no one suppose because this sin is so easily committed that it will be lightly punished. It has often been followed by sudden marks of divine wrath. Men have fallen dead while asking God to curse them.

The fourth commandment—"Thou shalt remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." The word remember implies a previous knowledge of that day. It was well known to the Israelites before it was embodied in the decalogue. The word Sabbath means rest. It was set apart by Deity at the close of the creation of the world. It is a type of the heavenly rest that awaits the finally faithful. We keep it holy by doing no ordinary work on that day, and by devoting it to the service of God. Works of necessity, charity, and devotion, may be done on the Sabbath day. The man who does not work during the week is as much a violater of God's law as the one who works on the Sabbath.

The fifth commandment—"Honor thy father and thy mother." With this begins the precepts of the second table. It is "the first commandment with promise." We honor our parents by obeying them when we are children; by respecting their ways and opinions when we are in middle life; and by providing for them when they are old. To keep this commandment is to lengthen thy life, and to break it is to shorten thy days.

The sixth commandment—"Thou shalt not kill." Life is the most precious gift of God. It should be held in very high esteem. This precept forbids—murder; all passions which may lead to murder; all business which destroys life; all employments and amusements which endanger the life; and all evil habits which tend to shorten one's days. It should be interpreted in the light of other laws that allow the taking of life in self-defense; or for crime after due trial; or the waging of just wars.

The seventh commandment—"Thou shalt not commit adultery." Next to the protection of life is the protection of character. Pure, peaceful and healthful life depends upon an inviolate marriage relation, and well ordered homes. This precept forbids the cherishing of a corrupt, debasing imagination; all amusements which would promote an undue familiarity between the sex; the reading of books and periodicals which lead to improper thoughts; all pictures that foster social immorality; all styles of dress that unduly expose the person; and all conversation, and jesting, which by a double meaning of words, awaken impure suggestions.

The eighth commandment—"Thou shalt not steal." This precept protects the property. It forbids fraudulent dealing; making debts without a probability of paying them; charging unjust prices; controling markets by strategem; entering into combinations to raise or depress wages; taking unjust advantage of insolvent laws; lending money on unlawful interest; unnecessary subsistance on charity; evading the duties of tax imported by law; using false weights and measures; removing landmarks; keeping wages of servants; and withholding restitution from men wronged.

The ninth commandment—"Thou shalt not bear false witness." This precept is the law of love as it respects our neighbor's interest. It forbids false swearing in courts of justice; the malicious inventions and circulation of slanderous reports; the spread of stories which others have formed to the discredit of our neighbor; the ascribing of good actions to bad motives; political lying; hypocritical compliments; keeping back a part of the truth; highly coloring facts; false promises; and stating truth out of its connections, so that a false impression is made.

The tenth commandment—"Thou shalt not covet." This precept goes back of the words and deeds to the thoughts. It teaches that the source from which the emotions and desires spring should be pure. In the design lays the moral quality of the act. This commandment puts a fence about all the others. Many vices arise from the unrestrained desire to possess that which belongs to another. The world covets riches, honor, and earthly happiness.

Here is a Letter,

just one out of hundreds that are coming in every day. We publish it for the benefit of the women who read about Pearline, but who still keep on washing without it, in that needlessly hard and wearing way. We omit name and address, as requested:

"Now I will tell you how I came to use your PEARLINE. We have taken the 'Ladies' Home Journal' for several years. Three and a half years ago, every time I picked up my 'Journal' to read, the first thing I would see was your advertisement and picture of PEARLINE. I got so tired of looking at it, that I said I would get a package and try it. The result was, when the package was gone I bought another package, and so I have done ever since. I never think of going to wash clothes since, without my PEARLINE. I have recommended it to quite a number of people, who are now using it, just from my recommendation. I have just written this to you to let you know how highly I prize it. I don't want my name and address to go before the public." 424

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Navasota District.

I am indeed pleased to report a degree of progress on the district, on my second round, beginning at Navasota I found matters in a fair shape for work. Brother Lee hopes to continue his new church soon. Navasota Circuit, under the management of Brother Muldrew, is not making the progress desired, but there is hopes of better times in the future. Anderson is lead by Brother Tillory. He is doing an excellent work. Brother Gilmore, at Millican, is steadily gaining ground and he has the people close to him. Brother Loggins starts off well at Yarborough, and is hopeful of success. We found Brother Blakeney busily engaged at Bryan, and he has won the hearts of his people. Bryan Circuit is supplied by Brother Reddick, who is not doing the best, though he hopes to do well. Caldwell Circuit has Brother McKenzie as a leader, who hopes do well. Caldwell and Lyons have Brother Ewing as their leader and he is hopeful of pulling through in good shape. At Courtney I found Brother Josey doing what he could; he hopes to build a church in Courtney this year. I found Brother Ferlson holding things steady at Hempstead, and has matters well in hand. Brother Jenkins started off well at Bellville, and success is sure if he keeps his course. At Hockley I found Brother Cozier earnestly engaged in his work. He has lumber on the ground to build a church, and we certainly need one there. At Brenham Brother Cole is hopeful of doing a good year's work. I found Brother Neely at Brenham Circuit, and he is moving slowly; his age prevents him from doing what he might do. Brother Watson, on the Sealy Circuit, is stirring up things generally on his work; he has had thirteen conversions, and added them and more to his churches. At Waller Circuit Brother Felder was supplied, but he has not been to Waller this year; through me, Brother Cozier has been sending Brother Burton, a local preacher, every Sabbath. The indications for a church there are good, having just received the deeds and they are being recorded. Bro. Gill is still holding his own on Hempstead Circuit, and he hopes to do better than he did last year.

Brethren, bring up your full assessments; leave no stone unturned. Remember, your appointments depend upon your success. Help your people by insisting upon them to take the SOUTHWESTERN—this will help you much. Yours, in Christ, W. L. DUNCAN, P. E.

Meridian District.

Brethren—Remember, every quarterly conference member is to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN by the third quarter and to get as many members to take it as possible. The Preachers' Institute, for unavoidable reasons, has been postponed, and will convene in Meridian, October 7, and hold one week. Dr. Mason will be present to represent the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. Let every dollar of benevolent assessments be collected by October 31.

A. M. TROTTER, P. E.

Houston District.

The district conference will convene September 3, at Houston, in St. James M. E. Church. This conference is composed of the traveling preachers, local preachers, exhorters, one class leader, steward, S. S. superintendent and Epworth League president from each charge on the district. We hope to see the largest and most enthusiastic attendance in the history of the district. WM. BARTLEY, P. E.

St Louis District.

To the Pastors.—Begin on your benevolences at once. Our collections the past year were exceedingly small. Let us do better this year. District conference opens Sept. 3 at 9:30 a. m., at Bridgeton, and will continue over the following Sunday. You are expected to be present.

Our Marshall (Texas) Letter.

Allow me space for a few lines in your much valued paper to thank my many teachers of Ebenezer M. E. Sunday School for their magnificent gift. On Sunday, June 2, 1895, the writer was taken in utter surprise. Just on the verge of closing the Sunday School my attention was called by Miss Adella Ripetoe, one of my teachers, who, on behalf of the teachers, came forward and read a few resolutions, commending me on my graduation at Wiley and my loyalty to the Church. The resolutions were strong, thus reaffirming their support to me as superintendent; after which Mrs. Mary A. Johnson came forward, on behalf of the teachers and officers, and in a few well chosen remarks presented the writer with a gold writing pen with a pearl handle, with the initials "S. S. R." I have never been so greatly surprised in my life. In thanking my officers and teachers for said present, permit me to say: "I receive and accept with much pleasure your elegant gift, because the pen in itself is one of rare value, which I shall highly prize; and also, because it comes to me as a token of your appreciation of my efforts since I've had the pleasure of being your superintendent. May God continue to bless you all abundantly." Faithfully your servant,

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR. NEW ORLEANS, JULY 4, 1895.—Vol. 30. No. 27. HUNT & EATON, PUBLISHERS.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

TO CORRESPONDENTS—We have an immense volume of interesting matter for publication, with but little space. Let all have patience, and be ready for the good things to come.

—Miss L. E. Alton, one of our most prominent young ladies, and thoroughly devoted to Sunday School work of First Street M. E. Church, gave the office a most pleasant call last week.

—Mr. Beaconsfield Landry, the promising son of Rev. Pierre Landry of the Louisiana Conference, has returned home after spending two years at Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., where he is pursuing an English course.

—The Educator, published by Morgan College, Baltimore, is a wide-awake monthly pamphlet, designed to advance the interests of the splendid institution which it represents, and to diffuse general information concerning the work of the Church. It is nicely gotten up, ably edited, and deserves liberal patronage. Dr. F. J. Wagner, the able and efficient president, is editor.

—One of the gratifying proofs that John Wesley's motto, "All at it, and always at it," is being appreciated by other denominations, is found in the work of the School for Christian Workers, Springfield, Mass., whose ninth commencement was held on June 11. While interdenominational in its faculty and aims, it strives to bring into fullest and most efficient activity Christian young men and women as lay workers. The emphasis laid upon the Bible in this instruction, where two instructors give most of their time to the work, is one of the strong features of the school. So, also, is the efficient instruction given by Dr. Poole and his assistant in physical culture. The exhibition of the physical department was one of the most pleasing and striking features of the week.

—Lynching goes on apace. People in and around the beautiful little town of Brookhaven, Miss., have disgraced its fair name by lynching a Negro. Suppose the crime for which the Negro was arrested was an aggravated one; possibly there was a confession. None of these things are more aggravated than the reckless violation of the law which gives every offender the right of a fair and an impartial trial. Hot-headed citizens, like unto those who lynched the Negro, are doing herculean work in keeping a better class of citizens out of our Southland.

Later reports have it that the lady who was the victim of the attempted outrage was blind, and that when the prisoner was brought before her she recognized his voice, and made correct statements as to his size, etc. This puts another phase on the outrage business, and makes the lynching of Negroes a little more plausible since it is not necessary for persons to see those who make these cruel assaults. An idea of the tones of the voice, or a fair guess at the size of the would-be ravishers, is all that is required. This is one of the most dangerous developments of the lynching mania—dangerous because it at once dispenses of the prima facia and circumstantial evidences required in cases of trial, and places human life upon the mere mental condition of the person supposed to have been outraged. Under such conditions it is probable that the craziness of lynching will be attended with less trouble.

A RELIGION NOT ENTITLED TO RESPECT.

"I have no respect for that so-called religion that only can praise a man for carrying the religion of Christ to Africa, and ostracises a man for doing the same work among the same people here in America."

So said Bishop Galloway, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, during his great sermon before the International Epworth Conference at Chattanooga, Tenn. They are brave words. Indeed they are right words; and if we correctly understand the word of truth, they are in perfect harmony with its great statements.

There are people here, and, doubtless, there were some among the bishop's hearers, who are not without fault in this matter. We could mention scores of instances which have come under our notice, where intelligent and consecrated Christian white people have been treated with the most marked contempt by their white fellow-Christians, for no other reason than that they taught Negro children in the Sunday or day school, or that they have labored to better their moral condition. We know a score of pastors, not a thousand miles from this office, who have not considered it a part of their Christian duty to look after the salvation of the black sinners at their doors, who would not invite one of them into their Sunday Schools, or visit one of their homes for religious instruction, though it might be only to tell the "old, old story" to even a dying Negro.

We know of a score of churches, not a thousand miles from this office, whose doors are hermetically sealed against the descendants of Africa's stolen sons; while their clergymen, with tender voice and holy mien, pray "Thy Kingdom come," yet deny to the humblest and neediest of the subjects of that kingdom the crumbs which from their tables fall.

Bishop Galloway is a man of wide experience, keen judgment, and fearless in the expression of his views on this and kindred subjects. We agree with him, that a person is hardly entitled to respect who cannot recognize the rights of his fellow-men whether in Africa or America.

—"Principal Booker T. Washington, of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, has been spending several weeks with the members of the senior class visiting country places, with the purpose of studying men. Each member of the class has gone into the country and studied a family, finding out the age of each, whether in debt or free from debt, whether the crop is mortgaged, whether the land is owned or rented; how many acres are cultivated; the kinds of crops raised, the kind of food consumed; the number of fowls, cattle, pigs, etc., the educational condition and opportunities, and the moral and religious state. The course of study, it is said, has proved interesting and profitable."—Independent.

Principal Washington's plan might be followed by other principals in the Southland with very gratifying results. This "purpose of studying men" is in keeping with the spirit of the world's best progress. That old axiom, "The proper study of mankind is man," is especially pertinent to the teachers of our Negro schools. A little more is required than the mere routine of the school room. It is not enough that the text books are mastered, and that the pupil is familiar with the various branches of study in the curriculum. He should be taught to study himself; to know his possibilities and adaptabilities, his weak and his strong powers; and, in fact, all that pertains to his development into well rounded manhood. To the earnest, faithful, loving teacher this is indeed a delightful task, and one which gives promise of splendid results. Study your man.

DOINGS OF THE HEATHEN.

This time in Louisiana—from Breaux Bridge comes the special: "A Negro attempted to shake hands with one of the chivalric white men of that place, for which offense he was visited by a vigilance committee and severely beaten.

It is reported that at Portland, Ark., Rev. Frank King, colored, became infatuated with Deacon William Toney's wife and trouble arose between them. When they met on the street the preacher pulled a pistol and shot the deacon in the abdomen. King was locked up, and after dark a mob of infuriated Negroes repaired to the lockup, took King to a tree and lynched him.

A recent special from Ellaville, Fla., states that Henry Fox, colored, strangled and criminally assaulted a little girl nine years old, a relative of his wife. The sheriff pursued, and in attempting an arrest killed the Negro.

Another special states that Jim Sanders, a colored man residing near Martin, Miss., was lynched by a mixed mob of whites and blacks for committing a horrible crime, of which his own daughter was the victim.

Rev. Mr. Kelly, a white minister of the Gospel, who felt called upon to preach to the poor colored people living in the vicinity of Tuskegee, Ala., was visited by several of the white citizens of the town and ordered to leave at once. The dispatches do not say whether the "best citizens" of the town made any provisions for one of their own race to continue the meetings among the colored people. Judging from the manner in which the colored people are treated by the so-called "best white citizens" in other places not a thousand miles from Tuskegee, we are of the opinion they they cared no more for the salvation of the Negro than they would for a dog.

—"This week comes the culmination of the college commencements, and with it an unusual eruption of childishness in the way of college millinery. It has even got into the rural colleges, like Cornell and Hamilton. We need to get rid of medievalism in dress and curriculum in order to get rid of medievalism in manners. Nowhere else is the rowdyism or the attire of the eighteenth century a survival in our schools and young life except in colleges."—Independent.

The Independent hits the nail squarely on the head in the above excerpt. Our college commencements are losing much of their old-time simplicity and effectiveness, and are becoming more and more like mere dress parades. It should be remembered that only a few years have elapsed since our people were permitted to participate in these interesting exercises. Through many trials and privations parents were able to keep their children in college for the term. It was a matter of profound joy that they could, with the assistance of benevolent friends, make this desired consummation possible. Our gradnates, as a rule, have not been afflicted with overmuch "college millinery." The dresses were noted for their simplicity, and impressed those who contributed toward the maintenance of our institutions very favorably toward the self-sacrificing parents, and their children who were students. We have heard, however, of more than one instance where the cost of a girl graduate's dress aggregated fifty dollars. To this must be added the expenses of a hack and an after-gradnate party, making the expenditures of a poor girl and of poor parents unnecessarily great. We fear there is a tendency to loud and expensive dresses on these occasions, and our college presidents and others should discourage it by every means in their power. By far the most of the people who attend these exercises are much more pleased with the thoroughness of the training of pupils, than at the expensive and gaudy dresses of the graduates.

ECHOES FROM CHILDREN'S DAY.

—Sarah Linzey, Heidleberg, Miss, says: "Children's Day was carried out all over this charge. We had good music and several splendid essays. Collection very good."

—L. W. Miles, Powee Valley, Ky.: "We held our first quarterly meeting June 2. Rev. G. A. Sissle, P. E., was with us. Collected $20. Children's day service on the 9th was well attended. Program carried out to the letter. Collected $5 05.

—F. G. Hinton, Hardinsburg, Ky.: "Our Children's Day was a wonderful success. The program was a delightful one, and was carried out to perfection. Collected $7.

—N. Hansom, Christianburg Charge, Va.: "The third quarterly conference, with Presiding Elder W. H. Pleasant in the chair, was a good meeting. Things are moving along nicely and the outlook is promising."

—W. H. Hundley, Pickens, Miss.: "Children's Day was observed at Pickens and at Georgeville. Programs were carried out and exercises excellent. Collected $6.40."

—Wm. White, Black Jack Grove, Tex.: "We had a grand time here on Children's Day."

—J. W. Washington, Vaiden, Miss.: "Our worthy presiding elder, W. E. Mask, was very much pleased to find our work prospering."

—Miss Lilly Gardner, Hubertville, La.: "Boynton M. E. Church observed Children's Day in grand style. We have never witnessed a more interesting exercise for children."

—J. T. Knox, Anguilla, Miss.: "Children's Day was observed here in grand style. Program excellent. Collection, $5.25. Church progressing."

—A. N. Jackson, West Point, Ga.: "The program of Children's Day was well rendered here. We have the banner Sunday School. Collection good."

—Presiding Elder Woods, Adamsville, Tenn.: "Children's Day was grand. The program was the very thing and it took well."

—Simon Atewine, Lonoke, Ark.: "Children's Day was carried out in fine style. We used the 'Golden Gate' program. It was said to have been the grandest day of the times. We are coming. Collected $3.25."

—W. J. Haynes, Walterboro, S. C.: "Children's Day exercises were the grandest ever witnessed in Wesley M. E Church. We had with us several distinguished visitors. Collected $5.62."

—J. R. Reasonover, Petersburg, Tenn.: "Children's Day was one of pleasantness with our Sunday School. The program was carried out to the delight of all who were present. Collected $6.51. One subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN."

—G. W. Nevils, Columbus Circuit, Miss.: "The work is in a prosperous condition. Children's Day was observed on all parts of the work with success. Collection good."

—J. W. Washington, Vaiden Mission: "Children's Day was a grand success. Collected $2 06."

—B. G. Smith, Roanoke, Ala.: "Children's Day was observed. We used the "Golden Gate" program with much success. Collected $2."

—W. A. Kennedy, Heflin, Ala.: "The interesting program for Children's Day was successfully and impressively carried out. Raised $3 63."

—A. A. Lacey, Dulac, La.: "Children's Day was never so grandly carried out before."

—S. McDonald, Cotton Plant, Ark.: "We observed Children's Day with a grand time. It was a happy day for the children."

—J. E. Epperson, Charleston, Texas: "Our Children's Day was a day long to be remembered. The program was carried out as laid down. The church is growing and looking upwards. Raised $2 35.

—Israel C. Rucker, Bowerton, Miss.: "Children's Day was carried out in a sentimental and beautiful manner. Collection very good. The choir, led by Prof. H. H. Lanier, furnished good music. Three subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN."

—J. W. Bassett, Bolton, Miss.: "Children's Day at St. Paul M. E. Church was observed in its beauty and splendor. The guests were somewhat limited on account of rain; but the exercises were grand, filled with both oratory and lessons of practical good. Raised $6 10."

—E. D. Hubbard, Paris, Texas: "Children's Day was a grand one. The program was carried out to the letter. Raised $5. We are moving forward grandly."

—J. Jordan, Jacksonville, Fla.: "Children's Day was a grand day with my people. We had the ladies program and carried it out in full. Raised $10 20."

—J. M. Thompson, Starkville Circuit, Miss.: "Children's Day was truly a great feast. We had an unusually large crowd. Several essays and orations were nicely rendered. Afternoon was verily the type of a model Sunday School exhibition, which was in every respect a feast of reason and flow of souls. The program was thoroughly carried out."

—Wm. L. Amos, Sunflower, La.: "Our Children's Day was duly celebrated with splendid results. The young folks came forward grandly. We had a good time. Raised $1 30."

—D., Clinton, Miss.: "We held Children's Day here according to program. The exercises were grand. Many took part in the very interesting services. Raised $3.

—Wm. H. Wheeler, Columbia, Mo.: "On Children's Day the 'Golden Gate' program was carried out in every detail. The exercises were uplifting and all were highly pleased. Raised $6. The 'Collection Envelopes' helped greatly. St. Luke M. E. Church will be dedicated July 21, 1895."

—G. W. Baker, Hernando, Miss.: "Our Children's Day was a grand success, the program being fully carried out. Our collection was $10. Also, at Loves we had a grand time, and collected $5. We left a good impression on the minds of the older people."

—Miss Mary Moore, Eola, La.: "Children's Day was nicely carried out as per program. My father, W. H. Moore, and Miss Jennie E. Wright conducted the exercises. Raised $2."

—G. W. McMillan, Waynesboro, Miss.: "Children's Day was duly observed at this place. The services were carried out to the delight of all. Collection $6 68. The church was beautifully decorated."

TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

—E. D. Miller of Shelbyville, Ky., writes: "June 9 was our rally day at St. John's Church, at which time the Independent Sons and Daughters of Honor rendered wonderful assistance, with the assistance also of Rev. Fielding of Anchorage and Sister Lewis. We realized $112 75. We hope to worship in our $5000 church this fall."

—Hattiesburg, Miss., H. T. Hampton, pastor: "Quarterly conference was good. Reports showed prosperity. Raised $126."

—From Jefferson, Texas, comes the following news: "The second quarterly conference was held with the Rev. Logan presiding, who also preached for us. Work improving. Collection for presiding elder, $22 30."

—The pastor at Hallettsville, Texas, Rev. J. W. Wenkly, is rejoicing over the wonderful revival in which 21 souls were converted.

—H. T. Hampton, Hattiesburg, Miss., writes: "Quarterly conference held with J. M. Shumpert presiding. Reports show prosperity. Collected $126."

—J. W. Turner of St. Martinsville, La., writes: "The first Sunday in June was a grand day here. The Lord was with us. One hundred and three partook of the Lord's Supper and seven were received into the church. That will run the number up to fifty-three converts this year."

—J. T. Gibbons of Oakland, Texas, writes: "Our second quarterly conference was held May 19-20, by our efficient presiding elder, B. F. Smith. He expressed himself as being highly pleased to see the progressiveness of the work on all lines. Since the first quarter we have built a beautiful new parsonage. Raised one-half of our missionary money. Organized two Epworth League Chapters."

Nervous Prostration
Complete Recovery by the Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

"Look Up, Lift Up."

Conducted by Rev. E. B. Burroughs, Cheraw, S. C.

July 7, 1895.

The Result of the Divine Remonstrance.

Scripture Lesson: Job 42.

"Acquaint thyself with God, thou would'st taste
His works. Admitted once to his embrace,
Thou shalt perceive that thou wast blind before:
Thine eye shall be instructed; and thine heart
Made pure shall relish, with divine delight
Till then unfelt, what hands divine have wrought."

We now come to the end of the beautiful and instructive story of Job. Many are the important lessons therein taught. A careful and prayerful study cannot help but prove highly beneficial.

The wise man says: "Better is the end of a thing than its beginning. So in the case of Job. Through his impatience and the false accusations of his friends, he had been led to charge the Almighty with injustice, and desired that God would reveal Himself unto him in order that with Him he might plead his cause. The Lord at least speaks and makes known His unreasonableness and great wisdom. We learn:

1. That Job sees God. For this he had earnestly prayed: "O, that I know where I might find Him! That I might come even to his seat. I would order my cause before Him, and fill my mouth with arguments." His trial had been a most severe one; yet he bore it with a fortitude highly ominative. The taking away of his property, his children, caused him but little sorrow. "He could even bear that his friends should turn upon him and rend him with their cruel, baseless suspicions. What he could not bear was that God should abandon him." Hence his prayer. And God answers Him "out of the whirlwind, and said, * * * Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou me." Thus Job sees the Almighty and realizes that

"Behind the dim unknown
Standeth God within the shadow,

2. That Job is reconciled to God. This is brought on Job's confessing that he had presumptuously passed judgment on the dispensations of the Almighty. Says Watson: "Job makes no confession of sin. His friends and Elihu, all of whom endeavor to find evil in his life, are entirely at fault. The repentance is not for moral quiet, but for the hasty and venturesome speech that escaped him in the time of trial." Job could now sing:

"How tender is thy hand,
O thou most gracious Lord!
Afflictions came at thy command,

3. That God justifies Job. This is brought about by the reproof given those friends; by God's acknowledging Job as being His true servant; by the friends being commanded to reconcile themselves with God through the intercession of Job; and by the restoration of his earthly property, the same being increased to twice as much as he had before.

"Job has at last learned his lesson. He cannot comprehend any of the wonders which Jehovah has wrought. He cannot understand the brute world. How much less the ways and works and person of the infinite and eternal God. Even his integrity is not any cause for boasting, and there is nothing in it that entitles him to pride. 'The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.' Hence he and all other men owe their integrity not to themselves, but to heaven. No conclusion of the peace would be counted satisfactory that did not state that the great desire of Job in all his lament was finally satisfied."—Schell.

The Onward March.

The growth of the Epworth League during the six years of its existence presents some interesting figures. At the end of the first year it was estimated that there were 1820 chapters enrolled. By the end of the second year the number increased to 5602. A year later it was 8102. After four years, 10,200. Last year the total was 12,514. General Secretary Schell informs under date of May 20 that the total enrollment is now 14,763 Senior chapters and 3693 Junior chapters. General Secretary Steel, of the League of the Church South, reports 1375 Senior and 75 Junior chapters to date. The latest figures from Dr. Withrow, secretary of the League of the Canadian Church, are not at hand.

"When I Was in College."

In conversation and public addresses some persons are very fond of telling what occurred "when I was in college." They seem anxious that everyone should know that they really went to college and have a vast amount of learning stored up in their craniums. But that sort of talk impresses no one. This age is not asking, "Where did you study, when did you graduate, or what titular appendix has been tacked to your name?" The question is, "What have you learned, what do you know, what can you do?"—Epworth Herald.

"Push."

I saw it on the door-plate as we entered the house. It was cut in letters of brass; big, bold, unmistakable. Here, young man, do you know how to get along in the world? The secret is in that word Push. The door of opportunity will confront you a thousand times, but it may not stand open. On its front will be carved the heroic word Push. Only effort will open it. If you stand idly by, some other will go ahead and win the prize you might have taken. Energy, enterprise, self-reliance, stalwart purpose, all are rolled up in that big, little word, Push.—Epworth Era.

—Dr. Hartzell writes: "One of the leading colored ministers, in writing from Texas, says: 'Some of our presiding elders and preachers in charge are saying that we, the colored people, are doing all we can, and they have been saying it for years; but I am placed where I can see for myself, and I can say it, and tell the truth in the matter, that we are not doing our best in this matter of education. We have some preachers who are always making excuses for the people, instead of urging them up to duty. I have made up my mind to get our people to give more to God's cause and less to the world. We have some wealthy people among us who ought to do more for education. My dear doctor, in your addresses before the conferences and other bodies, please don't make any excuses for my people. This is hurting us as preachers. I know whereof I speak. My heart is with you in the work.'"

Pine Bluff District.

Pine Bluff District Conference, of the Little Rock Annual Conference, will convene in Newman's Chapel, Altheimer, Ark., Sept. 12, at 9 a. m. All pastors, with their local preachers, exhorters, presidents of Epworth League chapters, Sunday school superintendents, district stewards and class leaders are expected with full reports pertaining to their particular sphere of work.

Dear Brethren, now is your time to show yourselves men of God, who are worthy of such sacred trusts as are imposed upon you as Methodist preachers. You must come with every dollar collected for Freedmen's Aid. Rally! yes, rally! Dr. Mason, of that society, will be with us. Set your people to work with the envelopes you have; collecting $1 each, for which you are to give a portrait of the late Frederick Douglass. Honor the cause—honor the man—honor yourself, and help our school.

You should report your mission full during the second quarterly conference, so as nothing will hinder your Freedmen's Aid rally. Every man to man must work. We are judged by our faith and labor of love. Write me often regarding your succe . I s yours,

W. R. R. Duncan.

A Renaissance of Barbarism.

By J. C. Hartzell, D. D.

The State of Florida is having a renaissance of barbarism. Here is the proof:

"An Act to Prohibit White and Negro Youth from being Taught in the Same Schools.

"Be it Enacted by the State of Florida—Section 1. It shall be a penal offence for any individual body of inhabitants, corporation or association to conduct within this State any school of any grade, public, private or parochial, wherein white persons and Negroes shall be instructed or boarded within the same building or taught in the same class, or at the same time by the same teacher.

"Sec. 2. Any person or persons violating the provisions of section 1 of this act, by patronizing or teaching in such school, shall upon conviction thereof be fined in a sum not less than $150 or more than $500, or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than three months or more than six months, for every such offense.

"Sec. 3. All laws or parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

"Sec. 4. This act shall take effect September 1, 1895.

"Approved May 29, 1895."

The Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church has a school in Jacksonville, Fla. It is attended by colored students. I do not know whether any white students attended the past year or not. If any had applied, they would have been admitted if they could comply with the requirements in scholarship and finance. Several of the teachers are white. While they live and board in a separate building from the dormitory, they yet frequently eat at the same table with colored students. They are a part of the same institution. They confer in factuity meets with their colored fellow-teachers, and at times eat at the same table with them.

Will they be accounted criminals under this act? They do teach in an institution where colored and white persons board. Some of these teachers have been employed for another year, and will begin their work next October, after this act will be in force. If they, or any of the officers of the society who may be present at the opening of the school, are arrested, the constitutionality of the law will be tested.

This renaissance of barbarism is a disgrace to Florida. Georgia, a few years since, undertook to do the same thing, but her sensible Southern men defeated the bill after it had passed one house. The question of separate schools for colored or white, based upon the mutual preferences of the races, or upon grounds of temporary expediency, is one thing, but this law is quite another.

The former may be accepted without doing violence to principle, but the latter seeks to crystalize race prejudice into permanent law. The attempt will fail in the end, and our Southern leaders in Florida or elsewhere, who think otherwise, should remember what race prejudice has already cost the American people.

AS TO SOME CRIMINAL STATISTICS IN THE CITY OF NEW ORLEANS.

Our esteemed contemporary, The Republican, a few weeks ago had an able and discriminating editorial on the prevalence of crime among the colored people of New Orleans. We feel very greatly indebted to this able organ for its painstaking, conscientious and unselfish interest in the race which it loyally represents. If the Negro press, of this city in particular, would devote more attention to the work of bringing about race unity and co-operation, it would contribute far more toward bettering the condition of our people socially and morally than the methods usually adopted. Labored articles on "bimetalism," "silver and gold standards," "16 to 1;" editorial dissertations on the respective merits of the innumerable candidates (white men, of course) for the various offices within the gift of the people; scurrilous attacks upon those persons who have the good fortune to disagree with many "doughty knights of the quill," etc., is about the sort of pabulum which is dished up weekly or otherwise, and is expected to go into the character building of the people who are to be helped. The question that should concern the Negro press of this country most, is what can be done for the moral uplifting of the race. This is a question indeed, that concerns all people, but means more to the Negro, and we believe more to the nation, than any other.

What is the significance of this increase of crime among the Negroes of this city? Why is it that, with only one-third of the population, the Negro furnishes two-thirds of the criminals? Is the Negro press doing its duty? To what extent does it give inspiration to those enterprises which bring the better homes and the better class of our people into an alliance, whose influence would work wonders in checking the progress of crime? The press should lead; but we fear that there is a disposition on its part to truckle and follow. It winks at wrong, when it should boldly attack it. It too frequently resorts to questionable methods to increase its patronage. We have already too much "press," with the prospect of more afflictions of the same sort. What are the churches doing to remedy this great evil? We have heard it said, that but for some of the Negro churches the Negro himself would occupy a much higher place in the moral scale. Such a statement pains us, but we are nevertheless forced to recognize that there is some truth in it. There are churches which exercise no discipline whatever, either over their membership or clergy—the latter class of which too frequently taking advantage of this laxity of moral restraint, go about seeking whom they may devour. Others lift but a feeble voice against the prevailing sins of the people, choosing rather to be popular and get a liberal share of the loaves and fishes, than to stand out boldly against the Sunday excursion, parades and patrons of the grocery saloon, etc. They are handicapped, and hence their pulpits do not thunder forth against the evils which are sending thousands of our people to destruction.

There is an awful responsibility resting upon the parents and guardians of our youth. Why is it that there are so many more colored boys in the House of Refuge than there are white? Some one has said that there are more colored criminals than white because they get justice! The contrary is true, we think. Many of our people are sadly deficient in home training and character building. Many of them studiously and persistently avoid contact with those of the race who have had superior advantages. They keep out of the way. Often parents keep their children out of the schools, where they are subject to this association. To add to this estrangement, wicked and designing demagogues, who have made it a practice to fatten upon the credulity of a gullible people, stir up strife and widen the breach, knowing full well that as the people rise in intelligence and virtue, the unlawful methods which they have used will be exposed.

To what extent are the leaders of the race responsible? Leaders! yes, we have them in great abundance. They are confined to no particular circle, section, church, profession or sex. With some it is hereditary; others come to the front during some particular crisis, to risk fame and fortune upon the chances which may present themselves. It is pathetic to see how patiently some are waiting for the "old days" to come back again; and yet, more so, to see the rapidity with which certain others change their political complexions and affiliations for—well, "further deponent saith not." Meanwhile, there are innumberable meetings, spasmodic ebullitions of sympathy for the masses. Indignation meetings, which have been frequently rendered of no effect by the pertinacious and blatant sectarian, while the great question of the salvation of the people is frequently overlooked in the desire of a few ambitious and often poorly qualified people to pose as leaders. This is no mere question of sentiment, but one of tremendous import. The real, faithful leader, whether male or female, ought to be able to recognize its magnitude, and take immediate steps to so place it upon the hearts and consciences of the people that a mighty reform may be started at once.

To the Negro press, and pulpit, and to those who aspire to leadership, there is a splendid opportunity, not only for elaborate suggestions which are valuable only for their literary beauty, but for earnest, practical work. Not for the organization of clubs and circles with ponderous names, often miscalled literary circles and which are too frequently used to boost some ambitious member into undeserved notice, but an opportunity is now presented for real, practical and helpful work. Let it begin at once.

"UNEARNED HONORS."

Under the above caption the New Orleans Times-Democrat has a most able, fair and comprehensive editorial, which, while it completely exonerates Wilberforce University from the charge of practicing duplicity, shows that the chief executive of our Nation was actuated only by the purest motives in declining the honors which the ambitious university had to bestow. The remarks upon the indiscriminate bestowal of university honors are forcible and timely. We append the entire editorial, with our most cordial endorsement, as follows:

"President Cleveland has given an excellent example to men who, without ever even having had a college education, are prompt to accept academic honors and titles offered to them by universities.

"Wilberforce University, which happens to be a degree-giving place of education in Ohio for colored people, wrote to the president a few days ago conferring upon him the honor of 'LL. D.' The president declined the distinction in a few well chosen words, in which he pointed out that, while he appreciated the proposed honor, he had already declined the same degree from one of the biggest universities in the country, and that what he had done before he must do now and at any time in the future, believing that high academic honors and titles should be bestowed only on men who had gone through university studies and passed test examinations with credit.

"The fact that it was a colored university from which the president refused an academic title will, of course, be extensively harped upon by Mr. Cleveland's enemies, and the declination will be attributed to him as a very uncalled-for snub to the colored brother. But as the president had on a previous occasion refused to accept a similar distinction from one of the best known of the universities for Caucasians, the charge that the declination was a snub to the Negro will have neither point nor force.

"The sentiment that induced Mr. Cleveland to decline the proposed honor is a very level-headed sentiment; it was creditable to Mr. Cleveland, and it will be strongly approved by those who have given the subject a thought. University degrees ought in all cases to be confined to university men who have studied for them, or to such as have otherwise made profound acquaintance with the subjects taught in universities. They are not intended for men like Mr. Cleveland who have been successful men of affairs and who have risen to distinguished positions by reason of their individual forcefulness but without any reference to their scholarship.

"The indiscriminate bestowal of university honors upon, and their acceptance by, plain every-day citizens who may have done nothing else to make themselves notable than amass a pot of money and donate a generous slice of it to a college, is an abuse of these honors which is quite too common, and which needs to have a damper put upon it. University honors in the hands, or attached to the names, of such men make the men in most instances a laughing-stock, and decidedly cheapen the honors themselves.

"Had it not been that we have learned from the Plain-Dealer of Cleveland, O., that the president has done a number of kindnesses to the alumni of Wilberforce University, and that it was probably the intention of the university in conferring an 'LL. D.' upon Mr. Cleveland to repay in its simple-minded way these kindly acts of the president, we'd have supposed that the motive at the bottom of the honor-conferment was to gain advantage from the advertisement that the university would receive from its act. But it is as pleasant to know that there was not a suspicion of the mercenary in the colored men's proffer, as it is to think that the president's level-headedness in refusing it gave a pointer that will find hosts of imitators."

WILL THE TRIBUNE EXPLAIN?

Our esteemed contemporary, the New Orleans Tribune, is a Baptist paper. The names of three prominent Baptist pastors compose its editorial staff. It is an able defender of the Baptist faith, and speaks out boldly on the great Negro question. Looking over last week's paper we found the following advertisement which appalled us:

"———'s Eating Saloon and Bar-room, corner ——— and ———, ———, La. Meals at all hours. For the best wines and liquors, tobacco and cigars. When you go to ——— give him a call. Beer on draught five cents a glass."

We have omitted the name of the proprietor of the eating saloon and bar-room, and also the place which happens to be cursed by its presence, since we cannot, under any circumstances, advertise the abominable business. Surely this notice must have slipped in without the knowledge of the editor or assistants. The editor was probably absent from the city as an item suggests. Now we are exceedingly zealous of our religious press, and we even go so far as to doubt the propriety of advertising the whiskey saloon business, or anything connected with the traffic by our colored secular press generally, because it ever there was a time when the race needs the highest and best moral leadership, that time is now. The men or women who are to lead must be morally pure; and we demand also that the vehicles through which we communicate our thoughts to the world shall not have about them, even in the most obscure places, that thing which has been declared by the best people of all races and colors to be the greatest curse that ever afflicted the human family—the manufacture, use and sale of intoxicating liquors.

We join hands with any person, society or people, promising our hearty co-operation in banishing from our land the great evil which has done more than anything else in the world to enslave our race, and which is the fruitful cause to-day of its greatest weakness. Along this line we should say that neither ministers or professors of religion who indulge in this practice can last very long. Collapse is inevitable—moral, social and physical.

—The Christian Educator, April-May number, comes to the table full of interesting matter concerning our vast Southern educational system. Its front page is graced with a most excellent portrait of that lovable and loving veteran educator, Dr. John Braden, president of Central Tennessee College. We often think of the trio—the doctor, his faithful, unselfish and loving wife, and Miss Mamie—for whom, among multitudes of black men and women in the South, there is naught but the kindest expression of admiration. Mrs. Braden has been quite a sufferer during the past year. Let prayers ascend for her recovery.

Women's Home Missionary Work.

Our hearts are full of gratitude for one more year of service. Owing to the severe cold weather, the ladies of the Louisiana Conference were not in attendance at the last annual conference held in Monroe, La., February 6, 1895. The year 1894 we had with us Mrs. Col. Springer, who visited our conference to try and revive the work. Anxiliaries were organized throughout the State. Three of the churches have been holding monthly meetings through the year.

The election of officers for the year 1895 took place at Simpson Chapel, Monday, June 10, 1895. Quite a number of ladies and delegates were present. The work was discussed and many seemed anxious to renew their efforts in doing more for the work. The officers elected for the ensuing year are:

President—Mrs. T. J. Johnson.

Vice presidents—Mrs. I. E. Mullon, Mrs. A. Green, Miss M. Williams, Mrs. A. Lavigne.

Corresponding secretary—Mrs. J. F. Marshall.

Recording secretary—Miss C. Hayman.

Treasurer—Mrs. D. C. Mead.

"Jesus, Lover of My Soul" was sung by Mrs. P. Powell. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. Taylor.

The monthly meetings for 1895 will be held at Simpson Chapel the third Monday of each month at 4 p. m.

An Endorsement That Helps.

Rev. Dr. E W. S. Hammond:

Dear Editor—I have just laid aside the noble SOUTHWESTERN of even date, to pen you my thanks for the noble stand taken by you, not only in this issue, but in all issues, for the triumph of right and the uplift of the down-trodden and oppressed of all races and nations. We are discriminated against, and insulted and opposed in nearly all of our efforts to better our condition in life; but is that any good reason why we should not at every opportunity prove to the world and our friends that we are worthy of better treatment. Is it not better to demonstrate our demands for better treatment by displaying our achievements in the mechanical, agricultural, scientific, classical, philosophical and domestic arts and sciences under adverse circumstances, and by that act show what we have accomplished under our peculiar environments, than to "sulk in our tents?" What the Negro wants is a chance. When there is a chance offered, if it is not the best but the best we can get, let us seize it and show to the best minds of the world that we deserved a better chance.

Push the paper, for it is getting better every issue. Forrest City District will not fall behind last year, but will go far beyond. Yours, truly,

J. W. JACKSON, P. E.,
Little Rock Conference.

Death of an Elect Lady.

GAINESVILLE, Ala., June 24, 1895.

Died at home, in the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Gainesville, June 22, Mrs. T. C. Levert. She was converted while young in school, and graduated June, 1886, in academic course, at Clark University, Atlanta, Ga. She was married to Rev. T. C. Levert, pastor of Gainesville charge, at Huntsville, Ala., 1887. She was a consistent Christian wife, mother and teacher. She leaves a pious and devoted husband and a sweet little daughter, Mamie, to mourn her loss. She was about 30 years of age.

Sister Levert served as assistant teacher in the city schools at Scottsboro, also as assistant teacher in our Central Alabama Academy and at Dadeville, Ala., in our district and subsequently in Gainesville, where she gave the greatest satisfaction. To know her was to love her. She was generous, hospitable and loving.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. J. Hal, D. D., pastor of M. E. Church, Baligee, Ala., and W. T. Trammell, pastor of Clinton charge. Her remains were laid in their last resting place in the cemetery in Gainesville, where a large concourse of people had assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to the honored dead. W. T. TRAMMELL.

Our Columbus (Ohio) Letter.

The Donaldson Street M. E. Church has been thoroughly remodeled. The church has been raised two feet and now rests upon a stone foundation. The pulpit has been changed from the north side to the east side; a tower and a vestibule have been built, and the door moved from the middle of the church to the vestibule. We have raised the ceiling five feet higher and put a door in the east end of the church, so that we can go from the parsonage into the church.

June 16 was our grand rally day and we had Rev. J. H. Payne, of Walnut Hills, Cincinnati. He preached a splendid sermon at 11 o'clock. Rev. C. S. Gee, of the A. M. E. Church at 3, and the Rev. Payne again at night. Collection for the day was over $200. A. MCDADE, Pastor.

Wagnor; Why should the Sunday school be organized into the Missionary Society? Mrs. Jennie Brown; The Sunday school and Epworth League as the two important factors in Methodism, J. C. Sherrill.

As this is our first Sunday School and Epworth League Convention for our District, we should do all in our power to make it a success, and we hope to have a full attendance, especially of all pastors, superintendents and presidents and one delegate from each chapter. Come with papers prepared on the subjects assigned. Every one is expected to take part in the discussion of each paper after read.

Committee—W. R. R. Duncan, H. Bright, J. C. Sherrill.

Our Vicksburg Letter.

VICKSBURG, Miss., June 19, 1895.

Our town was specially blessed recently by a couple of visits from the distinguished J. W. E. Bowen, Ph. D., D. D., of Atlanta, who delivered to large gatherings two very able and grand lectures. The people generally say these were the most wonderful and helpful lectures ever delivered here—that Dr. Bowen is a great man. The presence and work of the doctor here particularly benefitted our church and cause. Visits from more of our representative men would more firmly establish us here.

A successful rally among class leaders closed out on the 16th inst. J. W. Ruffin was the victor, raising $25.75. Total amount raised, $100.10. Second quarterly conference, held 19th inst., was a success. Presiding Elder Cowan was in good spirits and is successfully prosecuting work on the district. WM. MCMORRIS, P. C.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

OUR : WOMEN'S : ROUND : TABLE

The Influence of the Home in the Uplifting of our People.

NINETEENTH LETTER—BY T. E. W.

Womanly Duties.

The field or province that is allowed to woman is becoming more and more popular. She, after many a struggle, is reaching what she considers her proper level—man's equal. Some one has said: "Take woman from that sphere in which all the finer feelings and affections of her nature are called into healthful exercise, to mingle in the strife for power, where her sensibilities will be blunted, and where all that now lends a charm to the female character and fits her for the instructor, friend and companion of man will be lost. The proper sphere for woman is home. It is here that she wields her influence which will elevate the standard of intellectual and moral worth. Her influence adds greatly in the refinement of the stronger sex. Under her influences, arts and sciences flourish. Go to countries where she is the slave of man, and you will find her subsisting with crushed energies and the man will be found grovelling in ignorance and despotism. Where woman is degraded and debased, the altars will be found desecrated and destroyed, and there will be desolation throughout the land. But encourage the feeling of liberty and the whole world will be compelled to acknowledge her influence. As an illustration of this, let us look at this little incident:

When Sparta was surrounded by her enemies and there was no longer any hope of saving the city, they deliberated what should be done with the women and children; but they were not suffered to decide it, for the women came to the Council Chamber and said: "Deliberate not, O men of Sparta, whither we shall fly, but what shall we do?" The city was saved; to whom do we give credit—to the men? Nay; but to the women. Therefore, let it be the special duty of every mother to see that her child has the proper training. They have faculties that require it. If it does not receive this training, who is responsible? No one but the mother. It has a disposition that must be curbed. Who can do this when you are called away by party conflicts? They, too, might possess an intellect by which a generation might be enlightened or destroyed. It is to a woman that we are indebted for a Washington and the remainder of our great leaders. It is becoming the great mistake of too many mothers to overburden themselves with church duties. There is always some committee, or something of the kind, to call her from home; and I firmly believe she will receive but little compensation for this at the end, for there is no duty that equals the duties of home, and until our mothers see this, in this light, there will still be another neglected generation.

JOHN P. WRAGG, P. E.

According to announcement, the Sunday School convention of the Griffin District met at Sunny Side, Ga. Delegates from most of the charges, with their pastors and superintendents, were present the first day. From beginning to end the work of the convention was interesting.

The papers read were creditable to the authors and beneficial to all who heard them. There was much in these productions to evince that the presiding elder, preachers and superintendents of the Griffin District are sparing no pains to make the Sunday School what it ought to be.

Those subjects that brought on most interesting discussions were: Temperance, Epworth League, and Why we should use our own literature. The remarks of Rev. D. McLendon on temperance were both appropriate and forceful. The presiding elder showed himself to be an enthusiast on the subject of Epworth League. The Rev. M. M. Alston, pastor of Griffin Charge, grew eloquent on both these topics. He spoke also of our Church papers, giving the SOUTHWESTERN special mention. His talk on "How to rear children" deserves special mention.

The pastor at Sunny Side, Rev. J. H. May, had everything in neat shape for the convention's success. Brother May is an aggressive young man, intent on helping his people and blessing mankind. He is devoted to the prosperity of his race and church.

By vote of the convention it will hereafter be known as the Sunday School Epworth League Convention.

President of S. S. Institute.

—The Rev. Dr. T. B. Neely, of Philadelphia, has written a new book, entitled "The Parliamentarian; or, Parliamentary Law Condensed." It is a small work, and is intended for the Epworth League, Christian Endeavor, and other young people's societies, though it will be useful in all deliberative bodies. It is constructed on a somewhat different principle than that of his "Parliamentary Practice." The new edition of the People's Cyclopedia contains an article on parliamentary law from Dr. Neely's pen. He wrote also the article on the same subject in the American edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, as well as in other publications. The new book will soon be issued by Crantston & Curts, Cincinnati and Chicago.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St., New Orleans.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Golden Calf.

(Exod. 32. 1-8, 30-35.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Little children keep yourselves from idols." (1 John 5. 21.)

After the Ten Commandments had been given, the people asked that Moses, and not Jehovah, speak with them. Then Moses drew near unto the Lord, and divers laws and ordinance were given. He conveyed the same to the people. They promised obedience. An altar was erected, sprinkled with the blood of the covenant, sacrifices were offered, and the glory of God was seen. Moses went up into the mount, and remained with the Lord forty days. He received instructions about building the tabernacle, setting apart Aaron and his sons for the priesthood, and sacrificial offerings. The two tables of stone, on which were written the Ten Commandments, were given to him. But while he was there, in close communion with God, strange work was going on down in the camp.

I. The idolatry of the people (1-6). 1. The absence of the leader—"Moses delayed to come." He had been called up into the mount. When God calls it is our first duty to obey. He had been kept in the mount, by the Lord, receiving his orders. This made his absence from the people justifiable. They had no ground for complaint. Often those spoken against are nearer right than those who speak against them.

2. The request of the people—"Make us gods which shall go before us." It is remarkable that the children of Israel, who had seen the power of God in the plagues of Egypt, in the division of the Red Sea, in bringing water out of the Rock in Horeb, and in the thunders and lightning of Sinai, should so soon go off into idolatry. They had heard God speak the Ten Commandments, and had promised to obey them. Yet, in less than forty days, they are making unto themselves a "graven image." What an unstable people. But to-day we often see persons profess conversion, unite with the Church, take baptismal vows, and set out for heaven in great haste. Yet in less than forty days they have been overtaken in many faults.

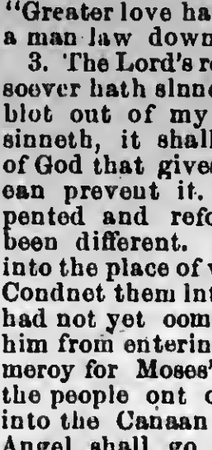
3 The work of Aaron. (1) The request—"Break off the golden ear-ring." We cannot worship an image, much less the true God, without cost. (2) The compliance—"And all the people broke off their golden ear-rings, and brought them unto Aaron." They were really the ones who wanted the idol. Aaron showed great weakness in yielding to their request. "Like people like priest" (Hosea 4. 9). As the church is, the pastor is likely to become. (3) The work—"I cast it into the fire and there came out this calf (24). What a silly, ridiculous subterfuge. The gold was likely melted and molded into the form of a calf, and then "fashioned with a graven tool." They now had a god like one of the gods of Egypt. But few in our land make the gods they worship, yet we have many idolaters.

4. The false assertion—"These be thy gods, oh! Israel." It is likely the people knew this image had no power, but they designed to worship the true God through it. Many worship the Creator through the creature. The wise may discriminate between them, but the ignorant will not, and will soon worship the work of their hands.

5. Worshiping the idol. (1) The time—"To-morrow is a feast to the Lord." This was the day following the completion of their work. They had, no doubt, been several days collecting the gold, making the image, and building the altar. We should prepare to serve the true God. (2) The sacrifices—"They offered burnt-offerings, and brought peace-offerings." In the burnt-offering the entire victim was consumed. This was dedicatory. In the peace offering the blood was offered, and the flesh was eaten by those who offered it. It indicated peace, sociability and rejoicing. (3) The feast. a. "The people sat down to eat, and to drink." This they did after their offerings were made. They, no doubt, ate and drank to excess. Many to day make their stomach their god. b. "They rose up to play." The word play is likely used here in a bad sense. They played the fool, the wanton, the harlot. It implies fornication and adultery. How swift and awful is the progress of sin. Desire, request, work, worship and ruin.

II. God rejecting the people (7, 8). 1. The Lord refused to own them. He said to Moses, they are "thy people." God ceases to claim any one as His when he goes away in sin. It is awful when God withdraws from a church, and leaves the entire care of it in the hands of the pastor. 2. They "have corrupted themselves." Sin of every kind is degrading, corrupting. "When lust hath conceived it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished bringeth forth death." 3. "They have turned aside quickly." God had forbidden them to have any gods before Him, or to make unto themselves "any graven image." These laws they had promised to keep. This promise they have broken. It is no wonder His "wrath waxed hot" against them. "God is angry with the wicked every day."

The verses between the parts of this lesson teach that Moses prayed for the people. But God said to him—"Let Me alone, that I may consume them, and I will make of thee a great nation." Again Moses prayed. The heart of Jehovah was moved, and "He repented of the work which He thought to do unto them." Behold the power of prayer. Moses went down from the mount. The two tables of the Testimony were in his hands. As he and Joshua drew near to the camp they heard the people shouting. It was not the noise of victory, or of defeat—but of singing. When he saw the idol, and the people dancing, his "anger waxed hot." He cast down the tables and broke them. This was a rash, inexcusable act. He then destroyed the image, scolded Aaron, and caused about three thousand idolaters to be put to death.



III. Moses praying for the people (30-35). 1. His address to Israel. (1) "Ye have sinned a great sin." There was plenty of iron in the make up of Moses. He could rule like a king, command like a general, and plead like a saint. He could look the people in the face, and tell them, they had "sinned a great sin." Let us have rulers who love the people well enough to tell them of their wrongs. (2) "I will go up unto the Lord." He, no doubt, ascended the mountain with a sad heart. Everything was uncertain. Will God accept or reject the people? There is much gained by the way we approach God. The burden of his soul was the salvation of Israel. We may, nay must, pray for others. (3) "Peradventure I shall make an atonement for you." Moses was the mediator of the old covenant. He hoped to bring about a state of reconciliation between an offended God and an offending people.

2. His address to the Lord. (1) Sin is confessed—"This people have sinned a great sin." We have sinned and come short of God's glory. We likely have not done as Israel did, but we have broken God's law. (2) Pardon asked—"If thou wilt forgive their sin." We need not hope for pardon, till we confess our wrongs, and ask forgiveness. (3) If pardon is refused—Then "blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written." Let me die with the people. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

3. The Lord's reply to Moses. (1) "Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Only the mercy of God that gives repentance and pardon can prevent it. If the people had repented and reformed, all would have been different. (2) "Go lead the people into the place of which I spoke unto thee." Conduct them into the Holy Land. Moses had not yet committed the sin that kept him from entering Canaan. God showed mercy for Moses' sake. We should lead the people out of the wilderness of sin into the Canaan of holiness. (3) "Mine Angel shall go before thee." This was likely the Angel of the Covenant. The presence of the Lord in the pillar of cloud. His work was threefold—He was a guide—"To lead them the way;" a protection—"A pillar of cloud by day"—to shield them from the sun; and a luminary—"By night a pillar of fire"—to give light in their camps (Exod. 13. 21). All these is the blessed Christ to the saint.

It pays to have the best. Remember, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the standard blood-purifier.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat, and is in fact the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

Notice.

There will be held at Gallatin, on the Hazlehurst Circuit, July 26–28, a Sabbath School Institute, for the benefit of the circuit and neighboring charges. An appropriate program has been drawn up by the committee on arrangements.

A Chance to Make Money.

I have made $1,640 clear money in 87 days and attended to my household duties besides, and I think this doing splendid for a woman inexperienced in business. Any one can sell what everyone wants to buy, and every family wants a Dish Washer. I don't canvass at all; people come or send for the Washers, and every Washer that goes out sells two or three more, as they do the work to perfection. You can wash and dry the dishes in two minutes. I am going to devote my whole time to this business now, and I am sure I can clear $10,000 this year. My sister and brother have started in the business, and doing splendid. You can get complete instructions and hundreds of testimonials by addressing the Iron City Dish Washer Co., 145 S. Highland Ave., Station A, Pittsburg, Pa., and if you don't make lots of money, it's your own fault. MRS. W. H.

Epworth League Convention.

The Epworth League convened in Alexandria, Tenn., June 12–14, with Rev. Jesse P. Price as president, and E. J. Guthrie and Miss E. M. Ford secretaries. It was largely attended. Papers from pastors were read and discussed fully. The Local Chapter of Alexandria had several interesting subjects which were read. The following was the program:

The relation of the Epworth League to the Church, F. M. Moores, P. E.; Organization and the object of the League, Rev. J. P. Price; Department of spiritual work, Rev. J. W. Richmond and Thomas W. Belcher; Department of mercy and help, A. P. Blakemore and T. W. Ward; Department of correspondence, E. J. Guthrie; Department of finance, B. F. Whitly and H. V. Dowell; The relation of the Epworth to the socialogical question of the present age, Miss E. M. Ford.

Revs. J. P. Price and John W. Richmond were elected delegates to the international convention held in Chattanooga, Tenn. F. M. Moores, A. P. Blakemore and Thomas Ward are the board of control. Ten chapters had 326 members.

Vote of thank were extended to the good people of Alexandria for their hospitality, to the secretaries for their faithful work, and to the railroad for reduced rates. E. J. GUTHRIE, Sec'y.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—The Pan American Congress of Religion and Education will be held at Toronto July 18 to 25. There are two opening meetings on Thursday, the one in the afternoon is congratulatory and the one in the evening is explanatory of the scope, plan and purpose of the congress. The aim is high, the scope is broad and the plans are to be matured in discussion by the ablest and best informed minds of our continent. In these afternoon meetings, reforms of all kinds come under careful review—municipal, industrial, sanitary, philanthropic, educational and religions. The names on the program are inclusive of Jews, Catholics and Protestants; statesmen, professors, presidents, editors and divines, who are specialists in some measure in their themes. The woman's movement, too, is represented by a few well chosen specialists. The program is unusually interesting, and it promises a rare intellectual feast.

—"Ought a Christian dance?" is question often propounded to us. A Christian may indulge in this favorite amusement, but it would involve the surrender of his or her Christian profession. It is difficult to conceive of a condition in which that which is popularly called dancing is indulged in, where the participants are not exposed to temptations which are a continual suggestion to the surrender of their character. We have known but few people who possessed moral stamina and at the same time loved the modern dance. There is no use in winking and blinking at the matter—the modern dance is a society nuisance and has done incalculable injury. Not long since, in our city, some people who believe they are benevolently disposed, gave an entertainment. A large hall was filled with lovers of pleasure. There was dancing, of course, at one end of the hall, while the bar-room at the other end was quite liberally patronized by the patrons of the "light fantastic toe." Some one suggested to us that the very best of society was present! May the Lord help that society which can find its highest social enjoyment in a bar-room dance. Now, let Christian young ladies and gentlemen avoid the modern dance. Better, by far, popularize the several literary societies and other organizations intended for the moral and intellectual development of the youth of our city, than to encourage a popular pastime, distinguished only for its ability to blunt the moral sense and pave the way for the ultimate moral collapse of its patrons.

WOMEN'S WORK.

We are glad to see that the ladies of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Louisiana Conference are getting ready for the work more earnestly. We have sought to inspire and encourage them on all occasions. We have felt that many of them did not have that appreciation of the work so necessary to success. We feel like giving them a word of encouragement from time to time, and to say that if they hope to keep up with the great procession, they had as well keep in touch with the SOUTHWESTERN; thereby the Church will know where they are and what they are doing. The officers elected at a recent meeting in this city are among the representative ladies of this city and State, and it is hoped that they will make their meetings of such interest as to enlist the sympathy of the hundreds of our ladies in all the churches throughout the conference.

—Dr. A. J. Hal of Balegree, Ala., sends the sad intelligence of the death of Mrs. Julia G. Levert, the wife of our esteemed brother, Rev. T. D. Levert, of the Central Alabama Conference.

OUR RELATION TO THE BOOK CONCERN.

In another column will be found a letter of most vital importance, to our colored constituency at least. We copy the letter entire and ask for it a careful and a prayerful reading.

It has been our conviction for some time that the Book Concern dividends to some of our Annual Conferences were out of all proportion to the amount of sales of our books and periodicals. Suppose we had a law regulating the apportionment of the Book Concern dividends to Annual Conferences upon the basis of the profits from the sale of books and periodicals within the bounds of the Annual Conference; it is easy to see that some of our Annual Conferences would not be entitled to one cent of the dividends! We have visited conferences where, when the dividend was announced, it was received with a shout, while at the very moment we were certain that that Annual Conference was not entitled, upon any equitable basis, to one cent of the dividends.

We have come to believe, for reasons we need not give, that the SOUTHWESTERN ought to be more liberally patronized by our seventeen colored conferences. There is not a colored minister of any prominence in any one of the seventeen colored conferences who does not know that his conference is not rendering its honest allegiance to the Book Concern. He knows that every subscriber secured for the SOUTHWESTERN, or any one of our periodicals, and every book sold in his charge and conference, increases the funds from whence our agents apportion the dividends. Now, how these men can continue to receive these dividends and to shout over the magnimity of our great Church, with these facts before them, is a mystery to us. These are painful facts, but the truth should be told, though the heavens fall.

An intelligent, loyal and persistent canvass in the interest of the periodicals of the Church on the part of the pastors and the presiding elders, if not the best way, is, nevertheless, a most feasible way to relieve the conference from the charge that it is merely a mendicant, that it is a receiver only. To us, there are three remedies: First, let it be made a disciplinary offense to refuse and neglect the circulation of our books and periodicals. Second, let the examining committees in our Annual Conferences refuse to recommend for admission any one who is not known to be thoroughly progressive and who will not promote the circulation of our literature. Third, weed out and refuse to give appointments to all who refuse to put themselves into harmony with the spirit and genius of our Methodism in this respect. Our papers will then be more liberally circulated, our dividends larger and our influence very greatly augmented.

THE PASSING OF THE SINGING PILGRIM.

Phillip Phillips, known the world over as the Singing Pilgrim, has passed "over the river," which he has often so beautifully described in his matchless songs. Hundreds and thousands have been lifted to the higher and better life through his agency. He traveled extensively, singing as he went, yet singing the great tidings of salvation; sometimes reaping the harvest which he had sown, and as frequently leaving the work ripe for others to gather.

From his home in Delaware he passed to the crown, where, amid the white-robed throng, he will continue to sing the praises of "The Lamb that was Slain."

—The Epworth League Training Assembly is among the many helpful enterprises instituted for our Methodist young people. Popular lectures, sermons, entertainments, etc., of the highest type will be furnished. Ludington, Michigan, is the place, July 9 to 28. Send for circulars to E. Swarthout, Grand Rapids, Mich.

A GREAT MEETING.

The second International Epworth League Conference was, in many respects, the greatest gathering known to American Methodism. Chattanooga and historic Lookout Mountain now mark an important epoch in the history of Protestant Christianity. The members of the Boards of Control and the local committees especially had a work upon them which taxed, and severely too, their hands, their heads, and their hearts. The program was about as near perfection as it could be made, and the arrangements as complete as human judgment could make them, when all the circumstances are considered; except, the attempt to carry out a suggestion, which was unfortunate and ill-timed, namely: The setting apart of a special portion of the auditorium for colored people. Fortunately, our colored brethren did not take liberally to the corner, preferring rather to exercise the rights and privileges which were so generously and profusely accorded to other Christian people. A brother who attended one of the early morning prayer meetings away up near the clouds, tells how indignant a white lady became when she found herself sitting near a colored worshiper. But the meeting went on, and the spirit of the Master was enjoyed by all who could believe that "God was no respecter of persons." Dr. J W. E. Bowen, of Gammon Theological Seminary, scored a great victory for his race. It is hardly probable that the thousands who so generously applauded his happy, forcible, eloquent and scholarly speech were among those who desired to snub other members of his race. There was happily such a preponderance of the better and more progressive elements of our great Methodist family, and such a manifest desire to crowd closer and closer to the great heart that yearns in tender sympathy toward all his children, that the treatment to which our people is often subjected was either held in abeyance or forgotten.

Well, snub or no snub, sneer or no sneer, we believe we voice the sentiment of more than two hundred thousand members of the despised race when we reiterate that we have not lost confidence in the spirit and genius of our Methodism. Inspired by its past record, in favor of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, they see in its increasing numerical strength and in its vast spiritual power, that aggregation of earnest Christianity, which gives greater promise of their moral, and social, and intellectual development than any other. And they propose to stand side by side, associated and united in the bonds of a holy Christian brotherhood and sisterhood, to meet the issues which now confront us, and to make common cause against a common enemy. To us separation is death, and we do not desire or deserve it. Being members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, our relation to all Methodist people is so clearly defined, and our status as Christians so well understood, that all Methodism will rejoice in recognizing the relationship which we sustain to it; and we verily believe will not sanction, much less suggest any changes, which will bring a blot to its fair escutcheon. With such equipment as we have, and such as may be given, we propose to enter the arena to do our part in the overthrow of intemperance, in the preservation of the sanctity of the Sabbath, and in the "spread of Scripture holiness through these lands."

—A delayed letter brings intelligence of the death of Rev. L. W. Washington, late pastor at Clarksdale, in the Upper Mississippi Conference. Rev. J. W. Davis, his Presiding Elder, speaks of him as having been one of the most faithful of his brethren. A man of pure life, high character and thoroughly devoted to God and the Church. His death was a triumph. May he sleep well.

—Cooper, Texas, J. E. Epperson: With a few members I am trying to build a church. We have the ground already paid for, and now we want to put the lumber on it. I ask all who love the Church to assist us.

—Vaiden, Miss., L. L. Shnmpert: Our second quarterly conference was held as per appointment. Rev. W. E. Mask, P. E., presided. We had a glorious time. The Vaiden Circuit is in good condition. Our two Epworth Leagues are doing well.

—Dodge Circnit, Texas, C. M. Singleton: The work is prosperous on all lines. Elder Culbreath was a great help to ns.

—Bellaire, O., Jacob Capito: We are elated here over our success on Sunday, June 2. We had a rally, and raised $163. Our church is beginning to revive. We have a good pastor—Rnv. M. W. Langford.

—Shelby, Miss., J. H. Everett: Our church at this place is reviving. Second quarterly conference, with P. S. Bowie in the chair, was a season of much profit. Reports showed progress. Three accesioes. Children's Day was carried out to the letter. Raised $4 40.

—Seay's Chapel, Nashville, Tenn., J. A. W. Moore: Elder H. W. White held our third quarter successfully. Happy to report 21 conversions and 19 additions. Collections, $98 94. The presiding elder gave strong talk on the SOUTHWESTERN. We are rallying to erect a new church this year.

—Fort Smith, Ark., J. G. Webb: Oer church is on the npward move. Rev. John Quall leads. Presiding Elder W. H. Morris held his quarterly conference here with much satisfaction. Children's Day was observed. Raised $12 05. On June 23, Rev. Qualls preached the Masonic annual sermon to a crowded house, to the delight and satisfaction of all who heard him. Rev. Qualls, our able and efficient pastor, is making a canvass of our Border City for the SOUTHWESTERN.

—Mansfield, La., O. D. Simond: Rev. P. C. Colton, pastor at Shady Grove Church, is doing a good work and is loved by all. On June 11-12, the quarterly conference convened at Shady Grove, Rev. S. Duncan presidiug. We had a nice conference; all the brethren were present and made their reports. Elder Duncan lectured to the young folks on Saturday night at 8 o'clock. His subject was, "What will the Negro do when he wakes up." He lectured to a crowded house. On Snnday we had a good meeting. Rev. Duncan preached a noble sermon. Collection for the day, $22 60.

—Fredericksburg, Texas, R. F. Caruthors: Our second quarterly conference convened, with Rev. E. Henderson, P. E., in the chair. Reports were well up on all our lines. N. H. Townsend, P. C., reported total collection of $50 25. His protracted effort closed with two conversions and three accessions, and the salvation of the Lord is still marching on.

—College Hill, Miss., L. H. Troupe: Quarterly conference was held at our chapel, with Rev. W. McDonald, P. E., in the chair. We never witnessed a better time. The work is alive. Raised $24 30.

—Patterson, La., Rev. W. H. Jones: I arrived here March 18, trusting in God, and now I feel proud to say that we have purchased a lot at the cost of $106 and are building a beautiful church. Much credit is due to Father Morrison Hector, who paid $56 on the land and $55 on the lumber. He is one of our most valuable members. I have received several nice presents recently.

—Fayette, Mo., Henry South: Our meeting was a great success We are all happy. Baptized 18, and 22 received from probation into full membership, and our quarterly meeting, with Rev. J. J. Clark presiding, added to the interest of the occasion. Raised during the quarter, $190. On our rally day we raised $95. The Sunday School, Epworth League, prayer and class meetings are well attended.

—Bolton, Miss., J. A. Garrett: Our quarterly confereuce was held at St. Paul Church, with J. I. Garrett in the chair. Reports show that work is in a fair condition. Received four in full this quarter, seven reclaimed, five converted and four deaths. The work is improviug.

—Oberlin, O., H. W. Simmons: Our church is in a prosperous condition. Childreu's Day exercises were carried ont in an excellent manner. We have made earnest efforts to get subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN, and will continue our work. Oberlin College commencement day was somewhat of a disappointment to the colored population. The Oberlin College Glee Club (white) sang a burlesque on the Negro, which cast a very unpleasant shadow on the pathway of the colorod people who have been preaching "that Oberlin is the colored man's heaven."

—Mussoe, La., A. Luster: A storm struck the parsonage a few weeks ago, and when it passed away many pounds of good things for the pastor and his family were found. A committee of ladies gave an entertainment to get a Bible and hymual for the St. Peter M. E. Church. The church is spiritually alive. I have received two converts and four backsliders. We have whitewashed the church, fence and parsonage.

—Lake Charles, La., T. Larkins: Children's Day was carried ont to the letter. Raised $5 05.

—Paris and Springville Circnit, Tenn., H. Robinsou: Rev. S. B. Danley held the third quarterly meeting and preached helpfully. He also ably represented the grand old SOUTHWESTERN. Raised $18 50.

—Monroe, La., G. J. Rogers: Onr protracted meeting closed with 35 converts. The whole number added to the church during the revival was 45.

—Brentwood Charge, Tenn., G. W. Martin: We are yet alive and coming to the front. Raised $70.

—Bremond, Texas, A. Johnson: We have had 35 accessions to the church this year, and the spiritual status is the very best. We are at work hattling to finish our new church at Reagan with seats and paint. We have a good loyal people on our circuit, many of whom own their estates and are doing well.

—Jacksonville, Fla., J. R Howard: Our Children's Day exercises were grandly successful. Everybody seemed to enjoy it. Collection for the day, $5.

—New Iberia, La., W. H. Banks: A few evenings ago a number of the good friends and members, led by the King's Daughters, of St. James, visited the parsonage, bringing many choice presents.

—Memorial services commemorative of the death of Miss Rosalie Miller, daughter of Brother A. G. Miller of Vanceville, La., will be held at Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Vanceville, La., July 21. Rev. Hason, pastor, and others will take part in the exercises.

—Hensley, Ark., B. Bright: My second quarterly conference passed off nicely. Rev. W. R. R. Duncan, P. E., was present and rendered grand service. He left no stone unturned on presenting the grand old SOUTHWESTERN; which resulted in four cash snbscribers. Raised $11 05.

AND THREATENED

WITH BALDNESS

The Danger is Averted by Using

AYER'S

Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Neb.

THE BOOK CONCERN.

Equitable Division of the Proceeds Considered in Reference to Connectional Finance.

Rev. Isaac F. Kino, D. D.

From Western Christian Advocate.

The Book Concern is the property of the Methodist Episcopal Church. More properly speaking, it is the property of the traveling preachers of the Church. They established it, they have fostered it, and have always acted as its agents.

In the fundamental law of the Church we read: "The General Conference shall not appropriate the proceeds of the Book Concern, nor of the Chartered Fund, to any purpose other than the benefit of traveling, supernumerary, superannuated, and worn-out preachers, their wives widows, and children." In another place in the Discipline we read that "the profits arising from the Book Concern, after a sufficient capital to carry on the business is retained, shall be regularly applied to the relief of traveling preachers."

Before the bishops were supported as now, by funds raised directly by the people, they were supported from the proceeds of the Book Concern; and, from time immemorial, if the expenses of the General Conference were not met by the regular collections for the purpose, the General Conference has ordered the Book Agents to pay the deficit, and never paid it; and the Agents have a custom, in squaring up accounts, of charging it up to profit and loss. If such proceedings were carried to the civil courts for adjudication, the decision could not be other than that the General Conference has no such right.

It will be easy to see how large the amount is thus drawn quadrennially, when we look at the apportionment made four years ago to meet the expenses of the General Conference, and then read the treasurer's report. From this report we call attention to the following items and footings. We give the best part first:

"Two missions, not assessed anything, paid as follows: Upper Mississippi, $15; and Italy, $10. The Chicago German Conference was the only one which paid the full amount of the apportionment; and, wonderful to tell, one conference, the New Jersey, overpaid $16

"With sadness we now record the failures of some of the conferences. The South India and Tennessee did not pay even one-fifth of the amount apportioned them for the expenses of the General Conference. The following conferences did not pay even one-third of the amount apportioned; namely, Arkansas, Detroit, Lexington, Louisiana and Nebraska. The following conferences did not pay one-half; namely, Minnesota, West Nebraska, Washington, North Ohio, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Genesco, Kansas, New England, New England Southern, Pittsburg and Northwest Nebraska. The following conferences only paid two thirds of the amount apportioned to them; namely, Central Illinois, Erie, Central New York and Northwest Kansas."

If no action is taken to correct these wrongs, nor to discipline these delinquents, we will probably have things worse to deal with in meeting the expenses of the coming General Conference. Because of the relation of our ministry to the Book Concern and all the publishing interests of the Church, it is understood that each minister faithfully performs all his duties in selling books and in circulating our official Church papers. By this means he can honorably and honestly look to the proceeds of the Book Concern in the day of his financial need to aid him in his own support and that of his family.

The sale of books now is not as large, and consequently not as profitable, as the sale of periodicals. At this time we have twelve periodicals published by our Book Concerns, and from this source largely comes the bulk of the net proceeds which from time to time is paid over to the annual conferences, according to the number of traveling preachers in them.

But there has sprung up in the Church as many unofficial Methodist papers as there are official ones. No part of the net proceeds from these papers is distributed throughout the Church, as it should be, to aid in the support of traveling preachers. Even the territory of Ohio is invaded by one of these unofficial papers. We are informed that in Michigan there are twenty thousand Methodist papers taken, and yet only eight hundred of them are official. In such territory there is a full-handed taking out of the common treasury of the Church, where little, if anything, is put into it. For an advertisement of the books of our Church, our agents must pay these independent papers just as they pay papers of other Churches. At the same time the superannuate preachers in such territory receive as much from the net proceeds of the Book Concern as if they liberally supported the institutions of the Church. The principle ought to be applied by the Church to the conferences which have instituted, and now support independent Methodist papers, that those who do not work shall not eat. If they do nothing to support the official papers, surely they should not share in the profits arising from their circulation.

It is presumed by the Discipline that we all make a faithful and honest effort to pay into the proper treasury all that it is made our duty to collect of connectional funds, and that we will not turn away from our official Church papers, but will heartily and loyally support them, so that we can rightfully accept our pro rata amount of the proceeds when dividends are made.

All pastors and Church officials know that, of the funds collected by the stewards, the pastor, the presiding elder, and the bishops are to share pro rata as to the amount of their claims. In spite of this law, the last treasurer's report shows the following deficits, which we fear cannot be interpreted as showing an honest and square division:

"The Arkansas and Holston Conferences did not pay one-tenth of the amount apportioned to them of the Episcopal Fund. No one believes that the pastors and presiding elders, in these cases, received but one-tenth of the salary allowed. Central Alabama and Little Rock did not pay one-eighth of the amount. North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Blue Ridge and Lexington did not pay one-fifth. West Nebraska, Central Alabama, East Tennessee, Louisiana, Tennessee and Upper Mississippi, not one-fourth. South Dakota, Black Hills, St. John's River, Central Tennessee, Columbia River, West Nebraska, Nebraska, North Nebraska and Kentucky did not pay one-third. The following did not pay one-half the amount apportioned to them for episcopal support; namely, Washington, Puget Sound, Oregon, California German, Colorado, Florida, Missouri, Montana, Northwest Kansas, St. Louis, Southern Illinois and West Wisconsin. In all the Church, only three-fourths of that apportioned was collected."

These serious deficits make it necessary for a larger per cent to be called for. This kind of work now threatens, and will soon, if it be continued, destroy our connectional unity. Cannot all these things be cured before revolution needs to be resorted to? Can not we find a remedy to be applied to those pastors and presiding elders who now take that which they ought to know does not belong to them? Also, can not we find some discipline for stewards who wink at and record such actions as they must know are both illegal and dishonest? Do not God's Word and the Discipline teach us that we are to drive away all dishonesty and fraud?

If a bishop were to permit a pastor to remain a month at one charge over the Disciplinary limit, there would be a cry from one end of the Church to another against it, and men would lift up holy hands in horror; but neglect as to keeping obligation to collect money for a cause we have agreed to sustain, and fraud in the distribution of funds, are not looked on by some as very virulent sins. How we strain out gnats and swallow camels!

Our present Church laws are such that we, of a given Annual Conference, cannot with much certainty make another conference clean up its roster of sinners. The law ought to be such that this could be done. At the present we cannot bring offenders in other annual conferences to trial, unless they are in sympathy with the proceedings. Few jurymen will convict men when their verdict criminates themselves. But we can, I think, enact such laws that these annual conferences which sin without check, will out of sheer self-respect keep the law.

We have a common fund, the net proceeds of the Book Concern, and we can have the law such that the proper officers shall so keep the accounts with each annual conference as to know how many official papers are taken, and what the respective deficits are, both as to the General Conference Expense Fund and the Episcopal Fund, and subtract all these from the quota of said annual conference of its Book Concern profits, and at the same time make the basis of the quota depend on the number of official Church papers taken in the bounds of the conference. We suggest that the average per member in the whole Church be the standard.

This plan, if adopted, may at first seem to work a hardship to superannuate preachers. But they are in the conferences where the shirking and these frauds are practiced, and they can and they will get speedy justice; and will, if they desire it, soon secure reform and all the reign of righteousness.

As years go on, all Church business is brought down more and more to the acknowledged correct standards of business practiced everywhere. I am looking for a millennium in this department to speedily come to all Church transactions. Let us wake up, clean up, and get ready for it.

Just as soon as members of the annual conferences find that other conferences will not provide for their superannuates, either directly or indirectly, they will then devise means to do it themselves. When they find they cannot sit in the shade and take, without protest, the fruit of the labors of those whose brows have dripped with perspiration to raise supplies, they, too, will honestly go to work. There are men, and whole conferences full of them, who are willing to be carried, and are willing to have their burdens carried, if they can find those who will carry them.

We are sure that the crookedness connected with our publishing interests, our General Conference Expense Fund, and our Episcopal Fund, is fully ripe for General Conference investigation, and for some vigorous treatment by that body looking to reform.

"Trust Those who have Tried."

Catarrh caused hoarseness and difficulty in speaking. I also to a great extent lost hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill.

I used Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh and have received great benefit. I believe it a safe and certain cure. Very pleasant to take.—Wm. Frazer, Rochester, N. Y.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

An Appeal.

To the Presidents and Secretaries of the Woman's Home Missionary of the Texas Conference and to the Pastors in charge:

We make appeal to you, as your words given at the last annual conference that you would assist us in carrying on the work. We call upon you to see that an auxilary be organized at all hazards and push forward the work. We are now making a strenous effort to raise money to defray the expenses of our delegate from the Woman's Home Missionary Society to meet the Board of the General Society, which will convene in Columbus, Ohio, November next. Let each district president see that her district does not fall behind in raising the amount assessed—$16 65. We ought to be encouraged when we think of how Mrs. Col. Springer traveled this broad State of Texas, lecturing in every important place, that the society might gain prestige again. Let us get up the money necessary to meet that General Executive Board. The amount to each district is $16 65. We make another appeal to every auxilary to forward his or her report as early as possible. We all need to be aroused just a little out of our sleep and set to work. Now I hope to have an early reply from all the pastors urging this matter, as it is very important that we should be represented. Yours for the work, A. E. McMorris, Sec'y,

Hearne, Texas.

Cumberland River District.

The following is the program for the Cumberland River District Sunday School Institute, to be held at Gallatin, Tenn., July 25, in connection with the the district conference:

We hope to make it a success; all members of the Sunday school work are asked to take part in the institute. Each pastor will please bring his best workers with him; also, ask them to prepare to discuss all of the subjects that are on the paper. The pastor or some one from each charge will be expected to handle the different subjects. They are as follows:

Alexandria—How may home help the Sunday school? Byersville—How Sunday school helps home. Cooksville—May we have a home Sunday school in each family. Gainsboro—How would the Sunday school be more valuable. Gordonsville—How may the family aid in the work of pulpit and other social meetings of the church. Gallatin—Why should parents attend the Sunday school. Hartsville—The mothers' meeting and its relation to the Sunday school. Lebanon—How may family prayer be rendered to help school work. Mitchellsville—Is the Sunday school independent of the church? Mt. Zion—Sunday schools and class meetings. Braden's Chapel—Sunday school and church prayer meetings. West End Mission—The duties of all church members to the Sunday school. North Lebanon—What is the relation of the pastor to the Sunday school and church? Springfield—What are his duties while in his study to the Sunday school? Union Hill—What is the best hour for holding Sunday school. Rev. L. M. Moores—Should special services in the church, such as conferences and dedications, interfer with the session of the Sunday school?

G. C. Hardin,

President of S. S. Institute.

It is Known By Its Cures

It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit.

The thousands of people whom it has raised from disease and despair to happiness and health, are the strongest and best advertisements Hood's Sarsaparilla has. No other preparation in existence has such a record of wonderful cures.

This is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale, and requires for its production the largest laboratory in the world.

Now if you need a good medicine, why not try that which has done others so much good. Remember

CHRISTIAN PROGRESS VS. SEPARATION.

Of one thing we are absolntely certain: "God is no respecter of persons." We are no less emphatic in onr belief, that the protessed followers of the meek and lowly Jesns—Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, and in fact of any denomination—have no right, moral, or social, or ecclesiastical, to draw the line against any class of people professing the same like precions faith.

To the late International Epworth League Conference at Chattanooga was presented the most magnificent opportnnity, since the dawning of the Christian era, for the representatives of millions of Protestants Christians to give evidence of such a growth in Christian love as would permit them to rise above their prejudices and accept the colored Christian as a man and brother. This it did not do, and the opportnnity, the best that has ever been presented to our American Methodism, is passed and forever.

There was absolntely no occasion for a separate place for colored Epworthians. There was no special necessity for the scant representation of the Afro American on the regnlar program. There was fact no occasion for that stndied and premeditated stiffness "which occasionally thrnsts its hideons presence where it conld be only an offense." There was certainly no occasion for the subtle threat that organic union will be resisted at all hazards. We believe, somehow, that as mnch as union or federation is desired, it should not be thrnst npon people over the points of their bayonet-fixed gnns. The only nnion worth having and worthy of the name, is that which springs ont of pure hearts.

Those colored brethern who refused to take the places assigned to colored people, are to be applanded for doing just what other dignified Christian gentlemen wonld have done. Bnt what a comment on the boasted march of Christian sentiments of this age—that a man, because he possesses a black skin, is considered not only an inferior, bnt his presence in a gathering of Christian white people, is always and everywhere regarded as a thing which must not be permitted!

The good Christian people who witnessed this nnnecessary discrimination at Chattanooga did not fail to speak of it in the most emphatic terms. This is as it shonld be; let the truth be told. It is indeed refreshing to know that the religions press of the Methodist Episcopal Chnrch, official and semi-official, have spoken against this abominable nonsense with such an emphasis as may not be misnnderstood.

What a pity it is, to have the record of this magnificent gathering disfigured by this nnfortunate incident!

Our people might as well understand that the Negro in the Methodist Episcopal Church is the growth of more than a centnry. He was a factor, and an important one too, in the first organized Methodist meeting of which we have any record. He was regarded, even in his illiterate condition, as a most faithfnl ally to Wesley and his coadjntors. His voice has mingled in the connsels and in all the progressive movements of the Chnrch since its organization. The best blood of the Church was ponred out freely for his emancipation, and the best wealth of the Chnrch has been freely given to advance and improve his moral and intellectnal condition. It might as well be understood then, that he will not consent to being driven out now, even thongh his going might be considered by a few dreamers as the removal of an obstacle in the way of federation or nnion. He is not going in that way, and the SOUTHWESTERN sincerely hopes that to a man the colored members of the Methodist Episcopal Chnrch will regard with snspicion every suggestion of separate autonomy, separate conferences, separate bishops, or anything else which will break up the continnity of Methodistic solidarity, whether those snggestions come from the white man within or without, or from the black man himself. We do not believe in the freezing out process; neither do we regard it as a Christian act to sacrifice a race of people, ont of deference to inherited prejndices. We protest, in the name of God and hnmanity, against these nnholy concessions and compromises which invariably reveal the weakness of the body or bodies which snggest it. Nor is this the only harm; the whole canse of Christianity is insulted when any body or bodies of its professed followers refuse to be governed by the Sermon on the Monnt, and yield to politeness, so-called, for the sake of conciliation. Conciliation of what? Might as well try to stop the cataract of Niagara with a blade of straw, as to try to convince the Christian Negro that the mere accident of his color marks him as an inferior in the kingdom of the Lord Jesns Christ. He has some rights in that kingdom, and he proposes to assert them with nnquestioning faith in the ultimate triumph of trnth and righteousness.

We invoke onr brethren everywhere to close up the ranks. Let ns reach for the highest and best qualifications of mind and heart. Onr faith in the Methodist Episcopal Chnrch has never wavered. We believe she has carefnlly and jealonsly gnarded all our interests, and has ever acted for the highest and best good of all of her children, and especially of those of darker hno. What she has done in the past she will do in the fntnre; and more, because greater and better qualifications on our part will assuredly evoke that confidence and recognition which will meet every reasonable demand. Let there be no separation.

THE SPIRIT OF SEVENTY-SIX.

More than one hundred years have passed away since the great liberty bell at Philadelphia rang ont in joyons notes the declaration that the colonists would henceforth be a free and independent people. It will go without saying that that sentiment has given inspiration to the manifold activities of the descendants of those worthy sons in giving to the galaxy of the nation the best form of political government npon the face of the earth.

We have reasons to believe that the fathers of the American revolntion were inspired by lofty and patriotic instincts, and that they relied npon an Almighty arm to gnide them throngh the dangers and difficnlties which beset thom. It was that character which gave stability to our government, and evoked the admiration and recognition of all the civilized powers. Bnt we believe that many of the sons of these immortal heroes have proven recreant to the glorions heritage transmitted to them. It was the spirit of freedom that inspired the fathers to monld into the metal that shonld ring ont their bold defiance—"Proclaim liberty throughont the land unto all inhabitants thereof." It was that spirit that inspired the brave Patrick Henry to utter that thrilling and impassioned keynote of freedom, "Give me liberty or give me death!" a sentiment that has been woven into the very warp and fiber of American patriotism. It seems almost incredible, that before the first century of American independence had been completed, the Temple of Liberty which the fathers erected had well nigh been destroyed by their sons, many of whom were as clamorons for its overthrow as were their fathers desirous for its permanent establishment.

It seems equally incredible that human slavery shonld be permitted to exist dnring nearly all of the first centnry of American independence. It is well known that the great Thomas Jefferson embodied in his origiual draft of the Declaration of Independence a clanse strongly condemning the Africau slave trade, and whioh, but for strong protests from Sonth Carolina and Georgia, wonld have been adopted. Bnt few up-to-date people will deny that the clanse, "all men are created equal," was nnderstood by the fathers to inclnde men black as well as white. It mnst occur strange to the carefnl stndent of American history, and yet it is nevertheless true, that this fnndamental principle, the sonrce of the streugth and perpetnity of onr government, shonld be the greatest obstacle in the way of its political progress. It is safe to say, that althongh we had the best form of political government, the best and most comprehensive declaration of hnman rights in the world, there was no real peace. From the date of the recognition of American independence in 1782 to the issnance of the proclamation of emancipation in 1863, slavery was the great question that brought discussion, and disoontent, and vitnperation, and secession, and the greatest sangninary civil conflict in all the ages. And it is yet more incredible that thirty years after the issuance of the docnment which abolished slavery, there are States in this Union which have done by legislation what they failed to do npon the batte field. They have laws npon their statnte books which practically disfranchise nearly eight millions of citizens. Everywhere south of Mason and Dixon's line, disguise it as we may, the Negro is less than an American citizen. He does not possess the rights of "life, liberty, and the pnrsnit of happiness," except in a very greatly modified form. Politically and religionsly, he is an alien—a pariah, so to speak.

It is strange, yet trne, that many of those who yet have their heels upon the neck of the Afro-American, prate the more loudly of their patriotism, and who grow eloquent as they recall the stirring scenes of '76, when their fathers stood up for human liberty and the rights of man. Hence, the Negro will be pardoned if he does not enter with so mnch fervor into the celebration of Independence Day. If, when others sing, "My conntry 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty," he does not join in with characteristic fervor and pathos, it is because that "in the conrse of hnman events," others, have come into place and power who pnt an interpretation upon the Declaration of Independence never contemplated by its framers. Books are published, in which the leading characters in the greatest conspiracy of the ages are made to pose as martyrs to the holy cause of liberty; while efforts are made to instill into the minds of American yonth the idea that this "government of the people, and by the people, and for the people," is continually threatened with dissolntion by the irrepressible Negro. Bnt the spirit of '76 yet lives. Trnth will rise, though crushed, and He who holds in his hands the destinies of men, and angels, and nations, will yet make our country in practice, and in fact "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

THE "SOUTHWESTERN" AND THE TEXAS CONFERENCE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

In another colnmn we publish an elaborate program for the Texas Conference Epworth Leagne, in which there are some thirty-eight different topics assigned for discnssion, inclnding the relation of the Leagne to The Epworth Herald, and also to Wiley University.

We confess to some disappointment as we scanned the copy, to find that there was no reference to the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, notwithstanding it has rendered most efficient aid in pnblishing Chnrch notices, district and qnarterly conference reports, and in fact all matter pertaining to onr Missionary, Chnrch Extension and Edncational work. For reasons whioh we need not give here, we have felt that onr noble Texas brethren shonld have a very lively interest in securing the snccess of the paper which is nnderstood by a vast majority of Methodist people to be their official jonrnal. The SOUTHWESTERN will consider itself highly favored to have even a slight recognition on the District Conference, Sunday School Institute and Epworth League programs, believing that its claims are as important as any that can possibly be considered.

Come, brethren, let ns have "no fooling." We could name a score of brethren—yes, a hnndred of them in the noble Lone Star State who wonld not only be pleased to speak in the interest of the SOUTHWESTERN, bnt who wonld speak with that effectiveness which would add to our increasing list of subscribers, if given a place on the program.

—Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, the efficient Assistant Corresponding Secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, accomplished a feat in traveling, last week, rarely excelled. On Thnrsday and Friday he was at the great International Conference of Epworth Leaguers at Chattanooga, Tenn.; Saturday and Sunday he was at Vaiden, Dnck Hill and Summit, Miss., having paid, on Wednesday night, a flying visit to Shubuta District Conference at Ellisville, Miss., and rounded up safe and sound at New Orleans Monday morning. His visits to the district conferences created new enthusiasm for the cause which he so ably represents,

Just What's Needed,

Exclaims thousands of people who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla at this season of the year, and who have noted the success of the medicine in giving them relief from that tired feeling, waning appetite and state of extreme exhaustion after the close confinement of a long winter season, the busy time attendant upon a large and pressing business during the spring months and with vacation time yet some weeks distant. It is then the building-up powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are fully appreciated. It seems perfectedly adapted to overcome that prostration caused by change of season, climate or life, and while it tones and sustains the system, it purifies and vitalizes the blood.

Notice.

The Union Camp Meeting, under the auspices of the Pastors Association of the Methodist Episcopal Churches of the city of Houston at Langs' Grove, Fifth Ward, will begin Monday evening, August 5, and close Thursday evening, August 15. Other ministers of the Houston District are invited to attend. Nearly all our city churches have been favored by the outpouring of the Holy Ghost during the spring revival meetings when a large number of souls were happily saved, but we are not satisfied to stop here. The arrangement and entertainment committees are doing their work well, and will be fully prepared to entertain any good minister from any part of our work to help save sinners. You are cordially invited; and should you decide to come give notice beforehand to any one of the city pastors. F. PARKER, Ch'n.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

The Preachers' Meeting on the 2nd was made more interesting by the presence and all-round talk of Dr. M. C. B. Mason, assistant corresponding secretary Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society.

Memorial services, commemorative of the death of the late Rev. W. P. Forest, were held at Wesley M. E. Church on Thursday last. The attendance was thoroughly representative, though not as large either by the clergy or laity as could be desired. Rev. J. F. Marshall, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, presided. The following ministers took part in the interesting and impressive services: Revs. E. Fields, T. G. Montgomery, J. Davis, E. B. Richards, W. R. Butler, T. J. Johnson, F. Walker, A. E. P. Albert, D. D.; the Editor of this paper, and one of the prominent ladies of Wesley Chapel. The choir rendered good service, and the exercises were impressive and instructive.

On Monday night the 1st inst., about 10 p. m., the stillness of the night was broken by a strange choir singing, "Jesus, the light of the world." This was followed by a continual knocking on the writer's front door. On opening the door it was at once discovered that they were members of Malden Chapel. After another sweet song, and a speech by B. H. Scott, a basket filled with good things was presented to the pastor. Misses Laura Strong, Virginia Bulleney, Julia Adanf, Frances Bernard, and Messrs. Frank Narcisse and Joseph Stephens were among the visitors. We welcome such guests. Call again. J. O. RICHARDS.

Y. P. S. C. E.—The Endeavorers of this city celebrated the 'glorious Fourth" by a good citizenship rally at Central Congregational Church. Rev. C. H. Crawford, president of the State Union, and Rev. A. M. Green, D. D., editor of the "Southwestern Christian Recorder," spoke on Christian citizenship. The grand thought that "His truth is marching on" was emphasized by both speakers. The following resolutions were presented and adopted:

WHEREAS, The police records and daily papers give ample evidence of the injury done to the moral and social welfare of the youth of our city by the places of dissipation known as free and easy fandango halls or dance houses, and, feeling that it is a subject of vital importance to all good citizens, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Christian Endeavor Union of New Orleans in mass meeting assembled, do hereby earnestly petition our mayor and Police Board to enforce Act 120 of 1890 and close these resorts of sin and infamy which are such a source of danger to the best interest of our city.

Resolved, That we hereby express our hearty appreciation of the efforts being made to enforce the Sunday law, and hereby pledge ourselves to assist in securing its enforcement by strictly observing its provisions and avoiding any semblance of Sabbath desecration, whether by parades, excursions, base ball games or parties on the Lord's day.

Mrs. R. C. Montgomery, wife of T. G. Montgomery, left the city with her son and daughter and Miss Louise Anderson to spend the summer in Handsboro, Miss.

The big and genial pastor of old Wesley, this city, Rev. T. J. Johnson, was made happy by a reception tendered him by the stewardesses of the church, on the occasion of his safe return from the International Epworth League Conference. The affair was at his home, and the evening was delightfully spent. The following distinguished guests were present: Rev. Wm. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Higgins; Mmes. M. Epps, E. Madison, T. Richardson, M. Hill, H. Johnson, J. Martin; Misses E. Johnson, L. Johnson, Eliza Johnson. Brother Johnson is greatly beloved by the Wesleyans, and is deservedly popular man and the people.

The Editor of this paper, by invitation, preached to the congregation of St. Peter's A. M. E. Church on last Sunday night. The attendance was large, and the services, we trust, were profitable to all.

The pastor, Rev. G. E. Tyler, D. D., and officiary of St. James A. M. E. Church, have an excellent program for next Sunday, July 14. An effort will be made to collect $500 to cancel the debt on their new parsonage. The Editor of this paper will preach at 11 a. m. The Union Meeting and class rally will be held at 3 p. m. The following ministers with their congregations and choirs have been invited, and promise to be present and assist in the rally with song, prayer, sermons and money, viz: Revs. J. W. Willard, of Union Bethel; J. C. Clark, M. D., of St. Peter's; D. G Butler, of Pleasant Plains; F. James, of St. John's; J. L. Burrell, D. D., of First Baptist Church; W. R. Butler, of First Street M. E. Church; J D. Haynes, of Little Bethel Mission; A. M. Green, editor of "Southwestern Christian Recorder;" H. Taylor, of Simpson Chapel; Dr. H. C. Green, of Tulane Avenue Baptist Tabernacle; T. J. Johnson, of Wesley Chapel; Ford, of Union Chapel; Wm. H. Hardy, of Morris Brown; Elder Leach, of Bebe Chapel; T. A. Wilson, P. E., W. W. Sanderson.

Sermon at 7:30 p. m., by Rev. A. M. Green, D. D. After the sermon Miss Bibb will give us a rendition of "Hagar," one of her original poems. Monday night, Union and Jubilee Class Meeting; Tuesday night, Sacred Concert by the Two Choirs of St. James.

It was a rare privilege to be able to hear two of the high officials of the African M. E. Church, at St. Peter's African M. E. Church, on Sunday last. At 11 a. m., Rev. J. H. Armstrong, D. D., financial secretary, preached a noble and eloquent discourse which very greatly edified the large congregation present. At 3 p. m., Bishop B. F. Lee, D. D., preached grandly and effectively to a splendid congregation. Dr. Armstrong reports an increase in the collections for all purposes, and is very greatly encouraged by the outlook. Bishop Lee is stopping over in the city, having just returned from the commencement exercises at Wilberforce University, which he pronounces the best ever held there. He is an able and eloquent expounder of the Word, a fearless champion of the rights of his people, and is thoroughly devoted to the great work which looks toward the uplifting of the Afro-American.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

How a Woman Paid Her Debts!

I am out of debt, and thanks to the Dish Washer business for it. In the past five weeks I have made over $500, and I am so thankful that I feel like telling everybody, so that they can be benefitted by my experience. Anybody can sell Dish Washers, because everybody wants one, especially when it can be got so cheap. You can wash and dry the dishes in two minutes. I believe that in two years from now every family will have one. You can get full particulars and hundreds of testimonials by addressing the Iron City Dish Washer Co., 143 S. Highland Ave., Station A, Pittsburg, Pa., and you can't help but make money in this business. I believe that I can clear over $2,000 the coming year, and I am not going to let such an opportunity pass without improvement. We can't expect to succeed without trying. MRS. E.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St, New Orleans.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Nadab and Abihu.

(Lev. 10. 1-11.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou nor thy sons with thee." (Lev. 10. 1-11.)

Moses succeeded in bringing about a state of reconciliation between God and the people. The Lord then talked with him in a familiar way. The tables of the law were renewed. The people gave for the tabernacle till their liberality was restrained. Directions were given for erecting it. When it was completed a cloud covered it, and the glory of the Lord filled it. Laws regarding many kinds of sacrifices were given. Aaron and his sons were set apart for the priestly office. They entered upon their duties. This lesson is a sad break in the giving of the law.

I. The sin and death of Nadab and Abihu (1, 2). What did they do to bring this awful judgment upon them? 1. Their sin. (1) They were not commanded to offer strange fire before the Lord. They were wise above what was written. They were young. Self-confidence ruled better judgment. They had recently been highly honored by the Lord. They were exalted above measure. Let all young ministers be reverent, and filled with godly fear. (2) They had been forbidden to do this work. This was not a sin of ignorance, but of presumption. They knew better. Sins of presumption are almost as dangerous as the sin against the Holy Ghost. (3) They "offered strange fire before the Lord." They used common and not celestial fire when they burnt incense. Instead of using fire from the altar of burnt-offerings, which had fallen from heaven, they used fire obtained elsewhere. We offer strange fire when we come before the Lord with our heart filled with unbelief, or presumption, or irreverence, or carnal affections, or worldly amusements, or superstitious terrors. (4) They were likely intoxicated (see verse nine). They acted like they were drunk. They were rash, irreverent and foolish. Ministers should not be "given to much wine," but let them "be blameless, sober, and of good behavior."

2. Their punishment. (1) It was severe—"They died." Would not some lighter punishment have done? He punished King Uzziah with leprosy when he attempted to offer incense before Him, and Zachariah with dumbness when he doubted His power. God did not think any punishment short of death would answer for this sin at this time. The Judge of all the earth will do right (2) It was sudden. In the very act of their sin, and without a moment's warning, they were hurled into eternity. They did not have time to cry for mercy. They died as if struck by lightning. They were cut off in the prime of life, and soon after they had been blessed with high honors. God is long suffering to us-ward, and not willing that any should perish, yet there is a line beyond which we may not pass. (3) It was by fire. By fire they had transgressed, and with fire they were punished. The fire of heaven will consume sin and sanctify the nature, but the fire of hell will work eternal death. The same instrument may be a curse to one and a blessing to another. (4) It was before the Lord. In front of the veil that covered the mercy seat. The presence of God dwelt in the cloud beneath the wings of the cherubs. This judgment was nearby. We should realize that God is everywhere and every work is before Him. This judgment was necessary to vindicate the majesty of God; to impress the people with the sanctity of His service, and to prevent a like offense.

II. The address of Moses (3-7). 1. He comforted Aaron. (1) "This is it that the Lord spake." These words are not found elsewhere in the Pentateuch. They had no doubt been spoken to Moses, but he had not committed them to writing Not all that God has said to the human family can be found in the Bible. But we have in it enough for faith and practice. (2) "I will be sanctified in them that come nigh me." We may draw near to God in worship. Not in outward form only, but in our heart as well. We sanctify Him in our devotions when we recognize His holiness, goodness and love: when we see our own sinfulness and weakness. (3) "And before all the people I will be glorified." Their death was likely not seen by many, for it occurred in the tabernacle. But the news soon spread throughout the camp. There was no doubt paleness on every cheek, and sadness in each heart. We glorify God when we honor, exalt and praise Him. (4) "And Aaron held his peace." He said not a word. The deepest grief is borne in silence. He realized that God was just, and death for sin was right. We should strive to see God's hand in all His works.

2. He gave orders about the dead. (1) The persons who took charge of the remains were relatives. They were not the nearest of kin. Their father and brothers were forbidden to act in this matter. But they were those who knew and loved the dead. (2) They carried them out of the camp to bury them. The custom of associating churches and graveyards, as though both were dead alike, has no foundation in Scripture. The church has to do with the living. The graveyard is the last resting place of the dead. (3) They likely buried them in their priestly robes. There was no eulogy pronounced over them, and but little display at their burial. Moses had charge of the service, and all he said was to the living. We preach funerals for the benefit of the living, and not for the good of the dead.

3. He gave directions about mourning. (1) Aaron and his sons were forbidden to mourn. a. "Uncover not your heads." "Let not the hair of your heads go loose." Let it not be dishevelled. Do not let it hang about your face as an expression of grief. b "Neither rend your clothes." Do not take the right hand and rend the robes till the flesh over the heart is made bear. This was an expression of great grief. (2) They were forbidden to leave the tabernacle. Two reasons are given for this—a. "The anointing oil of the Lord is upon you." God's work must be done first. Discharging the duties of the priest's office is greater than burying the dead. Let all who have been anointed by the Holy Spirit make God's work their first duty. b. "Lest ye die." God's judgments on others should make us careful, lest we receive the same fate. Let us be thoughtful and prudent, and not offend the Majesty of heaven. (3) "They did according to the word of Moses." They were resigned. They felt that the sin of Nadab and Abihu was great and their punishment just. They mourned not for the dead, and remained in the tabernacle.

III. The words of God to Aaron (8-11). The Lord usually spoke to him through Moses. But here his resignation and contrition caused Deity to speak with him. 1. The Prohibition—"Do not drink wine or strong drink." Wine in this place means the fermented juice of the grape. Strong drink refers to other intoxicating drinks. They were usually made of honey, dates, and barley. They were forbidden to drink these while performing the work of the priest. They broke no law of God if they did not drink them at other times. The rule of safety is on the side of total abstinence.

2. The Reasons—(1) "That ye may put difference between holy and unholy." Those who use strong drink see but little difference between love and hate, truth and falsehood, holy and unholy, clean and unclean. Such a one is not worthy to come before the Lord and administer in holy things. (2) "That ye may teach the children of Israel." The first duty of the priest was to offer sacrifices, and his second work was to teach the people. We may have knowledge without conviction. If we attempt to teach others, without feeling the importance of what we say, they will see the hollowness of our soul, and turn away with disgust. Strong drink makes men blind, careless and irreverent; it often brings upon them sudden death; it causes deep silent grief by near relatives, and profound sorrow of the people.

may read. No woman, if she can read, can fail to know about Pearline. Then, if you're worn out with hard work or find your clothes going to pieces, you've only yourself to blame.

You'll have to choose your own way of washing. You can use soap and the washboard, and tire yourself out, and rub your clothes to tatters.

You can use so-called washing-powders, imitations of Pearline, and have easier work, though they're eating up the clothes. Or you can use Pearline, wash in the easiest way, and be absolutely certain that there isn't the slightest harm.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 576 JAMES PYLE, New York.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Ohio District.

Dear Brethren—Our quarterly visits have been exceedingly pleasant. We begin our second under the most favorable circumstances and hope to accomplish great good. Take special pains in the benevolent collections and you will have no blanks. Raise your minute money and forward to presiding elder. The district conference, Sunday school institute and Epworth league chapters meet at Portsmouth, at 9 a. m., August 20. District stewards meet the 21st at 3 p. m. The other presiding elders, editor of SOUTHWESTERN and some one of the secretaries of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society are invited to attend.

Opening sermon by Rev. N. H. Talbott, and missionary sermon by Rev. J. S. Henry. Respectfully, yours,

M. S. JOHNSON, P. E.,
186 West 4th street, Cincinnati, O.

Houston District.

Dear Brethren—Allow me to remind you of the fact that the financial report of our district last year was the best ever reached, though we fell a few dollars short of our thousand-dollar limit. Let us strive to reach it this year. Our district conference will convene September 3 in Houston. I have arranged with Dr. Hartzell to have Dr. Mason meet with us on that occasion. The roll will be called, when all pastors will be expected to report in full their apportionment to the Freedmen's Aid.

We reported about 3,000 members last year and 45 local preachers. We should, therefore, have not less than 100 cash subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN at conference, as our conference decided last year that all local preachers must take that paper before their license would be renewed.

Brethren, bear in mind that the annual conference will meet at Galveston, December 11. Bishop Andrews will preside. On that occasion we will all recieve our appointments for the ensuing year, which may result in disappointment to some, because all our charges are not first-class. Our Church needs good and tried men, who will support all her institution, build churches, pay debts and bring souls to Christ. Yours. WM. BARTLEY.

Waynesboro District.

Dear Brethren—The district conference will meet August 21, in Augusta, Ga., at St. Mark Church at 9 a. m. Introductory sermon by Rev. M. P. Moore. Brethren, you are expected to meet the district conference with every dollar of benevolent money that can be raised. We expect one of the officers of the Freedmen's Aid Society to be present and several of our distinguished brethren. Each of the local preachers must meet the district conference prepared to pass his examination on the first day. The exhorters, class leaders, superintendents and delegates must be on hand. The Sunday school convention and Epworth League officers will meet with the district conference. The program will be out in time. Reduced rates will be procured over all lines.

Brethren, let us meet the district conference expecting a glorious time spiritually. Remember our vow for the SOUTHWESTERN. Yours in Christ,

R. R. O'NEAL, P. E.

Brookhaven District.

Kind Brethren—I have done the best I can do for the third round, hoping you may have your meetings so arranged that I may help you in your benevolent collections. We should do our very best from now on to stand in the front for the old SOUTHWESTERN. Yours truly,

I. L. PRATT, P. E.

Navasota District.

The Sunday School Institute and Epworth League convention will be held at Brenham, July 18-21. Reduced rates on the certificate plan, on the G. C. & S. F. R. This plan requires all delegates to purchase one way ticket to Brenham and take receipt from the selling agent, showing that this amount has been paid. These certificates, after having been signed by R. B. Smith, must be presented to O. W. Landry, who will stamp and countersign same. Those of you going to Brenham must leave on the 17th.

GALLONS FOR 25¢

Not of the preparations of coloring matter and essential oils so often sold under the name of rootbeer, but of the purest, most delicious, health-giving beverage possible to produce. One gallon of Hires' is worth ten of the counterfeit kind. Suppose an imitation extract costs five cents less than the genuine Hires; the same amount of sugar and trouble is required; you save one cent a gallon, and—get an unhealthful imitation in the end. EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—We noticed in the Times-Democrat of Saturday last an inquiry touching the management of the Lafon Old Folks' Home of this city that is very suggestive. We would be extremely glad if some one having authority would give to the public the reasons why there has been so much tardiness in the administration of the sacred trust reposed in them.

—We are pained to announce the death of Rev. H. B. Gladney, pastor of our church at Hernando, Miss. The sad event occurred on the 5th instant. He was a good man, and fell at his post of duty with sword in hand. He leaves a wife and two children. Let the prayers of his brethren ascend to the throne of grace in behalf of the bereaved ones, and let substantial help flow toward them in the midst of their greatest bereavement.

—There is a shadow of truth in the report that some thoughtless colored people asked for separate seats at the Epworth Conference. It is a pity; but the request should have been denied. They could have found seats in any part of the tent without unusual inconvenience. The temper and tone of several of our Methodist journals, North and South, indicate an increasing interest in the social and moral welfare of the colored man. Prejudice dies slowly, but die it must.

—"Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith saith the Lord of hosts if I will not open you the windows of heaven and pour you out a blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

The wonderful provisions of God's all-abounding grace are conditioned upon the surrender of ourselves entirely to his service. Whatever we have and are must be his wholly. He must have all the tithes. All our zeal, and interest, and love must be centered in Him. When we are thus in the fullest accord, in the most perfect harmony with his Word and will, then it is that he will pour down upon our hearts and lives blessings which will not only startle us for their profusion, but will completely satisfy all our wants, meet every desire, and give us the sweet consciousness of his indwelling spirit.

—Rev. J. H. Reed, A. M., of Paris, Texas, always writes forcibly. His article on "The Negro and Liquor Traffic" is worthy of special attention. It is too often too true, that during contests for local option in some of our Southern towns and cities, that colored church members have been found among the most ardent supporters of the saloon—no use in denying the fact, to which thousands can attest. It is also stated on good authority that there have been instances in which class leaders, stewards, trustees, and even preachers, have admonished the people to defend the saloon. We believe that many a corner groggery, especially near a church, is very greatly encouraged by the patronage which it receives from the members of the church. What is the remedy? Turn these enemies of the church out; let no man be appointed to lead a class or to fill the offices of steward and trustee who uses or encourages the use of intoxicants; allow no man license to preach, or admitted to an annual conference, who uses the accursed stuff. Weed out, with relentless hand, all officials in the conferences and the Church who do not take an absolute and an unequivocal stand against it.

"COLORED EPWORTH DELEGATES AT CHATTANOOGA."

The Northwestern has been devoting some attention to the statement recently published in Zion's Herald, to the effect that "the color line was drawn in the recent Epworth League Convention at Chattanooga," and says:

"We do not find that there is ground on which to impeach the Epworth Convention, though we have made careful, if not extended, inquiries. It will be remembered that all American Methodist churches in which are Epworth Leagues were invited to send delegates to the convention. The committee of arrangements, made up from the churches that accepted the invitation, discussed the issue relating to the colored people, and agreed that about half the auditorium should be devoted to delegates from our own Church, the other half to be occupied chiefly by delegates from the Southern Methodist Church and the Methodist Church in Canada. The plan was convenient, in that delegates from the respective churches could sit together for convenience of consultation. It was furthermore agreed that the colored delegates should be welcome to seats in any part of the auditorium assigned to our own church. It is said that during the first two sessions the colored delegates sat wherever they pleased. After those sessions, separate seats were assigned to these delegates at their own request, that assignment being made, however, without consultation with any Methodist Episcopal committeeman. At one time, when several colored delegates were sitting with Dr. Jennings of Minnesota, an officious and bumptious usher order the group to withdraw, threatening it with police compulsion if it failed to obey his mandate. He was invited to summon his police, but the officers did not appear. When all this was stated to the joint committee the usher's conduct was disavowed and he was reproved. All church committeemen declared their willing adhesion to the original agreement, as above stated, with the understanding that the later assignment of separate seats to colored delegates was made at their own request, and yet without the consent of white delegates from our own church."

It will thus appear, as the result of the investigations of our esteemed contemporary, that the colored delegates themselves were responsible for this drawing of the line, the assignment having been made at their own request. We do care to entertain the idea that any number of responsible colored delegates would be willing to accept any such assignment, and the bare statement that they not only accepted but requested that discrimination is, we think, misleading. We have been investigating a little on our own behalf, and while we have discovered or uncovered the colored citizen in the aggregation of fuel we are confronted by a condition. The Northwestern says that it was "agreed by the committee that the colored delegates should be welcome to seats in any part of the auditorium assigned to our own Church." That the colored delegates should ask for separate accommodations, against the expressed wishes of a committee, is a mystery. Ordinarily our people do not believe in these unholy distinctions, but occasionally we hear of one who is willing to sacrifice his manhood and race pride in deference to that class of white people who are ever ready with their handy little pellets of "expediency," "mutual choice" and such other nonsense. If neither our Church, or the committees representing all the churches, are responsible for the introduction of this unpleasant feature, an act too small for either of the great Methodisms represented, there is this suggestion: That old incubus—the Negro who wanted to be separated—was there, and unfortunately had the privilege of making a spectacle of himself, which was neither graceful or edifying. There are very many reasons why we cannot accept this conclusion, and we shall wait patiently for some one in possession of all the facts in the case to give us the name of even one of the Negroes who could consent to the breaking up of the continuity of the good Christian feeling as to request that a line of demarcation be drawn.

HOME RULE FOR COLORED SCHOOLS.

The Western of last week brought the cheering intelligence that the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, at a recent meeting, favorably considered the proposition to invest the local boards of trustees of our various institutions with more authority and responsibility in the management thereof; all of which the SOUTHWESTERN has most heartily favored, believing that in nearly every instance where difficulties have arisen with reference to administration and otherwise, that matters might have been more satisfactorily adjusted had the boards of trustees been a little more than mere "figure-heads." Perhaps the policy of the society up to this time might be overlooked when it is considered that trustees have not always been elected because of their sterling worth and general fitness for the position. If the action of the Board of Managers indicates this very desirable reform, we would respectfully suggest an order or rule requiring much more carefulness in the selection of trustees for our institutions, and an absolute rule requiring the conferences, within whose bounds the institutions are located, to select from their number the very best qualified men. Let it once be known that the opinions of such men are to be respected, and many of the disturbances which now vex and retard our educational work will melt away like snow in summer time.

OUR LADY HELPERS.

There is no reason why the wives of our presiding elders and pastors should not be enrolled among our Earnest Workers. In our judgment, when they are given an opportunity and a little encouragement by their husbands, they excel in the work. Mrs. Wade Hamilton up to date leads the list. She is a most excellent lady; possesses pluck, perseverence and patience, and goes in for success. She is the wife of Rev. Wade Hamilton, D. D., pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, Houston, Tex. The following letter was received from her a few days ago:

"Dear Doctor—Enclosed find $10 for eight cash yearly subscribers. You will please send the paper to their addresses, as follows: * * * I am glad to say to you that these are the officers of the Church. After some earnest work, I have secured their subscriptions for the paper."

We feel certain that there are many other ladies in our patronizing territory who would like to join our "Ladies' Earnest-Workers Club." Brethren, encourage the ladies of your church, and as sure as the sun shines we will reach the mark.

—The future Church will be intensely earnest, and the world must be taken for Christ with a song and a shout. Organization is a splendid thing, and there is something magnificent in the spectacle of tens of thousands of professing Christians, not only under orders, but marching forward grandly and enthusiastically. But even this is not enough. There must be consecration and a holy, ardent zeal to meet the increasing exigencies of these eager times. Above all, Christ must be enthroned in the heart.

TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

[Abbreviated because of absolutely limited space.—Ed.]

—Warrensburg Circuit, Tenn., J. M. Watson: Children's Day was observed with satisfactory results. Raised $1. I presented the claims of the SOUTHWESTERN to my people, and in return they presented me with many valuable presents, including three cash subscribers.

—Lafayette, Ala., A. S. Williams: The church is prospering grandly. I have made 100 visits, preached 52 times, received 34 conversions and accessions, and $18 70 on benevolence. Total for all purposes, $110. Sunday School increased from 60 to 150. Miss Eliza B. Nash presides acceptably, assisted by a splendid corps of teachers. We are doing all we can for the SOUTHWESTERN.

—Huntsville, Ala., A. W. McKinney: Lakeside M. E. Church had a grand rally on June 23, and collected $300, the largest collection ever taken in a single day in Huntsville. Rev. L. H. Mixon, our pastor, is worthy of all praise for his energy and zeal in the work. He is an untiring worker, and is having much success here.

—Forest City, Ark., W. S. Sherrill: Our work is in high spirit. Children's Day exercises were a success. Raised $11 10. We are among the leading schools in the city. Our church is being remodeled.

—Topeka, Kan., W. A. Ray: Miss Helen Clark, a member of the high school, and also organist of Mt. Olive M. E. Church and secretary of the Epworth League, is spending her vacation visiting her father, Rev. J. J. Clark, presiding elder of St. Joe District, at Sturgeon, Mo. From there she will visit her relatives in Illinois.

—Burnet, Texas, P. W. Crawford: The second quarterly conference passed off nicely. Reports were good. The elder preached acceptably.

—Little Bay, Ark., J. M. Wilton; Our quarterly conference was held June 2-3, with Elder A. J. Phillips presiding. Collection for all purposes, $15 55. Our pastor, Rev. J. C. Adams, is a hard worker, and deserves success.

—Louisville, Miss., D. L. Bahers: We are having a glorious time. June 15 the ladies of the church gave an entertainment, and netted quite a snug sum. The outlook is hopeful.

—Vicksburg Circuit, Miss., M. Cooper: Second quarterly conference was held, with Rev. S. A. Cowan presiding. The work is in a growing condition. Raised $19 05.

—Hattiesburg, Miss., C. Washington: At my second quarterly conference Rev. J. M. Shumpert presided. The church is in a good condition. Conversions, 4; received by probation, 16. Collected for all purposes, $44.

—Batesville, Ark., W. H. Higgins: Brother Edward Burrage, aged 75 years, and a member of the M. E. Church for 55 years, died June 17, in full peace with the Lord.

—Waterford, Miss., Paul Taylor: Our little church has been moving somewhat slowly for twelve months; but under the leadership of our present pastor, Rev. C. W. Butler, there are signs of genuine life. With 32 members in church and 61 in Sunday School, and plenty of our Church literature in the hands of every one, under our splendid leader we are bound to succeed. We have a race every week to see which one will read the SOUTHWESTERN first.

—Moss Point, Miss., R. L. Carpenter: Our second quarterly conference was held, with Rev. J. M, Shumpert, D. D., in the chair. Reports showed progress. On our rally day for our new church the collection was $41 75.

—Memphis, Tenn., D. W. Fields: The Centennary Epworth League meeting was held June 3. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, of Gammon Theological Seminary, was with us and lectured; subject, "The weightier matter of the law." It was listened to with most earnest attention. It was a splendid lecture and evoked the admiration of all who heard him.

—Shelbyville, Ky., E. D. Miller: On rally day at St. John's M. E. Church we had the Independent Sons and Daughters of Honor with us, one of the grandest benevolent societies in Shelbyville; also Rev. F. P. Fielding of Anchorage and Sister D. Lewis as valuable assistants. Total collection, $12 75. We are getting along finely. Outlook hopeful to worship in our new $5000 church soon. I promised to send 10 subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN and we expect to have them in before the end of this month.

—Ilahuville, La., E. H. Clark: A bazaar given at the St. James M. E. Church, under the auspices of the stewards, Band Sisters and other young members of the church, for the purpose of general improvements, realized clear of all expenses, $33 15.

—Winona, Miss., N. R. Clay: Brother Henry C. Collins departed this life in full triumph of faith a few days ago. He was a strong and earnest Christian, and a lover of Methodism.

—Quitman, Miss., L. Tate: The Committee on Missions, appointed to solicit money, reported, total amount, $12 43. The Quitman work is alive. Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., was with us and held the second quarter.

The Negro and the Liquor Traffic

By Rev. J. H. REED, Paris, Texas.

The times in which we live are excited by the many questions presented for solution, while ten thousand sophistries and errors supplant truth and justice and defeat the ends for which the Church and all good men struggle. The Negro at this time holds the balance of power in the suffrage of American citizenship and his vote is eagerly sought by opposite parties, in municipal, State and national politics, thus practically making him an object of barter. In this formative period of the race, balance of power is a dangerous weapon in the hands of the illiterate masses, who are moved by momentary impulses; for too often is that power directed and controlled by the schemes and selfish ends of unprincipled leadership. This phase of the Negro's relation to the body politic is brought out most prominently when it comes to the exercise of his suffrage for or against the all-absorbing question of the liquor traffic. The right of local option is now granted to our citizens by the commissioners' court in all the States. The manly and right use of this measure would contribute mightily to the agencies at work for the extermination of the saloon from our land, but the drink curse has its poisonous fangs fastened in the hearts of some of our best citizens, so that when local-option elections are held, they are made the easy prey of the whisky men and in turn influence the unthinking and vicious masses, despite the entreaties and persuasions of the ministry and in contradiction to the dictates of their own consciences. The prohibition of the liquor traffic is by no means a race question, for the blight of the saloon is felt and seen by all men alike; but when it comes to the question as to how the Negro should use that balance of power bequeated to him by the productive forces of racial evolution, it is a duty to throw that power on the side of God, and the Church and the home. To say nothing of the blessings that would crown the American government in the triumph of prohibition, the Negro owes it to himself as a race to stand on the right side of all moral questions; for it is through this channel that he is to take a permanent stand among the stronger races of the earth. The most pitiable sight witnessed in this particular was in the local option election held in Lamar county, Texas, of which Paris is the county seat. Not only did sinners and saloon men struggle for the dramshop, but members of the various churches used their influence publicly and voted for "More whisky and bigger barrels!"

The venality of leading men of our race, who were used as tools and made the dupes of corrupt rings for a silver dollar, branded us as inferiors and utterly incapable of self-government. Scores of men voted for a handful of cigars, a dram and a free ride to the polls in carriages furnished by the saloon men and their abettors, and driven by white men. Such action as this is a burning shame on our bright civilization and adds another dark spot to the already stigmatized character of our people. God forbid that I shall ever give utterance to a single sentence that would be detrimental to the advancement of my race, but unless we lift up the standard, not only as Christians but as moral citizens, our conventions with a thousand "whereases" and "resolves" will amount to nothing more than breath lost upon the breeze of morning. The Negro in these local option campaigns is made the victim of all the sophistries with which the very atmosphere is loaded, by false utterances of saloon agents who make loud pretensions of guarding sacredly the rights (?) of the people. They are made to believe that should the sale of liquors be prohibited, shops will close, commerce will cease, banks will become insolvent, taxes will run up 100 per cent, washerwomen will be taxed, school revenues run down, and in fact a general disorganization of municipal government would take place—and the masses of our people listen to this siren song, which makes the temple of venus bow to the shrine of bacchus, and with deluded hopes they rush on the side of the devil for protection, while God's Church stands with outstretched arms and guarantees victory, complete victory over the world, the flesh and the devil. But how can we hope to stop the Negro from following after this ignus fatuus when class leaders, stewards, trustees and even preachers stand and admonish the people to defend their rights by defending the saloon! Strange doctrine this, yet nevertheless true that such a thing should go on in the face of Christian civilization and under the very shadows of the many universities and colleges of our land. Our duty is plain before us. God requires that his watchmen shall cry out against the sins of the people, and why should we pander to popular sentiment at the risk of obstructing the onward march of the Redeemer's kingdom? God save the home, the Church, the race, the nation and the world.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM
C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith." *

EPWORTH LEAGUE -:- -:- DEPARTMENT.

"Look Up, Lift Up."

Conducted by Rev. E. B. Burroughs, Cherokee, S. C.

July 21, 1895.

Turning Water Into Wine.

Scripture Lesson: John 2:1-11.

For the next three months the League will engage in the study of the miracles of Christ. And certainly no more interesting a subject could be brought to its attention. Says Stalker: "The miracles of Christ were the natural outflow of the divine fullness which dwelt in him. He was himself the great miracle, of which his particular miracles were merely sparks or emanations. He was the great interruption of the order of nature, or rather a new element which had entered into the order of nature to enrich and enable it, and his miracles entered with him, not to disturb, but to repair its harmony.

1. The Occasion—The Scriptures say: "And the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee." Thus there was to be a marriage: Two young and happy hearts are to be made one, and in keeping with the event a banquet is to be held. Accordingly great preparations are made and the relatives and friends of the families of the contracting parties are invited to be present. The day appointed comes "and the mother of Jesus was there, and both Jesus was called and his disciples." Lightfoot says: "At nuptial feasts there were guests of two sorts: First, those who had been invited; secondly, others who came of their own accord, and were expected to bring presents." Christ's presence, then, was not accidental. He was called. "Nothing in our Lord's life was accidental. He came into the world to glorify the Father, and every act, every word—yes, every thought, must be interpreted in the light of that commanding purpose."

2. The Wine Fails—To Eastern hospitality this would seem a disgraceful calamity. Perhaps the failure to have sufficient wine was due to the fact that there was more company present than was expected. Mary, with the practical eye of a woman, soon learns of the mishap, and reports the failure to Jesus. As to the why she reported the matter to Jesus, Whedon says: "It is plain that she expected from him an exhibition of miraculous power. Whoever doubted about the miraculous birth of Jesus, his mother certainly could not. No eye like hers would, in his growth, have understood his miraculous development. Nor is it natural to suppose, that at this moment she did not understand that he had left home to pass through the preparation for his Messianic office. She must, therefore, have known that the time for his divine manifestation had arrived. In the perplexity of the present moment she turns to him, as to a divine aid, hopeful that he could afford relief, even if it required a supernatural power." "Jesus saith unto her, 'Woman, what have I to do with thee?'" This expression, while showing resentment, does not imply a lack of reverence or subjection on the part of Jesus. Dods says: "In his use of the word 'woman,' there is really no harshness; this being the ordinary Greek term of address to females of all classes and relationships, and being commonly used with the utmost reverence and affection."

The Miracle.—Mary takes the reproof submissively, and does not reply. She, however, directs the servants to punctually observe the commands of Christ: "Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it." She caught on to the little word "yet," and believed he would grant her request. She was not disappointed. Christ ordered the six water pots standing at the door, to be filled with water. This being done he then commands, "draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast." The result was astonishing. The governor knew it was wine when he drank it, but he knew not whence it was. He calls the bridegroom and expresses his surprise, saying, "Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse, but thou hast kept the good wine until now:"

"This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested forth his glory." "Glory is God's own attribute; and Jesus, in putting forth the divine power resident in him, manifested forth his true indwelling, divine glory." —Whedon.

"How welcome was the call,
And sweet the festal day,
When Jesus deigned in Cana's hall
To bless the marriage day!"
—Baker.

Side Lights.

God delights to give us liberally.

Obedience is better than sacrifice.

Man's extremity, is God's opportunity.

For everything, Christ has his hour.

It is ours to sow; reaping belongs unto God.

All our wants should be made known unto Jesus.

Sociability is commendable, and there is a time to laugh.

If we would have Christ bless us, we must unreservedly and promptly follow his directions.

We ought to be concerned for the wants of our friends, and not seek our own things only.

We sometimes find ourselves in need, even when we think ourselves well supplied.

Marriage is honorable among all men; Jesus sanctioned it by his first miracle and presence.

Christians oftentimes lose opportunities for usefulness, because of a lack of personal, confidential relations with Christ.

How to Use the Bible.

1. Have for constant use a small portable Bible with complete marginal references.

2. Carry a Bible or Testament with you.

3. Mark freely with ink upon it promises such as Isa. 41:13 to Christians and invitations to unconverted (Rev. 3:20:22:17). Brief notes may be written upon the margin.

4. Do not be satisfied with simply reading a chapter thrice daily, but study out the full meaning of at least one verse a day.

5. Study to know the whole truth contained in a single incident or a single miracle, when and why written, how it applies to self, and how to use it for others.

6. Study to know what for and to whom each book of the Bible was written.

7. Believe every word of the Bible.

8. Learn one verse of Scripture each day. Verses from memory will be wonderfully useful in your work for the impenitent.

9. Study how to use the Bible to lead a soul to Christ.

10. Set apart fifteen minutes each day for studying it. This little will be grand in result.

11. Read the book as if it were written for yourself only.

12. Always ask God to help you understand, and then expect he will.

13. Remember that the book contains spiritual truths, and these are fully understood by the spiritually minded. Without the enlightenment of the Holy Spirit many passages will seem dark. "God is his own interpreter, and he will make it plain." Pray for the illumination of the Spirit.

"Yield Not to Misfortune."

I was afflicted with catarrh last autumn. During the month of October I could neither taste or smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus Geo. Shantz, Rahway, N. J.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I have never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results. —Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill. Cream Balm is agreeable.

A Great Man's Choice.

That was a wise saying of the great chemist, Sir Humphrey Davy: I envy no quality of the mind or intellect in others, be it genius, power, wit or fancy; but if I could choose what would be most delightful and useful, I should prefer a firm religious faith to every other blessing, for it makes life a discipline of goodness, creates new hopes when all earthly hopes vanish, and throws over the destruction of existence the most gorgeous of all lights; awakens life even in death, and from corruption and decay calls up beauty and divinity, where sensualist and skeptic views afford nothing but gloom, annihilation and despair.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR.

"THE NEGRO AND THE ELECTORAL FRANCHISE."

Under the above caption, the New Orleans Times-Democrat of a recent date had an elaborate editorial. The editor approves the proposed constitntional convention of South Carolina, inasmuch as it proposes to so reduce the Negro vote, as to render "white supremacy" absolutely certain. Of course, the colored voters of South Carolina are making commendable efforts to counteract this wholesale disfranchisement. Their address to the people of the United States may serve to arouse pnblic indignation, but the old-time record of that State places it amongst the foremost in depriving its colored citizens of their rights before God, and before the law. It is indeed a serious question, yet it is nevertheless true and equally strange that the white people, who, less than a score of years ago, were the Negro's most bitter opponents, are among those who now recognize him as a most important factor in the solntion of the State's political problems. We believe that the odds are against the brave colored men of the Palmetto State, but we cannot resist the conviction that the glaring and high-handed robbery of the ballot by the dominant political faction in that State, will serve to call attention to the wrongs perpetrated upon onr people in other Southern States, and which will eventnate in the final overthrow of the oligarchy.

The right of suffrage is the sovereign right of every American citizen. As one of the results of the late civil war, and by constitutional enactment, this right has been conferred upon the Negro; and we believe, taking all the circumstances in consideration, his environments, training, etc., he has been, as a rule, a most reliable and loyal political factor.

We believe, however, in ballot reform. We believe that there are evils attendant npon the exercise of the elective franchise which threatens our institutions. No thonghtfnl citizen will deny that there are great masses of illiterate voters armed with all the rights and privileges of citizenship. Will anyone affirm that this illiteracy is confined to the Negro voting population exclusively? Of course not. Yet every intelligent citizen mnst see the necessity of bringing about snch reforms as will give assurance that the government transmitted to us by the fathers shall be perpetuated.

We believe in an edncational qnalification for the whites as well as the blacks. Any movement which proposes the wholesale disfranchisement of the colored man because he is colored is the rankest injustice, and is entirely ont of harmony with the spirit and genius of American liberty.

The talk abont getting the Negro qnestion ont of politics reveals an astonishing amonnt of prejudice, if not downright ignorance. That the Negro question is a debatable one, no one will deny. It is a pity that this magnanimous country, after more than a hundred years of illnstrious progress, has not been able to publish to the civilized world, that the great question which has punctuated every important period in its momentous history has not been satisfactorily solved. The greatest statesmen that this country has ever produced, from the days of Washington to this day, have devoted their best energies to the all-absorbing Negro qnestion. Some to establish the idea of the natural inferiority of the Negro, while others have been just as earnest in combating that idea; when, at last, it was found necessary to decide the question by the arbitrament of the sword, the results of that bloody tragedy brought freedom and citizenship to more than four millions of slaves. The issne was accepted in good faith, by a majority of our white fellow-citizens, and the Negro as well as his friends rejoiced that the great question was settled, and was henceforth removed from the political arena. Bnt they were doomed to disappointment; the investitnre of the former slave with the rights and privileges of free men was resisted with an earnestness worthy of a better cause by those who were not ready to accept the results of the war. The passage by Congress of amendments to the constitution, which were designed to enforce these rights, was considered by the Negro's enemies as revolntionary and nnconstitntional. And for nearly a qnarter of a century we have witnessed the sad spectacle of a bitter and sectional fight to deprive the Negro, by legislation, of the constitutional rights conferred npon him by the gage of battle are transferred to another arena. The contest to deprive the Negro of his political freedom is waged just as fiercely as it was before the late civil war. For some reason he is regarded as nnfit for the exercise of the elective franchise, and there are those who favor the closing of every avenue by which the illiterate Negro voter may acquire the knowledge which wonld make him an important political factor. Hence the rallying cry of his opponents is "white supremacy," and they seek to frighten the people by that cowardly snbterfoge, "Negro domination."

There is no danger of Negro domination. There is not the remotest probability that the Negro will gain political ascendancy in any Southern State. In fact we do not believe that any nnmber of sensible Negroes are indnlging in any such idea. Bnt we happen to know that they desire to have a hand in making the laws by which they are governed, and an opportunity of showing their interest in the promotion of good government. They ask only for equal opportnnities and responsibilities.

They believe in intelligent snffrage. They know that an illiterate voter, be he white or black, is a dangerous tool in the hands of political demagognes, and they favor snch an amendment as will eliminate the ward heelers, bummers, hoodlums, and others who render onr elections a farce and a sham. Bnt we insist always, that in making the laws, there shall be no discrimination, and that black and white illiterates shall share alike.

If the Southern white men want to help the Negroes as they so often protest, let them show that they are inspired by high and lofty motives, and that their desire to bring about the necessary reforms does not bear upon its face the shadow of suspicion that they are seeking less than the good of all people irrespective of race or color or politics. We wonld warn our white friends also against the popular fallacy that a few self-constituted colored leaders, who oscillate between the great political parties "for boodle only," are the true exponents of the views of the better classes of our colored population. The colored pnlpit and press are among the more approved agencies, since they voice to a great extent the better sentiment of the people on all social and moral, and even political questions. We would respectfully call attention to these as the most reliable and intelligent consensns of the opinions of onr people.

THE RISING TIDE.

Unless all signs fail, the tide is surely setting in in favor of the SOUTHWESTERN. Four district conferences were held in Mississippi dnring the last week in June, from which we have the following accessions to our SOUTHWESTERN PLEDGE BRIGADE. These districts are manned by men who love the paper and doing what they can to make it a success:

From the Shubuta District, Mississippi Conference, Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D, presiding elder, we have the following: A. G. Baydwell, 10; G. W. Brame, 10; G. W. Smith, 10; James Jordan, 10; H. T. Hamptou, 10; A. C. Lacy, 10; R. N. Jones, 10; H. May, 10; D. F. Dudley, 10; L. Tate, 10; C. H. Browu, 10; and C. H. Lindsay, 10. Total, 120.

From the Holly Springs District, of the Upper Mississippi Conference, Rev. Warren McDonald, presiding elder, we have: M. D. McKinney, 10; E. G. Gater, 8; W. H. Isom, 10; W. C. Weatherall, 4; L. F. Jones, 10; J. M. Young, 7; S. D. Tronpe, 10; J. L. Wilsou, 10; J. B. Anderson, 3; N. H. Williams, 10; H. B. Hart, 5; G. J. Dobson, 20; C. W. Bntler, 10; R. Sewell, 12; C. M. Ford, 3; H. A. Robinson, 6. Total, 138.

From the Brookhaven District, Mississippi Conference, I. L. Pratt, presiding elder: I. L. Pratt, 25; I. Williams, 5; L. C. Brown, 5; R. Moore, 5; Charley Bradie, 5; A. Johnson, 10; Philip Robinson, 5; I. C. Rucker, 10; Aaron Davis, 10; N. D. Hopkins, 10; P. H. Rember, 10; James Ford, 5; J. H. Cook, 10; W. H. Cain, 10; R. Coleman, 3; S. McDavis, 6; H. Roundtree, 5. Total, 139.

From the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, Rev. W. E. Mask, presiding elder: N. R. Clay, 10; A. D. Gere, 10, F. G. Wilbon, 10; M. W. Reed, 5; N. L. Lackey, 10; M. C. McEwen, 5; W. H. Hnndley, 10; J. W. Washington, 5; D. T. Shaw, 10; D. A. Bragg, 10; L. L. Shumpert, 10; R. F. Woolfolk, 10; D. Green, 10. Total, 115.

Rev. Harry Swann, the efficient presiding elder of the Waco District, in the West Texas Conference, sends in a card, pledging twenty-five in addition to the large nnmber which he has sent in previonsly.

We will publish the names of all who send in their pledges together with the number pledged. Come, brethren, if there ever was a time when the friends of the SOUTHWESTERN should rally to its help, that time is now.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Bishop B. T. Tanner and Dr. Alexander Crummell, each have been given the degree of LL. D., by Wilberforce College.

—Rev. Z T. Gayden, of the Louisiana Conference, and pastor of our church at Alexandria, La., has been critically ill, but is now convalescent.

—Mr. Samnel G. Smith, organist of the M. E. Church at Dallas, Texas, returning from the International Conference at Chattanooga, gave us a pleasant call last week and snbscribed for the SOUTHWESTERN.

—A telegram from Rev. M. J. Dyer informs us that the infant child of Rev. J. J. Obee, of the Lonisiana Conference, passed away on the 2d instant. The brother has onr sympathy and prayer.

—Brother J. Mallory, our efficient pastor at Clarendon, Ark., is having marked success in his charge. The meetings are largely attended and the outlook is good. Children's Day was celebrated with splendid results. He is doing a good work for the SOUTHWESTERN.

—The Conservator, Chicago, has always been an acceptable exchange. It will be more so in the futnre, since its editorial helm will be held by that indomitable and cultured little lady, Miss Ida B. Wells Barnett. The SOUTHWESTERN congratulates the Conservator and its new editor.

—Professor Chavis, president of Bennett Seminary, is getting both pleasure and profit out of his vacation. In company with Presiding Elder Smith, one of the strong elders of the conference, he is traveling the district in the interest of the seminary. He speaks hopefully of the outlook.

—Miss Nellie Robinson, a most excellent singer and musician, will travel dnring the summer and give musical concerts, accompanied by Miss Annie L. Upshaw. Both of these young ladies are graduates of Clark University and will reflect credit upon the school and their race. It will be well for all onr churches to patronize them.

—Rev. A. C. Culbreath, one of the great leaders of the Texas Conference and presiding elder of the Hnntsville District, writes for sample copies, saying, "God bless the SOUTHWESTERN. I am going to do my best for her from now on." Knowing Brother Culbreath as we do, the paper will have an able champion on the Huntsville District.

—Prof. T. A. Fortson, A. M., professor of mathematics in the Central High School, Galveston, Texas, pending his nomination for the chair of mathematics in Wiley University, Marshall, Texas, and for the principalship of Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Fla., has been elected to the chair of mathematics in the Prairie View State Normal School at Prairie View, Texas, and has accepted the position.

—Rev. G. W. W. Jenkins, presiding elder of the North Baltimore District of the Washington Conference, is making a splendid impression. The district is improving nnder his gentle manipulations, and the SOUTHWESTERN has in him an ardent friend. A note just received informs us that he had received Rev. G. W. Price, pastor of Payne Memorial African M. E. Church, and his entire membership, into the M. E. Church. And this without any solicitation or attempt at proselyting on his part.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

Mrs. Mary Golden, a prominent lady of this city, called last week and gladened our hearts with good words and a yearly subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN.

The Methodist Episcopal preachers, their wives and families will have an outing at Audubon Park on Thursday, July 18. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance. A good time is expected.

Rev. D. J. Price of Algiers, La., is doing grandly in all departments of church work. The record he has made at Algiers will very justly increase his popularity, and open the way for more efficient service in the church and conference.

The genial and cultured editor of the "Texas Freeman," Mr. Emmett J. Scott, of Houston, Texas, gave the office a pleasant call on Monday last. Mr. Scott is one of the brightest young men of the race, wields a trenchant pen, uses clean cut mother English, and is thoroughly identified with every movement looking toward the advancement of his people. Our brief conversation with him was helpful and inspiring. He was accompanied by A. B. Kennedy, Esq., of this city, a gentleman who is thoroughly abreast of the times, able, intelligent and far-seeing, and one of the most acceptable leaders of the race. The SOUTHWESTERN was highly honored by the visits of these distinguished leaders.

A call has been issued by Messrs. Ernest Duconge, A. Perkins, Geo. Green, M. J. Simms, A. Helm, Rev. H. Taylor and others, for a meeting to be held at Simpson Chapel on Valence street, on Tuesday, July 23, for the purpose of investigating certain complaints that have been made against the teachers of McDonough School No. 6. All who are interested in securing the rights of our people are cordially invited to attend.

The congregation of St. James' African Methodist Episcopal Church is one of the strongest and most progressive in the city, and pastored by the able and accomplished Rev. Geo. E. Taylor, D. D., is doing grandly for God and humanity. It was a pleasure to preach in their beautiful church last Sunday morning, and to the host representatives of the membership. The choir is excellently trained, and is one of the great institutions of the city.

Dadeville District.

Program of the Dadeville District, Central Alabama Conference, to be held in Bluffton M. E. Church, West Point, Ga., August 1-5:

Introductory sermon Thursday night by B. G. Smith; Should pastors attend Sunday School—if so, what part in it should they take, J. C. Sammons; How best to promote the attendance at Sunday School, B. G. Smith; How to make our meetings more religiously profitable, F. L. Teague; How best to secure the support of the ministry, J. T. Martin; How best to secure subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN, E. B. McCauly; How best to raise our benevolent collections, E. Frasier; The status of the Dadeville District during the last decade—has the work progressed or not—if not, why? A. S. Williams; The relation of a pastor to the support of the presiding older, and should the pastor be present at the quarterly meetings till closed, J. W. Shephard; The importance of the Epworth League, W. H. Bond; Should ministers pay their debts, R. H. Fleming; How to promote attendance upon class meetings, G. McLemore; Qualifications of stewards, Lewis Drake; Should our local preachers and exhorters attend Sunday School, Henry Moton.

It is hoped that the above papers will be prepared, and that the members of conference will come prepared to discuss the same. Conference will convene at 9:45 a. m.; this will give ample time for all coming on that day to be present at opening. All who can should come by railroad. Secure certificate from ticket agent when purchasing ticket, as reduced rates for return will be applied for. Those coming with horses must bring feed with them. Let this be a great time for the whole district to be enthused for greater work.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

A strong and very readable argument against the free coinage of silver is to be found in a book, entitled "Dollars or What?" written by Mr. W. B. Mitchell, president of the Third National Bank of Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. Mitchell's arguments are able and worthy of careful perusal. Price, 25 cents. Published by Dollars or What Publishing Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

The midsummer holiday number of The Century, the issue for August, will have an article appropriate to the vacation season, "Fox-Hunting in Kentucky," written by John Fox, Jr. Mr. Fox is a member of a well-known Blue-Grass family, and has written several romances of the Kentucky mountains.

Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke is an enthusiastic fisherman, and in an article that he has written for the August Century he tells the readers that he was "born so." His article on "Old-Fashioned Fishing" is full of personal reminiscences, but it echoes the experience of all who follow the streams during vacation days.

Prof. Sully will continue the discussion of "Fear" in the next of his Studies of Childhood, to appear in the July Popular Science Monthly. He shows that fear of animals and fear of the dark are closely related, the dark being often regarded as peopled with dreadful animals, or as being itself a monster. It will also have an article on "Climate and Health," by Dr. Charles F. Taylor, who shows that there is more to climate than the height of the thermometer, and that great discrimination should be exercised by physicians in sending patients away from home.

The Treasury of Religious Thought for July looks forward to a "Timely Occasion" a month ahead, to "Emancipation Day" (August 1st), which is considered in a historical statement as to emancipation, and an eloquent paper on Frederick Douglass by Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, of Chicago; the article being illustrated and having a foremost place. The editorial discusses the Secret of the Salvation Army, and there is a timely and complete account of the new English movement known as the "Pleasant Sunday Afternoon." The minor departments are maintained with fullness and strength. Annual subscription, $2 50. Clergymen, $2. Single copie 25 cents. E. B. Treat, 5 Cooper Union, New York.

The July Preachers' Magazine will rank among its best issues. The leading sermon upon "Joy in Tribulation," is by A. M. Fairbairn, D. D. The series upon "Sacramental Themes," by Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, is continued. "The Uses of Illustration" is by Rev. John Edwards. Several superior articles upon various and suitable themes makes this one of the to be-sought numbers. Yearly, $1 50; 15 cents per copy. Willor B. Ketcham, 2 Cooper Union, New York.

The great Christian Endeavor movement is a movement of New England origin, having been cradled in a church in Portland, Maine. The general headquarters of the organization are in Boston, and the leading officers of the society are New England men. It is therefore very fitting that the New England Magazine should devote a special article in its July number to the leaders of the Christian Endeavor movement. The important announcement is made that the August number will contain an article by Mr. Percival Lowell on "Mars," illustrated with the Flagstaff, Arizona, photographs, which have never before appeared. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

Montgomery District.

All delegates to the Montgomery District Conference, to meet at Troy, Ala., on the 24th instant, will buy tickets to Troy and obtain a certificate to show this. If, however, you cannot purchase a through ticket, buy at subsequent stations and take certificates. All will be returned at usual rates. W. H. NELSON, Sec'y.

—If friends know how tiresome, how positively harmful, is the sameness of a sickroom, surely love and skill would provide remedies. If it were only bringing a yellow flower to-day, a pink one to-morrow; hanging a fresh picture, to vary the monotony of the wall, or change an old one—anything, something is a relief. Small and single things suffice. To see many of his surroundings changed at once confuses an invalid; to have one little novelty at a time, to vary the point of observation stimulates and cheers.—Ex.

—The safeguards of marriage are treated of by Dr. Parkhurst in the July Ladies' Home Journal in a way that will strike many as particularly direct and to the point. The editor discusses "The Blot on Our American Life," which he claims is the disrespect shown everywhere for persons in authority both in political and civil life. The Ladies' Home Journal is a woman's mid-summer magazine. Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia, ten cents per number, one dollar per year.

WATCH TOWER.

Pound Cake for the Children

BY UNCLE THOMAS.

As time moves on we see more and more of the evil of intoxicants. It makes some sick, some crazy and causes some to break all of the Ten Commandments. By its use a person's mind is lead from the path of right, and they have other Gods that they worship instead of the true and the living God. They are deprivent of the mercies promised to them who love and keep His commandments. They take the name of the Lord their God in vain. They break the Sabbath day. They fail to honor their father and their mother. They kill men, women and children. They commit adultery; they steal; they bear false witness against their neighbor, and bring them into trouble; they covet their neighbor's goods and light because they cannot accomplish their desire. By its use the whole mortal frame becomes wrecked and the system diseased; memory fleeth; judgment faileth, and hence there is no foundation for reason: they are not recognized by the respectable title of Mr. and Mrs., but are commonly called a drunkard. O, what a low name. Just to think, a person of a respectable family—a dear mother, a kind father, a loving wife and sweet children, brothers and sisters, all of whose hearts yearn and voices plead for him or her. Home is pleasant, and its surrounding necessary to make one happy in this life, and yet some will begot for themselves the name of a drunkard. Think of it! Shun the evil as you would a rattlesnake. A drunkard is like the wind-shaken timber or an old, dilapidated house; persons are afraid to rely upon them for any degree of safety in time of a storm or disaster. T. R. FLETCHER.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Journeying to Canaan.

(Num. 10. 29-36.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Come thou with us and we will do thee good, for the Lord hath spoken good concerning Israel." (Num. 10. 29.)

After the death of the sons of Aaron God gave to the children of Israel many laws. The tribes were numbered. They had been in camp near Mount Sinai for about twelve months. The time had come for them to decamp and march. We have in this lesson Moses and Hobab, and the first three days journey.

I. Moses and Hobab (29-32). 1. The person addressed—"Hobab." He was "the son of Raguel the Midianite." It is likely that Raguel elsewhere called Reuel (Exod. 2. 18), and Jethro (Exod. 18. 1), was the same person, and that Moses married his daughter. He was probably at this time dead, or confined to his tent through the infirmities of age. Hobab was his son, and was likely a brother-in-law to Moses. The Hebrew word here rendered father-in-law is in Gen. 19 14 translated son-in-law. It means a relation by marriage. The "land of Midian was probably the peninsula of Sinai" (Smith). "A country generally supposed to have been in Arabia Petrea, on the eastern coast of the Red Sea, not far from Sinai" (Clarke). There was a locality, likely southwest of Mt. Sinai, where Hobab and his people dwelt.

2. The Invitation given. (1) "We are journeying into the place of which the Lord hath said, I will give it thee." They were setting out for the land of Canaan. This was a strip of country on the eastern coast of the Mediterranean Sea. It was about 150 miles long, and about 50 miles wide. It was represented to them as a land that abounded in grapes, pomegranates and figs. It afforded fine pasturage, and flowed with milk and honey. But the spiritual Israel of God is journeying to "a better country." A land of peace, joy and everlasting beauty. (2) "Come thou with us." It is natural for us to desire our friends and relatives to dwell in the same locality with us. The household of faith is very anxious to have the unsaved journey with them to the heavenly world. Jesus is ever saying to them, through His Word and Church, "Come unto Me, and I will give you rest." "The Spirit and the Bride say come." Let all journey with them. (3) "We will do thee good." Canaan was a better land than the one in which they dwelt. Heaven is a better country than the one in which we live. Jesus will do the sinner good if he will only come to Him, and journey with the Church. He will save him from sin, give him the Holy Spirit, adopt him into His family, and make him an heir to all the joys of heaven. (4) "For the Lord hath spoken good concerning Israel." God had promised to bring them up out of Egypt, and lead them into Canaan. The Lord is not slack concerning His promises. He will make all of them good. He has spoken good concerning the spiritual Israel. He will guide His people through this world of sin to the Canaan of eternal rest.

3. The invitation rejected. (1) "I will not go." That is plain language. It expresses a firm decision. It implies that Hobab had thought the whole matter over, and reached a conclusion. Yet he likely changed his mind and went. When sinners are invited to go with us to that better land, some say—"I will not go;" others say—"I pray thee have me excused" (Luke 14. 19); but others say, like Ruth to Naomi, "Whither thou goest I will go" (Ruth 1. 16). The way the Gospel is received has nothing to do with our obligation to present it. (2) "I will depart to my own land." Hobab had decided what he would not do, and concluded what he would do. He was not going to Canaan, and not going to stay where he was, but would go back to his own country. Often are the unsaved awakened, and offers of mercy are presented to them. They feel that they cannot stay where they are, they must accept Christ and journey with God's people, or reject Him and go back to their old ways that lead to death. When we know the Lord, will we not serve Him?

4. The Entreaty. (1) The plea of necessity—"That thou mayest be to us instead of eyes." You know this land—its watering places, its grassy plains, and its shady groves. You know how we travel, how we camp, and the difficulties of the life we are leading. Now, therefore, be to us as eyes to guide us over this way. The Shekinah was their guide in a general sense, but Hobab was to be their leader—in a special manner. The Holy Spirit is our guide to the heavenly land, but He directs us through the written Word of God. The Church needs the unsaved. It has use for their thought, service and influence. (2) The plea of Reward—"What goodness the Lord shall do unto us, the same will we do unto thee." We cannot hope to do more for others than God has done for us. He has given us every needed blessing, temporal and spiritual. Let us do what we can to lift up the fallen, lead the erring, and encourage the faithful. There is great reward in heaven for those who persevere to the end of life.

II. The first three days journey (33-36). 1. The start. (1) "They departed from the Mount of the Lord." They had been camped here almost a year. Here they had received the law, built the tabernacle, and consecrated the priesthood. This had been the mount of lightning, thunder, terror and death to them. Law and its demands have never been pleasing to the human family. Their face was now turned toward Mt. Zion, with its Gospel of mercy, rest and gladness. (2) "The ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them." The ark was a chest made of wood and overlaid with gold. It was about two feet broad, and two feet deep, and nearly four feet long. It was called the Ark of the Covenant because it contained the two tables of the law. The mercy seat was made of pure gold. It covered the top, sides and ends of the ark. The golden cherubs stood at each end of the mercy seat. Their wings came together at the top. They formed an arch, and a kind of throne, on which the Shekinah dwelt. The ark and the mercy seat were the most valuable pieces of furniture. For them the tabernacle was built. They represented the visible presence of God with His people. Now "the tabernacle of God is with men" (Rev. 21. 3). His law is written in "fleshy tables of the heart" (2 Cor. 3. 3), and Christ is our mercy seat (Rom. 3. 25). The ark was borne on the shoulders of the priests, in the center of the hollow square, in which Israel marched. It "went before them" only means that it moved first. (3) "The cloud of the Lord was upon them by day." This was to protect them from the burning rays of the sun. To His people, "The Lord God is a sun and shield, the Lord will give grace and glory." He goes before them to open the way, over them to protect from danger, with them to ward off foes, and in them to fortify against temptation.

2. The prayer of Moses. (1) The morning prayer was war-like—"Rise up, Lord, and let thine enemies be scattered." God has enemies in the world to-day. There are many who fight against His Word, Gospel, Church and Sabbath. They should, with the Lord's help, be scattered. We should begin each day with prayer. It is not so easy to live devotional in the morning as in the evening. David used this prayer (Psa. 60. 1), and fought the Lord's battles. Let us put on the whole armor of God and fight as valiant soldiers of the cross. (2) The evening prayer was restful—"Return, O Lord, unto the many thousands of Israel." It is well to thank God, each evening, for His care over us, His blessings on us, and His Spirit that dwelt in us, during the day. To beseech Him to abide with us through the night, and protect us from "the pestilence that walketh in darkness."

A good appetite and refreshing sleep are essential to health of mind and body, and these are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—After speaking, singing, or preaching in a warm room in winter, do not leave it immediately. In leaving, close the mouth, put on the gloves, wrap up the neck, put on a cloak or overcoat before passing out of doors. The neglect of these simple precautions has laid many a good and useful man in a premature grave.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Indiana District.

Dear Brethren—Our district conference, Sunday School Institute and Epworth League will convene in Terre Haute, Ind., August 7 11. Round-trip tickets can be procured from all railroads in Indiana for one fare if agent is asked for round-trip tickets. No certificates will be needed. These tickets will be cheaper than clergyman's rates, except where you can go to Terre Haute over Big Four or Vandalia lines.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason, corresponding secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society, will be in attendance, to receive collections for that cause. Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, Editor SOUTHWESTERN, will also be present. A cordial invitation is extended to the presiding elders of other districts to attend.

Please come prepared to settle your minutes account. Don't fail. Local preachers, exhorters and others to be examined must come prepared as per disciplinary provisions. The district stewards will meet Friday at 4 p. m. The district conference will be opened Wednesday, August 7, at 3 p. m. Fraternally yours, EDWARD L. GILLIAM, P. E.

Holly Springs District.

Dear Brethren—Please raise the balance of the assessment on each charge and forward to the proper places.

W. MCDONALD, P. E.

Rome District.

Dear Brethren—I trust that you have raised your entire collection; if not, don't rest until it is done. You know what the bishop said about work and appointments. Raise your collection and forward every dollar at once to Cranston & Curts, 190 West 4th street, Cincinnati, O.; or to Hunt & Eaton, 5th avenue and 20th street, New York. Take receipts and thus avoid trouble.

District conference convenes August 8, at Carrollton, Ga. Rev. G. W. Lewis will preach the opening sermon at 7:30 p. m. Rates will be arranged with all the railroads. Let every pastor and delegate be on hand on the evening of the 7th. Brethren, remember the SOUTHWESTERN. I wish each of you great success. We shall have Drs. Mason, John and other distinguished visitors with us. Let us come praying for a Pentecost. Yours,

H. R. ALLEN, P. E.

Greenville District.

Dear Brethren—Take your benevolent collections. Don't put them off. Come to the district conference prepared to make a full report for Freedmen's Aid. Rev. G. G. Logan, A. B., and M. C. B. Mason, D. D., are expected to be with us to represent that part of the work. Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, is expected to be with us also.

J. W. DAVIS, P. E.

Hot Springs District.

The district conference of the Hot Springs District, Little Rock Conference, will meet September 12, at Caufield, Ark. Dr. M. C. B. Mason will be present. Do your best on all the benevolences. Report in full on the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. All the local preachers, exhorters, district stewards, Sunday School superintendents and Epworth League chapters are expected to be ready with their reports.

A. J. PHILLIPS, P. E.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrah, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Southwestern Christian Advocate.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR. NEW ORLEANS, JULY 25, 1895.—Vol. 30. No. 30. HUNT & EATON, PUBLISHERS.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—The Christian Advocate, with becoming modesty for the mother of the Advocate family, dons a new dress; which, while it does not alter the tone and quality of its excellent literary work, reveals the disposition of its editor and publishers to keep abreast with the best scientific and mechanical improvements of the age. We regret, with our esteemed confere, Dr. Buckley, that the desired, and it seems to us necessary, enlargement is not practicable at this time. As it is, the Advocate stands well in the fore, and its utterances will be heard with increasing interest.

—After a brave, heroic struggle, covering a period of more than four years, our little band at Augusta, Ky., will dedicate their new and beautiful church on the 28th. It is to be named St. Paul's. Rev. B. W. Kirtley, one of the strongest of the young men of the Lexington Conference, is pastor, who with Rev. Braxton Daniel, his worthy predecessor, deserves praise for the manner in which the work has been done. The presiding elder, Rev. M. S. Johnson, with a number of other ministers, will assist the pastor in the dedication services.

—New Orleans keeps up its bloody record. Last week, poor Mark Mullon, an inoffensive and respectable colored man, was sent to his death by the hand of a murderer. In less than a year, eight or ten colored men have been murdered by white men, and as many more seriously injured; but it has seemed impossible to bring the murderers to justice. There are few places in this country where the life of a Negro is held in less contempt than here. In most of the instances the murders have been brutal and cold-blooded, the victims going to the death only because they were Negroes. The civil courts have been so constituted that the trials of the murderers, or such as were tried, were merely farcial. It has been the easiest thing imaginable for some of these miscreants to prove an alibi, and thus defeat the ends of justice. The fact is, our city is about in the hands of violators of the law. With a small and inefficient police force, with courts presided over by officers who are determined beforehand to punish Negroes with more severity than white men, with the determination on the part of those who have charge of impaneling juries to studiously and systematically ignore Negroes as jurors—the poor colored man is regarded as unworthy of even the commonest respect. Hence, when the white hoodlum takes a notion to assault or kill a Negro, he does it without any fear of the consequences, and with the impression that he has committed but a slight breach, from which, on account of his "political pull," his friends will speedily rescue him. Meanwhile, the blood of murdered Negroes calls aloud to God for vengeance. It will be difficult to find a city on the American continent where the life of a Negro is held in less contempt than in New Orleans. With the secular press, almost without an exception, persisting that he is necessarily inferior to every other class of citizens, with the pulpit and the religious press treating him even with less consideration than that which the Pharisee and Levite bestowed upon the unfortunate traveler who had fallen among thieves, with the indifference of those who prate loudly of Christian charity, but whose lack of sympathy does but augment his misery—the Negro of New Orleans has surely fallen upon evil times.

"A CHANCE IN FLORIDA."

Under the above caption the Western discusses the abominable "Sheets Law," and concludes that the law is meant to break up all domestic association between white teachers and their black pupils, the very thing we protest against. Our Cookman Institute at Jacksonville is the only school controlled by our Church in that State, and the Western thinks that the action of the legislature, in peremptorily thrusting out our faithful white teachers there, seems "very like a providential opportunity to equip at least one school, from top to bottom, with colored president and teachers." There may be a providence in this action, but we fail to see how providence proposes to solve the Negro problem with the Negro left out. That is just what is proposed. No one will pretend to believe, except a few impecunious, poorly equipped Negro teachers, that Mr. Sheets has any special love for the Negro. The author of that bill sought and seeks only to frustrate Negro education. Our secretaries, resourceful as they are, should understand that distinctly before any action is taken by them. They should not be misled by what "seems" to be a providential opening to fill a school from top to bottom with colored teachers. If by virtue of the passage of odious and discriminating laws this is the inevitable, the great Methodist Episcopal Church should not be the first to bow before the unholy edict. We feel certain that hundreds of our best teachers, who have had the benefits of association with their white teachers, and who have consciously imbibed many of those traits of character which have made them stronger and better, will not regard the movement which will separate them from this association with favor, especially since it may be another wedge into the already widening breach.

The "tantalizing dream of thirty years" would, in our judgment, be more readily realized by the appointment of an equal number of white and colored teachers, with equal responsibilities and opportunities for promotion without favoritism; and when, in the judgment of the Board of Managers, such promotions should take place, such a course as this, with other reforms proposed by the Board, would give our educational system a firmer hold upon the conscience of the Church, and the world. No separation. But rather like the American Missionary Association, let us carry on the work there as before, with a mixed faculty receiving and teaching all pupils, white or black, who apply for instruction. The teachers can afford to suffer awhile, if the great Church will stand by them till the odious law is repeated or overthrown.

"HOME RULE" AGAIN.

The following note from one of our most cultured and successful colored educators indicates that there is at least some thought upon the action taken by the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society recently, upon the question of enlarging the powers of boards of trustees of the colored schools under its control. In a previous number we commented upon the timely and able editorial of the Western, and expressed our gratitude that such wise action had been taken. We say now, that we most emphatically believe that when the proposed enlargement takes place, that our collections for our Southern educational work will be increased fifty percent. Nor is this the only blessing that will grow out of this humane action. Surely "something is moving." By request of the brother who writes the note we will cheerfully publish the entire editorial from the Western:

"My Dear Brother—If you deem it a good thing, and I may be allowed to make a request, without an intention to dictate, I ask that the article in the Western Christian Advocate, entitled "Home Rule in our Colored Schools," be published in the SOUTHWESTERN. Yours, —."

HOME RULE FOR COLORED SCHOOLS.

The annual meeting of the managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, in the society's rooms here last week, was a very important one. Unusual pains have been taken to adjust all outstanding accounts, and to make the financial exhibit accurate and exhaustive. We are unable to recall more complete reports than those furnished by the office and the various committees. But to our mind the most important action was that looking to investing the local boards of trustees of the various institutions with more authority and responsibility in the management thereof. The time of pupilage has passed, one is forced to think, at least with some of these boards. If the colored trustees are never made to do the actual work of trustees, they must of necessity forever remain incapable. Some of them feel humiliated by the situation. One, well entitled to consideration in any presence, says:

"I am a member of a board of trustees; but it appears to me that we are no more than figure-heads. We can't elect a teacher for even the English grades. The president will not allow us. All we are permitted to do is to 'graduate the students,' and to vote an 'honorary degree' occasionally. This state of affairs produces unrest and dissatisfaction among us, and it is only a question of time when there will be revolt. The North has poured out her blood and money like water to make us men; and if we are incapable, after thirty years of work, to govern our own institutions in the capacity of trustees, then it will be in order for our friends to ask, 'Why is this waste?' and stop the flow of money. We believe in distribution of authority, and not centralization."

The Board feels the force of this, and is disposed to gradually transfer to the local trustees many of the responsibilities which it has thus far seemed necessary for the general office to bear. Like the greenback currency, the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society was not designed to be a permanent institution, but one to meet a temporary necessity growing out of the emancipation of the Negro. Unless we help in order to develop self-help, we are hindering the real welfare of our beneficiaries. We would grant the strongest boards the use of the society's property, and annually a fixed sum in aid, and then let them administer for themselves. As soon as possible, we would give them the property outright, and the exclusive patronage of enough conferences to make a good constituency for each school which has proven its right to live. Then let the black men be wholly responsible, and sink or swim according as they are or are not faithful and competent. In no other way will manhood be developed.—Western.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Question.—Has a local preacher the right to assist the presiding elder in the administration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper?

Answer.—Yes, provided he has been ordained deacon or elder.

Question.—Is it lawful for a local preacher to administer the sacrament of baptism?

Answer.—Yes; provided he has been ordained deacon or elder. It is customary, however, for a pastor to administer this sacrament, yet there are circumstances when an ordained local preacher may attend to it. A pastor may be absent from the circuit or station, and there may be an urgent demand for the immediate administration of the rite, and there being no one authorized but himself, a local preacher ordained should perform the ceremony. Ordinarily, however, the pastor should be given the preference.

Notes From Nashville.

The Epworth League Conference at Chattanooga, while it did not ignore the color line, gave utterance to such sentiments and manifested such a spirit, that to us who have been here for the past quarter of a century, made it evident that progress has been made toward the proper recognition of the "brother in black." When Hon. Chauncy Depew, of New York, recently lectured in this city for the Alumni of Vanderbilt University, the Gospel Tabernacle, which will seat about four thousand, was secured. Some of the faculty and students of the Central Tennessee College went, expecting, as is usual in meetings in this building, to be told to take certain seats reserved for colored persons. They were, however, agreeably surprised to have the policeman, as they hesitated at the entrance, tell them to move on. Then they found themselves in the midst of one of the largest and most cultured audiences ever assembled in Nashville, free to sit where they could find a seat, or to stand among the whites, who, with other colored persons, filled up all the standing room in the house. Whether the Alumni or authorities of the university took any action in this matter, I do not know; but I say: All hail the example of Vanderbilt University.

For there's a good time coming, boys!
Wait a little longer.

The usual number of picnics and excursions seem to be taking place among the colored people in this city. Hard times may shut up schools, diminish the collections for benevolent purposes, starve the preachers, and be an excuse for not taking the SOUTHWESTERN or any other Church paper; but somehow the people manage to get the means to spend for a picnic or an excursion, or as is generally reported about Nashville, that our colored people are spending entirely too much money for beer. We need a revival of temperance.

Improving the church building is the effort now making with the Clark Chapel congregation, and the same is talked of at Seay Chapel. The latter should be enlarged as well as repaired.

The general impression is that the Tennessee Conference will make a better showing in collections than last year. There should be great improvement in this respect, as the conference is quite low in its contributions to benevolent purposes.

On the last Sunday in June the writer dedicated a church at Tucker's Cross Roads, about thirty-six miles east of Nashville. The crowded house told how well the pastor, Brother F. Smith, had worked up the matter. After preaching at 11 o'clock, the collection was taken up, the house dedicated, out of debt. After a lunch, with which the crowd was abundantly supplied, Rev. J. P. Price preached a stirring sermon, and many persons came forward and indicated that they wanted to live a better life. At night Brother Price preached again, and many seekers went forward for prayers. The field seemed ripe for the harvest. The district conferences, from the preparations making for them, promise to be of more than usual interest and profit. These conferences are so intimately connected with the temporal and spiritual prosperity of the Church, that they should be regarded with special interest, and be made the special subjects of prayer.

Christianity as Taught by Christ, The True Religion.

By Rev. C. L. JOHNSON, Marion, Ala.

We stand and look Mohammed in the face, with his millions of followers; we stand before Confucius, with all his disciples; we face all the religions of the world, and say that Christianity, as taught by Christ, is the only wholly true religion.

Christianity is the religion taught by Jesus Christ, and we are to show that it is the only wholly true religion, and we are now to give our reasons for such an important and, what might by some be called, broad statement.

We have the distinguishing features of Christ and the matchless lessons that he taught, upon which to build our faith, but truth is what we are seeking.

What is truth? might be asked. Truth is that which is in conformity to facts and worthy of belief.

There are various religious reports, but what is the nature of a report? A report is a statement that may be either true or false. If it be false, it is unworthy of belief; but if it be true, it is worthy of belief and ought to be believed.

The character of the men who forwarded Christianity was such that we cannot believe that they could have performed the work they did, under the circumstances that existed, if there had been anything untrue about it.

The translations of the Bible have been made with such scrutinizing care, that any change of the thought, in the main, is absolutely impossible.

In affirming that Jesus of Nazareth—a village in Palestine, in the district of Galilee—was the Christ that should come as the Redeemer of the World, we have not only the witness of the Apostles, but we have that of the Prophets also, and men of the middle and modern ages.

In the Divine plan, God seems to have kept back the spread of Christianity till the world was just in a fit condition to receive it; for having brought the whole known world under the Roman influence, he introduced Christianity. And, even though it was greatly opposed, it has nearly spread over the whole world and is still advancing with a wonderful and unequaled influence upon the nations wherever it goes. The people of all faiths and doctrines admit that Christ was a great man and a true illustration of what he taught. His doctrine centered in himself.

The Mohammedans acknowledge that Christ was a great prophet, and men of all the advanced nations of the world admit the same. Shakespeare, the great English character pictures, does not hesitate in speaking of Christ as a great character, and his acknowledgement of Christ as such can be seen through all his literature.

Again, one of the greatest worldly intellects that the historian has yet named, but a man who labored only to accomplish worldly aims and ends, was Napoleon, who said: "Jesus Christ was more than a man. Alexander, Cæsar, Charlemagne, and myself founded empires, but upon what did our genius depend? upon force. But Jesus alone founded his empire upon love, and to this very day millions die for him." This wicked general acknowledges the gospel, or at least the Bible, as being no mere book of teachings, but the embodiment of the word in a living creature with vigorous powers to conquer all things.

In the life of Christ we have a model of perfect love upon which the doctrines of Christianity are founded. Thus, he is sometimes called "the holiest among the mighty and the mightiest among the holy." That is, if we could call together all the holy men of earth, Christ would stand up among them as chief. Then, if we could call all the mighty men of earth together, he would again tower above them as chief.

There were many who learned from Christ's teachings to regard him as being more than any other man, but never did wholly adopt his teachings and trust him as the Redeemer of the World.

Nicodemus says: "We know that thou art a teacher come from God," but this is not in open daylight; he waits to come by night to speak these words that he does not dare to utter before the whole people. But we do not wonder at this, for men had long before acknowledged God as being simply a wonder-worker; who do not accept him as being their God.

In Deut. 32:31 Moses says: "For their rock is not as our rock, even our enemies themselves being judges." This shows that even the worldly man has long been to some extent acknowledging God. The king of Egypt would not obey God.

"His name it is Jehovah; he hears his people pray."

As to Some Leaders of the Race

By Prof. A. W. MCKINNEY, Huntsville, Ala.

"Dull times," "hard times," are the words first to fall from the lips of all whom we meet. But the dark cloud has a silver lining. Heaven is still propitious and has sent us an abundant crop of fruit. The limbs of the orchard trees are bending, like rainbows, under their increasing load. The field crops also are equally promising.

The wheels of the old ship of Zion drag heavily, but she still moves.

Brother T. H. Ham, pastor at Attalla, has built a new church since conference. Only a few months ago many "Doubting Thomases" said they would never live to see a Methodist Episcopal Church built in Attalla. Brother Ham went from our last annual conference with faith in God, determined to do his best, and behold the result! a church which will hold 400 people, adorns the landscape. As yet the building is only "hulled in," without ceiling and without pews; but his people having seen, now believe and are working. On Children's Day the house was filled to overflowing. All honor to Bro. Ham, his faithful wife and his few trusty helpers.

Brother J. S. Todd is doing good work at Gadsden. He has added three rooms to the parsonage with his own hands and a score of converts to the church.

Here I met the preacher of another church, who was preparing to run an "excursion" from Gadsden to Rome, Ga. It was to leave at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and return to Gadsden at 4 o'clock Sunday morning; thus keeping the people in frolic and dissipation all night. As is common on these occasions, there was the car reserved for "white people"—men only. For the sake of an object lesson, I went down to see them off. There were the roughs and toughs—men and women, whose very countenances showed that they were acquainted with sin, were jammed in with children of tender age. Here I saw a white man of the town and a colored woman dipping snuff together! The preacher passed us as we were on the station, and when asked if he was going on the excursion replied: That as he had some business in Rome, he was going down to look at the crowd and if they were not too rough for him, he might take advantage of the rates and go. But, as soon as he reached the platform, he opened his grip and commenced selling tickets to the crowd, and thus employed himself during the twenty minutes that the train waited!

Is it not time for us to raise the question as to whether our preachers, as a class, can be trusted as guardians of the morals of our people? The sooner we face the facts as they are, the better for all concerned.

Brother E. L. Gary and his noble wife are doing a good work in Ashville, Ala., and the people are with them.

Lexington Conference.

Dear Brethren—It has been some time since you received the conference minutes. You will not forget that you obligated yourselves to raise your apportionment for the publication of the new minutes and also for paying the old minute debt. Both sums, for the new and old minutes, are included in your apportionment. Your action at last conference was that you take the minute collection in the first month after adjournment of conference.

You made the presiding elders a financial committee, to whom all moneys raised for the above named, were to be paid. With your obligation behind us, the presiding elders made arrangement with our Book Agents at Cincinnati for the publication of the minutes. Now let us, as a conference, save our credit. We made the apportionments at the beginning of the year and we had hoped that all moneys would have been in our hands ere this. Can you give a lawful excuse for not raising your apportionment? We hope that all who have not taken the collections will do so at once and let us have full reports of the same at our district conferences.

We would urge you to renew your efforts for success in all lines of church work. You are the leaders of the people and advancement depends largely upon your own exertion. Our prayer is that the glory of the Lord may rest upon you and the whole Church. We are your fellow-servants,

NOT A SICK DAY

For Over Thirty Years!

RESULT OF USING

AYER'S PILLS

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills for over thirty years have kept me in good health, never having had a sick day in all that time. Before I was twenty I suffered almost continually—as a result of constipation—from dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia, or boils and other eruptive diseases. When I became convinced that nine-tenths of my troubles were caused by constipation, I began the use of Ayer's Pills, with the most satisfactory results, never having a single attack that did not readily yield to this remedy. My wife, who had been an invalid for years, also began to use Ayer's Pills, and her health was quickly restored. With my children I had noticed that nearly all their ailments were preceded by constipation, and I soon had the pleasure of knowing that with children as with parents, Ayer's Pills, if taken in season, avert all danger of sickness."—H. OUR : WOMEN'S : ROUND : TABLE

The Influence of the Home In the Uplifting of our People.

TWENTIETH LETTER—BY T. E. W.

Some Necessary and Immediate Reforms.

The women of our race are called upon to meet some tremendous responsibilities, and I take the position that only the best and purest are qualified to take the initial steps in preparing their fellow-women to meet the demands upon them. In all of the great movements of the past, in which women have played a conspicuous part, the woman has not been the mere leader of fashion, not the mere gaudy butterfly, whose highest ambition was to dazzle in society, and boast of her intrigues and sentimental conquests. Not she, who, with oily tongue and sugar-coated words could frown upon, flatter and praise her less favored dupes, in order to secure some temporary or personal advantage; but they were women who recognized the duty of influencing humanity for the better. They organized great reforms, and they gave those movements the benefit of their best and highest ideals of character.

Many uncrowned queens have reigned during the nineteenth century. But they were womanly women. Mothers who had a keen conception of what the world expected, aye, demanded of their children, and who sought to bring them up, not as spoiled and pampered playthings, to adorn the corners of the streets, and augment the increasing army of incorrigibles. Daughters who were noted for their native modesty, increasing more and more as they acquired those other attainments which embellished, adorned and made their lives beautiful. These were not mimics, not mere imitators, but they found in Christian homes (and I want to put emphasis upon the statement) those ideals which were a constant inspiration to the highest moral and social virtues.

Such are to be the leaders of the women of our race to-day. The questions of the development of a race, and of lifting it up to that condition in which it will command the respect of the whole world is such a serious one that I tremble when I think of the work to be done. The race needs women; Christian women; women qualified in the home under its highest and best training; in the school, with its highest and best literary culture—no smatterer, no mere glib-tongued virago. To be able to utter platitudes and glittering generalities, and possess the faculty of saying nice little perfumed nothings, and reading nice little essays on the abstruseness of the indefinite, or to invoke the agency of the muses to inflate into gigantic proportions some very diminutive person—may be the highest ambition of some, but these stirring times demand something more reliable. The work which the colored woman of the age is to do must not be predicated upon the mere glitter and glare of society so-called, but in that thing which is better than all things else—Character.

Nashville District.

Dear Brethren—Reduced rates have been granted to all delegates to the District Conference, Sunday School Institute and Epworth League Convention, to be held at Murfreesboro, August 20. Purchase your tickets during the day and inform the agent that you are a delegate or member of the district conference and he will give you information of the general passenger agent's instructions. Please rectify all mistakes before you leave home. It is your agent's business to wire the general passenger agent to see why he has not been instructed after reduced rates have been given. Two days is allowed for the purchasing of tickets, August 19 and 20. If you have any trouble on the 19th, wire me at 118 Fairfield street. I will leave at 7:30 p. m.

A Chance to Make Money.

I am delighted with my success selling Dish Washers; in the last six weeks I made $534, and was sick part of the time. I think this is pretty good for an inexperienced lady. I am surprised there has never been a good Dish Washer put on the market before, as everyone seems so anxious for one. It certainly is a popular demand that is unsupplied, and that means big money for the agents that supply the demand. I believe any woman or man can make from $5 to $12 a day anywhere in this business, and by addressing the Iron City Dish Washer Co., E. E. Pittsburg, Pa., you can get full particulars. It simply requires a little push. You can't expect to make money unless you try. I would like to have the experience of others of your readers in this business.

Holly Springs, Miss.

Dear Editor—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to speak of the Holly Springs and Greenwood District Conferences. I feel satisfied that the many readers of the SOUTHWESTERN will be pleased to hear that these conferences, under the lead of Elders W. McDonald and W. E. Mask, are doing a great work. I visited the Greenwood District Conference, held at Vaiden June 27. I found most of the preachers present and much encouraged as to the work that had been accomplished. In the evening quite an interesting program was rendered. Mrs. Mask was the organist, which is a guarantee that the music was well selected and rendered. The topics discussed by Revs. D. Green, Edward Newton, C. P. Head, N. R. Clay, F. G. Wilburn and A. D. Goren were good and showed that they had given much thought on the subjects. Rev. B. F. Woolfolk, the efficient secretary, was at his post of duty. Rev. N. L. Lackey is the pastor at Vaiden, and the way the conference brethren were cared for shows that he knows how to handle his people. The pastors reported benevolent collections to the amount of $202. Elder Mask made quite an effort for the SOUTHWESTERN, and when the elder makes an effort you may be sure that something for good is accomplished. After a stay of a few hours in Vaiden, I boarded the cars and went to Duck Hill, where the Holly Springs District Conference was being held. Elder W. McDonald, the hero in Methodism, was presiding. The reports of the preachers were encouraging and showed wonderful progress of the Methodist Church this year. Some interesting subjects were discussed by Revs. J. L. Wilson, C. W. Butler, R. Sewell, S. D. Troupe and N. H. Williams. Benevolent collections, $201 10. Quite a number of pledge cards were given out by Elder McDonald and the brethren pledged themselves to secure many subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN during the next six months.

Prof. G. G. Logan, of Rust University, lectured at both conferences. Every one who heard the lectures was highly pleased and benefitted.

Meridian Academy.

Commencement Exercises.

The Meridian Academy closed its sixteenth annual session with the grandest exercises ever witnessed in this city.

The students were treated to an excellent address by Rev. A. M. Trotter, presiding elder of the Meridian District. Sunday morning. At the annual love feast, many of the students spoke for the Master. At 10:30 a. m., the annual sermon was preached by Rev. A. M. Trotter. At 3 p. m., the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. W. H. Nelson, D. D., Ph. D., of Mobile, Ala. At night Dr. Nelson again preached.

Monday night the students gave their annual concert, which reflected much credit upon themselves and Mrs. Redmond, the accomplished manager.

Monday night was graduating night. The large church was filled. The exercises began with an instrumental duet. Space forbids us to mention the names of the graduates, who acquitted themselves grandly; after which Dr. Nelson, in a neat and appropriate address, delivered the diplomas. This closed one of the grandest sessions in the history of the school. Prof. Redmond, and his able assistants, deserve much credit for the way in which they have managed the school.

LOCATING THE RESPONSIBILITY.

Yes, all statements to the contrary notwithstanding, we find that there was a premeditated and concerted attempt made to humiliate the colored delegates during the great International Epworth League Conference at Chattanooga.

No colored brother has yet appeared to assume the responsibility of asking for separate seats for his people; and, it also appears, that the statement to the effect that the colored brethren requested this separation, is without foundation in fact. Nor, has it appeared that either of the general boards of control authorized the order. Hence, the only logical conclusion to be reached is, that the local committee at Chattanooga is responsible.

The statement of Dr. Ernest Lyon, one of our most respectable and highly cultured ministers, places the responsibility where it belongs. He, with several others, was not only ordered to go to the seats set apart for colored people, but threatened with arrest if they did not comply. These are painful facts, but the public ought to know all about this disgraceful episode. The usher, who, sad to say, was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Chattanooga, declared that he was authorized by the local committee at Chattanooga to do as he did. It will now be in order for the local committee to explain. We had a suspicion from the time the selection of a place was made, that something of the kind would take place at Chattanooga. Notwithstanding, we urged our leagues to send up their best representatives, believing that to be participants, even under great embarrassments, would be a wonderful uplift to them. Well, "They came, they saw, they conquered." It was, after all, a great victory to the Negro; because, this episode brought out the latent deviltry, so to speak, and revealed the old animus, which even yet rankles in the hearts of some people claiming to be the followers of Christ. Thus is developed a new phase of the Negro problem among the Methodisms operating in the Southland.

There is a suspicion abroad that the Negro members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South are treated with far less consideration by white members of the same church, than is at all consistent with the relationship which each of them sustains to the other. Indeed, it has been gravely hinted, and that too with the shadow of plausibility, that "the ultimate purpose" of the policy of discrimination and separation is "to open the way, if possible, for the extension of the white work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Southern States." A miserable subterfuge, indeed, upon which to build! The growth of the Negro Methodist Episcopalian in intelligence, his patient endurance of the hardships incident to the strained relationship existing between himself and the other members of the Methodist family at times, and his development into a well-rounded Christian character, is surely winning friends to his cause. Nor are these friends confined to any particular section of the country or branch of Methodism. On the other hand, they are among those who can, and do, recognize character wherever found, and who will not withhold the hand of fellowship, even from a Negro.

The following letter will be read with interest:

"Dear Doctor—It was our intention to keep out of the public press, in order to avoid the sensation which any report of the unfortunate incident at Chattanooga would have created. But, since there have appeared gross misrepresentations of the facts in the case, together with an attempt, on the part of some, to place the responsibility of the existence of a separate pen for colored delegates upon the black man himself, we are forced to speak in self defence. The conduct of our men on the ground was manly and dignified.

"We were delegates to the convention, and were entitled to equal accommodations. We were guaranteed by the management, decent and respectful treatment, which we did not get. The management knew this, and it was therefore their duty, on the ground, to demand respectful and humane consideration for their guests. As they failed to vindicate us on the spot, by calling the attention of the convention to our humiliation, then we sought, in a quiet but manly manner to destroy the color line by an absolute refusal to sit in the place assigned to us because we were of African descent, and in influencing others to distribute themselves to any and every part of the tent, according to their own will.

"It is asserted in some of the publications that, at the two first sessions the colored people sat where they pleased. This is not so. And the local committee know better, for they had their guards all over the tent to prevent this very thing! Only a few manly men sat where they pleased after repeated insults and aggravated attempts to remove them from the seats of their choice.

"Let me furnish you with the facts in the case for the benefit of the readers in the SOUTHWESTERN: I was pseesent at the opening session, in company with Drs. Monroe of Philadelphia, Walters of Wilmington, Burrough and Townsend of South Carolina, Bulkley of Claflin University, Mason of Georgia, Johnson of New Jersey and Prof. Penn of Virginia. At the first meeting we not only saw the colored people sitting by themselves, in one corner of the tent, but we were stopped by the usher, in sight of all the people, when we attempted to pass him to another portion of the tent, with the injunction that we would have to sit in the place appointed for us by the local committee. Unwilling to disturb the peace of the meeting, we submitted for the time being to the unjust discrimination, resolving to return to the next session and break up the color line, by distributing ourselves all over the tent. Accordingly, on Friday morning, we returned and, having evaded the vigilance of the usher, sat in the centre of the enclosure. We had scarcely seated ourselves, when the usher approached us and said, 'Gentlemen, you will have to move from here, and sit over yonder. My instructions from the local committee are to put all the colored delegates in the place appointed for them.' 'You tell the local committee,' said I, 'we shall refuse to obey its orders, and shall continue to sit here in spite of all your instructions.' 'But you must obey the committee, or I shall get a policeman and compel you to move,' was his sharp answer. 'Well,' said I, 'if you are so foolish as to disturb the peace of this meetig by calling in a policeman to remove decent and respectable members of the Methodist Episcopal Church and delegates to this convention, two of whom are invited speakers, you may go, sir.' At this rebuke he started for the policeman, but unfortunately he did not return with the policeman.

"This incident attracted the attention of three gentlemen and a lady, who afterwards proved to be one of the officials of the Epworth League and two Western presiding elders. In disgust, one of the brethren exclaimed, 'This is an outrage; it is a slander on Christianity! You remain quiet, brethren. It is true, the weather is hot, but, if the policeman comes, we will make it hotter!'

"The ushers not only compelled colored people to sit in the pen provided for them, but prevented white people from sitting with them! And, if any white person was seen sitting with the colored people in the pen, they did it after repeated attempts to remove them.

"I assert, from personal knowledge and experience—supported by the public announcement of Dr. Steele himself, and one of the Chattanooga evening papers which loudly applauded the announcement—the following facts:

"1. That there was discrimination in the convention against the colored delegates.

"2. That neither the colored people in Chattanooga, nor the delegates who came from afar, had anything to do with the separate arrangement, having neither asked for it nor desired it."

"3. That while some few delegates sat in different parts of the tent this condition was not general, and was only obtained by the action of the men who came from afar.

"4. The colored ministers, at a meetiug on Sunday, denied the assertion that they had asked for separate seats:

"This action of the local committee had their effect upon the colored citizens of Chattanooga. It kept our best people away. The few who were seen at the sessions, with but a few exceptions, could hardly be called our representative people. This action of the management has exposed self-respecting men and women to the ridicule and contempt of our enemies without.

"The conduct of the Christian Endeavor Society, in their convention at Boston, where colored men were given equal show and equal consideration in all matters pertaining to its management, to the extent that some of them even presided at the sessions, must stand as a solemn rebuke to the prejudice and discrimination at the Chattanooga convention of Epworth Leaguers.

"You will be surprised to know that we afterwards learned that the usher, who threatened us with the police, was a member of our own Church in Chattanooga.

"Yours, etc., ERNEST LYON."

We have received a communication from Rev. H. A. Monroe, D. D., touching the Chattanooga discrimination, which will be published next week.

—Our "Notes from Nashville," from the pen of that veteran educator, and tried and true friend of the Negro, Dr. John Braden, have the right ring. On the abolition of the color line, our views are identical. "The world is growing better." We believe the representative white people of the South, the native American citizens, are manifesting an increasing interest in the welfare of the "brother in black." And, since we believe in God, in virtue, in truth, and in justice, we cannot, without proving recreant to our faith, fail to recognize many, very many, hopeful omens of the speedy dawning of a better day. The splendid utterances of Bishops Haygood and Galloway, and Editors Hoss, of the Advocate, and Tigert, of the Review, represent the better sentiment of Southern white people toward the Negro. Why should we not recognize this trend as one of the results of that Christian education, which has been made possible to the Negro by the munificence of both Northern and Southern Methodists? Why not accept the logic of events? May not the sons of the immortal Wesley now see eye to eye? Recognizing the fact that one of the providential reasons for the establishment of American Methodism was the salvation of the Negro, may they not unite, and with increased numbers and greatly augmented influences proceed to discharge their God-given trust? In the light of propheey, and in harmony with the advancing power of Christian progress, who will dare to say No? "Those whom God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."

—Prof. Thomas Henry Huxley, the distinguished scientist, died on June 29, at Eastbourne, England, after a long illness, aged 70 years. While yet a young student, Huxley had written a brief notice of that layer of the root sheath of the hair, which has since borne the name of Huxley's layer. In 1851 he was elected a fellow of the Royal Society, and in 1852 received one of the royal medals in recognition of his eminent abilities. He made many valuable contributions to zoology, and contributed extensively to the "English Cyclopædia." His "Lessons in Elementary Physiology" appeared in 1866. These were followed by "Classification of Animals," "Elementary Biology," "The Crayfish," and a treatise on "Physical Geography." When the Darwinian theory was announced Professor Huxley took up its exposition and defense, and his influence, it is believed, aided powerfully in securing the acceptance of the theory in the highest scientific circles. His lectures embodied in his work, "Man's Place in Nature," "English Men of Letters Series," "Lay Sermons, Addresses and Reviews," and his "American Addresses" (1879) may be accepted as models of English style. He had been president of the Royal Society, Geological Society, the British Association, and lord rector of Aberdeen University. Breslau, Dublin, Edinburgh and Cambridge conferred upon him honorary doctorates. It is to be regretted, however, that his splendid abilities were not consecrated to the propagation of the Truth as it is in Christ Jesus.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

Quite a goodly number of our ministers, with their very excellent wives, had a pleasant and social outing at Audubon Park last Friday. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the occasion was one of much pleasure. Such meetings are helpful, especially to the wives of our ministers, who are too often so absorbed in domestic duties that they lose their interest in the general work of the Church. This touch with their sisters in the ministry is helpful to them in many ways. And they should be encouraged by our ministers who really have the love of the Church and their families at heart. Let us have more of these social gatherings, where ministers' wives can have the benefit of associating with those more intimately identified with the pastorate.

Rev. M. C. B. Mason, of the Freedmen's Aid Society, spent Sunday and Monday in the city. He preached very acceptably at Wesley and at First Street on Sunday, and lectured at Simpson Chapel on Monday night, to the great delight of a large number of admirers.

A rainy Sunday in New Orleans means a slim attendance at churches. Only the most faithful venture out. With overflowing gutters and submerged banquettes, travel to and from church is rather difficult; yet we believe even these difficulties can be overcome by a knowledge that a well prepared Gospel feast awaits them.

Are you ever Annoyed

By a buzzing or roaring sound in your head? Have you difficulty in hearing distinctly? Are you troubled with a continual dropping of mucous, irritating the throat and causing you to cough? Is your breath unpleasantly affected and accompanied with bad taste? Is your hearing less acute? If so, you have catarrh and should at once procure a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, the best known remedy. The Balm will give instant relief.

North New Orleans District.

The following is the program of the district conference which will convene at St. Matthew's Church, Algiers, La., August 7:

Introductory sermon, A. J. Ford; missionary sermon, D. G. Butler; The Woman's Home Missionary Society, Mrs. S. E. Johnson; Experiences from my ministerial career, Emperor Williams; How to establish mission Sunday Schools, Alex. Martin; Revivals and how to conduct them, J. M. Bryan; The peculiar doctrines of Methodism, E. H. Clark; The importance of the Epworth League to the Church, T. J. Johnson; Power of prayer, Braxton Bolden; Temperance a prohibition, Eugene Baptiste; Observance of the Sabbath, A. A. Lacey; The relation of the pastor to the class meeting, Nelson Burton; Under what condition is a pastor justified in deserting his appointment? Frank Harvey; The work of the Church Extension Society, H. T. O. Abbott; Christian baptism, modes and subjects, D. G. Taylor; Duty of class leaders, Samuel Bell; Church government, Abraham Hilton; Ministerial qualifications to preach, T. G. Montgomery; Relation of the younger to the older ministers, Wm. Davis; Ministerial support, discussion led by D. G. Butler; Methodist literature and our duty toward it, D. J. Price; The best methods for raising the finances of the Church, Edward Fields; How pastors may mutually help each other, Frank Walker; Mission and other benevolent causes, A. J. Ford; Repentance unto salvation, J. H. Craig; Our indebtedness to the Freedmen's Aid Society, E. P. Harris; Pastoral visitation, H. C. Armston; Duty of officers and members to the SOUTHWESTERN, Alex. Conerly; How to best train your converts, Samuel Davage; Divine Providence in affliction, H. O. Williams.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason, assistant corresponding secretary Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society; Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, Editor SOUTHWESTERN, and other distinguished visitors, will enliven the occasion with their presence and addresses. Epworth League, Sunday School, and Woman's Home Missionary anniversary conventions will be held in connection with the conference. Every league chapter and Sunday school will be represented by speakers of their own selection. Local preachers and others not here named will select their own subjects. Every pastor is earnestly requested to come prepared to report all benevolent collections, either in cash or vouchers, together with old, present and next year's minute accounts. District stewards will come prepared to pay their pastorages in full, including the third quarterage.

South Atlanta, Ga.

The Rhodes Street Mission, perhaps the youngest in the vicinity of Atlanta, is now a point of interest to many of the best people of our church here. Rev. E. A. Spencer took hold of this little mission and is rapidly pushing it to a success far beyond the most hopeful expectations. A meeting was called recently, at which were present: Presiding Elder G. W. Arnold, Dr. J. C. Murray of Gammon, Dr. M. C. B. Mason, Revs. W. W. Lucas, F. R. Bridges, J. N. C. Coggins, McDonald Spencer and R. M. King of the A. M. E. Church. A plan for purchasing a lot, valued at $850, was formulated; $150 to be paid the first of August. At the close of the meeting more than $100 had been subscribed.

Brother Spencer has interested Mrs. Dr. Mason, Mrs. Dr. Bowen, Mrs. B. M. Hubbard, Mrs. G. N. Johnson, Miss Josie Holmes, Miss Georgia Hill and Miss A. Bryant. Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Mason are marshaling the forces of the "Willing Workers." All these ladies are planning to contribute time, means and labor to accomplish the work in hand. The trustees felt, that in appreciation of Brother Geo. Standing, as a true and tried friend of the colored people of this State and a devoted worker in our church, it would be a token of esteem to name the church after him. This was highly endorsed by the ministers present. Hope is entertained that in a comparatively short time a beautiful church edifice will adorn the corner of Delbut and Vine streets.

Reflections.

By Miss R. E. COLLIER, Franklin, Texas.

Dear Editor—Allow me space to say a few words. At Lawrence, Miss., my home, when only 9 years old, under the preaching of Rev. McKelpen I was converted, and joined the Church. Not many years afterwards I entered Tongaloo University, where I spent eight long years of hard study. Not being able to pay all of my expenses, I was helped through by the assistance of the Hand Fund.

I am very grateful to the Tongaloo Faculty for what it has done for me; making me competent to be of service to myself and others. While in school my opportunities and abilities were too limited to do the good I desired for falling humanity, but all along through those years I spent the summers in working among my people.

Since I've completed the course and entered this broad field of labor, I've landed in Robertson County, Texas, where, in the fall of '94, was examined and passed a satisfactory examination for a two years first grace license. Taught a term of four and a half months, in which time I tried to give out knowledge that was beneficial to parents and children.

Here in the town of Franklin I find such a large and unexplored field for the M. E. Church. In this place, since the adjournment of the last annual conference, which was held at Huntsville, Texas, Rev. G. J. Izard, our pastor, has succeeded in building a church, when completed will cost $1000. On the second Sunday in June the first service was held, which was the entering rally day. Including manual labor something over $100 has been raised. We have recently organized a Sunday School and the future outlook seems favorable. We are hoping to take a great number from the baseball grounds, who are finding their way down to eternal ruin as the Sabbaths go by. A great many attempts to build here have failed. Other denominations said the M. E. Church was not needed, and should not come in this town, but Rev. G. J. Izard said and has shown that the claim was not true. He said that "America has existed over 250 years without the M. E. Church, and yet there was work that other then existing denominations had failed to do, that the M. E. Church had to do, and that was making and putting into execution the plan which broke the shackles from our parents' feet; yea, four millions saw the fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy recorded in the 11 ch., 9 vs., which says: "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea." The work of bringing our people to the happy approval of Almighty God has just begun. In this work the M. E. Church is in the lead. May the Lord bless her passed success and her future aim by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Central Alabama Conference.

A Few Words to the Members.

By Rev. W. H. Nelson, D D.

Brethren—A matter exists which concerns me much and is of interest to you. It is that of our educational work. Have you thought of it lately and right seriously? Have you considered its importance, and its stale and impoverished condition? Have you considered that as a conference we are, educationally, behind all the rest in our Methodism? Do you realize that instead of growing in this respect we are waning? That we have only one school at Huntsville, and it has been more meagerly supported this year than ever, and indeed hardly at all. And have you considered that this school may not re-open in the fall, and cannot if this conference don't rally and give more liberal support in a substantial way.

Resolutions at the last annual conference and resolutions all through this summer of district conferences will not cancel our obligations to that school; so let us cease to resolve, first and second, unless we are going to put action into resolving. We read in the New Testament ("Acta Apostolorum") "Acts of the Apostles," not resolutions, and by the "acts" of those heroic men the kingdom of Christ came in all the world in their generation.

Have you in mind the educational resolutions you drew up and adopted in the last session at Huntsville four years ago, at Union Springs two, and at your various district meetings? Do you realize that not one has been carried out toward establishing a Central College, nor has the full assessment of the educational society at Cincinnati been raised in any year? Do you realize that our Church cannot hold its own in the State and be respected, if we don't do more toward moulding sentiment and enlightening the outoward generation? No Church can make much impression by an ignorant following, nor expect much worthy accession when it is no patron of education. I very often stand and question our destiny. We say much at our annual meetings, and our presiding elders seem to try to report us in as favorable light as possible; yet, as your journalistic and statistical secretary during twenty years, I beg to state that we are no better off, educationally and numerically, than we were eight or ten years ago. Educationally, from a point of doing ourselves, we are not so well off. This conference ought to raise its quota of F. A. collection and support a teacher besides at Huntsville. But alas; ah, no, the fewest of us raise half and many raise none.

Brethren, what are we, and what are we to become at this rate and drift? Now, I have thus talked with you for one end to be accomplished, viz: That we lay our shoulders to the educational interest in our State, and see that it lives and flourishes inasmuch as its life and perpetnity will give to us life and furtherance. Let us see that every dollar asked of us be raised and sent to Prof. McKinney or to Cincinnati, O., as you are instructed. Let us see that Huntsville School be opened in September; not as usual, but better than ever. Let us assure Brother McKinney that, as our representative, we will not let the school die on his hand. Let us have Dr. Hartzell to know that there is some manhood and self-help in this conference, and that we are willing to do our part. Awake! bestir, brethren, our greatest interest is at stake. "Live and never die"—our motto.

Our Columbus (Ohio) Letter.

Mr. Editor—I sent you a statement about our church. It is now completed—all painted and papered nicely; costing $439, of which amount $80 is yet to be raised. The 28th of July, the fourth Sunday, is fixed as the time for the grand rally and re-opening. The re-oponing sermon will be preached by the Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D., of New Orleans, and at which time we expect to raise all the money for the remodling.

We have in Columbus, at Donaldson Street M. E. Church, a good working membership of men and women, who are doing all in their power to make their church second to none in the district. We have been here only a little over three months and God has blessed the work. We have had also ten additions to the church. Yours,

Alexander McDade, Pastor.

Tennessee Annual Conference.

Notice to the Members.

The presiding elders will please send me the names of local preachers from their district that expect to attend the Tennessee Conference. The pastors will please send the names of their delegates as soon as possible. As we are not prepared to care for horses, therefore we ask that all horses will be left at home. Any pastor intending to bring his wife will do us a great favor by dropping the pastor a card. We are preparing to arrange homes for all members and delegates. We hope not to be burdened with a crowd that cannot do any good by coming, or be of any benefit to the occasion.

Committee—J. W. Miller, John. Bell, H. C. Smith, L. Pennington, Henry Hallen.

Pastor of Braden's Chapel.

Notice.

To the Members of Tennessee Annual Conference—The statistical blanks are now in my possession. I will place them in the hands of your presiding elders, so that you can have them at your last district conference, in order that they may be properly filled before you leave home. Please make them out with ink.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St., New Orleans.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Report of the Spies.

(Num. 13. 17-20, 23-33.)

Written for the Southwestern.

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The Lord is with us: fear them not." (Num. 14. 9.)

The connecting link between the last lesson and this are as follows—The people murmured, and the fire of the Lord devoured many of them. They cried for mercy, and the plague was staid. A description was given of the manna. The mixed, multitude, and many Israelites, lusted for flesh. Moses complained to the Lord that the work was too great for him. Seventy elders were chosen, and given the spirit that was in Moses, to aid him in his work. Quails were sent in abundance. Miriam and Aaron spoke against Moses because he had married an Ethiopian. Miriam, who seems to have been the leader in the matter, was smitten with leprosy, and banished from the camp seven days. Moses prayed for her, and she was healed. They marched to the Southern border of Canaan, and camped at Paran, or Kadesh. The spies were sent out because the people asked it (Dent. 1. 22). Moses showed weakness in yielding to their request. The whole matter teaches unbelief and cowardice. God suffered them to have their way, just as He did when they asked for a king (1. Sam. 8. 1-9). He will permit nations and individuals to ruin themselves if they are determined to do so. The spies were chosen, a ruler from each tribe. The house of Levi was not represented.

I. The work of the spies (17-25). 1. Their course.—"Get you up this way southward, and go up into the mountains." They entered Palestine from the South, near Beersheba, and went North as far as Rehob, near Mt. Herman. They viewed every part of the land. We may, by faith, traverse the entire heavenly world, and see all God has in reservation for us.

2. Their work (1). They were to view the land—Its mountains, vallies, waters, timbers and products. Canaan was geographically divided North and South into three leading sections. The low land, near the Mediterranean Sea; the high country, in the central part, and the Jordan valley, in the East. It contained a little more than 6090 square miles. (2). The people were descendants of Ham, and were chiefly of two races—the Amorites, or "mountaineers," and the Canaanites, or "lowlanders;" yet both of these were subdivided into various clans. They were not the peculiar people of God. They had run their course, and the time of their destruction was at hand. (3). They were to view their cities—houses, walls and gates. It was their mission to see if the inhabitants dwelt in cities or tents, whether they were settled people like the Egyptians, or wanderers like the tribes they met in the wilderness. God's people have no continual abiding place on earth. This world is not their home.

3. Their return. They had passed through the entire land. Their work was completed. Almost forty days have passed since they departed from the camp. They turn their faces homeward. In the valley of Eshcol, near the Hebron, they gather some clusters of grapes, pomegranates and figs, and bear them to the children of Israel. God often gives us, while we journey here, foretastes of the heavenly land.

II. The Report of the Spies (26-33). 1. The persons to whom they reported—"Moses and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Israel." They had been appointed in a public way, and sent forth with authority. And now they make their report to all the people. The Israelites were a great family. Their interests were one. Their national works were not done in a corner. There were no scheming politicians among them at this time. Happy is the nation whose interests are one, and whose people are familiar with the works of their leaders.

2. The report of the ten. (1) The land "floweth with milk and honey: and this is the fruit of it." This was a proverbial expression, and only meant it was very productive. Canaan was then a much better country than to-day. But even now it might be brought back to its former fertility. They esteemed it very highly, because to them it was a type of the heavenly world. (2) The people were great. The lofty, terrible, long-necked children of Anak were there. The Amalekites dwelt in the Southland; the Hittites, Jebusites and Amorites, in the mountains; and the Canaanites on the sea coast, and in the Jordan valley. There are many giants in the way of the unsaved who have a desire to enter the kingdom of God. Giants of intemperance, unbelief, vicious habits, soft indulgence, and wicked associates. (3) "The cities are walled and very great." These cities were the strongholds of the people. The same may be said of any nation. The cities rule the country. They are railroad and telegraph centers. The printing presses are located in them. The people from the country go into them to trade, to learn the news, and see the fashions. The interior will be like the cities. Strong efforts should be made to make them moral and religious.

3. The report of Caleb and Joshua. (1) They "stilled the people before Moses." This may have been done by rending their clothes. This was an expression of great grief. This silence lasted but for a season. Power to quiet a mob, and get them to listen to reason, is a gift that belongs to but few people. (2) They addressed the people—"Let us go up at once and possess it, for we are well able to overcome it. The land which we passed through * * * is an exceeding good land. If the Lord delight in us, then He will bring us into this land, and give it us. * * * Only rebel not ye against the Lord, neither fear ye the people of the land, for they are bread for us. Their defense is departed from them, and the Lord is with us: fear them not" (14. 6 10). This speech should have brought the entire camp over to their side, but instead of this the whole congregation commanded that they be stoned. Caleb and Joshua were faithful, brave men. The majority is not always right. Give us men who will stand by their convictions of right and wrong regardless of the love or fear of others.

4. The false report of the ten. They heard Caleb and Joshua through. Saw the effect of what they said on the congregation, and were encouraged to make a second report. It does not contradict the first, but brings out some new matter. (1) The people "are stronger than we." This may not mean that there were more of them, but they were greater in size. But the Lord, who always makes a majority, was on Israel's side. They were so large the Israelites felt themselves to be as grass-hoppers when in their sight. The extremes here are so great, the force of the comparison is destroyed. Self-deprecation is not always a virtue. Here it is only exaggerated unbelief. (2) "The land eateth up the inhabitants thereof." They had just said it flows with milk and honey. It is possible for both statements to be correct. They may represent different parts of the land, or the entire land at different times. The assertion may mean that it was a land of scarcity, or a land of diseases, or a land of strife. In this report they magnified the evil and minimized the good. They left the Lord entirely out of the account. The ten who made this false report "died by the plague before the Lord," and the people who believed it, perished in the wilderness. But Caleb and Joshua, who made the report of faith, entered the holy land. These things are written that we may prophet by them.

Don't you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome that tired feeling and give you renewed vigor and vitality?

Let me just thank you who have already sent cards, and ask those of you who have not given your names and address to do so, that I may correspond with you. I propose to send each contributor occassional reports of the work and, from time to time, some little articles of interest from this strange land.

Only picture cards are serviceable and the more flashy the color the better. It is the picture the Chinese like. We paste a printed verse of Scripture on the back and use them as rewards in day and Sunday schools. Colporters also use them in selling Scriptures and tracts.

Send by post as printed matter whenever you have enough for a small package. If you will write your name and address plainly on the package, you need not write me.

I would also like Berean Leaf Clusters. These may be sent the same way. Old ones are just as good. Address

Two ways of washing.

One is the same way your grandmother washed—but there wasn't anything better, in her day. You rub soap into the clothes—then you rub them up and down on a washboard till you get the dirt worn off. This is hard work—and while you're wearing off the dirt, you're wearing out your clothes, too. The other way is Pearline's.

You put the clothes into Pearline and water—then you wait. Pearline gets the dirt all out. A little rinsing makes them perfectly clean.

Pearline does the work. There can't be anything so easy, so economical, or that keeps your clothes so absolutely safe from harm and wear and tear.

Beware you an imitation, be honest—send it back.

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends 426 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Southwestern Christian Advocate.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR. NEW ORLEANS, AUGUST 1, 1895.—Vol. 30. No. 31. HUNT & EATON, PUBLISHERS.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—The Jewish Ledger, of this city, commenting editorially upon the recent high-handed outrage upon the public school system by the Florida Legislature, bravely and sensibly says:

"It is impossible for such a law to receive the sanction of the higher courts, as it is not a question of separate schools for colored and white pupils based upon the mutual preferences of the races or upon the grounds of temporary expediency, but seems to be a flagrant attempt to crystalize race prejudice into a permanent law."

—A preacher that runs a Sunday excursion is a very efficient disseminator of that seed which will bring a harvest of destruction. No preacher can do so and keep a clear conscience. There is no apology for this species of Sabbath desecration, and preachers should be the last persons on earth to set the example of wrong-doing. Professor McKinney of Huntsville, Ala., asks: "Is it not time for us to raise the question as to whether our preachers, as a class, can be trusted as guardians of the morals of our people?" Let the preacher, who rushes into the Sunday excursion business, answer.

—"A movement of vast importance is under way in Minnesota. Many towns are adopting an ordinance that prohibits the appearance upon the streets of boys and girls under fifteen years of age after 9 o'clock at night. At that time a bell is rung and violators of the law are fined $100 or given ninety days in jail."—Omaha Christian Advocate.

If such a law as that could be adopted in all the United States, it would herald the dawning of an era of moral and social purity, such as the world has never witnessed. The devil's university, for the destruction of our boys and girls, is in full blast in all its departments at night. Counteract this influence and we have saved the nation.

—The question of amusements in the Methodist Episcopal Church is giving certain easy-going members no little concern. It is to be regretted that there are those in the Church who would have an official deliverance to the effect that card playing, dancing, theatre-going and kindred sins are harmless. Make this concession, and the same people will demand the abolition of the class and prayer meeting, and in lieu of an earnest and consecrated ministry, they would have highly-perfumed, tinted and scented performers to wink at their foolishness and condone their wrong-doing. The Omaha Christian Advocate has this good word:

"The theatre, card table and dance are not shunned with the aversion that becomes true Christians. It is argued that people will go to these places even when their names are on the church rolls and to respect their relation to the church and place their attitude toward amusements under ban would engender a spirit of hypocrisy. There always has been a spirit of worldliness tempting Christians from their vows. Those who have succumbed have lost their vital force and spiritual power. * * * Let this worldly amusement invasion continue and God will recast Methodism. We must "keep unspotted from the world." If we can sing, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" at a card table, or be in a spirit of prayer at a theatre, or invite the Holy Spirit to a dancing party, satan will no longer tempt us with the amusement question. The Lord's work requires the Lord's presence and we should refrain from any course in which He will not accompany us."

COLORED MEN IN COUNCIL.

The color line episode minified to some extent a most important meeting, held by some of our most prominent colored brethren, during the late Epworth Conference at Chattanooga.

Our first news concerning this important gathering was decidedly unfavorable, being to the effect that the principal topic discussed was the election of a colored man as a missionary bishop, or as a separate bishop for the colored work in the Methodist Episcopal Church. It was also stated that two of our bishops were called on, and during the interview they suggested that if nothing else would suit the brethren except the election of a colored man as bishop, that they should ask the annual conferences to memorialize the General Conference, to change the restrictive rules so that a colored bishop might be elected to preside over the colored people alone.

Of course, we were surprised, if not indignant, that a number of prominent ministers and laymen could so far forget the history of the Church and the needs of the race, as to even suggest a movement which would practically ignore the growing sentiment in favor of the full and complete recognition of our people.

Such a course, in our judgment, would be nothing less than an endorsement of that very questionable practice which has obtained in our Church during the last quarter of a century, and which has been the very agency that Satan needs to keep up the sinful discriminations among the white and colored members of the Church. Of course, we have reference to the separate school, church and conference business.

Well, we went below; examined our machinery, took aboard an extra supply of ammunition, double-shotted our guns, called all hands to quarters, and prepared the decks for action; determined to blow the enemy into smithereens as soon as he made his appearance upon the forensic high seas, or to sail boldly into his port, and from our approved and modern turret gun, pour polemic thunders upon his devoted head. But we were relieved from this disagreeable task by the reception of a message from a most thoughtful brother who was present at all the meetings held, and who was able to speak intelligently. Said he: "Our meeting among the colored brethren was open, fraternal and profitable. We committed ourselves unequivocally to stay in the Church. No so-called autonomy or separation. In fact, it was decided from the very first that we do not come together to discuss separation, or even offices; but to ascertain how we may best develop our Methodism and enlarge the kingdom. Further, the brethren do not want a missionary bishop for the South, as some have reported." This is a splendid stand, and the only one that could be taken by our colored brethren without sacrificing their manhood and dignity.

But we do not understand this to mean that they are to surrender any landable ambition or aspiration, that they are to hold in abeyance a single desire in deference to that most cruel suggestion, that the colored people cannot stay in the Methodist Episcopal Church without abandoning the expectation of the preferments which they desire, and for which, in the very nature of things, there is a perfectly legitimate disposition to contend. To believe in anything of the sort is to accept a most unreasonable heresy. Equally harmful and cruel are the statements of those ultra conservatives, who, while they are willing to recognize the inevitable, are nevertheless postponing the desired consummation by seeking to impress their neighbors that the Church has not yet grown a colored man eminently fitted, of spotless character, of magnificent learning and commanding influence upon which she shall confer the highest office within her gift. No person can accept that statement without ignoring the splendid educational work which the Church has projected, and continued with marvelous results during more than a quarter of a century in the South especially. But the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church among the colored people of this land ante-dates the magnificent work of the Freedmen's Aid Society by a full century.

It would be an insult to our colored membership to say that the Church has not produced a man, or a score of men, and more if you please, who do not measure up even now to any and all the demands required, from the humblest place in the gift of the Church even to the highest. The Methodist Episcopal Church has already made a record of that fact.

There is abundant evidence that the objections to the election of a colored man to the office of a bishop in the Methodist Episcopal Church have not been founded so much upon the supposed lack of literary and other qualifications, as they are upon that some other thing, which happily is being reduced to a minimum. In the meantime our work in the pastorate, in the school room, in the president's chair and in the professions, will enter very largely in the very near future as determining factors in bringing all questions touching our status before the great tribunal of an educated public sentiment, in such a way and with such an emphasis as will compel even the most indifferent to recognize its importance.

The conference was solicitous with reference to the large numbers of our young men and women who have been and are now being educated in our schools, and who naturally expect that the Church should give direction, commendation and encouragement to those who are qualified.

They think that in the various departments of the Church, where hundreds and thousands of people are employed, that there is a splendid opportunity furnished to those in charge for the exercise of a policy which will put within the reach of many of our deserving young people the benefits of a business education.

A chance for them, even in the most menial places, is respectfully asked if promotion for faithful service rendered is one of the conditions.

Some of the heads of our business departments have made a commendable record in this respect, but there is room for improvement. By reducing friction at this point, we secure more harmonious action of our great machinery elsewhere.

These are among the things desired by the conference, and he is a diplomat who is wise enough to recognize the imperative needs of the people immediately interested, and who throws himself into the breach in their behalf, not with the sordid hope of mere personal advancement, but for the pure love of Christ and humanity.

UNIQUE CURRENCY.

Brother Depntie, missionary in Africa, sends a dollar in the form of a check on the Missionary Society of our Church. The check somewhat resembles the bills used by the old State banks and is current everywhere, and used as currency after being endorsed by the one to whom it is made payable. The one before us is payable to and endorsed by Wm. Taylor. This bit of consecrated paper awakens feelings of gratitude and thanksgiving to an all-wise Providence, who has raised up a Church and a society whose signature thus possesses the confidence of the world, that it will, on demand, redeem in gold every promise [illegible]

EDUCATIONAL.

Gammon Theological Seminary.

President Thirkield reports that a first-class piano has been presented to Gammon Theological Seminary by Rev. W. I. Haven of Boston. More attention will be given to musical culture next year. In the genius of the Negro for music lies a mighty power that should be cultivated for church work.

Gammon is preparing an exhibit for the Atlanta Exposition. This will be a year of splendid opportunities for students in Atlanta. The great International Exposition will be one of the largest ever held, and a careful study of it will be a liberal education.

Mr. Moody, the evangelist of world-wide fame, will hold meetings in Atlanta for a month or more, beginning Nov. 1. It is proposed to give to the students of Gammon the best opportunities for making a wise use of these great gatherings

The plans for the "Congress on Africa and Preachers' Assembly," to be held at Gammon next April, are being perfected. The program will include some of the greatest men of the churches in America, and Africa will be represented by missionaries, natives and travelers from the Dark Continent.

Tuskegee, Ala.

Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute

Tuskegee has been remembered again by one of its friends in the form of a legacy of $5,000, which sum was bequeathed to it by the late Edward Spalding, of Nashua, N. H.

In honor of the convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, which was held at Boston recently, the school held a special "Endeavor" meeting on Sunday, July 14.

Three young men, students of Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., recently gave a lantern exhibition here, which was very creditable.

Prof. J. W. Hoffman, of this institution, is now lecturing under the auspices of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He will travel in several of the Southern States.

The past year has been one of unusual growth in the history of the school, both in point of the number of its students and of the new buildings which have been erected. ISAAC FISHER.

From the World-Wide Missions.

Africa As a Mission Field.

By REV. WILBUR P. THIRKIELD, D. D.

Africa's Latest Name.

Africa has been given many names: The "Expiring Continent;" the "Dark Continent;" the "Last of the Continents;" the "Hopeless Continent." Here is the latest from Mr. Keltie, author of "The Partition of Africa," in an article in Scribner's: "Whatever else it may be, it certainly is, take it all in all, the most interesting of all the continents." He says that Africa now "attracts more attention than all the rest of the world put together."

An Assembly Stirred for Africa.

An inspiring and heroic incident took place on the floor of the recent Presbyterian Assembly at Pittsburg. Dr. Gillospie, in burning words for mission work, referred to the fact that a young graduate of the Western Theological Seminary stood ready, with his betrothed, to go to Africa and take the place of the Rev. A. C. Good, who died there a few months ago. "I blow the trumpet," said the secretary, "and ask the ladies of Pittsburg whether they will let the sun set to-day with the money uncontributed, which this young couple, your children, need for their salary for a year!" In the stir of the moment the suggestion came that the Assembly raise the money forthwith. By hundreds it came, till in a few minutes two thousand dollars was raised. Surely dark Africa is more and more touching the great heart of the Church. Within a single generation most of Africa has been brought to light. We now know more of the great Dark Continent than was known of America ten generations after Columbus set foot upon its shores.

The Heart of Livingstone.

A brave traveler has at last found and photographed the great tree under which the heart of Dr. Livingstone was buried. The inscription can still be plainly seen. Rudely embalming and wrapping in cloth the body of the great missionary, his faithful followers carried their sacred burden to the sea. Thence it was taken to London, where it now lies in the centre of the nave of Westminster Abbey. Victor Hugo said in 1879: "The white has made a man of the black; Europe will make a world of Africa."

Languages and Bible Versions.

The noted English philologist, Dr. Cust, in a careful essay on African languages, to which he has given years of investigation, wrote: "The existence of the Negro group of languages is an unparalleled record of the power of the human intellect. The twentieth century will classify that group. Many African languages are doomed. Scores—including such imperial tongues as Hausa, Kongo, Suto, Swahili, Yariba, Zulu—have in their original purity passed into the hands of missionaries who have in fifty years done what European languages required centuries to achieve. Africa has achieved more Bible-versions translations in half this century than the world in eighteen centuries. The origin of language cannot even be approached till the secrets of Africa, America and Oceanica have been revealed. In examining an African vocabulary whose one hundred words represent the environment and requirements of simple life, we obtain a standard of comparative chronology and progressive culture." How far above the African barbarian, A. D. 1900, was Abraham, B. C. 1900?"

Native Skill and Industrial Missions.

Col. Francis Rhodes, writing from Africa, strongly urges upon the Church Missionary Society the starting of industrial missions in Uganda, where they would be of enormous benefit to the natives. "The Waaganda," he says, "are a very intelligent race and work well in iron and wood. My camera was dropped over a cliff on the way up and badly injured, but it was admirably mended by a native who had been taught by Bishop Mackay." He commends the Jesuit Industrial Mission near Salisbury, in Mashonaland.

Huxley on the Typical Negro.

As a result of careful ethnological study, Prof. Huxley says in his "Critiques and Addresses": "A cultivator of the ground and dweller in villages; a maker of pottery and a worker in the useful as well as the ornamental metals; employing the bow and arrow as well as the spear, the typical Negro stands high in point of civilization above the Australian."

Cannibalism.

The horrors of cannibalism exist in the interior. Natives in the region of the Uhangi river urged one of Stanley's officers to leave one of his boat's crew in exchange for a goat, saying, "Meat for meat!" Urging his help in making a war against their neighbors, he said: "You can take the ivory, we will take the meat!" Rows of skulls are hideously exhibited, hung round the tents of cannibals to show how many men they have eaten.

Health in Africa.

The New York Sun, in a significant editorial on climatic conditions and health in Africa, gives the following data: "In British India the annual death rate among Europeans in the early part of this century was eighty-four to the thousand; but in 1890 it was reduced to sixteen to the thousand. So in the Dutch East Indies, the European death rate has been reduced from one hundred and seventy to the thousand in 1828 to sixteen—much less than the native death rate, which in 1892 was twenty-three to the thousand. In the basin of the Congo the death rate among white men in 1893 was seventy to the thousand, but this embraced many mere adventurers and campaigners, deprived of the comforts and conveniences of life. In Leopoldville and Boma, white settlements, where good homes are available and fair sanitary conditions, the death rate is but thirty-two to the thousand."

Was Adam a Black Man?

Reputable authorities contend that Adam was not a white man. Eusebius represented him as red. Pritchard believed him black. A legend that has obtained widespread currency holds the first man to have been black or of dark complexion. Our own late Prof. Winchell believed that "some black race first represented humanity on the earth," and "there is reason for saying the first man was black." Winobell mentions a tablet in the British Museum, secured by the late George Smith, on which is "an inscription that lends strange countenance to the legend of the black Adam." And so it appears that we may yet be forced to locate the Garden of Eden not in the Euphrates valley, or at the North Pole, according to Dr. Warren, but at the headwaters of the Nile or of the Congo.

Real Estate and Enterprise.

The London Times, in its account of the first land sale in Beebuanaland, for the construction of the Vryburg railroad, says that thirty-four farms sold for an average of two thousand, seven hundred and seventy-five dollars each. The entire sale was a great success, realizing over one hundred thousand dollars. This looks as if the English had faith in a future for Africa. When Mr. Cecil Rhodes gave his report on industrial interests in Mashonaland and Matabeleland, two thousand men crowded one of London's great central halls at mid-day to hear him. Since then millions of English capital has been pouring into railroad, mining and other enterprises.

"The Whole World Kin."

Mungo Park was one of the most interesting of the early African travelers. He pays more than one grateful tribute to the character of the untutored native. "I was fully convinced," he writes, "that, whatever difference there is between the Negro and European in conformation and color, there is none in the genuine sympathies and characteristic feelings of a common nature." Others have given similar tributes to his kindness, fidelity and sympathy. May not this "touch of nature" show "the whole world's kinship to the Negro?"

Marshall District Conference.

Program of the Marshall District Conference, to be held at Mineola, Texas, August 22–25:

See that all the officials who are members of the district conference are duly notified and urged to be present on the first day.

But little has been done in revival work this year, yet I hope ere the harvest is passed and the summer ended, that each church on the district may have a spiritual awakening. Let us pray and work that the Lord may bless us in saving souls for his kingdom.

Most of the charges are considerably behind in their benevolences, to which pastors should give special attention. All benevolent funds and vouchers should be brought to the conference, from which the cash will be forwarded to proper sources. I hope you will have full reports on each apportionment.

Rates have been asked for over the T. & P. R. R., of which further notice will be given if granted; at any rate ask for certificates from your starting point.

To preach the opening introductory sermon, J. E. Bryant.

Two lectures will be delivered by Dr. I. B. Scott, embracing the conference course of study.

Why do we baptize infants, J. W. H. Moore and T. Young; A divine call to the ministry, W. E. Hutcheson and W. Fletcher; Regeneration, R. Williams and G. W. Norris; Our duty toward our schools, W. S. Curtis, G. B. Doggett and S. S. Reed; Why should a preacher regulate his hours for study and visiting? A. Taylor, T. Word and J. S. Whitaker; The present demand of the pulpit, J. O. Williams, W. J. Holland and G. W. Brown; Have all probationers the same relation in the Church? J. L. Owens, J. D. Calvin and R. Beaver; What can be done to interest the laymen more in behalf of ministerial support and benevolences, A. Alexander, T. Moore and Green Johns; The Epworth League, H. B. Pemberton, J. W. Jamison and J. R. Price. Fraternally yours,

CANCER CURED

—AND A—

LIFE SAVED

By the Persistent Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improve. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A. FIELDS, Bloomfield, Ia.

EPWORTH LEAGUE -:- -:- DEPARTMENT.

"Look Up, Lift Up."

Feeding of the Five Thousand.

Scripture Lesson: Matt. 14:13-21; Mark 6:31-44; Luke 9:10-17; John 6:1-14.

"Peace, troubled soul, thou need'st not fear;
Thy great Provider still is near;
Who fed thee last, will feed thee still:
Be calm, and sink into his will."

The fact, that of all the miracles wrought by the blessed Christ, this is the only one recorded by all the four evangelists, shows that there is about it something of especial import. The death of John the Baptist had an enervating effect upon the followers of Christ. They were discouraged. Hence, the time was critical. Bruce remarks: "It was a symbolic, didactic critical miracle. It was meant to teach and also to test." Notice here:

1. The people resorted to Christ. Christ went into a desert place in order to get beyond Herod's jurisdiction. But this did not place him beyond the reach of the multitude. Follow him they would and did. They regarded not the difficulties of the way. Thus we see that unto Christ we should all resort.

2. The compassion of Christ. His great heart yearned in sympathy towards the multitude. He therefore healed the many sick brought unto him. It was this same compassion that moved him when

"Plunged in a grief of dark despair,
We wretched sinners lay,
Without one cheering beam of hope,
Or spark of glimmering day.
With pitying eyes the Prince of Grace
Beheld our helpless grief:
He saw, and, O amazing love!
He ran to our relief."

3. The need of the people and the suggestion of the disciples. The people in their zeal to follow after Christ, neglected to supply themselves with food. Thus when the day was spent they became hungry. The disciples knowing that they had not the food with which to feed so large a number of people, suggested that they be sent away. How frail is human nature! How weak our strongest faith! But Christ was not willing for the multitude to depart. He is always loath to part with those who are resolved to cleave to him.

4. The Miracle. He commands: "Give ye them to eat." But "the astonished disciples are ready to cry, "Ah, Lord! but what have we to give so many?" This is his secret. What he tells us to do he puts us in a position to do. He asks us to do more for him than we can, in order to show us how easy it is when we rest it on himself. The people are seated in regular order; the five loaves and two fishes are carried to him; he takes them, "and looking up to heaven, he blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude." And the multitude did eat and were filled. Thus we see that as the widow's oil increased in the pouring out, so here the bread in the breaking. Thus grace grows by being acted, and, while other things perish in the using, spiritual gives increase.

5. The Result. There was enough and to spare. They took up of the fragments that remained twelve baskets full. Thus "God loveth a bountiful, not a wasteful hand."

6. The Lesson. Says Scott: "We see in this miracle an emblem of 'the Bread of Life, which came down from heaven,' to sustain our perishing souls: the provisions of his Gospel appear to the carnal eye mean and scanty; yet they suffice for the whole multitude, who 'feed on Him,' in their hearts, by faith, with thanksgiving and his ministers may go forth in confidence, assured that whilst they feed others they will also be fed themselves."

Points for the Devotional Meeting.

Be prompt in opening and closing.

Have a warm handshake for the visitors.

Aim to be brief and practical in your testimonies.

Introduce variety into the order of services. Get out of the old rut occasionally.

Be free to report any religious work you may have done or observed during the week.

Use the regular topics. They will help to keep the meeting from sameness, and they will stimulate the Bible study.

It is not best to hold business meetings after the devotional meetings. Disperse quietly after cordially greeting the strangers.

Be sure to have good music and plenty of it; but not too much. Remember that the devotional meeting is not a singing school.

The loyal Leaguer will aim always to go from the devotional meeting to the public preaching service, and thus stand by his pastor.

Call in the pastor if you can get him. Talk over the topic. Consider new methods for the meeting. Fifteen minutes spent in this way will help amazingly.

Do not be frightened by difficult topics. The meat may be very sweet, though the shell be hard. The thing is to crack the nut. Take time for prayer, meditation, and study. Many a meeting is spoiled because the leader has not taken time for these.

How It Is in Africa.

MOUNT OLIVE, Liberia, West Africa, June, 17, 1895.

Messrs. Hunt & Eaton, No. 631 Poydras Street, New Orleans, La:

I have lost my reckoning, and I do not know whether I am in debt to the SOUTHWESTERN or not, as the time is not on the address that comes with my paper. In order to keep the scissors from clipping my name from the list of subscribers, I send you one dollar to go to my credit, and as soon as I can get such money as I can send through the mail, I will remit the balance if any be due. I have not been enjoying good health for the past two years, and business matters have run down on my hands. I intended to leave here for the United States in April last, on leave of absence for health, but just as I was preparing to leave I was taken with the diarrhœa, which came near putting an end to my existence. Through the mercies of God my life was spared, and after I got better I was too weak to undertake the journey alone, and had not means to defray the expenses of some one to go with me the long distance via England. We have no vessels running direct from Monrovia to New York, and it requires a heavy purse to travel the long route by the way of England or Germany. We, who are in the service of the Missionary Society, receive very poor pay for services rendered these latter days. The twenty-five hundred dollars appropriated by the General Missionary Committee annually for the conference, gives to each man but very little when divided up among the conference members and supplies. The Church in Liberia pays but very little toward the support of the ministry, and this is why we have so few young men preparing for the ministry at the present time. In our conference we have but very few young men. Smart young men can get from forty to sixty dollars and board per month in secular business, and they will not make the sacrifice.

We would like to have in our conference a number of those young men coming out from college year by year to fill our pulpits, but to preach here for a living means poor pay, unless they go into secular business to supplement their small salaries, or should get into the Episcopal or Presbyterian Churches. They pay much better salaries and do not expect so much.

Thirty years of my life I have lived and worked among the heathen, first among the Reys in the Cape Mount Country, and latterly here among the Bassa tribe. We have made some progress here in the work, but not what we desire to see. These African heathen are hard to Christianize and civilize in their own free country. They have some heathen customs that are hard to give up. My health, which has been very good ever since I first come to the country, has suddenly broke down, and I have not a young man here to take my place in the work. Our native youth raised upon the station, who show signs of intelligence, go away to more advanced civilized settlements to look for employment, get married, settle down, and never return to us. Farming is the only employment that we can point them to here, and every boy does not want to be a farmer. Farming in this country means hard work. The government gives to every emigrant who comes to this country with a family twenty-five acres of land, and if single, ten acres. To every native man who becomes civilized and Christianized they get the same, in order to encourage them to make a start. This grant of land from the government is not a farm under cultivation, as some get the idea. Far from it. In a country like this, where everything is done by main strength, it requires time, labor and some money to make a farm. The largest thing in the shape of a plow is the hoe, and it requires elbow grease to keep it going. I would not have you to think a farm will not pay in this country. Far from it. A good coffee farm pays well. The great trouble is to get the farm. It requires time, patience and so many other things, a man has to learn here.

It is a matter of small import as to how much he knows upon his arrival here; he has to begin again to learn new lessons. I have not much confidence in this enterprise recently gotten up to bring the colored people in America to Liberia. I am afraid it will not continue long enough to do much good. I hear that some of those who came in April are anxious to return, as they did not find everything as they expected. We want emigrants, but only those who are willing to come and to stay. I have said more than I intended when I began, but as I am not writing to be seen in print, it will not make much difference. I want to continue my subscription. Very respectfully yours,

JAMES H. DEPUTIE.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR.

WANTS THE NEGRO ELIMINATED.

The blood-and-thunder editor of a Southern religious paper comes ont copiously adorned with war paint. He groweth eloqnent; yea, he paweth, and fumeth, and foameth with rage, and proceedeth straightway to declare his policy to the preacher who had the temerity and the unblushing effrontry to offer a plea in favor of Christian treatment for the Negro. Among other strong and sulphuriously-charged sentences, this doughty doctor of divinity saith:

"Until the Negro is eliminated and relegated to an independent and unmixed organization, there will be neither federation, union, fraternity, nor any other species of closer identification between the Methodists of America, young or old. To talk about any blending of the two Methodisms with such a grave problem imminent is not optimism, but downright foolery. The hearts of the two Methodisms may yearn toward each other, and happy orators, on stated occasions, may speak mellifluous words, but there will never be any drawing together of the camps of American Wesleyans until the Negro element is finally and fully expunged from the controversy. Unless our Northern brethren are willing to do this, we may just as well put out our council fires and wind up the negotiations."

In strange contrast with these pugilistic fulminations, are the brave words of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Bishop, who pleaded for the practical operation of the Sermon on the Mount, who declared:

"I have nothing but contempt for him who canonizes the man who goes to Africa to save the Negro and ostracizes the man who stays in Chattanooga to save the Negro."

And the declaration evoked the admiration of ten thousand Christians.

The Negro will not be eliminated; but, on the contrary, will be on hand to help celebrate the nuptials, as a part of the happy Methodist family. We would advise the irate editor not to be naughty, but to get in line with the progressive movements of the Church.

—"The simple fact is, that there are forces at work that will absolutely ruin the moral power of the Church unless they are looked after. The pastor should look after the superintendent; the superintendent after the teachers, and to make sure they are looked after, the quarterly conference should look after the whole. It would be easy to make a list of Methodist churches, now dead or dying, whose decline visibly began with some theatrical entertainment, dancing-picnic, or raffling, fortune-telling fair." —Christian Advocate.

The Advocate touches a very important point here. Disguise it as we may, there are some evidences of a declension in the moral power of the Church. Zion is shorn of her strength, because there has been a neglect in providing that spiritual food conducive to her growth.

There are Methodist churches now in various parts of our patronizing territory which have gone after the world, "horse, foot and dragoon." It is to be feared that people have sought and obtained membership in some of our churches only for the spoil. There are large numbers of them who do not materialize only when there is to be some questionable entertainment. Like trees twice plucked up by the roots, or like clouds without water, they are only stumbling blocks in the way of Christian progress. They are seldom seen at a revival, and never in the class or prayer meeting. But some one is responsible. A pastor who devotes a great deal of his time in inventing entertainments and promoting gatherings for the young people of the church, alone is doing the cause of Christ great injury and he ought to be looked after.

The suggestion that these pleasure-loving, pleasure-seeking pastors and members should be looked after, is a timely one.

Members of the flock who are aggrieved by these questionable practices, should complain, and keep on complaining until their grievances reach the ears of those who will consider and remedy the evil.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CHATTANOOGA.

The following from Dr. H. A. Monroe, of Philadelphia, Pa., will throw additional light upon the subject:

"The latest accepted version of the trouble at Chattanooga is, that the separate seating of the colored delegates was done at the request of the colored people themselves. It has been attempted by some to deny that any discrimination was made, but that the colored brethren naturally gravitated to that separate corner of the big tent. Brother Doherty speaks truly of seeing colored people in different parts of the tent, but he does not add that in every case they sat there in defiance of the threats and insults of the ushers.

"The discrimination was made officially by a platform announcement by Dr. Steele, Thursday evening. It was a subject of conversation among the colored delegates at a meeting Friday, and I made the suggestion that if we (the colored delegates) found that our representatives approved of it officially, we should first protest; and if the objectionable notice was not withdrawn, we would withdraw in a body from the convention. In the meantime, we should claim the right to sit anywhere other delegates of our own Church were allowed.

"Friday our party spent at Chattanooga, so that no opportunity for action was possible on our part until Saturday morning, when, after quietly taking our seats in the middle section of the tent, away from any immediate contact with any white persons, except Dr. Jennings of Minnesota and several other delegates from the West, we were twice ordered away by the ushers in the most offensive manner, even threatened with arrest by the police. We quietly but emphatically refused to leave our seats, and invited the usher to make good his threat of arresting us, but nothing further came of it, and we held the fort until the meeting closed.

"There was no lack of sympathy on the part of our Northern delegates after the battle was over, and Secretary Schell's statement to me on Sunday, as well as the remarks made by others of our own Church, led me to exhonerate him from blame in the matter, and both Dr. Lyon and myself thought it better for us not to give publication to the disgraceful incident in the press. We thought then, and still think, that Secretary Schell and others of our own Church made a mistake in accepting the assurances of the Southern Methodists that 'the colored delegates would be treated all right,' for the ideas of the two sections of our country differ radically as to what constitutes 'right treatment' for the colored man, but in view of the fact that members of our own Church in Chattanooga were on the local committee, and the usher who offered the grossest insults to us was a member of our own Church, we felt handicapped in exposing the shame of our great Church to the world.

"Considering the many acts of contemptible meanness which characterized the treatment of the colored delegates by the local committee and the white Methodists of Chattanooga, I cannot credit without proof the statement that colored people asked for separate seats. Let the parties on whom this shame rests name the man, and answer in the spirit of the Golden Rule these questions: Why, after soliciting the photographs of all the speakers on the program, and receiving those of the colored speakers among the first, was no portrait of any 'brother in black' allowed to appear? Why, after the official organ of the convention, the Chattanooga Times took especial pains to report in full the addresses of the white speakers on Friday, that only five and a half lines of slurring comment was given to the really fine speech of Dr. Bowen? Why, if the local committee think their treatment of the colored delegates was the proper thing, do not the responsible parties have the courage of their convictions, and defend their action?

The truth about the whole matter is, that Methodism was disgraced by unchristian practices at Chattanooga, and it is wisdom for us as a Church to disavow all sympathy with such practices, and for the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church to avoid all such entangling alliances with other bodies, which require a sacrifice of principle, and make honest men who remember the recent convention of the Christian Endeavor at Boston, and the G. A. R. encampments at Washington and Baltimore, blush for shame at the contrast.

"H. A. MONROE."

The letter from the pen of Dr. H. A. Monroe, one of our most highly respected and able ministers, is additional evidence that the conduct of certain parties during the Epworth Conference, so far as it concerned the colored delegates, was unjust, uncalled for and unchristian. This will be the verdict of every true Christian; and it is quite probable that had the local committee been intelligently informed as to the spirit of the delegates from all sections of the country, this episode might not have occurred. As it is, it will be instructive. The colored delegates, who were the victims of the strange and unnecessary cruelty, will survive. Christians of fairer hue will think of that one blot only with contemptuous pity for the people who, granting them the very broadest charity, were the unwilling subjects in executing the mandates of a so-called Southern custom. We predict that the consecrated young Epworthians from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, as they come more and more under the influence of the Holy Spirit, will draw nearer and nearer to each other until all sectionalism and prejudice will be annihilated, and the true Epworthians be known and recognized everywhere as a follower of Christ.

HOW IT IS IN AFRICA.

We hope Brother Deputie will pardon us for publishing his letter, written to the publishers. There are many things in it that our people should know, and besides, we hope it will inspire some of God's financially favored ones to specially remember the dear brother in their prayers and benefactions. We pray also that some suitable young man will feel moved with a burning desire to work in the harvest field so faithfully tilled by Brother Deputie.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason was among the callers last week.

—Rev. Stephen Duncan, presiding elder of the Shreveport District, Louisiana Conference, accompanied by two of his daughters, gave the office a friendly call last week.

—Absence from the office prevented our welcoming Messrs. Frank W. Brown, Gen. Balden, Robert Jones, P. M. Gray, Eugene Wright, C. W. Jones and Robert Hamilton, all of Austin, Texas. We are glad to know that the Lone Star State is in line with the SOUTHWESTERN.

—Prof. W. L. Bulkley, of Claflin University, is traveling extensively through the South during the vacation. He is talking to the people on matters pertaining to their most vital interests. He addressed the Florence District Conference, at Mayesville, S. C., on July 24.

—Rev. A. G. Townsend, A. M., the efficient presiding elder of the Florence District, in the South Carolina Conference, assures us of his deep and abiding interest in increasing the circulation of the SOUTHWESTERN within the bounds of his district. We have great confidence in such leaders, and hope their tribe may increase.

—Rev. Manley S. Hard, D. D., assistant corresponding secretary of the Board of Church Extension, is to represent that cause at the following conferences in the Northwest and on the Pacific Coast: North Montana Mission, Idaho, Montana, Columbia River, Nevada Mission, Puget Sound, California German, California, Southern California, etc. Dr. Hard will start on this trip about August 10.

—We are sorry to learn that Mrs. H. J. T. Hudson, wife of Professor Hudson, principal of the Green Street School, Macon, Ga., has been obliged to resign her position as teacher on account of poor health. The Macon Evening News says: "She has been in the service of the county as teacher a number of years and has been considered one of the best colored teachers, not only of Bibb county, but in the entire State." A representative of this paper, in company with Dr. C. H. Payne, once visited this school in Macon and they were impressed with the great proficiency and excellent deportment shown. They will not soon forget how the scholars were dismissed by a fire-alarm drill, and quicker than it takes to writes these lines, the building, a large two-story one, was entirely emptied without the least confusion or dangerous excitement. We trust that Mrs. Hudson will speedily recover and be spared many years to bless her home and people. Prof. Hudson was re-elected as principal.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

The Board of Managers of the LaFon Old Folks' Home held quite an interesting meeting on Tuesday the 23d instant. There was a good attendance of the members, who seemed to be unanimously in favor of building the proposed new Home at once. Plans were presented and another meeting called for the 25th, at which time final action was taken.

W. A. Cuddy, evangelist, who has done good work in this city, will go to Atlanta soon, doing Gospel work en route. He will take subscriptions for the SOUTHWESTERN and other papers.

Never was the demand for Ayer's Sarsaparilla so great as during this season.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

Miss Helen Hay, daughter of Col. John Hay, of Washington, the poet and historian, will have a humorous poem in the August number of St. Nicholas. Miss Hay's verse is called "The Merry Mongoose." It is her first contribution to the magazines.

In the August Ladies' Home Journal, Dr. Parkhurst writes wisely and well of "The Training of a Child," giving advice which cannot fail to be of value to parents everywhere. This midsummer number which goes out to its hundreds of thousands of readers is worth ten times its price of ten cents, and no woman should be without it. Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia; one dollar per year.

The Preacher's Magazine for August is at hand. A valuable paper by Rev. John Edwards on "Methods of Illustration," enriches this number. The Homiletical matter is varied and instructive. Wilbur B. Ketcham, 2 Cooper Union, New York. Single copy, 15 cents; $1 50 per year.

Austin District Conference.

The Austin District Conference will convene at Bolton, Texas, Tuesday, Aug. 20, at 9:30 a. m. Dr. Hammond, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, is cordially invited to be present. Dr. J. C. Hartzell, corresponding secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society, promised to come or send some one to look after the Samuel Houston College, located at Austin, Texas. Dr. Jones, our S. S. agent, promised faithfully to be present. With his able assistants, aided by Mrs. C. S. Spriggs, corresponding secretary of the W. H. M. Society, the work will be greatly augmented and properly arranged for larger success in the future. We are making ample preparation to entertain all that will come, by giving them plenty of solid work to do. As has been announced, the two first days of this session will be devoted to the Epworth League and S. S. Institute work. According to action had at the last session of the district conference, all the exhorters, local preachers and preachers in charge are members of the S. S. Institute.

They will observe the following program: 1. Welcome address, by Mrs. M. E. Parker. 2. Response, Miss Eulah Sampson. 3. Followed by the president of Institute and others. 4. The importance of the S. S. Institute, W. L. Davis. 5. Teachers' meetings. Miss C. R. Pryor. 6. The best time and manner to conduct family worship, Miss Matilda Roberts. 7. Should the S. S. be graded? L. F. Bradley. 8. The force of moral character, Miss Ardella Embree. 9. How to encourage Bible reading, Miss E. L. Lott. 10. Personal effort in the S. S. work, Miss M. E. McFadden. 11. What can be done in our S. S. to promote temperance? Prof. R. L. Parker. 12. Sabbath desecration, Miss Ollie Freeman. 13. How can the S. S. help the progress of the race? Prof. W. C. Hardeman. 14. The Epworth League, Miss Pauline S. Morrow. 15. An address, by Dr. O. I. Jones.

W. R. Morrow, president S. S. Institute. Miss Janie D. Organ, Secretary.

It will be observed that the program for the Epworth League does not appear, nor that of the preachers; for the reason, the preachers were requested to write down the subjects assigned by committee on program at last session; and the Epworth League did not furnish theirs, being in its embro state.

Let the delegates and all persons who attend the district conference, procure from the ticket agents a certificate. Reduced rates are given upon the certificate plan alone, and a number less than fifty certificates will not entitle us to any reduced rates over the railroads leading to and from our district conference. Let all the delegates bring, without failure, at least one dollar each to print the minutes of this session. They will receive in proportion copies of the minutes to distribute at reasonable figures.

"Nothing Venture, Nothing Have."

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mon., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement. "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mon.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and is worth its weight in gold. I can use Ely's Cream Balm with safety and it does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St., New Orleans.

The Brazen Serpent.

(Num. 21. 4-9.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up." (John 3. 14.)

The Israelites sinned greatly in believing the false report of the spies. Moses prayed earnestly for them. They confessed their sin, repented of the same, and consented to be led by him into the promised land. The Lord pardoned according to the word of Moses, but refused to go before them into Canaan. They were turned back into the wilderness, and for forty years were compelled to wander over desert lands. They lusted after evil things, committed fornication, worshiped idols, murmured, and tempted Christ. It is no wonder God was displeased with them, and His hand was heavy upon them. All who came up out of Egypt, who were of mature age, fell in the wilderness, save Caleb and Joshua.

I. A hard way—"They journeyed from Mount Hor, by the way of the Red Sea, to compass the land of Edom." Mount Hor is not far from Kadesh. It is likely the Israelites remained near the southern border of Canaan during their sojourn in the wilderness. Aaron had departed this life, Mirism had died, and the people who came up out of Egypt had fallen. The time had come for them to enter the Holy Land. They could not go from Mount Hor east around the southern shore of the Dead Sea, because the Edomites had forbidden them to pass through their country. Esau, from whom the Edomites descended, was the brother of Jacob, from whom the Israelites sprang. They were kinfolks, therefore God would not let Israel force her way over their land. From Mount Hor the children of Israel went South till they reached the shore of the Gulf of Akaba, an arm of the Red Sea. There they turned east, and then north, along the eastern border of the land of Edom. This was a long, hard journey, and "the soul of the people was much discouraged because of the way." The stubborn, revengeful spirit of the world often causes the people of God to pass over hard ways. This vile world is no friend to grace, to help us on to God.

II. A murmuring people. 1. Against whom did they murmur?—"The people spake against God, and against Moses." We complain against God, when we find fault with the laws that govern nature. When we murmur about the hot and cold weather, the flood and drouth, and the storm and calm. We complain against Moses when we find fault with the clergy, when we speak out against our pastor. We may believe in God and in the ministry, in the Church and in the Bible, attend public worship and receive the sacraments, and yet be as wicked as Satan desires.

2. About what did they murmur? (1) About the work of the past—"Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt?" God, by the hand of Moses, had led them up out of bondage. Now they have forgotten His judgments and mercies, and remember only the flesh pots of that land. It was their stomach and not their heart that caused them to desire to return. They were ready to sell their interest in heaven for a mess of pottage. Are there any to-day, who have in the past, tasted and learned that the Lord is good, but now desire to return to their old dirty ways, like "the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire?" (2) About perishing. They feared they would "die in the wilderness." Many see only danger and hardships in the way from earth to heaven. The lions are ever before them. But God leads in a safe way—"No lion shall be there, and no ravenous beast shall go up thereon." His is a holy way—"The unclean shall not pass over it." And it is a happy way—"The redeemed shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their head." (3) About food. a. "There is no bread, and there is not water." There was, no doubt, a scarcity of these essentials in the way they were going. But God was able to supply their every want. Many of God's people see nothing but starvation before them. If we do our part, and trust the Lord, all will be well. b. "And our soul loatheth this light bread." This mean, contemptable, cheat stomach stuff. How depraved and ungrateful. This was bread from heaven. It was "angels food." On it they had lived for forty years. The word of God, the gospel of Christ, the songs of Zion, and the prayers of the saints, is the bread of life for us.

III. An angry God. 1. The work of Jehovah—"The Lord sent fiery serpents among them." It is a part of God's plan to punish sin. If we harbor evil in our heart, or omit duty, or transgress God's law, we may expect to be punished for it. God is holy and just. He will reward virtue and punish vice. These were likely called "fiery" serpents because there was on them bright red spots, and because their bite inflamed the flesh. The serpent is an emblem of Satan, who is "That old serpent, called the devil" (Rev. 12. 9).

2. The work of the serpents—"They bit the people, and much people of Israel died." The venom of the serpent represents sin. (1) It was imparted. Sin was no part of man's original nature. He was in the beginning pure and holy. It has been grafted into his nature by Satan. (2) It produced suffering. No doubt the Israelites suffered much between the time they were bitten and their death. Sin is ever producing suffering in the human family. (3) It resulted in death. Sin is always working death among the people. It produces physical and eternal death.

IV. A repenting people. 1. Confession of sin—"We have sinned." Active—"Sin is the transgression of the law" (1. John 3. 4). Passive.—"To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not to him it is sin" (James 4. 17). Inbred—"Behold I was shapen in iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive" (Psa. 51. 5). Evil thoughts, omission of duty, transgression of law. It is hard to confess sin. Israel acknowledged they had done wrong, and asked pardon.

2. Request—"Pray unto the Lord that He take away the serpents from us." Moses was the mediator of the Old Covenant. He stood between the Lord and the people. He was powerful in prayer. He prayed for Israel when they worshiped the golden calf, for Miriam when she murmured against him, and for the people when they believed the false report of the spies. Each time God heard and answered his prayer. The mediator of the New Covenant is the man Christ Jesus. If it were not for his intercessory prayers we would all perish. We should pray one for another.

V. A helping Lord. The fiery serpents were not destroyed, Satan is yet abroad in the land. The venom of the serpent continued to work death, the poison of sin is still destroying the people. A remedy was provided—A serpent of brass was made, and set up upon a banner pole, whosoever was bitten and looked upon it lived. An antidote has been provided for sin. Christ has been "lifted up from the earth." Whosoever will look on Him through faith will be saved. This brazen serpent was a symbol of Christ in many respects. 1. Origin—The plan to save the people by the brazen serpent, and the one to save the world by Christ, originated with God. 2 Form—As the brazen serpent was made like the fiery serpent, so the Christ was made in the likeness of man: sin excepted.

3. Only remedy—There was likely no other way to save Israel but by the brazen serpent, so there was probably no other way to save the world only by the Christ. 4. Simple—As the cure by the brazen serpent was plain, easy, and in the reach of all, so salvation through the Christ is plain, easy, and may be obtained by all. 5. Requirement—As the brazen serpent required repentance and faith so does the Christ demand the same. 6. Individual—As each one who was bitten was required to look for himself, so every soul must believe and repent for itself.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Natchitoches District.

Persons who are going by railway to our district conference, will purchase tickets Monday or Tuesday, August 12 and 13, paying full fare going and taking receipt for the fare paid to the agent; present your ticket to our railroad secretary, Rev. J. J. Obee, and he will fill out the same. Upon presenting the same to the agent at Mansfield on returning, you will pay one-third fare to return, in accordance to railroad instruction. Please come on Canon Ball Trains to meet Bedford District Conference connection, otherwise you will lay over in Mansfield one night.

H. J. WRIGHT, P. E.

Alexandria District.

Dear Brethren—Unforeseen arrangements of Divine providence has caused the date of meeting of the Alexandria District Conference to be changed from July 24 to August 21, at St. Martinsville. Please come prepared to answer roll call of F. A. and S. E. Society and fill your part of the exercises. Remember the old SOUTHWESTERN. A full attendance is expected. Ample preparations made for all. Come, let us have a good time.

S. E. H. MORANT, P. E.

Shreveport District.

Dear Brethren—Dr. Mason will be with us on Saturday night, August 10, and I expect each brother to have his Freedmen's Aid collection on hand, ready to report. All the official officers who have not subscribed for the SOUTHWESTERN, are expected to give their subscription at the district conference.

S. DUNCAN, P. E.

Hannibal District.

The District Conference of the Hannibal District, Central Missouri Conference, will convene in Montgomery, Mo., Aug. 21-25.

G. W. REEVES, P. E.

Knoxville District.

The district conference will be held at Morristown, Tenn., August 15-17. Dear brother pastors, I want you to see that all the members of the district conference are present the first day of the conference. Let every man do his best to have all of his benevolent money collected. We need $108 more than we had last year, to put the district in the first-class of the Missionary Society. Ten cents to the member above what was given last year, will do it. But we must not build up the Missionary Society at the expense of the other societies. Give them all a chance. Yours truly, OWEN HYPSHER, P. E.

Gainsville District.

Beloved Brethren—I forwarded to you the standing of each charge in the Gainsville District for the years '94 and '95. Examine carefully; explain to the board, and call together the committee on missions and let them know what you expect of them. A personal canvass among the members and friends will awaken interest in the cause of missions. I am gratified to note that some have raised over half of their apportionment already. I rejoice at your success and regret your failure. Members attending the district conference at Union Grove will secure certificates at starting point, so as to return at reduced rate. The camp meeting at Centre Side begins August 28.

C. R. BUFFINGTON, P. E.

Forrest City District.

Brethren—The district conference will meet in Cotton Plant, Ark., Sept. 5, at 9 a. m. Be ready to report your benevolent monies in full. Dr. M. C. B. Mason will be with us. There will be a roll call of all the charges for F. A. and S. E. Society. Each pastor will bring his apportionment for said society and be ready to pay the same over, if it has not been previously sent off. No local preacher's license will be renewed, nor license granted to candidates for license to preach, who is not a paid-up subscriber for one year to the SOUTHWESTERN. All officials attending the conference are expected to become subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN Remember, Jesus knows your work and faithfulness. The Church judges your ability and usefulness by your work. This is a year of record—by it, you stand or fall. Grand rally; forward, march!

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

AN EXPLANATION THAT DOES NOT EXPLAIN.

The General Epworth League Secretaries, Drs. Schell and Steele, have published an explanation (see Western Christian Advocate of July 25) concerning the color question at the late Epworth League Conference at Chattanooga. Both of the secretaries disclaim any intention of wronging the colored delegates in the least. It appears that Dr. Schell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, insisted that "any arrangement discriminating against the colored members would meet with disapproval from his people." Dr. Steele also "expressed his opposition against any discrimination, and expressed a desire that they should have the fullest benefit of the occasion." It was thought best, however, by Dr. Steele to make some arrangement to prevent discord, and hence, at his suggestion, it was agreed that the auditorium should be divided into two parts, with the understanding that the colored delegates should sit in that part assigned to the Methodist Episcopal Church. To us there seemed nothing wrong in this arrangement until we perceived a disposition on the part of the representative of the Southern Church to cater to what he was pleased to call the "differences of opinion that existed on this subject." What differences of opinion, pray? Will the secretary have the Christian world believe that it is wrong for God's people "to sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus?" Will he tell those of his humble Christian brethren that because this unchristian practice has existed and now exists, we must continue to perpetuate it?

But, judge our consternation, when we read: "Dr. Steele wishes it understood that, for himself, he fully approves the Southern Christian in regard to seating colored people." [Italics ours.]

Well now, that is a plain statement—bold, frank, but deliberately cruel. This Christian leader of the young people of the Southern Methodist Church pleads that the colored people may have the "fullest benefit of the occasion" and yet wants it to be known that he fully approves of a custom which is unkind, unnecessary and unchristian! Talk about your paradoxes! So Methodist Christians are expected to endorse an offensive custom for the sake of peace! Not much. However reasonable it may appear to the white man, it can never, under any circumstances, appear to the colored man otherwise than a disposition to perpetuate a most unfortunate prejudice. The "sacred harmony" of the occasion was indeed marred, but let it be at once and forever understood that the colored delegate had no hand in it. They, and they alone, are responsible for the disturbance of this delightful harmony, who cannot fully subscribe to that grand old truth, that "God is no respecter of persons." The promiscuous mingling of that class of professors in any religious assembly or gathering, where a colored follower of the meek and lowly Jesus comes—either by invitation, curiosity, or for love of the service—will furnish the occasion for just such episodes. Meanwhile, all of those who are making an earnest effort to look up to Him from whom cometh all strength, and wisdom, and love, will assuredly help lift up the neediest of their fellowmen, and so fulfill the law of Christ. We shall insist upon it, that the various expedients resorted to by so-called Christian people, and which continue and perpetuate these unholy distinctions, are distasteful and repulsive to every self-respecting Negro.

LEXINGTON DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

In a beautiful grove on the suburbs of the city of Paris, Ky., on Thursday, July 25, the brethren of the Lexington District assembled, with Dr. J. Courtney, the efficient presiding elder, in the chair. Rev. D. E. Skelton, one of the most popular young men of the district, was chosen secretary, with J. S. Webb and W. D. Locke assistants. Eighteen pastors and nineteen local preachers answered to the roll call. Reports from the presiding elder, pastors, local preachers, superintendents, presidents of the League chapters, and stewards, revealed a highly encouraging condition in all departments of the Church, showing that the work was well organized and in proper hands. The afternoon sessions were devoted to the Sunday School Institute, and was largely attended by the progressive and enthusiastic friends of the cause. The papers read were of a high order, and there is gratifying evidence that this great and important department of the Church is fully appreciated and encouraged by the district. Rev. J. H. Ross preached a most excellent sermon, which outlined the high spiritual tone of the conference. The Editor of this paper arrived on the evening of the second day, and was permitted to address a large audience. His theme was the SOUTHWESTERN, and the results showed that the theme was properly chosen. A number of names were added to the pledge brigade.

The presiding elder, Dr. Courtney, is well preserved, genial and able, and seeks to bring his district up to the very highest point of efficiency. Our knowledge of the individual brethren leads to the conclusion that the results are very gratifying. The doctor was accompanied by his excellent lady, and most promising son, Joseph Courtney, Jr. He is as vigorous and earnest as in his younger days. During the discussion of the resolutions concerning the SOUTHWESTERN, he made a most remarkable address in its favor which touched all hearts, and prepared the conference for the unanimous vote in favor of its adoption. The young men of the district are studious and progressive, while the older men are devoted and earnest, and take special pride in standing by the institutions of the Church. Tobacco is being outlawed, and the standard of moral purity is becoming more and more conspicuous among young and old. These grand brethren will be heard from in the future.

A conspicuous and pleasant feature of the meeting was the presence of quite a number of the preachers' wives, which may account to some extent for the thorough and prompt transaction of the conference business. These noble women should more and more identify themselves with the work of the Church, and especially that in which their husbands are engaged. Besides, the people want to see the elect ladies who are contributing so largely to the success of the work.

General Thomas, for such is the genial and indefatigable pastor of St. Paul's at Paris, is master of the situation. His arrangements for the entertainment of the conference were about as perfect as they could be made. His people love and respect him, and the outlook is encouraging. Of course, we were domiciled in the parsonage where Sister Thomas, the mother of the pastor, and the son of the pastor, our "Johnnie," dispensed old-fashioned Kentucky hospitality with a lavish hand. Admirable arrangements were made for the Sunday services at the fair grounds. Owing to an engagement elsewhere, we could not participate in the rich treat promised. The beloved brother, Felix Ross, was appointed to conduct the conference love feast; Dr. Courtney, the presiding elder, to preach at 11 a. m.; Doctor Stanley of Asbury, Lexington, at 2 p. m.; Rev. J. H. Ross of Washington, at 4 p. m.; Rev. D. E. Skelton of Gunns Chapel, Lexington, at 8 p. m. With the following resolutions ringing in our ears and thrilling our heart, we reluctantly bade our dear brethren adieu, and embarked for Columbus, Ohio:

Report of the Committee on the "Southwestern."

To the Presiding Elder and Members of the Lexington District Conference:

We, your committee on the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, offer the following:

WHEREAS, The SOUTHWESTERN is an acknowledged official organ of our Church; the editorial chair being occupied by an efficient member of our conference; the SOUTHWESTERN is purely religious and Methodistic; it is clear, fearless, true and conscientious; a safe guide in our homes, and an approved agency in shaping the lives and ethics of our children; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to do all in our power to increase the circulation of our paper.

Resolved, That we, as pastors, stand by the action of this district conference in refusing to recommend local preachers for renewal of license who wilfully refuse to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN.

Resolved, That we, as members of this district conference, feel honored in the election of the Rev. Dr. E. W. S. Hammond to the editorship of the paper, and we hereby pledge him our hearty support in making the SOUTHWESTERN one of the best papers on the Church.

—The treatment, by the French, of Hon. John W. Waller, formerly our consul at the capitol of Madagascar, is, without doubt, a high handed outrage upon an American citizen, and the government of the United States should institute a vigorous inquiry as to the right of France to arrest and imprison an American citizen without even the semblance of a fair and an impartial trial. Mr. Waller is an intelligent colored man, and would hardly be guilty of even the slightest violation of the relations existing between his own and the government of France. Hon. John M. Langston is doing what he can to bring about an investigation of the charges alleged against Mr. Waller, and to have Secretary Olney demand an immediate hearing. We have reasons to believe that Mr. Waller is not only able to prove his innocence of the charges against him, but will be able to show a deep-laid conspiracy on the part of the French officials to humiliate and degrade him because of his active interest in matters which would be beneficial to our American interests. We believe that our government should act promptly and decisively in this matter, and thus continue to maintain her dignity at home and abroad.

—The Maysville (Ky.) Republican says that the white people of Cattlettsburg, Ky., closed their churches on a recent Sabbath in honor of Bishop Gaines of the African M. E. Church. This is not the first instance of the kind in which white Christians in Kentucky have thus shown honor to colored clergymen. We are informed that during a recent session of the Kentucky Conference, of the M. E. Church South, at Maysville, Ky., a colored bishop was present, warmly welcomed, and preached to the great delight of the entire conference. These courtesies are not unusual in other parts of the country, and there always will be an exchange of ministerial courtesies, regardless of the color, wherever the spirit of Christ pervades the hearts of the brethren.

The International Epworth Convention.

By Rev. E B. Burroughs.

Your correspondent left Cheraw, S. C., Wednesday morning, June 26, for Chattanooga, and after a pleasant trip of twenty-six hours reached his destination on the morning of the following day. He was immediately taken charge of by the Rev. G. W. Zoigler, the popular and efficient pastor of the Wiley Memorial Church, and at whose home it was his good fortune to stay during the sessions of the convention.

Chattanooga was dressed in her best—the leading business houses, as well as many private residences, being beautifully decorated with the colors of the united Leagues—red, white and yellow.

The hour of opening was fixed at 2:30 p. m., and long before the time, the immense tent was packed. The tent was pitched upon the grounds of the U. S. Grant University. It was most beautifully adorned; the League colors being interwoven with the national emblems. A large and handsome portrait of the sainted founder of Methodism, draped on either side with the English and American colors, was placed just above the platform.

At precisely the hour appointed the convention, led by the Pord Sisters with their cornets, and by a specially trained choir, opened with singing "Blest be the tie that binds." Prayer followed; after which Mr. J. A. Patten, chairman of the Chattanooga Convention; Hon. G. W. Ochs, mayor of the city; Rev. Dr. J. P. McFerrin, on behalf of the Methodists of Chattanooga; Bishop Hendrix, on behalf of the M. E. Church, South; Rev. Dr. Jno. Potts, on behalf of Canadian Methodism, and Bishop Merrill, on behalf of the M. E. Church, delivered warm, and eloquent, and stirring addresses of welcome.

These preliminaries being over with, the convention adjourned to meet at 7 p. m. At that time the people thronged together for the love feast led by Bishop Fitzgerald, of the M. E. Church, South. Many, apparently earnest, were the testimonies given. For awhile sectionalism seemed to have been forgetten.

After the love feast, Bishop Galloway preached a good gespel sermon from 1 Cor. 1:19. At the close, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered to fully five thousand people.

FRIDAY.

Friday morning found the tent more largely crowded than the day before. Expectations ran high. The general subject of the day was: "Life in the Local Church." "Intellectual Duties" were discussed by Rev. W. E. McLennan. "Educational Opportunities" were treated by Rev. S. O. Royal. The next speaker on the same subject was the Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen. He no sooner stepped forward than he was greeted with prolonged cheers and applause. Northern Methodism tried herself in honoring our dusky representative; and he demonstrated that the trust had not been wrongly placed. Dr. Bewon's speech was a truly remarkable one. He called attention to the fact that thirty years ago a colored man would not have been invited to speak upon such a subject in such a presence. He particularly emphasized the necessity of Methodism teaching her doctrines and exemplifying the solidarity of the race. Said he: "When I see the red man love the white man, the white man respect the black man, the black man honor the yellow man, and all shaking hands over the table containing the emblems of the broken body and shed blood of a common Savior, then I know that 'God hath made of one blood all nations of the earth'." Dr. Cooke, of Athens, Tenn., followed.

Other speakers were: Miss Clara Grant, H. V. Holt, J. R. Nelson, J. R Pepper, E. M. Taylor, L. E. Prentiss, E. H. Rawlings, G. W. Kirby, Miss Stella Rule and Carles Martyn.

The evening session was largely attended and equally as enthusiastic. Dr. Berry, of the Epworth Herald, presided. The inimitable Chaplain McCabe was the last speaker of the evening. Dr. Berry introduced him as "the best loved man in Methodism." It is needless to say that the Chaplain swept everything before him.

SATURDAY.

The morning was extremely hot. The interest and enthusiasm, however, abated not. The convention opened with singing. The general subject was, "The Spirit of Methodism." The Rev. C. M. Stewart treated "Methodism Hymns," as did also the Rev. S. B. Turrentine.

Rev. Littlefield gave an excellent talk on "Methodist Fervor." The Rev. S. V. Crews, of Toronto, spoke on "Catholicity." His address was to the point.

"Biographical Embodiment," was ably handled by Rev. Jesse Bowman Young.

Other speakers were: J. C. Morris, Mrs. J. R. Woodcock, F. M. Barbour, J. M. Cornish, W. W. Pensin and T. L. Couttas.

The Children's Hour was appointed at 4:30, at which time addresses were delivered by Miss Alice Brown, Miss Florence Campbell and Miss Daisy Oldo.

Resolutions of thanks, etc., were adopted, and Toronto, Canada, selected as the next place of meeting in 1897.

At night a grand concert was given. It was a grand affair and reflected most creditably upon the management.

SUNDAY.

Heavy rains set in Saturday night and continued until the morning. Chattanooga churches were well supplied with visiting preachers. The colored churches were supplied as follows: Wiley Memorial, Rev. Johnson, of New Orleans; A. M. E. Church, Rev. W. A. Monroe, D. D.; Congregational, Rev. A. G. Townsend, A. M.; First Baptist, Rev. E. B. Borroughs.

In the afternoon a platform meeting was held at Wiley Memorial Church. Rev. E. A. Scheil, D. D., presided. Speeches were made by Rev. S. V. Crews, D. D.; Rev. W. A. Monroe, D. D.; Rev. Ernest Lyon, D. D., and Rev. J. A. Kendig, D. D.

At night another platform meeting was held at the same place. Rev. Ernest Lyon presided. Speeches were made by Rev. J. R. Waters, D. D.; Rev. A. G. Townsend, Rev. A. Middleton, Rev. G. Gordon, Prof. I. Garland Penn and Rev. E. B. Burroughs.

NOTES.

The following brethren were in attendance: Prof. I. Garland Penn, Prof. W. L. Bulkley, Ph. D.; Revs. J. R. Waters, Ernest Lyon, W. A. Monroe, S. C. Upshaw, W. G. Gordon, J. P. Wragg, G. W. Arnold, A. G. Townsend, A. Middleton, C. R. Brown, B. F. Witherspoon, I. B. Scott, E. Provine and G. W. Ziegler; Mr. R. C. Proe, Prof. E. J. Sawyer, and scores of others.

The treatment of the colored delegates was far from Christian.

The Church is farther from organic union than ever before.

The colored preachers and speakers upon the program acquitted themselves grandly.

No matter where the sons of God may come together, Satan will be there.

The convention was given the cold shoulder by the colored Chattanoogans.

Vacation Time

Is at hand and is gladly welcomed by all, especially those whose duties in life have caused them to greatly run down their system to meet the requirements, physical and mental, forced upon them. With these and others, it is important, whether at home, at the seashore or in the country, that some thought be given to diet, and as further assistance to Nature, a good building-up medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla had best be resorted to. If the digestion is poor, liver deranged and frequent headaches seem to be the rule, Hood's will change all this and enable everyone to return to their home and business in a refreshed state of mind and bodily health.

"Home."

By H. Forrest, Clinton, Tenn.

There is a dike, divinely established for evading destructive inundations, which in their nature far eclipse those of material things. Thunders and lightnings cannot equal. Cyclones—though deadly and devastating in character, and invincible in force—bear no comparison. The breaking away of the dikes of the Mississippi, or of Holland, with the disastrous results to life and property, which would naturally follow, does not furnish a faint picture of the dire results following our submission by immorality. This dike serves as a levee against the spreading of crime—to the extinction of virtue—throughout human bounds. Remove it, and those institutions of benevolence and progress which now flourish as propagators of the cause of God and man will fall.

Remove it, and at once will be hoisted the flag under which lurks darkness, and upon the folds of which is inscribed: "Down with the light; up with the powers of evil." Remove it, and that age to which we look with yearning souls, for a period of light which we are told, is sown for the righteous, will become a fruitless vision; and that time, in which it is said, "The knowledge of the glory of God shall cover the earth as the waters cover the great deep," will be indefinitely postponed.

Let us strengthen these dikes. Stronger and stronger swells the stream. Upon their strength hangs our future security. While the clouds about us indicate an approaching storm, let us turn our attention to the dikes that serve as a shield and protection against the swelling tides of crime, now drifting upon us. Sobriety cries, strengthen the dikes. Without rages a fearful tempest in which millions annually go down to rise no more. This lashing of the furious waves menace the very existence of our moorings. Our most sacred courts, the school, the Church and State, are not above high-water mark. The back water of corruption and injustice have crept within, while without, dark clouds become more gloomy, our forebodings of destruction more ominous, and the necessity of strengthening dikes more apparent. To force back the rising tide who shall question the policy of resorting to the home, as the most effectual source. Who shall contend, that of the blighting disasters which now befall us, their cause can not be traced to the home. Or who shall contend that this most precious born is not a fountain from which flows our choicest blessings, and originates our sharpest sorrows.

The sharp, piercing sights of intemperance, like the violent blasts of winter, shrieks with withering sounds upon that which is grand and good. We look upon the fair and promising, and witness the putting forth of the leaflets of virtue and intelligence, only to find them wilting, dying, from the fatal blows of this monster which, in every deed, cries: strengthen not the home.

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled.

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent la grippe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-round family medicine I have ever known."—Mrs. MAY JOHNSON, 368 Rider Avenue, New York City.

"A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed."

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy.—Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

My son was afflicted with catarrh, I induced him to try Ely's Cream Balm and the disagreeable catarrhal smell all left him. He appears as well as any one.—J. C. Olmstead, Arcola, Ill.

Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

Knoxville District Conference.

The following is the program for the Knoxville District Conference, East Tennessee Conference, which meets at Morristown, Tenn., Aug. 15, 1895, at 9 a. m.:

Opening sermon, by C. H. Herd. Our young people—how to reach them and keep them in the Sunday school and church, G. W. Mayes; The needs of the Knoxville District, G. W. Staples; The Southwestern Christian Advocate as an aid to the pastors and people to subscribe for it, W. A. Webber; The Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society—its work and relation to our conference, W. T. Marley; Church festivals and excursions, Jas. Hawkins; How may we increase our benevolence? E. Knott; History of the East Tennessee Conference, J. S. Hill. What is the Negro doing? D. T. Turner; The relation of the pastor to the Sunday school and the Epworth League, W. M. Goldston; The Book Concern and conference claimants, W. A. Jackson; How may we best educate our people? P. L. McDowell; Should a presiding elder use as a supply a local preacher who does not take his church paper? C. H. Herd; How to conduct a church trial, A. Clark.

Local preachers will be expected to prepare addresses upon church work and other matters. That we may have uniform reports, pastors will see that their local preachers, Sunday school superintendents, presidents of Epworth League chapters and class leaders use the blank reports prepared for them by our Book Concern, making reports for one year, instead of one quarter.

Committee—J. S. Hill, W. A. Webber.

To invigorate the system after illness, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is highly recommended.

West Tennessee Conference.

The Late Rev. N. Taylor.

We are sorry to chronicle the death of Rev. N. Taylor, a superannuate of the Kansas Conference. Brother Taylor was born in Stark County, Ohio, July 21, 1816; died July 11, 1895, in his 79th year. He was in actual missionary work for forty-eight years, and was a great worker for the Sunday School. He did a great deal for the colored people of this place in erecting their church, which was named for him—Taylor's Chapel.

On the morning of his death he asked Rev. Williams to sing for him "Father, I stretch my hand to Thee," and "What is this that steals upon my frame." Rev. Taylor died in the triumph of faith. Earth has lost a friend, while heaven has gained a saint. We will say peace be to his ashes. "Servant of God, well done; thy glorious warfare passed."

His funeral was conducted by the Masons of this place.

THE CRUISE OF THE "SOUTHWESTERN."

OFF BUCKEYE BAY, July 27, Lat. N.

We weighed anchor on the 24th, and proceeded in a due northerly course toward Blue Grass Bay. On the evening of the second day we sighted Lexington. Quite a number of the natives greeted us. After a short delay in taking in water and provisions, we set sail for Paris. The course being clear and wind fair, we sighted St. Paul's light over our larboard buoy. In a short time we rounded Cape Bourbon, and dropped anchor in Bay Paris. Having orders to land immediately, we piped up baggage and prepared to order ship. Commander G. W. Thomas of the covette St. Paul's, anticipating our arrival, sent aboard an escort of picked men from his gallant ship who conveyed us to the commander's rig, when orders were given to pull for the supply station. Here we found Commanders Stanley and Skelton of the Asbury and Guns; also that eminent lady, Mrs. Thomas, mother of the commander of the St. Paul's, and his promising son, Johnnie, a rising young cadet. Having been invited to inspect the marines, we were soon pulled over to the tent, where we found Port Captain J. Courtney surrounded by a goodly number of commissioned officers, who were going through the usual evolutions incident to the district drill. It was a pleasure to greet the port captain of the cruiser Lexington District with such jolly skippers as Captains F. Ross of the North Middleton, Stanley of the Asbury, Rollins of the Winchester, Skelton of the Gunns, Jackson of the Falmouth, Fletcher of the Cynthiana, Strider of the Warrentown, Carr of the Oxford, Hopewell of the Mayslick, Buckner of the Moorfield, Small of the Poplar Plains, Hickman of the Sharpsburg, J. H. Ross of the Washington, Thomas of the Paris, Fisher of the Cleveland, and quite a nmber of midshipmen awaiting to be assigned to the various vessels in the squadron. The SOUTHWESTERN was received with many demonstrations of esteem, together with the usual honors. We were pleased with the inspection and expressed satisfaction with the drill and discipline during the district exercises.

It is especially gratifying to note the proficiency with which the new cash tactics are handled by the men. We recorded quite a number of brilliant points made and at the close of the exercises was tendered an ovation, that veteran captain, Felix Ross, acting as toast-master.

It is gratifying also to note that but few of the seamen use the "noxious weed," and there is evidence that the men of this squadron are in the very forefront in bringing to perfection the interests committed to their hands. We were pleased to notice at the masthead of each ship beautiful ensigns with the cheering device: "Intellectual manhood, moral purity and unflinching faith." It was a delightful visit in all respects. Port Captain Courtney of the District is a careful and painstaking officer and seeks to inspire his men with high purposes, noble aims and holy resolves. And the men of the District stand up to their duties like faithful heroes.

Signaling our pilot, we weighed anchor on the 27th, and amid the thunder of a cordial and hearty "God speed you," we steamed out of Bay Paris, steering due north for Columbus, in Buckeye Bay. More anon.

P. S.—On inspecting the St. Pauls we found everything in splendid condition. Guns, ammunition and stores all right and the ship ready for action. Cadet Johnnie is progressing in his studies, and will soon be assigned to a position abroad. Sw.

—St. Luke's M. E. Church, Columbia, Central Missouri Conference, was dedicated during our second quarterly meeting, by Rev. J. J. Clark, P. E. The dedication sermon was preached by Rev. J. G. Dinsmore, of Moberly, Mo. It was a high day for Methodism. Amount raised over $90.

—The Zion's Herald, Boston, says: "As we go to press, the colored women are holding their first National Council in Berkeley Hall, this city. Delegates are present from clubs in Washington, D. C.; Florida, Illinois, Alabama, California, New York, and many other States. The attendance upon the sessions is large, and the proceedings are interesting, thoughtful and pertinent. The council is highly complimentary to the intelligence of these colored representatives. Miss Ella L. Smith, of Newport, R. I., an A. M. and A. B. at Wellesley, delivered an able address on 'Woman and the Higher Education,' in which she is reported to have given utterance to this wise declaration: 'We learn much to-day through the press of a certain monstrosity called the new woman. We willingly leave her to those who have discovered her, but when she is represented as a product of the woman's college, we decidedly object.'" —On July 17, the Secretary of the Interior was informed by telegram from Gov. Richards, of Wyoming, that the Bannock Indians had taken to the warpath. Later advices from other sources indicate that the trouble arose over a question of game killing rights. Many disputes have arisen over the construction of a clause in the treaty signed July, 1868, between the Bannock Indians and the United States, under which the Indians claim they were within their rights in hunting in the Jackson's Hole district. The disputes culminated in the killing of seven Bannock Indians by white settlers, and the withdrawal of 200 or 300 of the incensed Indians from their reservation to Salt River. The lawless element among both whites and Indians is bent upon bloodshed. General Coppinger, commanding the Department of the Platte, has been ordered to proceed at once to the scene of the troubles and ascertain the exact situation.

—The Methodist Review of Missions, says: "This is the report for the past year of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in Canada. The receipts from subscriptions and collections were $174,242; from juvenile offerings, $25,667; from legacies, $14,114; from the Indian Department (grant for Indian schools and institutes), $14,035; from miscellaneous sources and sundries, $6,094; making the total income $234,153. The total expenditure was $242,955, which leaves a deficit of $8,801. The report of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society for 1893 shows an income of $42,858."

—Rev. J. B. L. Williams, D. D., pastor at Jacksonville, Fla., informs us of the death of Rev. Joseph R. Howard, on July 19, in that city. This talented young minister was the son of the late Rev. J. R. Howard, one of the pioneers of Methodism in Florida. In 1886 he graduated from Cookman Institute and in the fall of the same year entered Gammon Theological Seminary, from which he graduated with honor, and in 1893 joined the Florida Conference. Brother Williams' communication, having been received too late for publication, will appear next week.

—The summer school at Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn., closed on the 2nd instant. It has been a success, and has been wholly under the control of Professors Byrd and Dogan. The music, which was excellent, was under the direction of Miss Josie Price. All Afro-Americans. The only help given to the school by whites has been lectures to the classes on special topics. The closing exercises at night were very fine.

—Secretary Hoke Smith, on July 20, last, drew upon the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury for $13,225,000 for the payment of pensions for the next quarter, to be apportioned among the several pension agencies as follows: Philadelphia, $2,000,000; Indianapolis, $2,700,000; Knoxville, $1,850,000; Louisville, $1,100,000; New York City, $1,825,000; Topeka, $3,750,000.

—Rev. S. J. Woods of Pearlington, Miss., called Monday with a subscriber, and reports all is well on his work.

TRANSFERS.

There is a tendency in some conferences to regard transferred men as intruders, as unwelcome guests. There are several reasons for this. One is, that to many brethren the conference is all of the Church in which they have any special interest, and the only part of the conference in which they feel any particular responsibility is their own charge. These brethren seem to be ignorant of the fact, that in entering the conference they enter itinerancy of the Methodist Episcopal Church; and that once in this ministry, they are subject to the economy of the Church; subject to the appointing power, and as the Church has its missions and conferences extended over considerable part of the world, the itinerant may consider the boundaries of his possible field of labor, not the boundary of his conference, but of the entire Church. The world is my parish, is equally true of the minister to-day, as when Wesley gave this keynote of the boundaries of the Methodist preacher's circuit.

Another cause is, that the transferred brother is appointed to one of the best charges, financially, in the conference. These charges are desirable on account of their financial strength, and many brethren are perfectly resigned to be thought worthy to be sent there. They feel chagrinned when a stranger in the conference is advanced over them, as they consider such an appointment. It is not an easy matter for human nature in such cases to heed the apostle's injunction, "In honor preferring one another." Then, too, the brethren in these strong charges have imbibed the idea that if they pay the preacher a good salary, they should have some choice as to who he should be. The presiding elders and bishops have the qualifications of the preachers presented to them by the laymen in a light that the preachers do not get. The bishop and elders are often judged wrongfully, for making appointments which were influenced most by information given by influential laymen.

In the economy of Methodism the conferences are only subordinate divisions of the Church, and all have a common interest in the prosperity of the entire Church. Since the days of the apostles there has been a recognition of diversities of gifts. Preachers are not all alike. One excels as a pulpit orator, another as pastor, another as a builder of churches, another as a payer of old debts, another as disciplinarian, another as peace-maker harmonizing the divided factions of a congregation, another as revivalist, etc. The ability to select men who were adapted to fill places needing the special qualifications of the preacher sent, has added greatly to the success and power of the churches having an itinerant ministry. And the great success of Methodism is, in no small degree, owing, no doubt, to this power to select men who are specially adapted to fill certain charges. If, in the judgment of the appointing power, any given place can best be filled by a brother from another conference, there should be no complaining if the appointment is made. The interests of the Church should be held above the wishes of the individual. Hence, transfers should be welcomed as brethren as long as they labor faithfully in the interests of the Church.

J. BRADEN.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., August 5, 1895.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Rev. I. H. Sellers states that his postoffice address hereafter will be Wilson, Lamar County, Texas.

—The wife of Rev. George W. Wells, of Pineville, La., has been quite sick for two weeks and more, but is now convalescent.

—Dr. Georgia L. Patton has returned from Africa, where she has spent two years in successful labor as missionary physician, at her own charges. Her health is slightly impaired. She lectured most instructively to a large audience at Nashville, Tenn., on the 1st instant. She will remain in this country a year.

Question.—Is an ordained local preacher amenable to the quarterly conference?

Answer.—Yes; by all means. He is to exercise the functions of his office as the Discipline directs; otherwise the quarterly conference may proceed against him. He is required also to report the number of sermons preached, visits made, classes attended, baptisms, marriages solemnized, etc.

The Medical School of the New Orleans University, 1566 Canal street, New Orleans, La., will begin its seventh year's work on September 16, under very favorable outlook. It is to be supplied with new apparatus. Its course of study has been lengthened, and is recognized by the leading schools of America. It admits men and women students of all races, and the indications are that its attendance will be larger this year than ever before.

Where Educated Colored Men are Needed.

There is no field of usefulness that so much needs the services of our best young men as the colored ministry. The opportunity is now given at the Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., for young men to educate themselves for the ministry. Phelps Hall, a large, new building, with bedrooms, chapel, libraries and classrooms, and full corps of able instructors, is devoted wholly to educating Christian ministers and workers. Besides the ordinary course of study, the following distinguished ministers are regular lecturers: Right Rev. B. T. Tanner, D. D.; Rev. Geo. W. Clinton, D. D., and Rev. C. O. Booth, D. D. Students are given a chance to work out a part or all of their expenses.

GOOD WORDS.

From One of Our Most Distinguished Leaders.

Dear Brethren—I am glad to learn that you are succeeding well in raising your benevolent money. On my second round some of us agreed upon a canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. And here let me say that that very ably-edited and conducted paper, owing to the hardness of the times, needs our help on this line as never before, and we must therefore cease to promise, and do; and hence, when you see on the list the date of your quarterly conferences, go to work in co-operation with influential members, and be sure to include the ladies, for the purpose of getting subscribers to the paper. Absolutely, brethren, there must not be a failure at one of the seventeen conferences to be held on this round to secure subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. We shall expect subscribers in proportion to your numerical strength. Let us forget the hard times and go to work for the accomplishment of this end. Let our language be this: It must; it can; it shall be done. Our is, in some respects, the banner district, and if we do not sustain its reputation we should give place to those who will do so. In each quarterly conference this question will be asked: "How many subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN?" H. R. REVELS, P. E.,
Aberdeen Dis't, Upper Miss. Conf.

From Rev. M. B. A. Cain, a Faithful Friend of the Southwestern.

Mr. Editor—I wish to say to those who have been faithful in subscribing for the SOUTHWESTERN, that the paper is better than ever before. Its gentle, pure and moral tone tends to revive the stupidity of every thought and keep the soul aglow. A Methodist is lifeless without it. I like its size—it is not so large that I cannot read and digest the whole of it. Those who read it with care already know that it is not from the bulky paper that we get the right idea of things. As loyal Methodists, let every class leader, exhorter, local preacher, steward and pastor take the SOUTHWESTERN.

M. B. A. CAIN, Fulton, Ark.

Our McMinnville Letter.

MCMINNVILLE, Tenn., July 22, 1895.

Under the pastorate of Rev. H. Primm, the trustees, members and friends of Clark Chapel gave a grand "Harvest Festal" July 4, 1895, for the indebtedness of the church. It was an enjoyable affair which brought many old friends together. This festival was conducted by Rev. H. W. White, presiding elder. There was an art gallery, in which were many beautiful silk quilts and many other designs of artistic work; there was also a museum, in which were many relics of long ago—a shoe worn by Abraham Lincoln; some cloth woven by Africans; a pair of home-spun pants, made and worn forty years ago. These departments were something new and interesting. The young ladies and gentlemen took great care in arranging these rooms. At night a musical concert was given by the writer. The audience expressed themselves as being pleased with the program; $21 30 being realized from the concert alone, and $80 15 was the total amount placed in the trustees' hands.

Our fourth quarterly conference convened in Clark Chapel July 14, Rev. H. W. White, presiding. The reports from pastor, superintendent and class leaders were very good and encouraging, showing that the work was financially and spiritually alive. We are thankful for eleven converts during the quarter. Three local preachers were recommended to have their license renewed. Elder White preached two grand sermons during his visit. Many hearts were made happy and glad, and enjoyed the out-pouring of the Spirit in the love feast; 76 partook of the Lord's Supper. We raised during the quarter $149 70. The elder was paid in full.

Yours in the work,
Mrs. R. O. SPEERS.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

"Every-day Scenes in China," by Julian Ralph. Nobody can read Julian Ralph's articles on China in Harper's Magazine without increased respect for the Chinese. The paper in the August number, which he calls "Every-day Scenes in China," gives an account of the curious water life of the country, and describes some of the odd customs of the common people. Twenty illustrations by C. D. Weldon add interest to the paper.

The battle of the Yalu river, between the fleets of China and Japan, is one of the most important of naval engagements, because it was the first one fought with modern vessels and equipments. The only detailed account of the great battle is told in the August Century by the American commander of one of the Chinese ironclads, Philo N. McGiffin of the Chen Ynen. Commander McGiffin writes a simple, straightforward story of the engagement, from the time the ships were cleared for action, through all of the hurricane of shot and shell, up to the time when the crippled fleets, with many of the finest vessels sunk and burnt, steamed away from each other at the end of an inconclusive action. He praises the splendid courage of the Chinese, some of whom stuck to their posts until they were blinded for life. He mentions many individual instances of heroism, but is modestly silent as to his own heroic daring. Among the illustrations are reproductions of photographs taken during the actual progress of the battle.

There is no subject in astronomy which is so interesting at the present time as that of the planet Mars. The fact that our great new telescopes are bringing it so much more closely within our observation, and the question which has so long been mooted as to the probability of its being inhabited, keep it constantly within the lines of our interest and curiosity. No one has made this near neighbor of ours the subject of more careful observation than Mr. Percival Lowell, from his outlook at Flagstaff, Arizona, and in the August number of the New England Magazine, he gives a clear account of his observations, accompanied by the most remarkable series of maps of Mars which ever appeared. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

The leading article in The Monthly Illustrator for August is upon the work of a prominent American artist. It also displays the work of several men and women of note in the artistic world, accompanying literary articles of decided interest, and the fourth of Dr. Hoffman's instructive papers on the development of aboriginal pottery in America, as studied in, and illustrated from, the collections of the National Museum. Harry C. Jones, editor and publisher, 92 Fifth avenue, New York.

The weekly issues of Littell's Living Age are delightful companions at all seasons of the year. The reader can always depend on them to contain just the right thing to suit the present mood. There is so much variety—the range of subjects is so wide. The numbers for July are no exception to the rule, as will be seen by securing the issues.

How and when to use the blackboard in the primary class of the Sunday school is a question of practical interest to all primary teachers. Alice May Douglas, a well-known primary worker, contributes a bright, helpful article on this subject to The Sunday School Times of August 3. Miss Douglass does not advocate the drawing of elaborate lesson pictures, but suggests ways and means of illustration within the power of the average teacher.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St., New Orleans.

L. P. FRINK,

The New Home in Canaan.

(Deut. 6. 3-15.)

Written for the Southwestern.

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Thou shalt bless the Lord thy God for the good land which He hath given thee" (Deut. 8. 10.)

The following are the leading events between this and the last lesson. Balaam refused to curse the children of Israel. The people were led into adultery and idolatry by the daughters of Moab. Twenty-four thousand fell. The sword bearing men were again enrolled. Joshua was chosen to succeed Moses. Offerings and solemn feasts were to continue. Moses briefly rehearsed what befell them in the wilderness, while on their way to Canaan. Exhorted the people to be obedient, named some cities of refuge, and repeated the Ten Commandments. He continued his line of instruction through the chapter of which this lesson is a part. The first verse of the lesson rightly belongs to the preceding paragraph.

I. Words of duty (4-9). 1. Attention—"Hear, O Israel." We may hear God speaking to us through nature, for "The heavens declare the glory of God;" through Revelation, for His written Word reveals Him; and through conscience, for He reproves of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment. Jesus said—"Take heed therefore how ye hear." Do not be a wayside, or stony ground, or a thorny ground hearer. Let the words of God come into your heart like seed falling into good soil. Cause it to yield fruit a hundred fold. Hear, understand and obey. Give earnest heed to the things ye hear, lest at any time ye let them slip.

2. Unity—"The Lord our God is one Lord." Some see the trinity in this declaration. In it the name of Deity occurs three times. We have God the Father, and God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit; yet we have only one God. This assertion is a powerful warning against idolatry. The nations around them had gods many. But Israel must have but one God: and He the all-wise, all-powerful, and everywhere present Being. We may learn the Unity of God from Nature and Revelation. The harmony of all their parts with themselves, and with each other, prove there is but one mind and one will back of them.

3. Duty—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength." Love is the fulfilling of the law. It is the essence of religion. It hides a multitude of sins. It asks no questions. It does not wait for reason, but rushes forward to secure its prize. It speaks its own language, sings its own songs, and creates its own prayers. The heart is the center of life. It is the source from whence all the faculties of mind and soul flow. It is the root that produces the intellect, sensibilities and will. Out of it are the issues of life, and also of death. From its fullness we think, speak and act. We remain "in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity," till "our heart is sprinkled from an evil conscience" by the precious blood of Christ. "The soul is the immortal substance which distinguishes man from brutes, and makes him a subject of moral government" (Webster). It is about the same as life. It is the basis of the emotions, affections and desires. Love is a principle of the soul, and not of the intellect. The might is the sum of all. It is the united energy of the body, mind and life. It is loving and serving God with all the powers in us.

4. Command—(1) "These words shall be in thine heart." The spirit of the law of God should ever dwell in the soul of man. He will then meditate upon it by day and by night. It will be his delight to ponder over the mercies of the Lord. His pure, holy thoughts will make for him a religious character that will make him happy in this world and in the world to come. (2) "Thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children." Thou shalt make the words of God sharp, so they will pierce the memory of the child, and be retained by it. They should be taught diligently—"Precept upon precept, and line upon line: here a little and there a little" (Isa. 28. 13), till they know the way of life, and walk therein. Pious parents, godly Sunday school teachers, and devoted ministers of the Gospel, are constantly teaching the children the words of God. Let them be so taught that when the aged fall they will take their place in church and state. (3) Thou "shalt talk of them." Make the Bible the subject of conversation. Talk to your friends about it when you sit in your house, and to your neighbors about it when you walk by the way. Let it be the last subject of conversation at night, and the first in the morning. Do not make it the subject of strife or bitter contention, but consider its teachings in the spirit of prayer. Let its hard sayings pass by and ponder well its plain duties. (4) "Thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand." Some understand these words in a literal and others in a spiritual sense. Many think the Jews did not wear the phylactories till after the Babylonish captivity. In the time of Christ they were them as signs to bring to their remembrance the words of God, as badges to secure the respect of the heathen, and as charms to drive away evil spirits. We should wear the word of God in our heart that it may be seen in our daily life. It is well to always have a Bible with us. (5) "Thou shalt write them upon the posts of the house." When this was spoken the written words of God were very scarce. The command was likely given that all might read the most valuable passage of Scripture. At the close of the Reformation, when Bibles were few, select passages were written on the walls of many homes and churches, that the poor might read. The same custom prevails to-day. May we "be the epistles of Christ, written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God, not in tables of stone, but in fleshy tables of the heart" (2. Cor. 3. 3).

II. Words of warning (10-15). 1. Prosperity is of the Lord. "He lifteth up the meek, and casteth the wicked down to the ground." He leads his people into green pastures, and beside still waters. He had promised the Holy Land to their ancestors, and He was now ready to make good His word. It was represented to them as having walled cities, filled dwellings, cisterns hewed out of the rock, and vineyards and olive trees. They could eat and be full. They had not labored to bring these things about. Others had sowed and they would reap the reward of their labors. God shapes up the course of nature and brings about His own results. All He does is well. But usually that which costs but little is lightly esteemed. Hence the warning that follows.

2. Prosperity is dangerous. The rich are prone to forget God. They fail to remember past mercies. When He brought them up out of the Egypt of sin, liberated them from the bondage of Satan, and saved them from eternal death. When they stood before His altar and took upon themselves baptismal and church vows. They forget present obligations. The duties before us are the most important. Let us be up and doing while it is called to-day. Working for God, for the Church, and for self. Exhorting, teaching and comforting all we have any intercourse with. They do not think upon future results. They labor to have their portion in this life. The present state of existence will soon end. There is a world beyond. If we do well we will be accepted of God, and if not well we will be rejected by Him. Wealth proved the ruin of Dives, of Judas, and of Ananias. "If riches increase set not your heart upon them" (Psa. 62. 10).

3. Idolatry is forbidden. "Ye shall not go after other gods." Image worship began with the children of Israel when Rachel stole her father's teraphim (Gen. 31. 32), and ended with their return from the captivity of Babylon. They often made and worshiped the gods of surrounding nations. They always kindled the anger of Jehovah against them when they did so. He here threatens to destroy them "from off the face of the earth," if they go away into idolatry. We have the same God to deal with, and if we worship riches, honor, or pleasure, we may expect to be dealt with in the same way. "Little children, keep yourselves from idols. Amen" (1. John 5. 21).

Hot weather proves depressing to those whose blood is poor. Such people should enrich their blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

off is its popularity. It doesn't stay on the shelves long enough to become soiled. When women want washing made easy, without any risk of harm, they must have Pearline.

"Well," said the bright woman who had asked for Pearline, to the grocer who wanted to sell her some imitation of it, "whether you do sell more of these other things or not, there must be something in Pearline which makes the flies avoid it. I notice that all the Pearline packages are clean and fresh. All the others are fly-specked!"

This is a true story. Everything is true that we print about Pearline. The thing in Pearline that keeps flies

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 427 JAMES PYLE, New York.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Little Rock District.

Dear Brethren—Spare no pains in taking the collections for the benevolent causes. We call your attention especially to the F. A. and S. E. cause. Remember, we promised at our last session of the annual conference to bring up our full apportionment for this great cause. Very cordially. W. H. MORRIS, P. E.

Pine Bluff District.

Dear Brethren—You doubtless know that the third round embraces the best financial season of the year, and should you fail, the clamor for appointments and better ones only proves yourself unworthy for the least one. Push your claims. Bring no blanks to conference. I am with you. W. R. R. DUNCAN, P. E.

Navasota District.

Dear Brethren—The demands of the Church are great. God help each one of us as Methodist preachers to see the great need and feel the force of Dr. McCabe's letter, of which he will write each of you: Come, brethren, let us renew our efforts; let us not fall one cent below '94—$670 for missions, etc. Let us raise $700 this year, because our demands are greater. Our district stands second best in the Texas Conference. The "million for missions" was prophecy once. Let each preacher see to it that he raise his part of the million to reach the line. Let us make for ourselves this year a history. United effort, by the blessing of God, is all that is needed to bring about great results. Brethren, get yourselves filled with the power of the Holy Ghost. Go in to win souls for the Master's use. He has need for many souls. Your success is my success. Let us come to the district conference, which convenes at Hempstead, Texas, October 22, with the last dime of our assessment raised. God bless you, dear brethren. Yours for success,
W. L. DUNCAN, P. E.

Notice.

Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, one of the efficient secretaries of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, will be present at Bedford District Conference, and in connection with his address has promised to display his stereopticon views. Prof. G. W. Wells, now in the pastorate at Pineville, La., will be present and give us two lectures upon the subjects of "The Epworth League," "The Southwestern Christian Advocate," and "Methodist Literature." Suffice to say these two young men, of whom we are doubly proud, will leave nothing unsaid that need to be said for these causes. To miss these addresses from these two young men and others whom we have a right to expect will be regretted. Yours fraternally, H. J. WRIGHT, P. E.

Notice.

The Savannah District Conference will convene at Valdosli, August 22, at 9 a. m. Arrangements have been made over the S. F. & W., B. & W., Georgia South, and F. C. & P. railroads. Dr. Mason will be on hand. JOHN WATTS, P. E.

Camp Meeting Notice.

To all of the members and friends of the Huntsville District, Texas Conference:

The district camp meeting will convene at the Bishop Warren camp ground, five miles southeast of Huntsville, and two miles from Phelps, on the T. & G. N. railroad, August 21-31, with reduced rates as follows: Pine Valley, 30 cents; Huntsville and return, 40 cents; Phelps, 20 cents; and there will be reduced rates over the International and Great Northern railroad, from Crockett to Houston, on August 22 and 25, called opening days to the camp ground. All of the ministers of the district are requested to be present with a heart full of love and the witness of faith. A. C. CULBREATH, P. E.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

OUR WORK IN COLUMBUS, OHIO.

Donaldson Street M. E. Church is one of the churches in the Ohio District of the Lexington Conference. It is the result of the earuest and persistent efforts of presiding elders aud pastors iu that district to provide for the spiritual wauts of our colored people in the sontheastern sectiou of the city of Columbus. The organization of the church less than a dozen years ago was attended with uuusnal difficulties, ahd for several years gave but little promise of growth. A little later on our pastors were fortunate in enlisting the sympathies of some kind hearted white friends, who were couuected with the city Church Extension Society, which euabled them to secnre the lot and the honse of worship where they are at preseut located. Notwithstanding this magnificent donation, the membership for quite a while seemed to languish, and diesolution seemed inevitable. A change came, however, and the work has gone steadily forward. A beautiful parsonage has been erected during the past few years, and during this year the church has been remodeled aud is taking on new strength and vigor. There is a splendid future for this providentially located organization, which ought to grow stronger and stronger nnder its most advantageons environments. Its present pastor, Rev. A. McDade, is doing a splendid work in building np the congregation here, and he ought to have, and we believe he will have, the co-operation of the people of our Methodism in the city. At the recent financial rally and reopening service (the editor of this paper attended the latter), there was a very generous gathering of the people of other churches, with their pastors, to give aid and encouragement to the enterprise. We commend this enterprise to our Methodist friends in Columbus, and feel free to say that there is no better opportnnity for doing real, earnest Christian work among the neediest of God's children than presents itself in this providential movement.

THE CRUISE OF THE "SOUTHWESTERN."

OFF MCKINLEY'S INLET, Thursday, Aug. 1, 1895.

Log.—Cast anchor in Buckeye Bay July 27. On the 28th the natives of Columbus tendered us a reception, which amounted to an ovation. The Donaldson was in gala attire. Her commander, A. McDade, was in high spirits. The officers and crew seemed to enjoy the most pleasant relations. The visitors crowded the decks both fore and aft, and a large number of them invaded the store-room, where the wife and mother of the gallant skipper dispensed water and other refreshments. Everybody seemed to enjoy the exercises. Commanders W. J. Johnson, D. D., of the A. M. E. St. Paul's, and Gee, of the Bethel, came aboard during the day and added very greatly to the interest of the inspection and drill.

July 29.—Having accepted an invitation to visit the Governor of Buckeye, Commander McDade, with Midshipman Smallwood acting as capswain, escorted us to the executive mansion, where we met with a royal reception. The governor having been called away to the interior of his dominions, we were not permitted the pleasure of greeting the distingnished ruler. We were treated with great consideration by his retainers and invited to call again. An extended trip on one of the company's fleetest street yachts closed this eventful day.

Twesday.—We devoted much of this day to oiling the machinery, taking in supplies and sending messages to headquarters. Later in the day we received a pressing invitation to visit the M. E. Cruiser Trinity, which was anchored in the harbor of Delaware, under the lee of the Ohio Wesleyan and other craft of the service. Commander G. W. Bailey had ordered out the crew for inspection and drill. It was a grand sight. The Trinity has been recently built, under the supervision of her gallant commander, aud is one of the staunchest aud most beautiful vessels in the service. Before the Boatswain's Mate had piped "up hammocks," we were steaming out of the Delaware, our course being due South. After a quick run we again cast anchor in Buckeye Bay to take part in the lecture to the officers and crew of the Donaldson with a large number of their frieuds. Commander McDade had everything in shipshape order. The drill aud discipline were excellent.

Thursday a. m. we weighed anchor, steeriug toward the great Mill Creek bottoms, where we arrived after an uunsually quick ruu. We soou overhauled the Book Concern and coming alongside we boarded her and were received by Admiral Cranston aud staff with great cordiality. The cruiser Western was anchored near by, aud we paid the accomplished Admiral Moore a brief visit. Here we met Admiral Rawlius, also of the Western, and Lieuteuant Commander Rees, of the F. A. and S. E. It was a brief but delightful interview, and was highly appreciated by the SOUTHWESTERN'S staff. We regretted very much our inability to visit the other ships in the squadron. This was found impossible, owing to our peremptory orders to meet the battle-ship Louisville District, which would hold its semi-annual inspection begiuning on Aug. 1. We again weighed anchor, and crowding on steam and sail, we sighted Beaver Dam about midnight of the 1st. An hour later we cast anchor in the bay of Hartford. The Louisville was expecting us, and as soon as we rounded Rough Point, the captain of the I. W. Horton sent his gig to escort us to the flagship Louisville. We were received with many demonstrations of esteem. Post Captain G. A. Sissel, a mariner of large experieuce, was in command of the squadron, having for his flagship the Louisville, carrying 31 guns. We found aboard Commanders Ferguson, Heston, Warren, Johnson, Jones, Stone, Bloomer, Miles and Miller, with Lieutenants, Robinson, White and Woolfolk; also, Ensigns Shipman, Yarber, Venable and others. The council was one of great importance to the officers and crews of the respective cruisers, and there was a very cordial interchange of sentiment in favor of the new tactics recently adopted by the officers of the SOUTHWESTERN. We devoted some time in explaining the varions parts of our machinery, which, from the stokers' room to the cabin gun deck, orlop deck, hold, fore and aft, from starboard to larboard, was examiued by the admiring natives. Officers and crew were ashore most of the time during the three days' council visiting the natives, studying their habits aud character, sharing in their generous hospitality and adding to our list of recruits. We were very much delighted to meet that venerable aud gallant tar—popularly called "Father Gibson"—who can tie a knot and splice a rope or handle the marlin spike almost as perfectly as in his younger days. Several of the gallant seamen connected with the Louisville were on a furlough, and could not be present at the meeting. The squadron is composed of some splendid sailors, and its gallant Post Captain is bringing it up to a very high degree of proficiency. There is a marked improvement in the esprit du corps, and reasons for renewed confidence in the ability of the officers to take first rank as an official arm of the service.

Our hospital steward reports the health of our officers aud crew generally good. The Purser's books will show a good surplus in favor of the company. The chaplain has held services regularly, which has added no little to the spiritual health of all aboard the SOUTHWESTERN.

HARTFORD, Ky., August 3, 1895.

IN HAYTI.

Strange as it may seem, the recent sessiou of the Louisville District of the Lexington Conference was held in our beautiful and cosy Methodist Episcopal Church in Hayti. Beautiful for situation, though for some unaccountable reason isolated from the portion of terra firma occupied by the Caucasians. We were informed that the government of the place was a sort of a limited protectorate, the dominant powers interfering only when absolutely necessary. There were many neat and well kept homes, beautifully located at times and upon commanding situations. The people are for the most part well dressed, although we noticed on the part of some of them a dispositiou to imitate the primitive and often gaudy apparel of their ancestors. There are no railroads in Hayti, and consequently the well-known predillection of the colored people toward railroad excursions is indulged in only to a limited extent. There are also no horse cars, electric lights, aud so on, but in lieu of these there is the road wagou, buck board, saddle and the patient mule. Coal oil is the principal illuminator, although we discovered here and there a gusher of "natural gas" fluent, but crude. We were impressed very favorably with the young natives, many of whom have had fair school advantages aud are abreast with the best thought of the community. In several of their homes we found some select books and papers, the SOUTHWESTERN being among them. They live well, and quite a goodly number of them have homes of their own, with sufficient land to make a comfortable living, with a surplus for a rainy day. We saw several residences which would compare favorably with many of the residences owned by the Caucasians in the corporation of Hartford. As we stood near one of those cosy little cottages and looked ont over one of the most magnificent landscapes in the country, we felt that we would like to linger and drink in the beauties of this mighty sweep of nature—a veritable "garden of the gods." One view of this grand and sublime natural panorama would subdue the most obdurate heart, we thought, and melt it into sweet submission to the will of the great Architect of the Universe. The little chapel stands upon a triangular point, a well selected strategic position, and like a well equipped fortress commands the entire town. Rev. William Johnson, formerly of Virginia, is the honored and beloved rector. Assisted by his devoted wife and daughter, he is doing a good work, though we fear is overtaxing his vitality. Rev. G. A. Sissel presided over the deliberations of the meeting with his usual tact and won all hearts by his genial qualities. The meeting was a success. The editor of this paper received a most cordial welcome, and the cause which he represented was heartily and unanimously endorsed. The Haytians know how to appreciate a good thing, and the cordiality with which they welcomed and entertained their visitors is evidence that they are a royal people. Several of the young Haytian ladies joined our Woman's Round Table League, and the people of the United States may expect a rich literary treat from time to time. In another number we will publish several articles of rare merit from the pens of several of these and other visiting ladies. We will not soon forget our delightful visit to Hayti, and our temporary sojourn in the rectory. Leaving this beautiful suburb of Hartford, Ky., with its somewhat doubtful soubriquet of "Hayti," we "struck" out for Beaver Dam; took in the little town; visited the church; talked briefly; encouraged Rev. D. W. TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

—D. Trammell, Lafayette, Ala., writes: We hold our second quarterly conference at Free Point, Ala., with Brother Cano Rogers in the chair. We had a grand time. Our elder is loved by all. He is a good presiding officor, and well informed on all lines of Church business. He gave the conference some remarks that will not soon be forgotten. May God bless him in his old age in this good work. Our secretary, O. W. Trammell, is one of noto. I like the dear SOUTHWESTERN.

—We are in receipt of a letter from Miss Amanda Kire of Newark, Ohio, which reads thus: Our quarterly meeting was held at the Third M. E. Church. Our presiding older, Rev. M. S. Johnson, was present, and preached. Twenty-two partook of the Lord's Supper.

—Rev. K. A. Thomas, P. C., of our church in Summerville, S. C., writes: We have just closed a glorious revival meeting which lasted three weeks. There were twelve souls truly converted to God. Murray's Church is much revived by the meeting. There are three Sunday schools on the charge, and each one is in a flourishing condition. The Lord is doing a great work for us.

—Rev. H. A. McClellan, Dennis Mills, La., writes that the second quarterly conference was hold on July 27-28, although the presiding elder was not present. Rov. P. W. Clark preached for us. Collected $15. Just closed a grand revival. Nine conversions. Planning a SOUTHWESTERN day—third Sunday in August.

—Rev. A. J. McAlister, Woodburn, Miss., writes: Sister Della Mobberly, a faithful member of the M. E. Church, also a member of the Epworth League, departed this life July 29, at 11 a. m. She leaves a host of friends to mourn her loss.

—The third quarterly conference of Hoidlehurg, Miss., was hold July 27-28, by Rov. Dr. Shumpert. The work is prospering. Two were baptized and 64 communed. One cash subscriber to the SOUTHWESTERN. Collected $43 40. So writes R. N. Jones, P. C.

—A letter from Leon Circuit, Palestine District, Texas Conference, Spring Creek M. E. Church, of which Rev. C. Perevenport is pastor, says they had 31 conversions, received 48 into the Church, and baptized 43.

—D. W. McQueen of Branford, Fla.: We are the leading church of Branford. We have 30 members and a very good building. Rev. O. F. Niblack, of Fort White, preached to a crowded house in the M. E. Church.

—Rev. M. B. A. Cain, Hot Springs District, Fulton, Ark.: A. J. Phillips held our second quarter at Wesley Chapel, July 13-14. Reports show some improvement. Admitted 13 to full membership, three probationers, and one baptized. Collection for the quarter, $33 20.

Rev. Joseph R. Howard Dead.

On Friday morning, July 18, in Jacksonville, Fla., surrounded by a devoted mother, loving sisters and a few friends, Rev. Joseph R. Howard quietly and peacefully passed into the beautiful beyond at his residence on West Union street, Jacksonville, Fla., after an illness of sixteen days. The death of this cultured, intelligent and consecrated young minister comes as a great affliction upon his family, a terrible shock to his many friends and an irreparable loss to the Florida Conference. It is hard to realize that this young minister, who but a few days ago was full of energy and hopefulness, and whose future was so brilliant and blooming with the promise of marked usefulness, is so strangely blasted by the hand of death.

Joseph R. Howard was born Nov. 18, 1866, in Charleston, S, C., and was brought to Jacksonville when but a child by his father, Rev. J. R. Howard, who was one of the pioneers of Methodism in Florida, and who preceded his son to the city eternal a little less than two years ago. In 1866 he graduated from Cookman Institute, and in the fall of the same year entered Gammon Theological Seminary at Atlanta, Ga., from which institution he graduated with honor. He then returned home, and in 1893 entered the ministry in the Florida Conference, in which work he was a faithful and zealous steward, and at the time of his death was serving his second charge as pastor of Simpson Chapel in this city. He was also a member of the faculty of Cookman Institute and secretary of the State Teachers' Association. On May 23, 1894, he was married to Miss Emma Rochelle, of Jonesville, who was a most estimable young woman and a devoted wife. Rev. Joseph R. Howard was an earnest and faithful worker, a great student, a young man full of hopes and plans for the future. He was true to his convictions and preached a whole gospel. As a speaker he was clear and forceful. He will be greatly missed, for he was a burning and shining light. Though young in years, he has done a work that will live after him. The funeral service was held at Ebenezer M. E. Church on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The district conference of the Jacksonville District, of which he was a member, being in session at the time of his death, passed appropriate resolutions and attended the funeral in a body, escorting the remains to the church. Rev. J. Grant, his presiding elder, delivered a feeling and touching eulogy. Many visiting clergymen were present and all the city pastors. The procession was a remarkable one, and many followed this good and grand young man of God to his grave and wept as we tenderly, sorrowingly but hopefully laid him to rest. We shall see him again in the sweet by and by.

Dedication.

St Paul's M. E. Church, Augusta, Ky., was dedicated July 28. The following ministers were present and made short addresses: E. R. Lewis, pastor of M. E. Church at Dover; B. Daniels, ex-pastor; Dr. Swadener, and D. W. Rice, B. W. Kirtley, Clark and Ramsay, city pastors.

On the day of dedication the sun shone with all its golden splendor, while the wind was heard in the rustling of the leaves, amidst the singing of birds. Early the people gathered from the neighboring towns and country. At 11 a. m., the church was crowded to hear Dr. M. Swadener of Cincinnati, O., who, by his eloquence and power, wonderfully stirred his hearers. At the close of the sermon the doctor, who proved himself master of the situation, explained to the audience the condition and amount to be raised for the occasion, which was $1,300. The congregation responded liberally to the call, and $960 was pledged. At 2:30 p. m., the church was packed to overflowing, and many turned away unable to gain admittance. Collection was taken amounting to $400 in cash and subscription. At 8 p. m., the house was again crowded, and as many were turned away, and remained on the outside for lack of room. The doctor preached another interesting sermon, and a collection was taken which made a total for the day of $1400. Then the dedicatory services followed, the debt all having been provided for.

The board of trustees, with the pastor and people, rejoice greatly in the success that has attended their faithful efforts. B. W. Kirtley is the pastor.

Everywhere We Go

We find some one who has been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and people on all hands are praising this great medicine for what it has done for them and their friends. Taken in time Hood's Sarsaparilla prevents serious illness by keeping the blood pure and all the organs in a healthy condition. It is the great blood purifier.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

A Chasm Deep and Pungent in the Church of God.

By N. H. SPEIGHT, D. D., Anniston, Ala.

In the days of reconstruction, the Methodist Episcopal Church came in the South and began its operation on the right plans. The foundation was wisely laid, but before the building could be erected, the foundation first laid was rooted up. The Church came in the South to lift up fallen humanity, and bring light to them that sit in darkness and in the regions of the shadow of death. The ministers of God sit in one conference, and receive the command from the month of the same general. They went whither they were sent to lift up the people.

The first foundation of the work is torn up and another laid, which caused the house built upon it to be condemned. The second and false foundation laid is separate conferences. This act has worked great evil throughout our Southern work. It cut a chasm between the ministers and members of the Church. The ministers scarcely know each other, and as a general thing there is as much friendship existing between many of the white ministers of other churches and our colored ministers as between the white and colored of the same Church.

The writer, a few days ago, was at Heflin, and preached, when a white pastor of the M. E. Church South, whose name I will not give, threw himself into the service with all his heart, and great was the result. Quite a large number of his members were present, which, I have no doubt, were drawn by the influence of that godly young man. The writer was informed by a representative member of the Central Alabama Conference, who visited the last session of the Alabama Conference at Boaz, that even the church door in which that conference was held was shut in his face, that the two visiting brothers were not admitted into the conference room until a caucus meeting was held by some of the brethren. They were then admitted and given a seat by the door. One of these brothers was a presiding elder in our conference, the other a pastor. It was through a godly presiding elder of that conference they were admitted at all. They were introduced to the conference by the bishop, supposing them to be members of the Central Alabama Conference, and he, the bishop, asked them to come forward and be introduced. These brothers could not even get a bite to eat until the same presiding elder advocated their cause. This act grew out of the devilish act of separate conferences. The movers of this act had no other intention but to thrust a dart at the brother in black. The evil seed planted then now brings forth an evil harvest. "Whatsoever man soweth, that shall he also reap." Many a good man on both sides was led into this action by these wicked planners. Many of them opposed it, and stand opposed to it now.

What is all this stir about concerning the shame heaped upon us in conventions? What a dart hurled at the Church by the M. E. Church South and others! If the great M. E. Church will try to pen off in corners her black children, should we expect anything better of other churches? I do not say the whole Church is guilty of such a low down act, but some in the Church—for there are godly white men and women that do not believe in any discrimination for color sake, and will not submit to it. The man that will pray, "Let thy kingdom come," and then throw obstruction in the way to hinder its coming, is a hypocrite, let him be white or black. Now, to my brethren in black, we will not retreat. We are a part of the Church, and where the Church calls us to go, will go, and contend for the rights that belong to us. We will stand in solid phalanx until we gain the victory. We have God and a host of white brethren both North and South on our side, and we will hold the ground we have gained, and push onward until we gain all that belongs to us. We will not falter: no, never. We will never think once of leaving our Church, for it is ours. We'll work, watch and pray until the reformation is brought about; for on every pitched battle ground we gain a decided victory. Much has been said about the wrongs heaped upon our colored delegates at Chattanooga. They stood their ground like men, and for us they gained a great victory.

Any set of Christians workers that will try to set up the kingdom of Christ in other lands, and do their best to tear down or prevent its spread in their own land, are wholly unworthy of the name they bear.

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Withering of the Fig Tree.

Scripture Lesson: Matt 21:18-22; Mark 11:12-14, 20

This miracle took place on Monday of "Passover Week." The triumphal entry occurred the day before, and on the evening of that day Christ retired to Bethany and there spent the night. Rising early the next morning, he retraces his steps, and it was while on his way back to the city, that he spoke the words of judgment against the fig-tree.

The choosing of a fig-tree in order to teach the lesson of the danger and reward of hypocrisy, was alone peculiar to Christ. Says Rosenm: "Christ was wont to teach by signs and symbols. Here he chose a fig-tree, the most worthless tree in Judea, and this not possessed as property by any one, but standing in the public road; a tree which neither bore fruit nor promised it; this He chose as a fit emblem by which to show how great is his power, as well to punish the wicked as to bless the righteous."

I. Christ Hungers.—It was early morning. In all probability he had left Bethany without Breakfast. Thus he shows that he was not only very God, but also very man. He was therefore subject to the infirmaties and cravings of nature. How sublime the thought that the King of Glory once hungered!

II. He Saw a Promise of Food.—While suffering from the pangs of hunger, he saw just ahead of him a fig-tree all covered with large and beautiful leaves. He accordingly approached it with the expectation of finding thereon sufficient fruit with which to satisfy his hunger. "From the earliest times," says Geikie, "figs have been a great article of food in Palestine, and Christ, no doubt, many a time made a meal of a few, with a bit of the flat unleavened bread of the country." Mood says, "The time of figs was not yet." The leaves, however, were a sign of fruit. Christ was justified, therefore, in his expectation.

III. The Curse.—But great was his disappointment. Instead of fruit, he saw nothing but leaves! Accordingly he said unto it: "Let no fruit grow on thee hence forward forever." And presently the fig-tree withered away. George McDonald remarks: "Our Lord had already spoken the parable of the fig-tree that bore no fruit. This miracle was but the acted parable. Here was an opportunity in their very path of enforcing, by a visible sign proceeding from himself, one of the most important truths he had striven to teach them. He condemned the tree to become in appearance that which it was in fact—a useless thing." And Woodsworth, "This barren fig-tree, withered by Christ's words, bears fruit forever in the garden of Scripture, by the warning it gives against hypocritical ostentation and luxuriant unfruitfulness.', Gleanings.

Christ looks for the power of religion from those who make a profession of it.

Christ's just expectations from flourishing professors are often disappointed.

Many have a name to live; dote on the form of godliness, and yet deny the power.

The sin of barrenness is justly punished with the curse and plague of barrenness.

A false and hypocritical profession commonly withers, and it is the effect of Christ's curse.

Hypocrites may look plausible for a time, but, having no principle, no root in themselves, their profession will soon come to nothing."

Young People at Work.

You have heard it said that young people are the hope of the future. That fact has never been more apparent than just now. Think of one way in which young people are influencing and determining beneficent legislation. The bicycle is the steed of youth: A few old people are riding, but the cohorts of riders are under thirty years of age. That bicycle has made large demands that are not commonly recognized. Good roads follow its introduction; better roads accompany its improvement. Every State in the Union has yielded more or less to the demand of the omnipresent wheel for good roads. That demand has been made by associations composed almost exclusively of youth. Within a few weeks conventions and assemblies have been held where new and extreme departures in road construction have been agitated; and that agitation, supported by the youthful champions, will soon show itself, as the editor of a leading paper has suggested, in political caucuses and halls of legislation.

Young people telling together in any direction can work wonders for good or ill. The folly of indifference to the needs of youth must be recognized; the wisdom of caution and counsel is an emphatic necessity. The sanctions and warnings of our Christian religion can keep youth from indiscretion; these things alone can make youthful influence and activity beneficent and helpful. Here is the justification and defense of our modern movements for youth by youth under the auspices of the Christian Church.

The Influence of the Epworth League.

By Miss Eva Lovall, Morgantown, Ky.

Influence is defined as a flowing in or upon, etc. Hence, in general the bringing of an object, physical or moral, by a gradual process; controlling power quietly exerted, as the influence of education on the mind. It should be the aim of every young man or woman who has received the blessings of salvation to first prepare thoroughly for the work by the help of the Lord. Every boy and girl, man and woman has an influence, and as members of the Epworth League and workers for Christ, we should use our influence in the least possible way to advance this cause. We must stand up as Christians, and by so doing some one will be constrained to follow in our footsteps. We should be firm, stand fast in the Lord and we will not be moved when trials and troubles surround us. Not long ago our fathers and mothers groaned beneath the yoke of slavery more terrible than that of the children of Israel. The Christian ministers of the gospel and the Northern people by the help of God used their influence in our behalf, with results which are well known to-day. We have an influence, and if used rightly, what a blessing it will be in the improvement and upbuilding of our once trodden down race! The Epworth League has influences. First, we may say we want to be earnest, and as we have so often said, be religious, dutiful and obedient Christians; and by doing this we will exert an influence in bringing many souls to Christ. It has been well said that one can chase a thousand and two put ten thousand to flight. The influence of the Epworth League should be used in church work. Here we can learn the great lessons of morality and virtue and become lights along the shore of time.

A Bride's Account of St. Bartholomew.

By Scott F. Hershey, Ph. D., Boston, Mass.

I have met with an exceedingly interesting report of the horrible night of St. Bartholomew. It is from the pen of Margaret, the bride of Navarre. Accounts of personal incidents, given by Roman Catholic writers, aid in forming opinions of the unexpectedness and severity of the massacre. Margaret of Valois was the bride of a few days. She it was who had married the Prince of Navarre, and whose wedding was the opportunity for getting the Huguenots to Paris. She gives a most interesting experience connected with the slaying of her fellow-countrymen. "The Huguenots," she says, "suspected me because I was a Catholic; the Catholics because I had married the King of Navarre. So that I heard nothing of what was going on till the evening, when, as I was sitting on a chest in my mother's room by the side of my sister, the Dutchess of Lorraine, whom I saw to be very sad, the Queen Mother noticed me and told me to go to bed. As I was conversing to her, my sister laid hold of my arm and burst into tears, saying: 'For God's sake, sister, don't go!' I was greatly frightened, and seeing the Queen, my mother spoke very sharply to my sister and forbade her to say anything to me, adding that to please God no harm would happen to me, be that come what might; go I must, lest something should be suspected. I did not hear what was said, but again and very roughly my mother told me to go.

"As soon as I was in my room I threw myself on my knees and prayed God to protect me, though I knew not from what or against whom. Meanwhile, the King, my husband, had gone to bed surrounded by thirty or forty Huguenots whom I did not yet know, for I only had been married a few days. All night long they remained, talking of what had happened to the Admiral, and determining as soon as day broke to ask for redress against M. DeGuise; and if it were not granted, then to seek it for themselves. As for me, the tears of my sister weighed on my mind and I could not sleep for fear of some unknown evil. At dawn, the King, my husband, said he would go and play tennis till King Charles was awake, having made up his mind to ask him at once to do justice. He then left my room, and his gentlemen with him. Seeing that it was light, and thinking that the danger of which my sister had spoken was past, and being heavy with drowsiness, I told my nurse to lock the door, so that I might sleep undisturbed. An hour later, when I was fast asleep, some one came beating with hands and feet against the door and shouting, 'Navarre!' 'Navarre!' My nurse, thinking it was my husband, ran to open the door. It was a gentleman wounded by a sword in the elbow, and his arm was cut by a halberd, who rushed into my room pursued by four archers. Seeking safety, he threw himself on my bed. Feeling this man clutching me, I threw myself into the space between the bed and the wall, when, he still grasping me, we rolled over, both screaming and both equally frightened.

"Fortunately, the captain of my guards, M. DeNancay, came by, who saw me in such a plight, that sorry as he was, he could not help laughing, but drove the archers out of the room and gave me the life of the poor gentleman, who was still clinging to me, and whom I caused to be tended and nursed in my dressing-room till he was quite cured. While I changed my night dress, for I was covered with blood, M. deNancay told me what had happened, but assured me that my husband was in the King's room and in no danger. Making me throw on a dressing-gown, he then led me to the room of my sister, Madame deLorraine, which I reached more dead than alive. Just as I was going into the ante-room a gentleman trying to escape from the archers who were pursuing him, fell stabbed three paces from me. I, too, fell, half fainting, into the arms of M. deNancay, and felt as if the same blow had pierced us both."

The late war between Japan and China still awakens a keen interest in both countries. The R. H. Woodward Co., of Baltimore, are soon to issue an interesting book to be sold by subscription, entitled "Forty Years in China; or, China in Transition." It is fully illustrated with good half-tone engravings. Rev. R. H. Graves, D. D., is the author.

From Infancy

My daughter was troubled with scrofula. A swelling formed in one of her ears and broke open. It discharged freely and the whole side of her head became affected. The trouble continued ten years and she lost the hearing in that ear. After an attack of typhoid fever she was left very weak. She coughed and raised a great deal. We resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and after taking six bottles she was greatly improved. Now the sores are perfectly healed and she has good hearing in that ear." MRS. M. WILKINSON, Parham, Tenn.

CORRECTIONS.

In our leading editorial of last week the word Christian in the italicised sentence gives the sentence an entirely different meaning from that which was originally intended. Insert the word custom, and you will have the correct quotation of Dr. Steele. The word Christian is allright everywhere generally, bnt it got into wrong company. The fault is onrs, however, since we could not read the proof at such a distance from headquarters.

For the same reason onr "Cruise of the SOUTHWESTERN" suffered to some extent. Substitute Post Captain for Port, and aboard, in our P. S., for abroad, and the meaning will be clear.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

The inevitable has come to pass. We have been absent from our office for more than two weeks, and retnrn to find scores of letters which ought to have been attended to with other pressing bnsiness that demanded immediate consideration. But there being no one employed to look after this bnsiness during our absence, these delays are absolutely unavoidable, yet they are exceedingly embarrassing. We simply state facts, and are absolutely powerless to remedy the difficulty. We are doing the best that we can in the absence of the facilities necessary to reduce this work to an approved system. Let onr friends nnderstand this, and work to so inerease the circulation of the paper that the demands for help will not only be heeded, but snpplied.

THE SPRING VALLEY OUTBREAK.

The prompt action of the mayor and law-abiding citizens of Spring Valley, Illinois, has prevented what might otherwise have been a most disgracefnl and deplorable race war. An Italian miner was waylaid and shot by Negroes, for which the Italian miners, with the vengeful spirit which is characteristic of these impnlsive people, proposed to retaliate in the most summary manner.

The Associated Press reports of the affair were very greatly exaggerated at first, and the conntry was startled at the news of a "terrible race war, a score of Negroes killed, many more wounded, and the defenseless miners fleeing from their homes to escape the wrath of the infuriated dagoes." The Negroes of Illinois were justly incensed at the nens of this terrible massacre of their brethren. Mass meetings were held, committees appointed, and preparations were made by hnndreds of them to march to Spring Valley to protect their persecuted brethren. Governor Altgeld was asked and promptly promised to call out the State militia shonld it be deemed necessary. On further investigation it happily tnrned ont that the affair was greatly exaggerated. Committees were appointed to investigate, and reported the facts in the case, which relieved the public mind to a considerable extent. It was found that there had been an outbreak in which one or more persons were seriously hnrt. The dagoes threatening to destroy the homes in which the Negroes lived, they fled in dismay, leaving the sitnation decidedly critical. The foreign miners recognizing this opportnnity to get rid of their Negro competitors, grew insolent and demanded their discharge from the mines. A mass meeting was called, and the turbulent foreigners were informed that there were laws in this conntry which all citizens were bound to respect. Better jndgment prevailed, and the majority were disposed to let the Negroes alone. The latest authentic information is to the effect that the Negroes are invited to return to their homes and to work in the mines, with gnarantees of all the protection which the laws of the State affords.

The prompt and decisive action of the city and State authorities, and the vigorous yet manly protest of the Negroes of the State, struck terror into the ranks of the foreigners, many of whom are not yet naturalized citizens. Yet they would join the old time hue and cry at the most flimsy pretext, and drive ont the nation's most reliable wage worker—the Negro. Bnt humanity progresses, and we predict that there will be less of snch ontbreaks, however much thoughtless and heartless reporters may seek to inflame the public mind by their sensational reports. The following from the Indianapolis Journal is to the point:

> It is an outrage that any body of men working to earn bread for families should be driven from their employment and their families from their homes, as have the colored miners at Spring Valley, Ill. It is still more exasperating that such an outrage was perpetrated by foreigners, most of whom are not citizens and could not vote if naturalization depended upon their ability to read. We have too many of these people, and Congress will not do its duty if it does not enact the bill of Mr. Stone, of Pennsylvania, to prohibit more coming to this country. There are now more coal miners in the country than there is fair employment for, consequently to import more, with their viciousness, is to import pauperism for some of those now here.

THE NEGRO HONORED BY ROYALTY.

It is an absolnte fact that the Negro, if given a fair chance in the great race for worldly honor and recognition, will assnredly compare most favorably with any and all competitors. It is passing strange that in this land of boasted Christian progress, and nnder a government of and for the people, with a great constitution predicated npon the theory that all men are created eqnal, and endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, and the pnrsuit of happiness; that in this land alone the Negro is continually reminded in all stations, circles, sections, places, conditions and circumstances that he is a Negro; and for that reason he may not expect that honor and recognition to which his merits entitle him, and which are freely accorded to the people of almost every other class of people. The following letter gives us great pleasnre, and will, we know, be encouraging to our many readers:

"There have been many Negroes in Enrope and the West Indies who have received distinguished consideration in the way of decorations from the crowned heads of the Old World, says the Bostou Transcript. The Black Roscius—Ira Aldridge—who created snch a furor in Enrope many years ago as a tragedian, and who was freqnently carried from the theaters in which he performed npon the shoulders of his enthusiastic anditors to his hotel, was loaded down with medals, the insignias of varions royal orders, the gifts of kings and qneens whom he had charmed and delighted by his magnificent impersonations of the characters he assnmed.

"Aldridge was a Marylaud Negro, and first went to Enrope some time in the forties in the capacity of valet to a distingnished American tragedian, who, discovering his talents aud bent of mind, enconraged him to become an actor. He performed in the principal cities of Enrope, and it is recorded of him that when he played Iago in the city of Moscow, in Russia, a nnmber of stndents who had witnessed the performance nnhitched the horses from the actor's carriage after the play was over aud dragged him in triumph to his lodgings. In Sweden and Germany and Englaud his name was a household word. He stood in the front rank among the greatest actors of the day, and the nobility of Enrope held him in the same regard and treated him with the same consideratiou that Americans bestow upou Keene, or Barrett, or Booth, or auy other great actor who has made himself famous.

"Ira Aldridge gave no performances iu Europe which were not wituessed by one or more members of the royal family of the conntry he was in. In persoual appearauce he was very dark in complexiou, with a full, round face, which was covered with a closely-shaveu beard. He was nearly six feet in height. He had large, lustrous eyes, and a resonant voice which he kept under perfect control.

"As Aarou in 'Titus Andronicus,' and as the Moor iu 'Othello,' he established his fame as the most realistic actor, who, up to that period, had ever essayed these roles. The newspapers of that period showered nnstinted praise upon this remarkable Negro, and he was liouized iu fashiouable society and feted by the nobility; the king of Sweden knighted him and the emperor of Russia conferred a decoration upon him. His medals aud decorations from other personages were estimated at the time of his death, 1867, to be worth over $250,000. Aldridge owned niue villas, situated in various parts of Enrope, and each of them handsomely furnished. His principal residence was in the city of London, Eng., where he entertained in a royal manner the legions of friends who songht his company, and that of his charming wife, a Swedish baroness, by whom he had three children. He died in 1867 as Sir Ira Aldridge, K. C. M., and a host of other titles given him at varions times.

"An article in Wilkes' Spirit of the Times for 1859, among other things, in speaking of Aldridge, says that 'he was one of the most polished and modest of men, thoroughly refined, unostentations, and unobtrnsive in speech and manner."

"In 1877 Edward Wilmont Blyden, a full-blooded Negro, born in the Danish West Indies, was appointed by the president of the Repnblic of Liberia minister plenipotentiary of that government at the court of St. James, and was received with marked consideration by her gracious majesty, Queen Victoria, at Osborne, July 30, 1878. The marquis of Salisbury, at that time secretary of State for foreign affairs and now prime minister of England, introdnced Dr. Blyden to her majesty. Dr. Blyden was soon after elected an honorary member of the aristocratic Athenaenm Club of London. He is an author and lingnist of world-wide reputation."

"Qneen Victoria has recently conferred the Victoria Cross npon a coal black Negro, a corporal in one of the West India regiments, for having saved the life of his commanding officer by throwing himself in front of the latter and receiving in his own body the bullets that would have otherwise fonnd lodgment in that of his captain. Peter Salem did something like this during our revolutionary war."

"In 1878 or '89 the president of the Repnblic of Liberia conferred upon the American minister, the Hon. John H. Smyth, in consideration of friendly services to the Repnblic, the title of 'Knight of the Order of African Redemption."

"In a letter dated at the Palace of Madrid, Febrnary 11, 1882, King Alfonso, of Spain, writes to the president of Liberia as follows:

> 'Great and Good Friend: Desiring to give you a public testimony of my royal appreciation and my particular esteem, I have had special pleasnre in nominating you Knight of the Grand Cross of the Royal Order of Isabella the Catholic. I am pleased by this action also to furnish new proof of the desire which animates me to strengthen more and more the friendly relations which happily exist between Spain and the Repnblic of Liberia And with this motive, I repeat to you the assnrance of the affection which I entertain towards you, and with which I am, great and good friend, your great and good friend, 'ALFONSO.
> 'Palace at Madrid, February 11, 1882.'"

"There are few better lawyers anywhere than are to be fonnd among the edneated blacks of the British West Indies. The attorney general of the Island of Jamaica some years ago was a Negro, by name Burke, who was said to be as eloquent of speech and as formidable in argument as his great Irish namesake, Edmnnd Burke, who, it will be remembered, said on one occasion, 'Great men are the gnide-posts of a nation.' The black Bnrke was famed not only for his oratory, but for the sonndness of his legal judgment and the fairness of his decisions while acting as attorney general. He was knighted some years ago by Qneen Victoria."

"In Freetown, Sierra Leone, there lives a very ordinary looking little black man, who has the regular Negro features and hair. In stature he is less than five feet in height. Like the immortal Richard III, he shrngs his shoulders when he walks, but, unlike him, he does not sing out, 'Shine on, bright sun,' etc. He is Sir Samuel Lewis, and was knighted by Qneen Victoria about four or five years ago. He is one of the ablest lawyers in Sierra Leone and represents the interests of some of the wealthiest firms in England. Sir Samuel was recently offered by a firm in London £9,000 per annum to locate in that city and attend to its legal business, but he declined the offer, preferring to remain with his people in Sierra Leone, with whom he is a great favorite."

"The lord chief jnstice of Trinidad, W. I., Sir Conrad Reeves, is a Negro scholar and a cultured and refined gentleman, npon whom Queen Victoria some years ago conferred the order of knighthood. He is a K. G. As lord chief justice of Trinidad he wears the wig and flowing robes with lowly grace and diguity. For many years he was qneen's counsel. He is greatly esteemed for his urbanity, his learning, and his great ability as a lawyer. He is one of the most-polished and finished gentlemen at the English bar. His name is the synonym for probity and integrity. He is a man of great wealth."

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The Review of Reviews for August contains the editor's review of the month; a character sketch of Theodore Roosevelt, by Julian Ralph; sketches of the principal members of the third Salisbury cabinet, by W. T. Stead. Book reviews, etc., $2 50 per year; 25 cents a number.

R. H. Woodward Company, publishers, Baltimore, Md., will furnish a copy of the book "Forty Years in China," by Rev. R. H. Graves, D. D., at 40 cents, to any minister whose yearly income is less than $500. The regular price of the book is $1 50.

The most striking paper of general interest in the August Arena is Mrs. Helen H. Gardener's review of recent age-of consent legislation in New York, Arizona and Idaho, raising the age to eighteen. Mrs. Gardener bases demand for fuller protection to young girls upon the legal rights which are recognized in property and citizenship. A valuable paper that should set people thinking is the Hon. Walter Clark's brief review of the progress and development of the Telegraph Traffic in Great Britain, where the telegraph system is an integral part of the postoffice.

The Treasury of Religious Thought for August has outlines and synopses of sermons by Rev. Philip S. Henson, D. D., of Chicago; Rev. Louis A. Banks, D. D., and Rev. Mr. McG. Dana, D. D., and Rev. H. M. Gallaher, D. D., of Brooklyn, and others. Applied Christianity is represented by illustrated articles. Yearly subscription, $2 50; clergymen, $2. Single copies, 25 cents. E. B. Treat, publisher, 5 Cooper Union, New York.

A volume of Golden Days contains 892 pages of reading matter for young people, comprising serial stories, and is noted for its articles containing "Hints on How to do and Make Things;" also articles on electricity, natural history, and other scientific subjects, and over 200 short stories. Yearly, $3. Bound volumes, $4. James Elverson, publisher, Ninth and Spruce streets, Philadelphia.

—The first and fundamental thing that the home has to do for the child in the way of education is, then, to help make of him a little moral vertebrate, writes the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, D. D., in a vigorous article on "The Training of a Child," in the August Ladies' Home Journal. There needs to be developed an osseous shaft running up and down him that shall form the axis around which his growing personality shall gather itself in compactness and fixity. That will make the boy mean something, and make him mean more and more till the end of time, and clear on into eternity. It is the only thing that will make him worth calling a personal integer. To learn to obey is the hardest even as it is the most valuable lesson a child can ever acquire. It is not only valuable for what it is in itself, it is also valuable for what it serves as the basis of. One of the first things told us of Jesus has to do with this same matter. It is related to us that He was subject to His parents; and the narrative immediately goes on to remark that He grew in wisdom and in favor with God and men. The close juxtaposition of the two seems calculated to teach that obedience was the seed kernel out of which His intelligence and holiness waxed.

District Camp Meeting, Huntsville, Tex.

The district camp meeting will convene August 21-31. Let every pastor prepare a soul-stirring sermon for the meeting, and come prepared to get some one saved. Bring your tents and your flocks, with pigs, chickens, turkies, and all other eatables, and let's give the devil another round on the old camp ground. We will try to get reduced rates over the railroad. All preachers of other denominations, and their congregations, are invited to take a part with us. Let a special prayer go up every day for victory. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. J. H. Anderson, of Crockett. Come one, come all, and let's have souls converted to God, and get our ground fixed up in good shape. "Come Holy Spirit, heavenly dove with all thy quickening power."

The most perplexing question to not a few persons is the mode of baptism. One of the clearest and most convincing arguments ever read on the subject is "Sprinkling Christian Baptism," by Rev. J. C. Houston. It should be in the hands of every preacher, teacher, and official in the Church.

The heavy man, the man of large affairs, must necessarily have a respite from his hard work, and he seeks his rest by the seaside or in the mountains where he may, by chance, pick up this issue. If he reads this paragraph and counts under the head of large affairs his experience as a general advertiser, or his desire to become one, let him make an indelible mental note that one of the best advertising agencies is the Lyman D. Morse Advertising Agency, of New York City, successor to J. H. Bates and Bates & Morse, of long-honored fame. Its clientele proves this assertion, and its reputation has not been assailed or diminished, even by competition. It has kept pace with time. Its staff, in the departments of estimating, negotiating, placing and checking advertising in all its ramifications, is so thoroughly organized as to absolutely guarantee to an advertiser most competent and faithful service.

WATCH TOWER.

BY UNCLE THOMAS.

There are three places built and maintained by the States and communities, viz: The prison, asylum and poor house; one of which are most certain to be the final resort of the drunkard or some of his posterity. It's a shame that such is the truth of an enlightened people, and it would not be quite so bad if only the drunkard himself suffered the penalty. But it don't stop with himself. The dear wife, husband, children or parents are bereaved and suffering for want of food, raiment and attention, while the dear infant, who has never recognized its parent's face in a sensible condition, lies void of the necessary comforts of life. Sad it is to think of a mother, wife and children suffering on the account of a drunken son, husband or father. Boys, are you going to let this state of affairs go on in your day? Girls, are you going to remain silent while the land is polluted with such a sin and curse upon your brothers and kindred? It's with you to say whether it shall continue or not. The day of battle is at hand; the field is being opened up. But the greatest victories cannot be achieved until the boys and girls of to-day take the field and do active service. O, how your hearts should glow with intense anxioty for the work! What a grand work there is for you to do, and how the pages of history will shine with your illustrious deeds! Who will write the brightest page? Who will be the color bearer? Who will do the cannonading or marshaling the army? No one must be silent. They who do the grandest work will be awarded the greatest prize. Boys and girls, let's put down the liquor traffic; what do you say? I am going to beat up volunteers.

Birthday Reflections.

By REV. H. N BROWN, P. E., Marion, Ala.

Dear Editor: Thirty-seven years pass over me to day, and I am in a grateful mood for the past and present, and with joy anticipate the future. I opened my Bible this morning at random, when my eyes fell on these words: "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." Then I read about these words, for my little family as we were at devotion: "Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me," etc. When I had read the Scripture my thoughts turned again upon the promise: "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." We bowed in prayer and first of all rendered thanks for the unbroken Scriptures, and then for the way in which God had so kindly led me during these thirty-seven years. And then we turned upon the promise and began to ask for divine fullness and constant fellowship with the Holy Spirit, ever abiding in the vine—Christ. We closed with the Lord's prayer.

The promise would not loose me, but its roots seemed to pass into my very bones for firm footing. The Spirit seemed to say: "Ask, and for what will you ask?" I said: "I will not ask for riches, but first of all I ask for power with God and power with men, that I may turn men to Christ; not for my fame, but for His glory. And for the rest," said I, "I leave for Father to give after the manner of His will." The Holy Spirit approved the request, saying: "All these things shall be added unto you." Then came these words: "Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning!"

Simon, Called Peter.

By REV G. W. PATTON, Montgomery City, Mo.

From the beginning he was admitted to the highest privileges of discipleship. He witnessed the raising of the ruler's daughter, and also the transfiguration. He and John were sent to prepare the last Passover Supper, and in the garden of Gethsemane he watched, or attempted to watch, whilst the Savior prayed in agony. He was the great leader on the day of Pentecost. And through the ages, whenever glad hearts have melted over the loving name of Jesus, and obedient spirits have exalted the word of God, there Peter is known and honored.

He was a son of Jonas, a fisherman of Bethsaida, and lived in Capernaum. This name was given him by the Savior at their first interview (John 1, 42), probably on the account of his boldness and firmness of his character, he was greatly devoted to Jesus. He was the first to preach the Gospel openly to the Gentiles (Acts 15, 7, 14). He witnessed the night scene on the lake, with darkened clouds, foaming billows, violent winds, and anxious disciples, when Jesus come to them in the fourth watch of the night, walking on the sea; when they saw him they were afraid. But in a moment Simon had overcome his fears, and he was ready to step out in the water, to meet his Savior.

On the mount of transfiguration, when the glory of God filled the mountain, he could not be quiet. When the two men departed he exclaimed, "It is good for us to be here!" At the last Passover Supper he said, "Lord, thou shalt never wash my feet." The next moment he suffered it to be true, as did the other disciples. One day willing to die for Him and the next day he denied Him. Peter possessed real stability. His character was like the sea on which he once roamed—liable to be lashed on the surface, while its unmeasurable depth was undisturbed. Jesus told him he should be called a stone. This assertion was full of truth.

When all the rest, except John, failed to enter into the priest's palace to see the end, Peter was there; and his denial, on the occasion, is the saddest picture in all history to me. I have no objection to the way the Bible is written, for it is right, and good, and just. In my devotion of God, I have wished and felt, when every person in the world which he had come to redeem had forsook him, and only Peter stood in a distance, I have wished, when they said, "You are one of his disciples," that Peter had said, "I am one of his followers and will die with him." But Peter was a natural man and knew what it was to have courage desert him. But when they were about to crucify him, tradition tells us that he said, "I forsook him once, but I'll stay by him now." And they nailed him to the cross, with his head down, and it is said for hours he hung there and preached the Gospel of his crucified, risen and glorified Savior.

Crossing the Jordan.

(Joshua 3. 5-17.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

GOLDEN TEXT.—"When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee." (Isa. 43. 2.)

In this lesson we find the people of God guided by a new leader. When the time came for the exite of Moses, God told him to ascend Mount Nebo, to the top of Pisgah. There he would die and be gathered to his people. Before his departure the Lord showed to him all the land of Canaan. He departed this life "according to the word of the Lord," and was "buried in a valley in the land of Moab." He was "an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated." The children of Israel wept for him thirty days. The Lord talked with Joshua and promised to be with him when he led the people into the Holy Land. Two spies were sent out to learn all they could about Jericho. After three days they returned. The Israelites decamped and marched down to the Jordan. They did not come to the waters edge, but remained about a thousand yards away. The officers went through the camps and taught the people how to proceed. They were not to come near the ark, for it was the symbol of Divine presence, and the pilot to conduct them through the river.

1. The words of Joshua. (5, 6) a. To the people—"Sanctify yourselves." To sanctify is to set apart and dedicate to a holy purpose. It was likely similar to the command given by Moses before the law was pronounced from Mount Sinai. (Exod. 19. 10-14) "But besides this legal purification one can but think it is here intended they should dispose their minds by holy meditation and prayer to receive God's benefits and be more sensible of them when bestowed." We should separate ourselves from all other cares, and "cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of flesh and spirit." We should keep close to God all through life, but especially as we near the gate of the heavenly Canaan. Let us grow in favor with Him as we grow in years. b. To the priests—"Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people." The ministers of the Gospel should go before the hosts of God and lead them into the Holy Land. As the priests bore the ark of the covenant so they should bear the word of the Lord, the Gospel of the Christ, and the Ordinance of God's house. Ever point them the way that leads into the holy of holies.

2. The words of the Lord to Joshua (7, 8)—"This day will I begin to magnify thee in the sight of all Israel." God had before this put distinguished honors upon him, but now He would exalt him as the leader of the people. May the multitude stand by the man God "sets on high." We should stand by our ministers as Israel stood by Joshua, receive Jehovah's will from them, and cheerfully obey the same. Not all the Lord said to Joshua is given here. We see other facts recorded in his address to the people. The Bible only contains a part of what God has said to, and done for, the human family; "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son."

3. The address of Joshua to the people (9-13). a. "Come hither and hear the words of the Lord." Ministers are commanded to "preach the Gospel to every creature." The people are exhorted to come to the place appointed for worship to hear the Gospel—"Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together." When present all lightness, all worldliness, should be excluded, that we may give reverent attention to the preaching of the word of God. b. "He will, without fail, drive out from before you the Canaanites." If our cause is just, and our faith strong, God will give us victory over our enemies. We may not have those wicked tribes living among us, but we have principalities, and powers, and rulers of darkness, and spiritual wickedness in high places. We have the saloon, the gambling den, the brothel, and the race course. Therefore let us put on the whole armor of God, and make a united effort, to drive out in a legal way the enemies of our God. c. "Take ye twelve men out of the tribes of Israel." The duty of these men was to gather out of the bed of the Jordan twelve stones, carry them to Gilgal and pile them in a heap. The object of this was, that they might point to them, and teach their children how God divided the Jordan for their fathers to pass through. It has been said, if you desire to be remembered, build a monument, or dig a well, or plant a tree. But none will be held in everlasting remembrance save those who, by deeds of kindness, write their names in the heart of others, where the hand of time or eternity cannot erase it. We may erect monuments that call to mind the power, or goodness, of God; but we must not worship them. His written Word is a living visible monument of His mercy to us.

4. Crossing the Jordan (14–17). a. The River. Its name, Jordan, means "descender." It rises in the mountains of Hermon, flows south, and empties into the Dead Sea. Its length is about two hundred miles. It is very crooked, and full of rapids and cascades. It falls at the rate of sixty feet to the mile. It is not navigable by boats, and there are no cities of importance on its banks. It is fed by the melting snows of Hermon, and rises highest in the warm season of the year. Its water is very cold, save in the hottest part of the year. The time of this lesson is Barley harvest, and the Jordan is brim full. It was at the place, and on the time, when Israel crossed it, about one hundred yards wide. The people of God were camped in full view of the land of Canaan, so the spiritual Israel are tented with the heavenly world just before them: by faith they see the "better country." But at Israel's feet, and between them and the Promised Land, rolled the dark and turbulent Jordan; so at the feet of the spiritual Israel, and between them and the haven of rest, rolls the dark and angry stream of death. b. Dividing the River. The priests were the sons of Aaron. It was their chief duty to offer sacrifices. Now all the Lord's children are "kings and priests unto God," and may "offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable unto Him through Jesus Christ." The ark was made of wood and overlaid within and without with gold. It was about four feet long, two feet wide, and two feet deep. The Mercy-seat was the lid to the ark. It covered the top and every side of it down to the base. It was made of gold, and there was a rim of gold around the top of it. The cherubs stood at each end, with their wings extended and coming together at the top. It formed an arch and a kind of throne. Here on the mercy-seat, above the law, and beneath the wings of the cherubs, the Shekinah dwelt. In the ark was the two tables of the law, the pot of manna, and Aaron's rod that budded. The ark was a token of the visible presence of God. Christ is our mercy-seat. When the feet of the priests bearing the ark touched the water, the Jordan above them stood still, and the river below them flowed away. The priests then moved with the ark into the center of the stream and remained there till all the people passed over. Both Elijah and Elisha divided the Jordan after this. Some reasons for this miracle —1. To open a way for the Israelites to enter Canaan. 2. To teach them that God was with Joshua as He had been with Moses. 3. To fill the tribes that dwelt in Palestine with fear. 4. And to encourage the children of Israel. c. Crossing the river. The first ones to pass over the stream were the twelve men carrying the twelve memorial stones. Soon all the people followed. Then the priests bearing the ark came up out of the river and the Jordan began to flow onward as it had before. The forty years sojourn in the wilderness was over. All Israel, for the first time since the sons of Jacob went down into Egypt to buy corn, stood on the soil of the Promised Land. Christ, by His sufferings and resurrection, has divided the Jordan of death before His people. He has removed from death its sting, and from the grave its terror.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Notice.

To the members of Little Rock District Conference:

Dear Brethren—As the district conference will convene at Morrilton, Ark., August 22-25. I will ask you to send me the names of all delegates, so that I may arrange homes for them; and friends that may attend the conference, please drop me a card at once. Also will ask all to come prepared to stay over Sunday.

J. B. BROWN, P. E., Morrilton, Ark.

For the debilitating effects of August weather, nothing is so good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Notice.

To members of Marshall District, Texas Conference: Reduced rates have been secured over the T. & P. Railroad to the district conference at Mineola, Texas, August 23. Let every one secure a certificate, showing that he has paid full fare. This is very important.

J. O. WILLIAMS.

A False Diagnosis.

La Grippe is confounded by many persons with a severe attack of catarrh, which in some respects resembles the former. These individuals suffer severely with pain about the forehead, eyes and ears, with soreness in the throat and stoppage of the nasal passages, and in fact are incapacitated for work of any kind for days at a time. These are catarrhal sufferers. Ely's Cream Balm has been used with the best results in such cases. The remedy will give instant relief.

Huntsville District Conference.

The following is the program of the Huntsville District, Texas Annual Conference, to be held at Corrigan, Texas, Sept. 25:

To preach the opening sermon, G. S. Holm, assisted by H. Gillespie; Repentance, B. T. Williams; What is faith? H. Gillespie; Justification through faith, J. H. Anderson; Regeneration, E. Holliday; Holiness entire sanctification, C. G. Curtis and Dr. Morris; Witness of the Spirit, T. Scott; Love feast, H. Dickerson; Universal redemption, M. Q. A Fuller, G. W. White, A. C. Clark; Universal resurrection, S. M. Boldeu, Wm. Burl, W. W. Randle; Was Christ's baptism a type for baptism? E. Michaux, T. D. Bookman; Proper subjects of baptism, L. J. Hogan, P. A. Dismuke; Class meetings, C. M. Singleton, S. W. Matthews; The itinerant ministry, R. J. Campbell, S. S. Lundad; Why am I a Methodist? All of the exhorters; What relation has the Sunday school to the Church? All of the Sunday school superintendents; What relation has the Epworth League to the Church? For all the League presidents.

All pastors, local preachers, exhorters, Sunday school superintendents, Epworth League presidents, class leaders and delegates are members of the district conference, and should be there with their reports and papers on their subjects, and 50 cents each for the expenses of the conference.

Appeal to my beloved pastors: Please try and bring up all of your benevolences. Let us get on the one million, three hundred thousand dollar line, for we expect to have with us Dr. I. B. Scott, M. C. B. Mason, Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, Rev. O. I. Jones, S. S. agent; Rev. Wm. Bartley, P. E., Houston District, and others. I would say to our local preachers and exhorters, remember the rules you made: unless you take the SOUTHWESTERN, your license will not be renewed. My dear brethren, do not let this little thing stop you from preaching God's word.

Now get ready and be on time. Don't let the district come up behind.

From your humble servant,
A. C. CULBREATH, P. E.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—A reply to Dr. W. F. Smith, of Decatur, Ala., arrived in last week's mail, cannot be used, there being no signature.

—The First National Encampment of the Boys' Brigades in America, will be held at the Highland Park (near Chicago), Aug. 22 to 29 this year. An immense attendance is assured, and those companies who excel in religious and military drill will win deserved prizes. The event will be unique and historic in the religious movements of the day.

—The new Wesleyan Hall, erected by Wesley Chapel, this city, will be dedicated in September next. It is to be used jointly by the Epworth League, Stewardesses, King's Daughters and Wakefield Christian Club, Daughters of Jerusalem, and the Christian Temperance Association. Rev. T. J. Johnson and the members of Wesley deserve much credit for this valuable addition to the mother of New Orleans Methodism.

—Rev. A. J. Phillips, the efficient presiding elder of the Hot Springs District, Little Rock Conference, sent a list of 27 cash subscribers last week. Surely, the spirit of our Book Committeeman, Rev. W. R. R. Duncan, has fallen upon the Little Rock Conference, which is grandly coming to the front. We feel like grasping the hand of our energetic and able Brother Phillips, but will content ourself by praying that his tribe may increase. All hail, Little Rock, with its heroic band of conscientious and loyal Methodists!

—The death of Judge Jackson, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, a few days ago, recalls an interesting event in the history of American politics. It will be remembered that a vacancy on the Supreme bench having occurred during the closing days of the Harrison Administration, the President, departing to some extent from the usual precedents in such cases, nominated Judge Jackson, a Democrat, for that office. This act occasioned no little unfavorable criticism of President Harrison by members of his own political party. Judge Jackson was promptly confirmed, however. It will be seen, a little later, whether President Cleveland will follow the precedent established in Judge Jackson's case, or otherwise.

THE OUTBREAKS IN CHINA.

China is unhappy. Christian civilization is marching forward. It has opposed the effete and fossilized fallacy of Confucianism. The light advances and the darkness sullenly recedes. Hence the outrages on the Christian missionaries. The situation is critical! Yes, it will continue to be so wherever and whenever the vicious classes predominate, whether in China, in darkest London, or New York, Louisiana or South Carolina.

But assassins should be speedily suppressed, and governments should interfere and protect their citizens in all climes, and of all colors. It will be difficult, however, for the American missionaries to convince the almond-eyed followers of Confucius, that charity means what it really is with the legislation on our statute books against their brethren in this country. But we must carry the religion of Jesus Christ forward, through the splendid victories of the Gospel, and the sooner China recognizes this power, the better it will be for her teeming millions. The blood of these martyred missionaries is the seed of the new Church which will stand through all time for the triumph of Christian civilization.

THE HOOSIER DISTRICT.

The Lexington Conference is composed exclusively of colored members, and when first organized its boundary lines included only the State of Kentucky. Later along, it was deemed advisable to extend the work into adjoining States, and districts were organized in Ohio and Indiana. This district, which also includes the State of Illinois, covers the largest territory, perhaps, of any district in American Methodism. Fully a quarter of a million of Methodists reside in this territory. It is the province of this district to look after the colored members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in those States. Considerable progress has been made in gathering our people into the various churches, though at times, and perhaps all the time, it has been an "up hill business" to secure adequate church accommodations for the people. It seems rather anomalous to find struggling little churches, alongside of the stronger churches of our white brethren of the same faith and order, yet unfortunately divided for reasons which we need not give here. In very many instances, however, our people get substantial help from our white fellow Christians.

It has been, and is now, our contention that association with the white race is essential to the solution of the Negro problem. We point to the two districts of the Lexington Conference north of the Ohio river—the Ohio and Indiana Districts—as confirmatory to that fact. The brethren of these districts, coming in touch with some of the best types of religious, and social, and intellectual culture found among the Methodist clergy and laity of the territory covered by these districts, have been wonderfully helped. It is no disparagement to others to say that those who enjoy this touch are superior in many respects to those who had not had these advantages. The writer has a very keen appreciation of these advantages, having served nine years as a presiding elder in the States mentioned. We submit just here that the obliteration of the lines, which indicate the anomalous, and, to say the least, unbusiness-like relations which separate the work, would be a step which our heavenly Father would approve.

Under the present circumstances growing out of this strained relationship, there is necessarily a lack of those helpful influences which are so essential to the development of this important work. The Indiana District Conference, which assembled in the nearly finished church in "Bagdad," an important suburb of Terre Haute, last week, was an important gathering in every respect. Rev. Edward L. Gilliam, the accomplished and energetic presiding elder, called the meeting to order on the 7th. W. H. Riley was elected secretary, with Misses Poole and Barbee assistants. Reports from the presiding elder, pastors, local preachers, league presidents, and others connected with the conference, indicated hopeful progress. Dr. Joseph Courtney, presiding elder of the Lexington District; Rev. M. S. Johnson, presiding elder of the Ohio District; Mr. George L. Knox, proprietor of the Indianapolis Freeman; the Editor of this paper, and others, were among the visitors, and who also addressed the conference. The attendance was large, nearly every charge on the district being represented. The work was never in better condition, the organization being as near perfect as it can be under the circumstances. The people of Terre Haute, under the splendid leadership of Rev. Creed H. Taylor, the pastor, deserve credit for the way in which they entertained the conference. Of course, the SOUTHWESTERN is in high favor among the brethren, who are conscientiously, loyally and earnestly devoting their efforts toward increasing its circulation. We are glad to know that their energetic presiding elder takes the lead in this matter.

Perhaps the most important work of the district is the organization and development of our work at Chicago, Ill. The labors of the Rev. G. E. Curry, who was appointed at the recent session of our conference, has been very greatly blessed of God. In this work he has been ably assisted by Presiding Elder Gilliam, and the two have succeeded in getting the matter before our white Methodist brethren of Chicago, with most gratifying results. They have now a splendid start, an energetic and intelligent membership and a glorious promise.

The presence of the visiting brethren added no little to the interest of the meetings.

Touching this paper, Rev. R. T. W. James, of Princeton, Ind., offered the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, It is universally admissable that the religious press is the greatest power in the diffusion of evangelistic truth and general enlightenment of the people regarding the wonderful achievements of our great, ever growing and ever-expanding Church; and as the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE is forging its successful way to the forefront.

Resolved, That this District Conference will utilize its earnest and continued efforts to secure its wider circulation until it shall be a welcome visitant in every Christian home as a multiplying power from an intellectual, moral and spiritual stand point.

Resolved, That we have very greatly enjoyed the visit of the editor, and that we bid him God speed in his great work.

Rev. J. T. Leggett, the very energetic pastor at Watson, Indiana, gave an instance of the influence of the SOUTHWESTERN in promoting the temporal and spiritual interests of his church. It was a happy hit, and evoked hearty applause. George L. Knox, Esq., one of the most prominent laymen of the district, is the sole proprietor of the Indianapolis Freeman, an ably edited and successful journal and the only illustrated newspaper published by colored men in this country. Brother Knox made a happy and felicitous address in the interest of this paper, which was highly appreciated. "Governor Knox," as we heard him popularly called, is fully abreast of the times and is very popular with the "Hoosier" brethren.

We had the unexpected pleasure of hearing the annual sermon by Rev. T. R. Prentiss, one of the strong young men of the district. It was clear cut, logical and eloquent.

Our entertainment at the cosy residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ridgely was superb.

Reluctantly bidding adieu to these brethren, we turned our face Southward once more, being accompanied as far as Indianapolis by "Governor" Knox of the Freeman and by Dr. Joseph Courtney, who was our traveling companion as far as Lexington, Ky. The justly celebrated Queen and Crescent did the rest.

—Rev. R. E. Gillum, presiding elder in the Central Missouri Conference, always writes well, but he has never written better than in his timely article on "The Colored Ministry of the M. E. Church." His letter in this number is especially interesting, and deserves careful reading. Brother Gillum is one of our regular correspondents, and our readers may expect excellent work from his trenchant pen.

—Rev. Samuel G. Griffin, of the Washington Conference, and for several years an acceptable member of the Lexington Conference, passed away in great peace on the 4th of August, at Alexandria, Va. We will give an extended notice of the death of this good brother in our next number.

—Mrs. Matilda Watkins, one of the pioneers of the Church at Slaughter, La., passed to her reward June 30.

TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

—Tanceville, La., S. R. Hason: Our work improves and meetings good. Mrs. Hason, wife of Brother Fletcher Hasou, died in great peace recently.

—Pass Christian, Miss., O. H Flowers: Everything is moving along nicely.

—Meridian, Miss., A. J. McNair: Joseph Gilles, a prominent member and class leader in Haven charge, died in the full triumph of faith.

—Kingston, Tenn.: Reports show that the church is prospering. Rev. E. Knott is the pastor.

—Baird, Miss., grows in power and efficiency; all departments of the church organized and meetings good. Brother A. J. McAllister leads.

—Paulding, Miss., P. B. Anderson: Rev. A. M. Trotter, P. E., paid us a delightful visit and found matters in good shape.

—Enterprise, Miss., Rev. N. Toole: My second quarterly conference showed the work in good condition; 24 were received in full connection and one on probation; secured two subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN; raised for ministerial support $126 10, and for benevolent causes $22 25, making a total of $127 35 during the quarter. The cause is spiritually and financially alive.

—Hubertville, La., Rev. H. C. Wilson: We succeeded in putting a fence around all our church property and repaired our parsonage; all of which is paid for. The fence pickets were donated by one of our white friends of the church.

Our Tennessee Conference Letter

REV. J. BRADEN, D. D., President Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn.

I am behind in this short article as I intended it for last week's SOUTHWESTERN, but although vacation is here, I find my hands full. A president of a F. A. and S. E. Society with salary low at best—then 25 per cent off with increasing rather than diminishing expense, coal, kindling, repairs, cleaning, teacher, correspondence, and a thousand outside matters keeps me busy.

The two district conferences recently held, the Tennessee River and Cumberland River Districts, the former at Lawrenceburg and the latter at Gallatin, Tenn., were well attended and were well conducted. S. B. Dauley, presiding elder of the Tennessee River District, is full of hope for a good report at conference, both of financial advancement and spiritual growth. The collections are ahead of last year, and he has set his mark for one hundred subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN on his district by conference.

L. M. Moores, presiding elder of the Cumberland River District, is pushing the good work along the river and up in the mountains. He finds new fields to enter and encouragement to work them. The brethren had good reports, and the SOUTHWESTERN was not neglected. Both districts are looking after the interests of education. The common schools have warm friends in presiding elders, and the brethren are keeping a lookout for students for the college.

Dr. Georgia L. Patton delivered a most interesting and instructive address in Howard Chapel Congregational Church, Nashville, on the 12th inst. The house was crowded, and Dr. Patton gave a vivid description of her labors as a self supporting missionary for two years in Liberia. It is conceded to have been among the best lectures ever delivered here, on African life, climate, and customs of the people on the West Coast.

Mrs. Braden is slowly improving. She is spending the summer near Lebanon, Tenn.

Prof. Dogan proposes to travel for a few weeks in the interest of the Central Tennessee College Record, of which he is editor, and also of the different departments of the college.

Prof. Byrd will visit friends in Franklin, Tenn., and rest, as the summer school has closed, preparatory to resuming his work on Sept. 30.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

The Colored Ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

How They are Meeting Their Responsibility.

By Rev. R. E. GILLUM.

We tried in our former articles to show the peculiarity and magnitude of the work. While the condition of the colored people at the close of the war of the rebellion threw almost the entire work of the Church upon the pastor, we should not forget that his sole aim and object is to save the people through the preaching of the word. Everything else should be put under tribute to the accomplishment of this glorious end.

Paul exhorted Timothy, saying: 'Study to show thyself approved unto God; a workman that needeth not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." So every preacher should assiduously apply himself to study, so as to make a proper application of the truth to all classes of men. The Savior could attract and interest the multitudes, because he knew their environments and was able through sympathy and a proper presentation of the truth to draw them.

He did not depend upon teaching abstract principles, but he was able to illustrate so as to bring his ideas within reach of all.

The preaching of the gospel is not for the purpose of making an exhibition of the intellectual acquisitions of the preacher, and any attempt to do such a thing is an abuse of a holy call, but the more consecrated learning the preacher has the better.

There is another danger in laying too much stress on learning: Men are apt to be tempted to acquire an education in order to get a good place. This is selfishness, pure and simple, and should be condemned in the severest terms. The one great need of the hour is, a better ministry—not to fill the good places, but to make more good places. The time and labor which some waste in trying to procure a good appointment, if spent in the right direction, would make a good charge out of most any appointment in the Church. It is a source of satisfaction to any one interested in the progress of the race, to think of some of the grand men who adorn some of our pulpits, but it must be remembered that, as a rule, our preachers are not what might be desired and what we must have if the Church fills her great mission.

The inability of our Church officials to perform the functions of their office, has imposed such burdens upon the pastor to look after his support and the financial obligations of the church, as to preclude the possibility of his giving the attention which he should to the ministration of the word—in fact, some of our churches are beginning to look upon their minister as a financial agent of the Church rather than as a preacher. It is all right for him to be able to help the church by his counsel, but the Lord called him to preach.

This is a peculiar age; the public mind is unsettled; the Lord needs men of thought at the head of the church to steer her through the turbid waters. She needs men who feel they are under obligations to God and the people they serve, for the best possible results.

If the preacher has a right to look to the people for a support, they have a right to expect and demand of him the best service he is capable of rendering them. The time has come when we should put an end to that practice, so common among some of us, of wasting our time and then going before our congregations without preparation. The class of men who spend their time with secret societies, church fairs, railroad excursions and other things instead of their studies, should be relegated from our ranks at once.

A great many of our conferences are loaded down with unacceptable men. There is nothing against their character, but they have outlived their usefulness. They give the appointing power no little trouble to find places for them. We may transfer them to another conference, but it will not take more than year for the people to find that they cannot preach, and the good bishop is again called on to find congregations that will endure their nonsense. The feeling is abroad that the Church is cruel in its discrimination against old men. If this is so, may we not suspect that there is a cause for it? In almost every other calling merit alone entitles men to a place. The physician cannot claim patronage simply because he has a diploma, nor the attorney because he has been admitted to the bar; but they must depend upon their work to commend them. When a man is admitted into a conference in the Church he must have an appointment, and the people to whom he is sent must receive him. And as men are more liable to become careless after they gain a standing in the Church, hence the cry against old men. Our bishops are venerable with age, and yet their services are at a premium throughout the world. Men are not eligible to the higher offices of State until they are of mature age, and why should the ministry become unacceptable just at the time when men in other callings are most revered for their knowledge and usefulness?

If these unacceptable preachers would work as faithfully six days in the week as the clerk at his desk or the mechanic at his forge, the cry against old men would cease. If eternal vigilance is the price of our civil liberties, it is no less the price of a useful Methodist preacher.

AND THREATENED
WITH BALDNESS
The Danger is Averted by Using
AYER'S Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Neb.

Healing the Nobleman's Son.

Scripture Lesson: John 4:46 54.

Many months had passed since the miracle of turning water into wine had taken place. But they were not months of idleness. During that time the Master had been laboring in Jerusalem and throughout the regions of Judea. Many were the works of healing he had performed, and many were the hearts he had cheered by his sweet and gentle words of sympathy. It was during this tour of the province that he drove the money-changers out of the temple, "taught the woman at the well, and received into his kingdom the first fruits of the Gentile world. He now returns to Cana of Galilee to again bless and leave in his wake deeds of mercy and of love.

1. The Nobleman.—He was a man of great possessions and influence. He lived at Capernaum, distant some twenty miles from Cana. French says: "Either he is one of the king's party or a royalist, one of those that sided with the faction of the Herods, father and son, and helped to maintain them on the throne." But despite his position sickness entered into his home and the child of his affection and care seems likely to die.

2. Jesus.—The blessed Son of God "came again into Cana of Galilee, where he had made the water wine." He probably returned to see if there were any fruits of that wondrous miracle, and to make other hearts happy.

3. The Nobleman's Faith.—The great man was no doubt greatly troubled. His solicitude was painful. He had employed every means possible to restore his child to health. But his efforts were vain. Great was his sorrow of heart. He knows not what to do. It was at this point that he hears of Jesus, and resolves to go to him and have him heal his son. He no sooner resolves than he goes and beseeches Christ to go down and cure his son. But Christ reproves him, saying: "Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe." The nobleman but clings to him the more, saying: "Come down ere my child die." Thus he shows that he believed that Christ could cure his son.

4. The Result.—Because of the nobleman's importunities Christ said: "Go thy way; thy son liveth" And the man believed the word Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way. He stopped not to inquire when nor how the cure would be effected, but believed the word of Jesus and then acted. He returned home and found his son restored to health. The result that he and his house believed. This was "the first whole household brought into the Christain fold."

A Parable of Contentment.

A violet shed its modest beauties at the turfy foot of an old oak. It lived there many days during the kind summer in obscurity. The winds and the rains came and fell, but they did not hurt the violet. Storms often crashed among the boughs of the oak. And one day said the oak, "Are you not ashamed of yourself when when you look up at me, you little thing down there, when you see how large I am and how small you are; when you see how small a space you fill, and how widely my branches are spread?" "No," said the violet, "we are both where God has placed us; and God has given us both something. He has given to you strength, to me sweetness; and I offer him back my fragrance, and I am thankful." "Sweetness is all nonsense," said the oak; "a few days—a month at most—where and what will you be? You will die, and the place of your grave will not lift the ground higher by a blade of grass. I hope to stand sometime—ages, perhaps—and then when I am cut down, I shall be a ship to bear men over the sea, or a coffin to hold the dust of a prince. What is your lot to mine?" "But," cheerfully breathed the violet back, "we are both what God made us, and we are both where he placed us. I suppose I shall die soon. I hope to die fragrantly, as I have lived fragrantly. You must be cut down at last; it does not matter, that I see, a few days or a few ages, my littleness, or your largeness, it come to the same thing at last. We are what God made us. We are where God placed us. God gave you strength; God gave me sweetness" Be contented with your lot."—Selected.

Epworth League Flashes.

By Miss Sallie L Parker, Pewee Valley, Ky.

Is the Epworth League beneficial to the old people, and, if so, why?

We all know that this grand organization was organized for the benefit of our young people But does the League benefit the old people? Without hesitating, the answer comes at once—yes, of course it does. And how? Since we need to use every exertion that we can to bring our young people into God's beautiful church, we have organized the Epworth League, and that carries on any kind of work that the Church needs. We know that the Leagues are of great benefit to the old people. There is a wonderful good to be derived from the League. We are trying to lift up our young people from a fallen ruin. While we are lifting up young people, should not we too lift up old people and let them help us lift up other people, both old and young.

A part of the League work is the study of God's Holy Word. We have our spiritual meetings, such as prayer meetings, revivals, etc. Are such meetings a benefit to the old people? yes; many souls are brought to Christ through the Epworth Leage, which helps to support the ministry and thus helps the old people.

Let us help the old people to consider themselves a part of the League. There is still an open field, which for the life of the coming church, needs to be cultivated. Yes, it would be a benefit to our old people to have their girls and boys cultivated for heaven. While we say that the Epworth League was organized for the benefit of the young people, the old people organized it and have ever since helped to carry it out.

The Late Frederick Douglass.

In Vindication of His Honored Name.

A document which appeared last March, accompanied by a letter from Lady Henry Somerset, in the London and Provincial Press, and in the organ of the British Women's Temperance Association, in vindication of the attitude of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of America and of Miss Willard toward the colored people, has just been reprinted by Lady Henry Somerset. It was signed by the Hon. Frederick Douglass, William Lloyd Garrison, Francis J. Garrison, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Julia Ward Howe, Ednah Cheney, Joseph Cook, Lyman Abbott, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps-Ward, Herbert D. Ward, Bishop H. M. Turner (Atlanta, Georgia).

Amongst other things, it states that the National Union of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of America had put itself "squarely on record" against lynching. On the first appearance of the document, I replied through the Press, that a strong resolution had been carried at the Chicago convention in 1893, denunciatory of "the lynchings, burnings and torturing of our fellow-citizens, and pleading that no one, however guilty, be deprived of life or liberty without due process of law; but that a similar resolution, introduced by Mrs. Fessenden, at the Cleveland convention last autumn (1894), had been withdrawn "by motion," and the following apology for lynchings under certain conditions had been substituted and carried: "That the National W. C. T. U., which has for years counted amongst its departments, those of peace and arbitration, is utterly opposed to all lawless acts in any and all parts of our common land; and it urges these principles upon the public, praying that the time may speedily come when no human being shall be condemned without due process of law, and then added (the italics are mine), and when the unspeakable outrages which have so often provoked such lawlessness shall be banished from the world, and childhood, maidenhood and womanhood shall no more be the victims of atrocities worse than death."

In commenting thereon, I suggested that if Christian women can apologize for injustice in any form or shape, little wonder that rough men bound down their fellows to death. Recognizing, too, in the signatories of the document, the honored names of some of the most loyal anti-lynching supporters, I stated my belief that in drawing it up, they had been cognizant only of the admirable resolution of 1893, and had failed to note the one of 1894, which had largely neutralized the previous "square record."

I sent a copy of this to Mr. William Lloyd Garrison; and in his reply, just received, dated Boston, May 28, 1895, he says:

"I have delayed my reply to your letter of May 7, that I might confer with other signers of the statement, regarding the attitude of Miss Willard and the W. C. T. U. on the question of lynching in Southern States. Our signatures were given in the belief that the facts were fully and accurately stated, and because of our long acquaintance and faith in Miss Willard, with whom it is impossible to associate any race prejudice or approval of the lynching horrors. The paper was not prepared by the signers, but submitted to them for endorsement, some slight changes suggested by my brother, Francis J. Garrison, and myself being made and accepted before we affixed our names.

"At that time, I was ignorant of the Cleveland resolution, and I presume the same is true of the other signers. I read it for the first time when submitted to me by you without an indication of its origin.

"Its animus was plain—as I wrote you—and it was evidently prepared by an apologist of Southern outrages. Nor was my opinion altered when its source was revealed. It was to the credit of Miss Willard that her vote in the convention was recorded against it."

In a postscript he adds:

"Mrs. Ednah D. Cheney and Mr. Francis J. Garrison, to whom I have read this letter, concur in the sentiments expressed."

If those who assisted in the final preparation and initial signatures of the vindication of the Women's Christian Temperance Union were in ignorance of the Cleveland apology, it is, as Mr. Garrison says, presumable that all the other signers were equally in the dark.

The last pamphlet of Mr. Douglass—written in his seventy-ninth year—and almost his last utterance, was in denunciation of lynching under any and every condition.

It has been a cause of deep concern to many of his white, as well as of his colored friends, to discover that almost the last stroke of his pen should apparently belie his long life's struggle for justice on behalf of his race, by signing a document in defense of those whose resolution is now described by at least three of the surviving signatories "as evidently prepared by an apologist of Southern outrages."

Mr. Douglass is no more! It is due to his honored memory that this misconception should be removed.

AN EDITORIAL WITH A SOUL IN IT.

We must give Brother Davidson, the able and cultured editor of the New Orleans Tribune, the credit for speaking right out in meeting, and to the point as well. No one will doubt that he has the interests of his race at heart if they read the spicy and newsy journal which he edits. In a recent issue he deals with those miserable obstructionists to our social and moral progress, the getters-up of excursions for colored people, with characteristic energy. But we have the Hubbes and the Jackes in almost every community, and, unfortunately too, many people ready to fall into line at the simplest bray of this class of leaders. Many of our people are fearfully weak in this respect, and are thus easy victims to those sharks who fatten upon their credulity. And so with the conscienceless preachers and others on one side, and the grand meetings of innumerable and unnecessary societies on the other, the poor colored people are fleeced of their hard earnings, and, in too many instances, of their moral character.

We clip the Tribune's excellent article entire, and endorse every word of it:

"STILL ANOTHER

"Rev. A. Hubbs brought in a long train of cars filled with excursionists from San Antonio; and another, by Mr. Jack, brought in a long train load from Galveston, Texas, last Thursday. Those brought in by Rev. Hubbs came by way of the Texas and Pacific Railroad, and those by Mr. Jack via the Southern Pacific. Rev. Hubbs' excursionists paid $4 50 for the round trip, and Mr. Jacks' $5 50. The excursion train reached this city after 12 o'clock at night and was dumped on the river front at the depot. When, oh, when will our leading preachers and others learn and see that they are sowing the seed of immorality and will doubtless reap the fruit of immoral corruption? Think of some 1000 or 1200 strangers being brought to a city like this and dumped out on the streets at the unusual hour of 1 o'clock in the morning, to seek and scramble for a lodging place as best they could! Husbands, how long will you allow your wives to patronize these railroad excursions under such circumstances? Mothers and fathers, how long will you allow your daughters to be thus beguiled and deceived? Christain churches, how long will you retain men as your pastors who affiliate in these abominations to the disgrace and financial destruction of the masses of our poor, deluded people? See how our followmen are being daily shot down, stabbed or lynched by white men for almost any kind of an imagination. See how our fellowmen are being daily lynched by the bloody hands of white men who are not even arrested in ninety-five cases out of every 100, and even those who are arrested are released on straw bond and acquitted by white jurors. In the face of these startling facts will our churches and preachers continue to encourage railroad excursions? Brethren and friends, is it not by far better to teach and instruct your people to save their scanty earnings and organize and foster and maintain business institutions, and thereby give employment to our worthy young graduates? Brethren, can a people prosper very fast who live generally in excess of their scanty earnings? Brethren, we must down every evil, even though our friends fall."

A SPLENDID EXAMPLE.

The Ministerial Union of Charlotte, N. C., is undoubtedly composed of a class of ministers who have the interests of the race at heart. The recent action taken, with reference to a so-called camp meeting to be held by irresponsible persons for money only, will serve as an inspiration to other ministerial unions elsewhere, where the camp meeting nuisance has become almost intolerable. We believe in camp meetings that are camp meetings, but are opposed to those gatherings which are gotten up by people without any moral scruples, and where the Sabbath is desecrated by the running of excursion trains, where there is buying and selling of all sorts of confectionaries, including tobacco and cigars, and often intoxicating liquors. Our pastors must set their faces like flint against these gatherings, which are sapping the very foundation of the race's morality and virtue. The preacher or layman who encourages these questionable meetings should be outlawed at once, as dangerous to the Church, to society, and to the race. The Charlotte Ministerial Union, in denouncing the proposed camp meeting, says:

"1st.—There is no plausible reason for leaving the city churches to go to Latta Park to spend money and engage in merchandise and on a pretense to glorify God and to save the souls of men, women and children.

"2nd.—It is believed by the Union that the object of the camp meeting to be held at Latta Park is exclusively for the love and gain of money, and not for the glory of God.

"3rd.—It is a better opportunity to do evil than to do good.

"4th.—The Ministerial Union, composed of all the colored ministers of Charlotte, has never authorized or sanctioned the holding of a camp meeting at Latta Park, as mentioned in the published circulars.

"5th.—The object of the Ministerial Union is to lift the people up to a higher standard of Christian ethics, and to encourage intelligence, morality, education and religion, and not to present opportunities for gambling, drunkenness and immorality.

"Signed: Revs. C. I. Withrow, pastor M. E. Church; R. H. Simmons, pastor Clinton Chapel; A. Shepherd, pastor First Baptist Church; C. L. Davis, pastor Ebenezer Baptist Church; P. P. Alston, pastor St. Michael's Episcopal; C. H. Williamson, pastor Friendship Baptist Church; R. B. Bruce, pastor Grace Church; D. E. Bess, pastor A. M. E. Z. Church; R. D. Davis, pastor A. M. E. Z. Church, Biddleville; J. A. House, pastor A. M. E. Zion Church; Monroe Hart, of Biddleville."

AN EXPLANATION.

We respectfully call the attention of presiding elders, pastors, secretaries of Epworth Leagues, district and quarterly conferences to the following:

For more than two months we have been trying to get through with an unusually long list of conference, league and institute programs. Many of these meetings have been held, and even now we are completely deluged with lengthy, and in many instances monotonous reports, which appear sensible only to the writers. We have a pile of these reports already on hand, and notwithstanding the fact that we are publishing many of them each week, we will not be able to reach some of them for the next three or four weeks. We are in a dilemma. Some of the writers have already complained that we discriminate against them. Of course, this is absurd; but they make threats that if this, and that, and the other thing is not published, it will retard the circulation of the paper in the communities in which the writers live. Of course, the writers generally have no conception of the amount of space we have for such matter, and they insist on writing long and labored articles with the request that "nothing be left out," or that the "article be published exactly as written," with a mild suggestion or a subtle threat. Now, in justice to ourselves, and to a large number of appreciative readers, we must call a halt. From this date, all persons sending matter for publication in these columns must condense their matter to the utmost possible limit. This will include quarterly conference notices, programs of every sort, reports of quarterly, district or Epworth League meetings, Sunday School institutes, etc., together with all other contributed matter. If this is done, there will be less delay in publishing matter sent in, while our increasing labors will be very materially lessened. Letters written on both sides of the paper, or those without signatures, will absolutely go to the waste basket. All matter intended for publication must be directed to the Editor. Money and other correspondence relating to advertisements or subscription must be sent to Hunt & Eaton, the publishers, at 631 Poydras street (new number), New Orleans, La. Once more we would remind all our correspondents that our business manager here, Mr. C. C. Morse, has sole charge of the subscription books; is authorized by the agents to receive and disburse all monies for subscriptions, advertisements, and to look after the business interests of the paper. A letter addressed to Messrs. Hunt & Eaton, or to Mr. C. C. Morse, on the subjects indicated, will always receive prompt attention. But all matter pertaining to the editorial or literary department of the paper, in order to receive prompt attention, must be addressed to the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 631 Poydras street, New Orleans, La. Letters intended only for the Editor should be marked "Private."

Finally, our correspondents should possess a very liberal quantity of that most excellent Christian grace popularly called patience. We always have on hand much more matter than we can use in any one or two weeks. All communications are marked on the day of reception, and take their place accordingly. If communications fail to appear as early as expected and desired by writers, it is because others of equal importance are before them. We are satisfied that all who desire to see the SOUTHWESTERN succeed will cheerfully acquiesce in the foregoing suggestions, and so govern themselves.

LOSS OF A S. S. PUBLISHING HOUSE.

We are profoundly sorry to hear of the great loss sustained by the African M. E. Church, in the destruction, by fire, of their magnificent publishing house at Nashville, Tenn., on the night of July 28, 1895. The loss of this great institution is a public calamity. It was a magnificent monument of the energy, pluck and ability of Dr. C. S. Smith, general secretary of the A. M. E. Sunday School Union, together with the faithful men and women of that Church, who stood by the doctor until the great enterprise was an established fact. The loss was considerable, and touches very deeply the hearts of Afro-Americans everywhere. The following letter from Dr. Smith will be read with interest:

"STATEMENT OF THE INSURANCE AND LOSSES of the A. M. E. Church Sunday School Union property, which was partially destroyed by fire, Sunday night, July 28, 1895:

"Insurance on the building, $9,000; on furniture and fixtures, $1679 55; on printing machinery and material, $4569 03; on household furniture, $500; on boiler and engine, $671 85. Total, $20,600.

"Estimated damage to the building, $1,955; to stock, $2,307 12; to furniture and fixtures, $2,068; to printing machinery and material, $8,000; to household furniture, $200; to boiler and engine, $85; total damage, $14,615 12.

"Total amount of insurance recovered to date, $4,193 32; amount yet to be adjusted, $7,420 43. Should we gain the $7,420 43 in full, our net loss will be about $5,000, chiefly on printing machinery and material.

AND THEY SAID UNTO ME, WRITE!

It is with feelings of gratitude to the giver of every perfect gift, that we are reminded more and more that "one touch of nature makes all the world akin." We take our pen to record an event of no small significance, probably not so much to the casual reader, but of very much to the writer of these lines. In "ye olden times, ye country editor" was occasionally remembered by some prosperous member of his reading constituency, with a barrel of apples, a few heads of cabbage, a dozen chickens, or other products of the farm; and this not always in payment for a year's subscription to the "Podunk Screecher," but in recognition of the worth of the editor, as a neighbor, as a man, and as a citizen. But those days have passed away, and with them many of the little amenities which go to soften the flowery beds in which some editors are permitted to lie. Fortunately, however, notwithstanding these busy, bristling times, the modern editor is sometimes compensated by the reflection that he is not forgotten. It is with just such reflections and emotions that this Editor takes the great pen, never before dipped in ink, to tell his reading constituency that he is the recipient of a most beautiful pen and holder, one of the Eagle Company's best and largest. Accompanying the pen and holder was a beautiful silk marker with the inscription:

"To Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D., with compliments of Natchitoches District Conference, Bedford, La., August 14, 1895.

"REV. H. J. WRIGHT, P. E.
"REV. A. MCGLOCKLIN, P. C."

And so with gratitude to the generous donors we will write more. But for the present we will lay aside the big pen.

Be Trustworthy.

Because a man keeps up a show of good appearance in his business it in no way determines that he is worthy of unlimited credit. Many make a very fine appearance who are very dilatory in the matter of meeting their obligations at maturity.

It is astonishing how soon it becomes known to the general trade what a man's commercial standing or commercial reputation is. Often there are agencies at work advertising a man in ways he does not dream of. A man who makes it a point of honor to always keep his word, who is understood to be prompt and reliable, will experience little difficulty in obtaining credit whenever he finds it necessary to ask for it.—Beacon Light.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

—Rev. W. M. Davis preached acceptably to a large congregation at the First Street Church on Sunday night last.

—Rev. W. R. Butler, the big pastor of First Street Church, is visiting in Baton Rouge, La., helping Brother Tirault of our church there. He will visit Mrs Butler and daughter, who are also summering in North Louisiana.

—Rev. Stephen Priestley, the energetic and capable pastor of Mallalieu, holds the helm well in hand, and keeps everybody at work around him. He is a SOUTHWESTERNER from "way back."

Last Sunday was a special rally day for the tower and bell, and $48 was the amount collected. The church is in a splendid condition, and Sunday school alive.

The North New Orleans District Conference, which convened recently at Algiers, La., took high grounds in favor of the SOUTHWESTERN. Our correspondent, Rev. D. J. Price, informs us that the SOUTHWESTERN formed a chord of remembrance during the entire session. We regret very much that we were not permitted to visit this important meeting. Dr. Albert, the efficient presiding elder, and his heroic brethren, have our prayers and co-operation in helping along the good cause.

—Old Wesley leads grandly as the mother of New Orleans Methodism. Here we have the nucleus of the institutional church. The big-hearted and progressive pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, believes in organization and hence he has the Epworth League, King's Daughters, Stewardesses, Christian Temperance Union and Daughters of Jerusalem well organized and doing excellent work. It is a pleasure to worship at Wesley, especially on Sunday mornings. The evening congregations fill the house. The choir is an excellent feature, the music being well selected and skillfully rendered. Mrs. Crayton presides at the organ with ease, grace and skill. We greatly enjoyed the privilege of preaching to the congregation on Sunday morning last.

The preachers' meeting last week was largely attended and unusually interesting. Rev. Frank Walker, of Thompson Chapel, gave an interesting and critical resume of the Sunday School lesson. Several brief remarks were made by other brethren. Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., assistant corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, being present, was invited to address the meeting, which he did in a most edifying manner.

Dr. Mason has mastered the details of his great work, is in full sympathy with every phase of it, and keeps so saturated with the spirit of his mission, that it is an easy task for him to carry the multitudes by his persuasive eloquence. His good words in favor of the SOUTHWESTERN were timely and appreciated.

The brethren of the North New Orleans District, desiring to show their appreciation of the services of Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., the able and efficient presiding elder, presented him with a suit of clothes. Rev. T. G. Montgomery, the president of the meeting, made a neat presentation speech, which was responded to by Dr. Albert in his usual felicitous manner.

In Memoriam.

SCHRIEVER, La., July 5, 1895.

Miss Nannie Lula Elizabeth Proctor, daughter of Rev. A. J. and Mrs. Fanny Proctor, died at the parsonage at Schriever, La., this morning at 1:15. She was born at Bandon, Miss., March 14, 1876; converted and joined the A. M. E. Church at Memphis, Tenn., three years ago, and has lived a consistent Christian up to the day of her death. She came to New Orleans very recently, visiting relatives, also in pursuit of health which had began to fail. Her father being one of the active ministers of the Louisiana Conference, had it bearing. She therefore concluded on her own free will and accord to join the M. E. Church. While in the city she joined Wesley Chapel, under the pastorate of Rev. T. J. Johnson, on the 21st day of June. Soon thereafter pulmonary consumption set in. She sent for her father, who hastened to see her. On bringing her to Schriever, thinking that she would improve, to his sad surprise she continued to decline until the messenger came to her rescue. She was hopeful, bold and courageous to the last. Many consoling words were spoken to relatives and friends. She freely expressed her readiness and willingness to answer the Master's call. At the hour and time above stated she passed peacefully away to join her dear mother who preceded her.

Asleep in Jesus, far from thee,
Thy kindred and their grave may be;
But thine is still a blessed sleep,
From which none ever wakes to weep.

The funeral sermon was ably preached by Rev. Thos. McCary of Thibodeaux, La. Rev. J. W. Smith of Beattieville and Presiding Elder P. Landry assisted in the ceremony.

The following resolution comes from the second quarterly conference, in session July 6, 1895:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in his wise providence to take out of this world the soul of the nineteen year-old daughter of our beloved pastor, Miss Nannie Lula Elizabeth Proctor, who died in full triumph of living faith at Schriever, La., on July 5, of pulmonary consumption.

Resolved, That we do hereby, for ourselves and the community here represented in the second quarterly conference at Magnolia M. E. Church, express our deepest sympathy for our pastor, Rev. A. J. Proctor, and his family, in this hour of their great distress; and pray for them the sustaining power of the Holy Ghost.

B. J. JACKSON, LUSHER HILL,
AARON ROBERTSON.

Elder P. Landry presided.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

"Home."

By H. FORREST, Clinton, La.

The strength of a home is not based on numbers, it is not based on the physical powers of its inmates; but rather rests upon a basis of character and influence. That home from which emerge beings of thought and culture is a source of light, a source of power by which the world moves on to greater and grander developments. It is the creator of a grander age in which our present imperfections—like the mortality with which we are clothed—will be changed for nobler things. Such sources have created and overthrown revolutions, through which have been ushered man's greatest liberties. Such sources will add splendor to generations yet unborn, and eliminate many predominating evils that now darken our pathway. The cabs of home should be strengthened since they swing the mighty ship of government over political seas; in which lie concealed, financial sandbars, national shoals, and diplomatic whirlpools. These can only be properly controlled, by a proper relation between the home and its powers for good or evil, being thoroughly understood. Principles make men, they direct the affairs of nations, and hence from the home, where early impressions are received, the course of individual actions—which determine those of governments—are marked.

Train aright the boy and girl, and you shut off "wars and rumors of war." You shut off the growing tendencies to anarchy and ruin. Train the child, and you fix the destiny of the nation. Training the products of the family, like directing the course of a vine, will soon have the bleak and barren agencies covered with verdant hues, and lending a helping hand in driving back oppression. It will soon cause an overflowing of those institutions that now suffer for true armor-bearers. The school, must then be enlarged, the army of truants who now grow up in ignorance, will then enter her portals and by the influence of knowledge, foster the interest of the cause of virtue, instead of vice. The home and school, co-operating as an agency of progress, forms a destructive force which, in its march—like the sweeping hurricanes—sweep aside strong fortresses of evil. May this force increase in power, until it levels down vice and crime, and forms an invincible warrior, scoring innumerable victories for God and man. Until right prevails, and peace declares that war is ended; that "swords shall be beaten into ploughshares, and spears into pruning hooks;" and that a blessed period of rest and contentment will encamp, where once the surging billows of contention, broke the quiet and enjoyment of the great theater of life. Then as we enjoy "the stillness of the mighty battle-field, upon which the din and clash of arms" has ceased, we can exclaim in Shelley's beautiful words:

"They knew that never joy illumed my brow,
Unlinked with hope that thou wouldst free
This world from its dark slavery,
That thou, O awful loneliness,
Wouldst give what e'er these words can not express."

The best is what you want when you are in need of a medicine. That is why you should insist upon Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The Medical School of the New Orleans University, 1566 Canal street, New Orleans, La., will begin its seventh year's work on September 16, under very favorable outlook. It is to be supplied with new apparatus. Its course of study has been lengthened, and is recognized by the leading schools of America. It admits men and women students of all races, and the indications are its attendance will be larger this year than ever before.

Proceedings

North New Orleans District Conference.

Wednesday, August 7, at 9 a. m., Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., opened the conference at St. Matthew M. E. Church, Algiers, La., by reading an appropriate Scripture lesson, singing hymn "And are we yet alive," and praying; after which he made suitable remarks on the great work to which we are called. The roll was called and forty-six answered. D. J. Price was elected secretary by a viva voce vote, with F. B. Smith and Mary E. Dickerson assistants; E. H. Clarke, statistical secretary, with A. A. Lacy and L. V. Gant assistants; T. J. Johnson, treasurer; A. Claude an A. J. Ford, reporters.

The usual committees were appointed.

The SOUTHWESTERN was the subject of discussion for the greater part of the day, and formed a cord of remembrance through the entire session. No exhorter or local preacher's license would be renewed unless they subscribed and paid for it.

Rev. A. J. Ford preached the introductory sermon; D. G. Butler, the missionary sermon, and T. J. Johnson, the annual sermon.

S. Priestley, of South New Orleans District, and F. T. Chinn, presiding elder of the Monroe District, preached acceptable sermons; as did N. Kyles, J. C. Perkins, F. Castry, P. J. Shepard, R. L. Watson, B. Bolden, E. Baptisto, F. Harvey, J. M. Bryant, D. G. Taylor, N. Burton, A. Martin and E. H. Clark.

Twenty district stewards reported over $300 paid the presiding elder; over $5000 raised for all purposes. Eighty local preachers reported and had their licenses renewed—except two, and thirty exhorters also. Granted licenses to four exhorters to preach, and recommended Felix Castry for the traveling connection. Nineteen pastors were present. Revs. J. H. Craig, H. T. O. Abbott, S. Davage, E. P. Harris, H. C. Armston, A. Hilton and A. Cornerly were absent.

The following were introdnced to the conference: Mmes. Albert, Walker, Butler, Taylor, Price, Chinn, Brown, Williams; Brother Jones, of South New Orleans District; Prof. Henderson, of Leland University; Rev. F. James, of St. John A. M. E. Church; Rev. John H. Fleming, moderator of first District Association and Good Hope Second B. C.; S. Priestley, of South New Orleans District; C. Monroe and F. T. Chinn, of Monroe District; Dr. M. C. B. Mason, assistant secretary of Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society.

The last five named addressed the conference. Dr. Mason made our hearts burn as he spoke to us. Truly he is at home on the rostrum. When pleading for Christian education, he said that the SOUTHWESTERN was one of the teachers which we could not afford to do without, regardless as to who is editor. A vote of thanks was tendered all who spoke.

Resolutions of thanks to the presiding elder, secretaries, papers, and St. Matthew and other churches, for entertaining the district conference.

The conference was largely attended every day, and was said to be one of the best sessions. Epworth League, Sunday School and Woman's H. M. Society conventions were held; as also the district stewards' meeting, Sunday society meetings, and anniversaries of the same held at our churches.

Christening banners by ministers and members at the head, and the Sabbath desecration institutions, were warmly discussed and denounced. Revs. J. H. Fleming, B. C. and F. James, of the A. M. E. Church, took part in the discussion.

Revs. T. J. Johnson, F. T. Chinn and Geo. A. Ricks spoke on the Epworth League. P. B. Wheeler, St. Charles, H. H. Hall, F. Hunt and A. Claude spoke on the Sunday School. Sister Marshall, district manager on W. H. M. Society, was a welcome visitor.

The St. Matthew and Wesley Chapel choirs furnished sweet music all through the conference session, for which many thanks were given them.

Fraternal greetings from South New Orleans and Baton Rouge District Conferences were received and reciprocated. Adjourned sine die to meet at Thompson Chapel next year. D. J. PRICE, Sec'y.

The Simpson Monument.

This worthy enterprise was inspired and undertaken by the late Solomon Thatcher, Jr., of Chicago. His enthusiasm and push gave promise of a speedy success. But as all know his sudden death intervened, and the enterprise has been delayed. It was a part of the brother's plan, thoroughly approved by Mrs. Bishop Simpson and the Monument Association to give a bronze medal, having on one side the loved and well remembered face of the bishop, and a quotation from him on the other, to each person giving one dollar toward the monument.

Arrangements have been completed to carry out this program. The medals have been made of the best bronze and in exquisite workmanship, and are ready to be delivered to all who have paid or will pay the one dollar for the monument. Rev. Watson Thatcher has been induced to take up this part of his brother's work on the same terms, viz: for the love he bears for the great bishop.

The association is happy to state that this brother has undertaken this work of love. His address is: Rev. Watson Thatcher, 787 Walnut street, Chicago, Ill. Any person desiring information on this subject can write to him. It must be good for our people and nation to have our youth familiar with the face and form of such patriots and preachers as Bishop Simpson. Always sincerely,

CATARRH

Ely's Cream Balm For

THE POSITIVE CURE.

ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St., New Orleans.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Fall of Jericho.

(Joshua 6. 8-20.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

LESSON IX.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days." Heb. 11. 30.)

When the children of Israel crossed the Jordan they journeyed west to Gilgal, near to Jericho. There the twelve stones taken out of the bed of the river were cast into a heap as a memorial of the wonderful power of God. With us the power of God is more clearly seen in the salvation of the soul. There they re established circumcision. This religious rite had been neglected while they wandered in the wilderness. Our heart must be circumcised with a circumcision made without hands before we can enter the heavenly Canaan. There they ate the first Passover eaten in the Holy Land. This was just forty years after it had been instituted in Egypt. Christ is the bread of life to us. These were the sacraments of the Old Testament Church. Baptism and the Lord's Supper have taken their place in the Church of the New Testament. There the manna ceased to fall, and the people did eat of "the old corn," and "of the fruit" of the land. Christ is "that bread that came down from heaven." He is the true manna of the soul. By the walls of Jericho there stood a man with a drawn sword in his hand. This man was "Captain of the host of the Lord." This Prince was likely the Angel of the Covenant, the God-man, the Christ. He appeared to Abraham just after circumcision had been established in his family, and to Joshua soon after the children of Israel had been circumcised. He told Joshua how to proceed in order that Jericho might be taken. He told Abraham his intention to destroy the cities of the plain.

1. Jericho, the city of palm trees, was located in the Jordan valley. At the time of our lesson it had a King and many inhabitants. Its walls were great, for houses were built on them. It had considerable wealth, for much gold and silver were saved from it by the Israelites. It is first mentioned in connection with Joshua sending out the spies. It was destroyed by him. "Its men and women, old and young, and its oxen, sheep and asses, were put to the sword. The city was burned with fire, and its buildings razed to the ground. Its gold and silver, and vessels of brass and iron, were placed in the sacred treasury. Joshua pronounced a solemn curse on the man who should rebuild it." It was rebuilt, five hundred years later, by Hiel the Bethelite. "He laid the foundation thereof with the loss of Abiram, his firstborn, and set up the gates thereof with the loss of his youngest son, Segub" (1. Kings 16. 34). It is generally believed that all his sons between the oldest and youngest died while the walls were being rebuilt. This curse may have been spoken only against the walls and gates, and not against the houses. Many magnificent dwellings were built then by Herod the Great, and in that city he departed this life. Then Elisha healed the bitter water, and Bartimeus was restored to sight. There Zacheus entertained Jesus. And the parable of the Good Samaritan was located between there and Jerusalem. "Jericho was straitly shut up because of the children of Israel." Fear and sin caused them to close their gates. Behind those walls was carried on all kinds of wickedness. The door of the heart is shut against Christ, and in the chambers of the soul lurk impure desires, unholy emotions, and evil passions. Here is the source of corrupt thoughts, base language, and vicious works. All who thus live are ever filled with fear. Their conscience, the Holy Spirit, and the Word of God, are always condemning them. If such, like the people of Jericho, become obstinate and shut up their heart against the mercy of God, their destruction is sure. But if they will renounce sin, open their heart to Christ, and do His will, they may live forever.

2. The overthrow of Jericho (8-16). (1) Marching around the city. The host that compassed the walls may be divided into three companies. The priests marched near the front. Seven of them blew trumpets, and four bore the Ark of the Covenant. The ark was the symbol of the Divine presence, the priests represented the ministers of the Word, and the trumpets indicated the gospel of Christ. The blowing of these trumpets was to their enemies foolishness, curiosity and fear: but to them courage, gladness and victory. Even so to-day is the preaching of the Gospel. The armed men went before, and came after the priests This was no doubt for protection. To day the Divine Presence goes before His people to remove obstacles, follows to protect them from danger, stands on their right hand or on their left as a soldier with drawn sword to slay their foes, and dwells in them to give courage and strength to overcome every enemy. The soldiers marched after this company of armed men and priests. We need not suppose all the people marched: but likely only the sword bearing men. This host journeyed around Jericho once each day for six days. On the seventh day, likely the Jewish Sabbath, they arose early and marched around the city seven times. This probably took till late in the afternoon. We should begin every heavy task early in the morning. During this marching there was no shouting, or loud talking. Silently, reverently and majestically the people marched to the melodies of the cornet. In like manner let the people of God march to the heavenly city under the sound of the gospel. (2) The falling of the walls. At the close of the thirteenth round the priests blew a mighty blast, the people shouted a great shout, and "the walls fell down flat." We need not suppose they were undermined, or thrown down by an earthquake. The whole matter was the work of God, and was no greater miracle than dividing the Jordan. It may look foolish to many, but it was God's appointed way, and therefore right. Saving the world by the preaching of the gospel is to some foolishness, yet it is right because it is the Lord's ordained method. This plan taught faith, obedience and patience. May the trumpet blast, and war shout, of the spiritual Israel, cause the walls of unbelief and intemperance to "fall down flat." (3) The destruction of the people. This looks to us very cruel. But we should remember that humanity to prisoners of war was unknown to ancient nations. Their fate was merited. Their wickedness was great. Death for sin is well. God's treatment was impartial. When the Jews, or other nations, did as these Canaanites had done He dealt with them in a similar way. The Lord was patient with them. In the days of Abraham, four hundred years before this, they were not destroyed, because their iniquity "was not yet full." The agent God used. If their destruction was just what is the difference whether it was by earthquake, pestilence or famine? None of these species of age or sect—or by the sword of their enemies The executors of law. The Canaanites had been admonished, borne with, tried, and condemned. The Israelites had naught to do but carry the decision of the court of heaven into effect. Vices are infectious. If these Canaanites had been spared their wickedness would have corrupted the morals of Israel. This was a blow at idolatry and many other sins (Whedon). The destruction of the antediluvianists, the overthrow of the cities of the plain, and the punishment of the Canaanites, are signal proofs of Divine wrath. They are clear figures of the last judgment.

3. The Mercy of God. (1) Shown to Rahab. Two very grave sins are recorded against her—she was a harlot, and a falsifier. She was saved through faith (Heb. 11. 31), and works (James 2. 25). Her conversion revolutionized her nature. She ceased to be a harlot, married Salmon, and became the mother of Boaz, who was the great grandfather of David. We may break off from the greatest of sins. She deserted her people because they were wrong, and joined herself to the Israelites because they were right. We should not compromise with sin in our people, or in our heart. There is a salvation of works that follows a salvation of faith. She was justified when "she hid the messengers" of God. We who are saved must do the will of God or perish. (2) To Israel—"Keep yourselves from the accursed thing." That is, from the gold and the silver. Turn it all into the Lord's treasury. Israel is here warned against a supposed temptation. A hint of advice. Achan did not heed. He perished and brought disgrace on Israel by his evil conduct. We would avoid much suffering if we would only heed the warnings of God. The undue love of money is the root of many evils.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Hot Springs District.

Dear Brethren—Only one month before the district conference convenes at Canfield, Ark., and do your best on the benevolences of the Church. Be sure to try and make a full report on Freedmen's Aid collection. Dr. M. C. B. Mason and Dr. E. W. S Hammond are expected to be with us. Local preachers and exhorters must attend the conference, and come prepared to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN. This is our Church and conference paper, and all officers on the district must take it. The district conference will not license or renew license to the applicant who does not take the paper. So, my dear brethren, come to the conference prepared to take the paper, and be on hand the morning that conference opens—at 9:30 a. m. sharp. Report the first day, and have your papers ready on your topics for the conference.

A. J. PHILLIPS, P. E.

North New Orleans District.

Brethren—See to it that the quarterly meeting be made great temporal and spiritual successes.

Dear Brethren—Please prepare a list of officers and committees for ensuing year before the conference convenes. I shall expect full reports of benevolences on this round. Fraternally yours,

W. H. LOGAN, P. E.

Florence District.

Dear Brethren—The rallying season has come. Let us be upon the alert, and do our best along all lines for the advancement of our blessed Master's cause. Let us pray and work, that our district may lead. God will help us. Purity and consecration on our part will insure to us invincible power. Yours truly,

A. G. TOWNSEND, P. E.

Gulf Coast Camp Meeting.

The great Gulf Coast Camp Meeting will begin Sept. 19 and close the 29th. All the brethren on the coast, and others, are invited. H. M. Craft, of Natchez, is to be with us. The trains will stop at the camp ground daily. Nos. 1 and 4 will only stop on Sunday. Call for round trip tickets to camp meeting. Train No. 2 is due 10:34 p. m.; No. 6, at 10:47 a. m.; No. 3, going south, at 4:50 a. m.; and No. 5, 7:22 p. m.; No. 1 is due at 1:39 p. m. and No. 4 at 2:19 p. m.

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? Her Appearance speaks louder than words. She doesn't use Pearline. She's worn out with hard work. Household drudgery, you can see, has told upon her. Possibly you are a woman who is going the same way. Now, these are days when such things needn't be, for most women. Labor savers are all around you, and, for woman's work, Pearline heads the list.

Take advantage of the hints of science. They are broad enough to the bright, and they help the lowest kind of work as well as the highest. In every sort of washing and cleaning, let Pearline help you.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 428 JAMES PYLE, New York.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The question whether a child is naturally moral or immoral will be taken up by Professor James Sully in The Popular Science Monthly for September.

The Sunday School Times will publish in an early issue an article on the Value of an Educated Motherhood, a strong appeal for the cultivation of the spiritual aspect of motherhood.

In looking over the new Fashion Magazines at hand we find the "Paris Album of Fashion," "La Mode de Paris," "The French Dressmaker," and "La Mode," published by A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th street, New York City, unusually attractive this month.

"La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashion" cost $3 50 each for a year's subscription, or 35 cents a copy. "The French Dressmaker" is $3 per annum, or 30 cents a copy; and "La Mode," $1 50 a year, or 15 cents a copy. If you are unable to procure either of these journals from your newsdealer don't take any substitute, but apply by mail to Messrs. A. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th street, New York City.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

METHODIST OPINION AND COMMENT.

Zion's Herald, speaking of the elimination of the ecclesiastical politician, amoug other things wisely and tersely says:

"The honor of the Methodist Episcopal Church demands the elimination of the ecclesiastical politician. A proposition so simple and so in harmony with every man's observation needs no proof. To be in time for next May, the ecclesiastical manager is already active. He is in many of the annual conferences; he utilizes the camp meeting season to cultivate the good graces of the brethren. He is a great traveler and a friendly visitor. * * * * * * * * * However excellent the natural gifts of the ecclesiastical manager, when restrained in their use and subjected to discipline, they are invariably mischievous and corrupting when employed to appropriate advantages which belong to others. The ecclesiastical politician generally gains the reputation of being a trickster, who has less regard to justice and honor than to expediency. The men he puts forward are first of all his creatures, or those able to do something for him in return. A man with the qualities of the boss finds it very difficult to act honorably and squarely in the presence of temptations sure to come to him."

The Northwestern, asking some pertinent questions with reference to some possible changes in the administration of the "Freedmen's Aid Society," suggests that if the "change of name takes place some day, it may then be suggested that white men also are free men. One immediate result of that suggestion may be the simplification of the title to 'Aid Society,' after which certain still other suggestions are sure to follow. In brief, since the Church is engaged in education in North and South alike, why not consolidate our education board with this Freedmen's Aid Society? If some force appears in that suggestion, may it not appear in turn that the early consolidation of the Freedmen's Aid Society with the board of education is a still better suggestion? Why have two agencies for education?"

The Christian Advocate, New York, commenting on Dr. Monroe's letter concerning the Chattanooga outrage, says:

"We are glad to believe that, while such circumstances as are described by Dr. Monroe occurred, and were offensive and hard to endure, and not from our point of view justifiable on principle, there was a general desire on the part of the Southern hosts to reduce violations of sentiment and abstract rights to as small proportions as possible. We should not wish to believe that many in the South would object to the photograph of an educated Negro or to a fair report of his address. At all events, the convention was held, and as a whole appears to have been a marvelous success; and those present of every race will do well to remember only the pleasant and profitable things, and work, each in his own way, according to the opportunity, for the good time coming—

"When man to man shall brother be,
And a' that."

The able and far-seeing editor of the mother of the Advocates speaks hopefully of the "good time coming," in striking contrast with those pessimists who cling to their notions as they do to their prejudicies and declare that the Negro can never be anything but an inferior. But "there's a good time coming," and the great men of the North, and of the South, will have a mighty hand in its coming. Requiescat in pace, Chattanooga!

The Christian Advocate, Nashville, says:

"There will be fifty or sixty colored men in the next General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Some of them will be men of sound moral character, excellent intellectual gifts, and good education. But they will sleep by themselves and eat by themselves—the color line being drawn in the bedchambers and dining rooms of the hotels instead of at the front doors. Nor is there the remotest possibility that even the most accomplished of those sixty brethren will be elected to a bishopric, secretaryship or important editorship. Everybody knows that we are telling the frozen truth. What is the use of humbuggery?"

Our genial confrere, Dr. Hoss, usually tells the "frozen truth," but we hope and believe in this instance that he will be simply mistaken. Any prejudice which is founded upon the mere color of one's skin is a disgrace to any individual or Church, and the Church or individual that endorses it will surely come to naught, and this also is "the frozen truth."

Commenting on the Nashville Advocate's short and spicy editorial note, the Christian Index, official organ of the colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America, says:

"There is prejudice both at the North and South against the Negro. In our opinion, Dr. Hoss is right when he says the M. E. Church will not make any Negro bishops. We verily believe that such a procedure would rupture that Church. There are many whites who would accept a Negro bishop; there are more who would reject him."

The election of a Negro to be bishop in the M. E. Church undoubtedly would "rupture" the feelings of some members who have not yet reached that degree of Christian perfection, in which they can plant themselves firmly upon the great idea of Christian brotherhood. This class will oppose the idea to the bitter end. But it will not "rupture the Church." Some of the best people in the Church and on earth favor it. Our genial confrere continues:

"Can they ever be bishops as long as they and their brethren remain where they are?"

Certainly they can and will. And again:

"Would not our brethren of the M. E. Church like to have "home rule for colored churches?" Would they not like to have their own bishops, schools, colleges, general secretaries, etc? But they plead we must be loyal. Would it be disloyal to ask for "home rule" for their churches?"

The thing which Dr. Phillips is pleased to call "Home rule for colored churches" is not desirable by any large class of colored Methodist Episcopalians. Why should they "like to have their own bishops, schools, colleges, general secretaries, etc." The colored Methodist family is already too much divided, and why have another division? The suggestion is mischievous. Besides, the colored members of the Methodist Episcopal Church would commit a very grievous blunder if they should yield to the caprices of some prejudiced white people, and go out of the Church of their choice. It would be a terrible sin. First, on the part of those who plead that it is "expedient," and that it will reduce the so-called "friction" between the white members of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South and the colored members of the same Church. Secondly, on the part of those who plead that it will remove the only obstacle that is in the way of the so-called "organic union" between the Methodist Episcopal and the Methodist Episcopal Church South. And thirdly, on the part of the colored membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church to entertain even the suggestion, much less the belief, that because of the mere accident of their color, they are necessarily inferior to other Christian people. We must admit that at times the burdens seem to be grievous, but there are constant evidences of increasing strength and sturdy character development, which will win just as sure as Truth is upon the throne. "Home rule" for the colored members of the Methodist Episcopal Church only, is a delusion and a snare.

THE BOSTON WOMEN'S MEETING.

The late convention of colored women, which assembled in Boston, Mass., recently, was in many respects a very notable event.

The women in attendance were, for the most part, the representatives of the solid and substantial progress of the race. They were not so young as to be foolish, and not so old as to be regarded as fogies and fossils. The gathering revealed the delightful mean between these extremes, and brought out the results of the best home culture, and high social, and moral standing made possible to the women of the race through these homes and the better cultured mothers which were in them.

To these women is presented a most magnificent opportunity of formulating plans for the betterment of the condition of their sex. These clubs ought to be multiplied. There ought to be a well-equipped organization in every large village, town or city, where our people reside in large numbers, to be composed of our best women. But we want enterprises which will get at the work of uplifting the female sex.

With womanly women—earnest, practical Christian women in the lead, we may expect a wonderful reformation. We would emphasize the thought that the very best womanhood of the race is demanded for this work. Progress has already been retarded by the persistent intermeddling of self-styled leading women, whose principal object was pleasure and questionable amusement. Enterprises which promised much good to society, have been frequently destroyed by light, flippant and flashy females, with an ambition to "run" things after the order of a "mutual admiration" society.

Let the sober, sensible women of the race get together often for the purpose of studying the most important phases of our home life, and how to make it a more potential agency in the development of the character of the women of the race, and they will thus put themselves into harmony with the highest and noblest sentiments and purposes of the best women of the age.

A MEDICAL EDUCATION ALMOST FREE.

Let it be borne in mind that the Medical School of the New Orleans University will begin its seventh year's work on Sept. 16. Dr. C. F. Dight, the dean, will be assisted by an able faculty, and there is promise that there will be a larger attendance and more thorough instruction than ever before. One of the greatest needs of the race to-day, is the educated, well-trained physician. Here is a broad field and a splendid opportunity of entering a profession which promises the grandest results. The cost of instruction, board, etc., will be unusually reasonable. Write to C. F. Dight, M. D., at the New Orleans University Medical College, 1566 Canal street, New Orleans.

DYNAMITE DEMONS.

A few weeks ago, in Falls County, Texas, one of the most terrible tragedies of modern times occurred. The remains of five colored people, horribly mutilated and disfigured, were laid away in the grave. They were the victims of the terrible dynamite explosion which occurred there recently. It was the same old story of the triumph of the baser elements. But God reigns, and there will be a terrible reckoning bye and bye.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

Transfers.

It is not a good reason for abolishing an excellent custom, or suspending a rule that has been found to work well, generally, because it may be abused. That the system of transfers may be abused is not to be denied. But that does not prove that the custom should be abandoned. It It may happen that some one who is ambitious of place, who is a good pulpit orator and can draw the people, sees a chance to get appointed to a first-class charge by preaching one of his oratorical sermons and charming that class of the congregation who prefer show to sense—display of pulpit pyrotechnics to pulpit piety. The result of this sermon may bring such influence to bear on the appointing power, that the brother may be transferred to this charge, to the delight of a coterie and to the disgust of a majority of the congregation. And what makes still more against this transfer, the brother has nothing to do with the conference work. He is only there to preach to the special church to which he is transferred, and that only for the limited period of the appointment; then he proposes to transfer again to some charge which he secures in the same way. The man with the longest purse in a congregation is apt to have a controlling power in making the appointments and securing a transfer.

There are cases where, for the reputation of the minister, the transfer is made. This may avoid a disagreeable trial or church scandal, but does not always answer the best interests, either of the church or the minister. There is no justice in whitewashing the character of a questionable preacher and sending him off to another field of labor to escape the consequences of his own misgivings. Sometimes an inefficient man, having ability in some directions, proves unacceptable and becomes discontented. He thinks he is not appreciated where he is and seeks a transfer to some conference where he will be more highly esteemed His presiding elder and brethren of the conference are more than willing to part with him, and he goes to be just as inefficient as before. The only Scriptural injunction fulfilled is: "Bear ye one another's burdens." The conferences thus share the burdens of weak brethren, but whether the church is profited by this work is questionable. The transfers of preachers from the poorer to richer conferences, simply to get a better support for a favorite of a bishop—if such a thing is possible—might be considered a questionable use of the episcopal power, or if the transfer is brought about by providential circumstances, seconded by the influence of presiding elders who happen to be personal friends of the transferred brother. There may be other sources of abuse of a most excellent power given to the Episcopacy and presiding elders, but none of them can justify the withdrawing of this authority from the appointing power, which has used and is still using it to so great profit to the Church. Louisiana Conference.

Fourteen Reasons Why It Should Be Divided.

By REV. T. J. JOHNSON, New Orleans, La.

A divided conference would be reasonable, practical and beneficial to all in the M. E. Church. The reasons are many and various. Our conference has grown considerably and it continues to grow rapidly. At its present rate it will soon overlap its boundary. Therefore, we can plainly see a division is essential. In order to promote its prosperity and to have the work unhampered, to insure and facilitate the labor of this great band of Christian workers, and having at heart the interest and welfare of this grand Christian family, I here present fourteen reasons for its division:

1st.—A division of this conference would open new fields for labor, for it would then give the brethren (newly called for the occasion) a wide scope for their work.

2nd.—A division of this conference would facilitate the work, for the laborers in the vineyard could give it better attention.

3rd.—A division of this conference must necessarily widen the work of the Church, since we would have new fields to plant and harvest.

4th.—A division of this conference would systemize the work in the South more than its existing state of action does, and system of the highest order implies dispatch.

5th.—A division of this conference would develop many hidden and unknown resources, and hence give additional strength and activity.

6th.—A division of this conference would improve the present laborers and render their work much easier and better, for more time could then be given to study and commune with Christ, adding a higher order of spirituality and purity.

7th.—A division of this conference must add to the membership of the Church, for as soon as we spread out we cover all places and can enter into the many outer lands of sin and darkness.

8th.—A division of this conference must bring many more souls unto Christ, and many a bright and shining star will glow in a higher, nobler and brighter light.

9th.—A division of this conference would add to the comfort of the members of conference. When the present conference meets there is only one or two places to accommodate it, and the men are often forced to put up with many inconveniences rendering them unfit for judicious and skilled work—divide the conference and these difficulties will be easily over come.

10th.—A division of this conference would make it easier for resident brethren to accommodate and receive visiting brothers during conference.

11th.—A division of this conference would reduce the expenses of the Church. Many who have to travel quite a distance now and pay out so much money, would not have it to do with a divided conference, and much of the money taken for traveling expenses could be otherwise applied and thus save much to the preachers and laity.

12th.—A division of this conference would produce more work, for there would be more time to give and better system would follow.

13th.—A division of this conference must bring into active operation new work, covering such a large area the masses would be better reached and all classes and conditions could be met and touched.

14th.—A division of this conference would give a new impetus to the army of Christian workers. It would inspire high aims and noble ambition. A gentle but active and energetic rivalry would pervade the entire field and the harvest would be great and glorious for the Lord.

To Sum Up.—A division of this conference will insure general prosperity and progress. All the moral, mental and spiritual forces will be brought to bear as a strong Christian focus of light and labor. New principles and ideas will germinate and come into action. Many beautiful flowers and tender plants will be nurtured and matured into trees of life. Many dormant powers will regain and spring into newer and happier lives. The work will grow and spread higher and broader until it transcends all human effort, and stands out in the great universe, a volume of life, giving flame for Christ and the entire creation.

Snap Shots from Bremond, Tex.

Mr. Editor.—The district conference was held last week by our esteemed and loving presiding elder, Harry Swann. It was an event that will not be forgotten soon by the many attendants. Peace, unity and fraternity were characteristic among all the participants. Rev. M. C. Cavines entertained the body in a manner acceptable to all and we bow in humble and grateful acknowledgments to him and his kind wife for hospitalities and courtesies. Our camp meeting opened at Cregg's Grove Aug. 1. Dr. J. Harvey Jones, A. M., of California, was with us and delived the opening sermon. Over thirty came to the anxious seat. Pray for our success.

I wish to say that the best report was presented to this conference that ever was made, the collections amounting to the sum of $125 65, being $22 over all previous returns for the benevolent cause. Our "homestretch" will be one that will convince the fact that the old maxim—"veni, vici, vidi"—still holds good.

We have good people at Bremond, Reagan and Long Branch. We may say we have as loyal a set of Christian workers as may be found anywhere.

Yours, A. JOHNSON.

Greenwood District Convention.

The second annual convention of the Greenwood District Epworth League and Sunday School Convention convened at Pickens, Miss., Aug. 14-18. Reports from the several chapters show an increase of fifty per cent since last meeting. Some interesting papers were read by delegates. The SOUTHWESTERN had a good showing among them. On Saturday Elder Mask held my third quarterly conference. Quite a number were present and reports were indicative of general progress on all lines of Church work. Sunday Presiding Elder Mask preached at 11 a. m; Brother Scott at 3 p. m., and Brother Clay at 8:30 p. m.; 180 partook of the Lord's Supper. Collection $19 05. Convention closed Sunday night. Fraternally, W. H. HUNDLEY.

[We commend the above report to our correspondents as a model of brevity, comprehensiveness and style. In addition, Brother Hundley gives an account of his quarterly meeting. Such communications are always welcome. Let long-winded writers take the above as a pattern.—ED]

Jacksonville District Conference.

The fifteenth session of the Jacksonville District Conference, convene at Wrightville M. E. Church as per appointment, Rev. Jeffrey Grant presiding. The reports of the presiding elder, pastors, superintendents, stewards, class leaders, etc., showed the work of the district to be marching steadly forward. Dr. Mason was present and spoke of the work of the F. A. and S. E. Society. On the second day of the session, Rev. J. R. Howard, pastor of Simpson Chapel, was called from labor to reward. The morning session of the third day was dispensed with in respect to his memory. The funeral services were conducted by Presiding Elder Grant. All the pastors of city churches were present to pay their last respects to our fallen brother.

On the resumption of business, Presiding Elder Hughor, of the Pulaska District, was introduced and gave words of consolation.

Resolutions in honor of our deceased brother, J. R. Howard; to the pastor and members of Wrightville M. E. Church, and to the various railroads for reduced rates were passed, and conference adjourned. THOMAS WALKER, Reporter.

Griffin District Conference.

The Griffin District Conference was called to order, as announced, by J. P. Wragg, P. E., at Greenville, Ga. The Lord's Supper was administered. Rev. J. H. May was elected secretary, with J. W. Queen and P. C. Price assistants, and J. L. Bowdoin, reporter. The following were introduced: Revs. M. M. Alston, E. Kirby, J. C. Hunt, R. B. Hinesman, J. D. Lovejoy and L. A. Peeler. Rev. B. J. Wimbish, pastor of the Baptist church at Greenville, was introduced. His remarks showed that he is a man of sound judgment, and his hospitality was not sparing. The presiding elder lectured the ministers concerning the Ministers Relief Association. The pastors made encouraging reports spiritually, but not so well financially. The letter read, from the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, asking for more subscribers, received the sympathy of the whole conference. The pledge cards were filled out willingly, promising to send, in a short time, 200 new subscribers.

The names of the visiting brethren: Rev. M. C. B. Mason, assistant secretary and field agent of the F. A. and S. E. Society; G. W. Arnold, presiding elder of the Atlantic District; S. C. Upshaw, J. H. Grant and Mr. L. J. Price.

On Saturday, by the request of the white citizens of Greenville, Dr. Mason preached to a large crowd in the courthouse at 10:30 a. m. The people gave liberally to the society he represented. The white and colored people of Greenville treated the conference kindly. The papers read were full of good thought. Excellent order was kept throughout the conference. J. H. MAY, Sec'y.

CURED BY USING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

A Preacher's Experience.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry

Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. To all ministers suffering from throat troubles, I recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—E. M. BRAWLEY, D. D., Dist. Secretary, Am. Bapt. Publication Society, Petersburg, Va."

Our Southern Conferences.

The Motives That Should Actuate Them in the Selection of General Conference Delegates.

By REV. J. H. REED, Paris, Texas.

Methodism was born of those principles that should stand as the fundamental basis of a Church and denomination through and by which the world would be made better on account of her candid doctrines upon holiness of life. One of the peculiarties of the Church is, the similarity in its organization and work to the national government. This is true from the fact that at the end of every quadrennium there is a general commotion throughout the Church, as in the nation, and our vast membership stand, as it were, on tiptoe, in contemplation of the actions of that august body, known as the General Conference. Composed as it is of the very best brain and thought from among the ministerial ranks of our conference, combined with the best talent of the laity, together with our peerless board of bishops, our secretaries and official editors, thus representing every department of our vast connectional interests, this body truly shapes to a great extent the destiny of the nation

The law governing the selection of delegates from the conferences is plain, and needs no comment in this connection; but one thing demands special attention, and that is the actuating motive of the conferences in the selection of such delegates, especially in our Southern work. The simple fact of being a Methodist is no more sufficient guarantee of fitness for the position of General Conference delegate, than being an American citizen would entitle one to the senatorship of his native State. Elements of fitness must be contained in the individual, and not in the office. This is a peculiar phase of our selection of delegates, which is too often overlooked in the mighty struggle of personal honors. Our work, through out the South, demands that we send men to this great assembly, who are not only loyal to the Church, but who can also bring to bear some influence upon the most vital interests of this section, and upon the many perplexing and intricate problems that now confront the Church. There should be a concensus of opinion throughout our Southern conferences, that the time has passed never to return, when simply to stand as a representative of color, counts for anything in the Church.

Men in every department of life are now contending with mighty principles, and he who is simply after the empty honors of place and not posted on the issues, cannot hope to break lance with the mighty gladiators of ecclesiastical thought; neither vindicate the claims of those whom he represents. The tremendous issues, fraught with so much significance, now agitating the most prodigious intellects of the world, make no space for figure-heads in deliberative assemblies—hence, we should learn to sacrifice all personal ambitions and false honors upon the altar of eternal principles. There is a sentiment rampant in our present civilization, of things becoming a "fad," and whenever this enters into our quadrennial gale in the selection of those who must shape the destiny of the Church and the race, all of our fond hopes will be swept to the winds and leave us stranded upon the stagnant bosom of ecclesiastical unfitness. A representative democracy could not exist unless those in whom power is vested and to whom authority is given to make known the wishes of the people in their halls of legislation, are equal to the task; neither will our conferences and general church work prosper under a system of false aims and actuated by wrong motives in the selection of the men upon whose shoulders rest the legislative enactments of our glorious world-wide Methodism. Every candidate throughout the conferences, while soliciting the votes of his brethren, should search clearly and see what motive prompts him to aspire for a seat in such a judicious deliberative assembly. Every member of the conference should be certain that the man for whom he casts his ballot, possesses the prerequisites for the successful accomplishment of the work assigned to his hands. The first among these would be full experience as to our needs, and the things that will contribute most to the advancement of every department in our local work, thus bringing about influences to benefit the Church at large. This does not carry with it the conviction of permanent fixtures in representative capacity, but, on the other hand, common sense would dictate that we elect the most available men, whose duty it is to guard sacredly the great ecclesiastical trust committed to their hands by the honest vote of their conferences, and who must meet upon a level, men of superior worth, by force of circumstances and conditions, from all parts of the Church. Coming in contact with such giant intellects and unbending wills, the next most essential quality in a General Conference delegate, is a thorough knowledge of the measures to be brought before that body, and this backed up by the complete courage of his convictions. The importance of this should never be overlooked, for in the mighty clash of ideas, the extreme conservatist very often defeats the very ends for which he contends. Ignorance, inconsistency and egotistic displays of would-be eloquence are by no means the elements of success upon the floor of the General Conference, for thereby one is made the object of laughter and ridicule by strangers; to the utter consternation and humiliation of his delegation. This being the case, why, in the name of modesty and common sense, should so many throughout our Southern work, vainly imagine themselves fit material for General Conference timber, at the expense of the good friendship of their brethren? An old Roman was once called from his plow to do service for his country men, and as a Roman citizen he obeyed the mandate of his government, marched forth to battle and brought honor to Rome, thereby making for himself an imperishable name. But it was the occasion that called the man, the demands of which actuated his whole being. So it is, my brethren, we are brought face to face with unyielding principles amid sophistries and errors, and in such an age as this, bristling with conflicting opinions and rife with a thousand innovations. All deliberative bodies should be composed of men with nerves of steel and hearts of lions, tempered by the influences of the Holy Spirit, and who are fully in touch with the forward march of our Christian civilization.

Brother would-be delegate, have you examined your peculiar characteristics and found that you come up to the foregoing requirements? Have you formulated any important measures to bring before the brain and heart of the Church? Are you actuated with a desire to stamp your individuality and personality upon the ecclesiastical history of our times, as a champion for human rights and the triumph of the Redeemer's kingdom? If not, back down and lessen the burden of ambitious candidates from the shoulders of our conferences. Lastly, we owe it to ourselves as a race, to be cautious and judicious in the selection of men to represent the Negro membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The signs of the times, our unique relation, combined with world-wide sentiment with reference to this branch of Methodism, all demand that we select men and not babes. Men from both the laity and the ministerial ranks, who are actuated with those high motives that will make known to the Christian world that the Negro is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and not a mere offshoot; therefore entitled to the highest privileges and honors within the Church, as any other member. To bring this to bear, do not crowd our conferences with unripe candidates, thereby setting our teeth on edge at every recurring quadrennium.

Starkville District Conference.

The Starkville District Conference convened in Rock Hill M. E. Church, according to announcement, with Rev. P. O. Jamison presiding. M. Adams, one of the oldest members of the Upper Mississippi Conference, preached the opening sermon. J. M. Thompson was elected secretary, with G. Orange and J. W. Terrell assistants. The presiding elder's report showed a hopeful condition. Reports of pastors, local preachers, exhorters, class leaders, Sunday School superintendents and district stewards were encouraging.

Revs. Wm. Lester, N. B. Blackman, J. W. Terrell, W. H. Golden, F. H. Bunton and J. M. Nevils preached during the conference. Revs. O. Gillespie, A. Boyd and N. P. Johnson, of Aberdeen District; T. Cooke, of the Baptist Church, and Prof. G. C. Logan, of Rust University, were among the visitors, all of whom addressed the conference. Prof. G. C. Logan ably presented the claims of the University. The pastors responded with $56 70.

The subjects for discussion were handled with ability. Prof. C. E. Moody and others acquitted themselves grandly. The Sunday School superintendents and Epworth Leaguers read excellent papers.

Saturday night was memorial night in behalf of the SOUTHWESTERN. O. Gillespie, F. H. Bunton and J. M. Nevils uttered noble sentiments in behalf of the paper, and there was much enthusiasm. Each pastor promised from five to twenty-five subscribers. Sunday closed the interesting meeting. A good impression was made. Total collection, $41 85.

Tired Women

Find in the blood purifying, building-up qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla just what they need. Mrs. Isa Griggs of Ennis, Texas, gives her experience below: "I suffered almost death with local troubles, which developed into a very serious affection and made a surgical operation necessary. I was completely broken down, had numerous boils, and when I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I weighed only 112 pounds. Now I weigh over 125 pounds and am in better health than for the past fifteen years. Formerly I was covered with eruptions; now my skin is clear. I can truly say has no equal for poor run-down women. Every one remarks about how well I am looking." MRS. ISA GRIGGS.

VOTING GUIDE.

1. THE HAMILTON AMENDMENT:

Amend the Second Restrictive Rule by adding the words, "and said delegates must be male members," after the words "two lay delegates for an Annual Conference," so that it will read, "nor of more than two lay delegates for an Annual Conference, and said delegates must be male members."

Those favoring the admission of women vote "NO;" those opposed, "YES."

2. THE BALTIMORE-COLORADO PLAN:

Amend the Second Restrictive Rule by adding the words, "and said delegates may be men or women," after the words "two lay delegates for an Annual Conference," so that the entire clause will read, "nor of more than two lay delegates for an Annual Conference, and said delegates may be men or women."

Those favoring admission of women vote "YES;" opposed, "NO."

We take the above from the Western Christian Advocate, and commend it to our readers for careful study. The question of the admission of women has been thoroughly discussed, and it is barely possible that any further discussion will change a single vote. All signs indicate the admission of women as delegates to the General Conference; which we favor, just as we favor the suffrage for any class of people who are such important factors in civil or ecclesiastical government. We were in the General Conference of 1888, when the question was first introduced, and voted against the proposition to interpret the constitution as declaring the eligibility of women, but voted heartily to submit the proposition to the clergy and laity of the Church during the ensuing quadrennium, to amend the constitution by changing the restrict rule so that women would have a clear title to representation. We also voted for the "Hamilton Amendment," believing that it would prevent the acceptance of the judicial committee's interpretation, declaring women ineligible to seats in the General Conference. When the judicial committee at Omaha presented its interpretation of the disciplinary paragraphs referring to the election of delegates, to the effect that "women were not included in these provisions," we hailed the substitute of Dr. D. H. Moore as both timely and wise. But little time was allowed for discussion, and it is highly probable that the amendment which was presented by Dr. J. W. Hamilton, and afterwards adopted by a good majority of the delegates present, was intended to render the defeat of the judiciary committee's interpretation doubly sure. A great many hard things have been said about the amendment, but those who know its distinguished author best, know that he is incapable of performing any act which would leave even the shadow of suspicion upon it. But sentiment is growing in favor of the election of women and we shall be glad to see this vexed question settled in a fair and honorable way. A "No" vote on the Hamilton amendment, and a "Yes" vote on the Baltimore-Colorado plan will, in our judgment, be in perfect harmony with the spirit, sentiment and genius of our Methodism. There is even a more sentimental view which might be presented, but we prefer to discuss the matter upon its bare merits.

"HOME RULE FOR COLORED SCHOOLS."

The Northwestern Christian Advocate of a recent date has a comprehensive and able editorial under the above caption. It has been suggested that there has been undue and unnecessary anxiety manifested upon a question which, Dr. Edwards admits, has been agitated also by "Northern boards" of trustees. We do not believe that there have ever been any serious differences of opinion between the local boards of our Southern schools and colleges and the executive committees, or board of managers of our Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society at Cincinnati. Complaints have been made, however, because of an honest difference of opinion between the representative of our local work in the South. Those differences generally relate to the appointment of teachers and other matters pertaining to the local management of our schools, which, in our judgment, can and ought to be remedied.

We agree that "the North has done wonderful things" in respect to the education of the Negro. It poured out its money upon the altars of the Church like water, to give the freedmen the benefits of a Christian education. This philanthropic invasion of the South was one of the most signal victories of Christendom. The Church saw its great opportunity, and inaugurated the work which was to lift the freedman to that degree of Christian manhood by which he could be recognized as a man and a brother. It might be well for the student of history to note, however, that the Church is dealing to-day, not with the freedman, but with free men who have never been slaves, and who are, in very many respects, like unto other free peoples.

It is therefore perfectly natural that some of these people trained in the Church, touched by all her great institutions, and reminded during all the stages of their development that they were expected to be manly and strong; that they were to think, read, study; that they were to weigh the actions and study the motives of their fellow-men, and in fact to possess all those instincts which make men noble and grand—we submit, that it is not an unreasonable thing that they should have an ambition to take an active part, and to at least give counsel in matters pertaining to their intellectual development.

Our esteemed confrere wisely says: "No business man can doubt that one incitement to giving by the North has been, and is, its conviction, that the hundreds and thousands of dollars devoted to the South would be appropriated, and paid by a board of wise general-like managers."

We do not know of a single prominent colored man or woman who does not heartily subscribe to that sentiment. It would be preposterous for the beneficiaries indiscriminately to be permitted to disburse the funds given for their benefit. We should be profoundly sorry to think that our Northern friends should entertain such an idea.

The hundreds of teachers, preachers and others, who have been graduated from our schools, or who have in any way been touched by them, are not ungrateful; on the other hand, they have dwelt with increasing rapture upon the "Monumental philanthropy," which induced Northern white people, and Southern white people, to give millions of dollars for their education. And we feel safe in saying that the donors themselves, who feel that "it is more blessed to give than to receive," are no more grateful for the privilege of giving, than are the descendants of the freedmen in receiving.

The subject of "Home rule for colored schools" is not the dreadful thing which some would have us believe. It does not mean the turning over to the local boards of trustees all authority, and power, and money, and patronage, etc.; it is not so understood by the colored people themselves. Such is not recommended, or desired, by the colored people themselves.

We believe we are personally acquainted with about all the prominent colored men in the Methodist Episcopal Church; have exchanged views with them, and feel free to say that but few, if any, of them would have the local boards of our schools entirely colored. In fact, the majority of them, as does the editor of this paper, favor "mixed" boards, just as we do "mixed" faculties in our schools, and for the same reason.

We believe moreover that the powers of these local boards should be enlarged so as to make them more potential in the government of our schools and colleges. We see no reason why an intelligent board of trustees should not be entrusted with the privilege of giving counsel in the employment and dismissal of teachers, and of advising upon matters of greater or less interest in connection with our schools, as the case may be.

But we insist that these local boards shall have some special qualifications for the work. We would have them rather in sympathy with our educational ideas, and in harmony with the spirit, sentiment and genius of our Church in the prosecution of that work, than with individuals who may be connected with any phase of that work. Hence, unusual care should be had in the selection of these local boards. Appointments should not be the result of favoritism, or the advancement of any mere local or sectional interests. A careful study of the situation, with all the interests involved, prompts us to take this view of the case, and confirms the opinion that under this form of "Home Rule" our institutions of learning will be placed more directly upon the hearts and consciences of the people for whom they are intended. We have the most abiding faith that the boards constituted and chosen according to the views herein stated, will administer the trusts "which they themselves have helped to provide," and with far more satisfactory results.

THE PASSING OF REV. SAMUEL G. GRIFFIN.

The sad news conveyed to our readers in the following note will occasion wide-spread sorrow. We have known Brother Griffin intimately almost since his childhood. Each of us first saw the light in the city of Baltimore. Later on we received appointments from the Washington Conference to labor in the Southwest. After several years of faithful service in the Lexington Conference (of which we became members by General Conference action) our brother was transferred to the Washington Conference, where he spent the last seventeen years of his life. He was a man of strong religious convictions, dignified, affable and kind. He made friends, and held them to the last. He was a typical Methodist and loved the "old landmarks." He preached the gospel of consolation, and was a healer of human woes. Of course, he was ready to go and join in the song eternal. His triumphant victory makes our sky clearer, and prepares our faith to seize afresh the hand that succors and saves. May the good father comfort the hearts of the bereaved ones, while we "close up the ranks" and march forward to the victory of faith:

DEANWOOD, D. C., August 16, 1895.

Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D.:

Dear Brother—The Rev. Samuel G. Griffin, of the Washington Conference, died at his post, Alexandria, Va., on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 4.

Brother Griffin joined the conference in 1871, and was sent to Ohio, serving prominent appointments in the Lexington Conference until 1879, when he was transferred back to his home conference.

He easily took rank in the front, and served acceptably as pastor, presiding elder and member of the General Conference of 1884.

His sickness was short, his suffering intense, his triumph magnificent. In his conscious moments he made all the arrangements for the future of his family, the management of his funeral, and the burial of his body.

Listening to the song of the angels, he cries out, "Can't they sing;" then with feeble voice he sung, "O come angel band, come and around me stand; O bear me away on your snowy wings," etc. A few moments more and he was not, for God took him.

His funeral was largely attended at Sharp Street Church, Baltimore, Wednesday, Aug. 7, Dr. E. W. S. Peck preaching the sermon.

His widow and three children, and a host of friends, mourn to-day and ask for sympathy.

W. H. BROOKS.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—We regret to learn of the death of Isaac, son of Rev. Jules Benn, of Slaughter, La. The lad was a great sufferer, but he embraced the religion of Christ and bore up cheerfully until the summons came, when he passed away in great peace. His death occurred July 3.

—The appointment of Rev. J. H. Reed, A. M., of Paris, Texas, to the chair of mathematics and science in Wiley University, Marshall, Texas, is not only a deserved tribute to the worth of the man, but will give additional strength to the faculty of this growing and progressive institution of the Church.

—Who does not know Brother John—"Camp Meeting John," as he is popularly called? John F. Nangle is his proper name. Well, he came into our office one day last week, like a streak of sunshine. We could hardly realize it was he at first, but that familiar, brotherly grasp of the hand, that "language of Canaan," brought back the old memories, and for a brief period we held sweet communion. Brother Nagle was enroute to a camp meeting in the vicinity of Mansfield, La., held by our Southern Methodist brethren. He hopes to spend a few days in the city on his return.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

A Grand Tribe Rally.

The Rev. D. W. Beatuer, pastor of Camp Parapet M. E. Church, is drilling his tribes for a grand rally which will take place on Sunday, Sept. 8. The whole day will be devoted to the rally. The Editor of this paper has been invited to preach at 11 a. m. Other city pastors will assist. The tribes collecting certain amounts will be given a year's subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN.

Our city constituency will be surprised to find nothing concerning our churches in this column this week. We have pleaded with, invited, importuned, coaxed, and have done almost everything, except to flatter the pastors of our city churches, to send us the news concerning their work, but there has been an unaccountable silence. Now, we invite brief notes from any person, male or female, representing the churches. We will publish at the earliest practicable moment if interesting.

Gilbert Academy, at Baldwin, La., will open October 1, with a full corps of teachers. Particulars next week.

"A Chasm Deep and Pungent."

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 19, 1895.

Mr. Editor—Noticing your paper of the 15th inst., I find an article from the pen of Dr. W. H. Speight, in which he has, I think, made some errors relative to the grand old Church's actions in case of seperate conferences as pertains to the Central Alabama Conference.

The divisions of the conference was brought about by efforts of the Church to show their respect for the wishes of her black children. This division was not made despite of their protest, for they at this time being imbued with a spirit of office seeking and high honors forced actions before the time, after they found the old Church ready to do anything to please them.

They sought a separate conference as the means to reach the end of presiding eldership, which was thought by many at that time, as now, the climax of their glory

Hence, they opened this great chasm into which they, according the doctor's statement, have fallen.

So you see, the black children, like the prodigal son, "reviews his wanderings with surprise," and now seeks to exculpate himself.

It is a fact, as regards to the conference of this State, if there is any disadvantage caused by the division of the conference those of the colored brethren, members at the time, are to be blamed, and not the Church.

Navasota District.

The Sunday School and Epworth League conventions of the Navasota District, Texas Conference, convened in Mt. Zion M. E. Church, Brenham, Texas, according to appointment. Both conventions were called to order by Rev. W. L. Duncan, presiding elder of the district; after which the writer was elected secretary, with Rev. A. J. Tillory assistant.

The Sunday School convention was held the forenoon of every day, and the Epworth League convention the afternoon of the same day.

Lively discussions followed each paper, showing the deep interest manifested by our young people.

The following distinguished visitors were present during the session: Rev. I. B. Scott, D. D., president of Wiley University; Rev. O. I. Jones, Sunday School agent; Rev. Wm. Bartley, presiding elder of Houston District; Rev. S. M. Bolden, pastor at Conroe, Huntsville District; and Professors T. A. Fortson, S. L. Blockey and H. M. Tarver; each of whom took part in the discussions and rendered valuable service.

Wiley University anniversary took place Friday at 8:30 p. m. Dr. I. B. Scott was the principal speaker. Sunday was the great day of the feast, which was conducted by Revs. M. M. Muldrew and Wm. Josey. At 3 p. m., Dr. I. B. Scott preached grandly, after which Rev. W. L. Duncan, P. E., administered the sacrament to a goodly number. At 8:30 p. m., Rev S. M. Bolden preached an interesting sermon, which closed the meeting.

Reign of High Carnival—St. Louis in a Blaze of Glory—Seven Weeks of Uninterrupted Gaiety.

The name of America's greatest carnival center—St. Louis—will be blazoned on the skies of gaiety from September 4 to October 19, 1895. The eighteenth annual reign of carnival will pervade the city, and for seven weeks European capitals noted for their seasons of mystery and regal entertainment will gracefully bow to the superiority of the city on the banks of the Mississippi.

September 4 will mark the opening of the 12th annual St. Louis Exhibition. This splendid feature of St. Louis' carnival period will remain open until Oct. 19. In addition to Sousa's world-famed band, many new attractions will be offered. Sept. 4 to 14, the celebrated French Equilibrists, the Kins-Ners, will appear. Sept. 15 to 28, Caicedo, "The King of the Wire," and Louis Oloriz, "The Man Monkey," by their unique entertainments will delight the fun-seeking public. Sept. 30 to Oct. 13, Ivan Tscheroff's celebrated educated mutes, the Russian dogs, are carded for a series of wonderful performance. Oct. 13 to 19, Price Kokin, the greatest Japanese Juggler alive, will fill an engagement, while Buck Taylor and troupe of native Sionx Indians, and Miss Cornelia Campbell Bedford of New York, Demonstrator of Cooking, will appear every day during the Exposition season.

That mysterious personage, King Hotu, and his retinue, will give a daylight parade Sept. 28. This is one of the most unique attractions of the carnival season in St. Louis, and is grotesquely staged: Oct. 7 to 12, the world-beater, the great St. Louis Fair, will be the chief attraction. On the evening of Oct. 8, His Majesty the Veiled Prophet and royal court will parade the principal thoroughfares of the city, followed by the famous ball, which is known of throughout the land.

All the St. Louis theatres, during the season of high carnival, have billed most excellent attractions. Among the number might be mentioned "Trilby," "Lyceum Theatre Company," Chas. Frohman's Stock Company, Hoyt's "A Black Sheep," De Wolf Hopper, etc.

The management of the Missouri Pacific Railway and Iron Mountain Route, constantly having the interests of St. Louis in mind, will sell tickets from all points on the system to the carnival city and return at greatly reduced rates. For copy of the program giving the features of the carnival season in detail, address company's agents, or H. C. Townsend, Gen'l Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

Report of the Shreveport District.

Shady Grove.—Rev. P. C. Colton puts in hard licks for the Lord and he is making success. The Sunday school and congregation are increasing rapidly. Brother Colton and his local preachers have opened up a new place with a good Sunday school of twenty-five scholars.

Mansfield.—J. O. Brown holds his own, and is hard at work constructing the new church. He is having success with Wm. Sharp, E. C. Howell, C. M. Brown and a host of helpers.

Bondchest and Grand Cane.—J. P. Bayless is moving along nicely. The churches on this circuit are well handled. The Sunday school is increasing.

Longstreet.—A. Gray is having success in his work and looking forward for a successful year. A bell has been purchased. The Sunday school is increasing with a good worker at the head.

Flournoy and Fairview.—E. C. Goins is pushing forward the work of the Lord. Peace and prosperity reigns over the churches on this circuit. The Sunday school is doing well under the leadership of Prof. R. A. Jackson and W. W. Sinclair.

Fairfield.—S. A. Mason, the faithful pastor, has worked hard until this present date—debts have been paid and twenty persons have joined the church.

Curtis and Hayes.—John McKey holds his people as a man that understands his business. The Lord is blessing this circuit; 15 have joined the church this year.

Round Grove and Cane City.—Brother Daniel is doing well on this hard work and is trying hard to build up the work.

Bodcau.—P. Bibbs is on his first year, and will do the work he was sent to do.

Rocky Mound and Rush Point.—George Johnson is on his fifth year's work, and is popular with the people. He is doing well, spiritually and temporally.

Benton and Searcpta.—J. D. Brightop is on one of the new fields and a hard one, but the brother stands like a man. He is making an opening for our church in this part of the State. The Sunday school is very good.

Vanceville.—S. R. Hason is holding his own. He and his family have been sick, but with the help of A. G. Miller, a lay member of the last General Conference, F. Brown, S. H. Miller and others, the pastor managed his work. This is one of our best churches on the district. The Sabbath school is a great help.

St. Paul.—H. James is the pastor. The people are enjoying great peace this year. We have some accessions, the local debts have been paid and a new organ purchased. The best spirit prevails over the Sabbath school, with H. J. Walker as our superintendent. The church in every way is doing well. We are working to pay off the Church Extension debt and will pay some on it this year.

St. James.—This church, that is always at peace, is succeeding nicely this year under J. W. Hudson as pastor. The church and Sabbath school are doing a grand work for the Master. The benevolences have been raised in full and seventeen or twenty persons have been received in the church this quarter.

Yellow Pine, Odam and Minden.—C. M. Brown has been working here a part of the year. We need our best men in this new territory if we expect to do very much. There is a wide field for the M. E. Church here. The people are calling for our Church and we must give them our best preachers. S. DUNCAN, P. E.

Impure blood is the cause of boils, pimples and other eruptions. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and cures these troubles.

Montgomery District Conference.

The seventh session of the Montgomery District Conference met at Troy, Ala., in Joyce M. E. Church, as per announcement. The roll call showed a large delegation present. The Rev. E. M. Jones, presiding elder, presided. W. H. Nelson, was elected secretary. The various committees were appointed and did their work well. The second day was largely spent in reading reports from the various members. The report of the presiding elder showed much work on his part since the appointment in February, and the district to be prospering on all grounds. The reports of the pastors were good.

The district realizes that the time has come for more to be done and less said. There were no complaints nor charges. Dr. M. C. B. Mason visited the session, spending one day and night, during which time he did much to arouse and benefit the brethren, in representing the F. A. and S. E. Society. Quite a number of applications were presented for license to preach; but since they could not stand a satisfactory examination, only one who was on his way to Gammon, received liconse. Several who are doing acceptable pastoral work were recommended for reception into the annual conference. The conference was most delightfully entertained, and Rev. N. H. Redrick, the pastor, and his kind people, deserve much gratitude. The Sabbath services were very interesting throughout, with love feast in the morning at 10 o'clock by Rev. J. W. Tate, preaching at 11 o'clock by the presiding elder, at 3 o'clock by Rev. L. W. Hill, and at night by the writer. During the week most excellent sermons were delivered by Revs. A. C. Nimrod, J. T. Ellis and J. W. Thomas. The last named preached the annual missionary sermon. W. H. NELSON, Sec'y.

Greenwood District Conference.

The first district conference of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, met in the M. E Church at Vaiden, Miss., according to appointment, with Rev. W. E Mask, P. E., in the chair. B. F. Woolfolk was elected secretary, with N. R. Clay assistant. A. D. Gerron was elected statistical secretary, with W. H. Hundley assistant. Rev. L. L. Shumpert preached the opening sermon. The presiding elder read his report, which showed success on all lines. Well prepared reports were presented by the pastors, showing deep interest in the work. The local preachers, exhorters, class leaders, Sunday School superintendents, and presidents of Epworth League, presented interesting reports. The conference was favored with the presence of Rev. Wiley, of Cumberland Presbyterian Church; Rev. Lipscomb, of the M. E. Church South; Rev. Ball, of the Baptist Church; Rev. W. McDonald, presiding elder of the Holly Springs District; Prof. G. C. Logan, of Rust University; Rev. R. Sewell, of Grenada; Rev. J. L. Wilson, of Asbury Church, Holly Springs.

On Wednesday night, Rev. G. C. Logan, professor of Greek and Latin in Rust University, addressed the conference on education and the work of the F. A. and S. E. Society. His address was able and timely. On Thursday, Elder S. H. Nevils of the Tupelo District, and Profs. E. H. McKissiack and J. A. Williams, were introduced. On Saturday evening, Dr. M. C. B. Mason represented his work and preached also. At 3 p. m., Elder W. E. Mask preached. At 8 p. m., D. P. Shaw preached the closing sermon.

The following brethren preached edifying sermons: J. W. Washington, W. H. Hundly, M. W. Reid and F. S. Wilborn.

Resolutions of thanks were offered in behalf of Mrs. Mask, the organist, and to the good people of Valden for hospitable treatment, and to the pastor.

The revival of Southwestern Christian Advocate was a success. Three subscribers were secured, and all the preachers pledged to raise a certain number of subscribers in six months.

B. F. WOOLFOLK, Sec'y.

Important Facts.

If you have dull and heavy pain across forehead and about the eyes; if the nostrils are frequently stopped up and followed by a disagreeable discharge; if soreness in the nose and bleeding from the nostrils is often experienced; if you are very sensitive to cold in the head accompanied with headache, then you may be sure you have catarrh, and should (immediately) resort to Ely's Cream Balm for a cure. The remedy will give instant relief.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St., New Orleans.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Caleb's Reward.

(Joshua 14. 5-11).

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

LESSON X.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"He wholly followed the Lord God of Israel." (Joshua 14. 14.)

Many important events occurred between this and our last lesson. Among them were the trespass and punishment of Achan; the capture of Ai; the memorial altar and service on Mount Ebal; the fraud and punishment of the Gibeonites; the great battle of Gibeon and Beth Horon; the subjection of northern Palestine; the conquest of southern Canaan; the battle of Merom; and the division of the land east of Jordan.

I. The division of the land west of the Jordan. 1. The persons who made this division. Eleazer the priest. The term "high priest" had not yet been invented. He was the third son of Aaron, and became priest at the death of Nadab and Abihu. All of the saved are priests unto God. Joshua was the son of Nun. He made a true report when the spies returned, and had been chosen to succeed Moses. He was a godly man; a righteous judge, and a successful general. All of God's children should lead holy lives, "judge righteous judgment," and govern well every faculty of soul and mind. "The heads of the fathers of the tribes" were ten chosen men. One from each tribe now to receive an inheritance. This would remove all ground for complaint, because each tribe was represented among those who made the division. We should have large confidence in those who do business for us: especially in the bishop, and presiding elders, when they make the appointments.

2. The decisions were made by casting lots. This was likely done by writing the names of the ten tribes on ten tickets, and casting them unto an urn. Then the number of each tract of land was written on ten other tickets and cast into another urn. After this one of each kind was drawn. The tribes knew God had ordered this method of dividing the land. They believed he would guide the work and bring out His desired results. The whole work was done in a solemn way, and the conclusion was accepted as from the Lord. The places where we live, and the fields in which we labor, are not always chosen by ourselves. There is an over-ruling providence. Let us strive to see it and be contented with our lot.

3. The tribes that received the land. Reuben, Gad and Manasseh, the half tribe of Joseph, had already been provided for. Nine tribes and Ephraim, the other half tribe of Joseph, were now to receive the country west of the Jordan. The tribe of Levi was scattered throughout the land, and given the cities of refuge. The tribe of Joseph was divided to keep the number up to twelve. Reader wilt thou "stand in thy lot at the end of the days" and receive thy portion of the heavenly Canaan?

II. The Request of Caleb (6-12). 1. The Introduction. (1) The memory—"Thou knowest the thing that the Lord said unto Moses." What a wonderful faculty is the memory. Facts that took place forty-five years before are clearly seen, and talked over. A strong impression made on the mind is never erased. In the world to come Abraham said to the rich man—"Son remember." (2) The report of Caleb—"I brought him word again as it was in mine heart." When Moses sent him to spy out the land he was in the prime of life. We should give the strength of our manhood to the Lord. He did the work before him with all his soul. We should not be "slothful in business." He reported what was in his heart. As he believed he spoke. He did not regard the love or fear of his brethren. He stood by that which was right, although he was in the minority. The majority is not always correct. Let nothing prevent us from standing by the truth. (3) The effect of the report of his brethren. a. On Israel—It "made the heart of the people melt." It was an exaggerated report. It filled the people with unbelief and fear. It did not advance, but hindered, the work of God. It cast reflection on the goodness and power of Jehovah. Every good work has its opposers. There are always those standing around who say it cannot be done. Away with such reports. "Be sure you are right, and then go ahead" (David Crockett). b. On himself—"But I wholly followed the Lord." The report of his brethren did not move him. The word "wholly" here means the entire man. With his mind, soul and body he followed Jehovah. There was no unbelief in his heart. Their warriors may be many and large, and their cities walled up to heaven, yet he did not fear. He said to his people—"We are well able to overcome it." If all of God's children were "wholly" His, the world would soon be taken for the Christ. (4) The Lord's oath—Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance" Not the entire country, but his proportionable part of it. Caleb was likely one of the "mixed multitude" that came up out of Egypt. But now, because he wholly followed the Lord, he is taken into the family of Israel and promised his part of the inheritance. Sin has alienated us from the commonwealth of the spiritual Israel, but through faith and a consecrated life, we may be adopted into God's family and made heirs to the heavenly Canaan. (5) The Lord's mercy. a. As to life—"And now behold the Lord has kept me alive." Every one, of mature age, who came up out of Egypt, had fallen in the wilderness, save Joshua and Caleb. The only two old men in all Israel now stood side by side. God had led them through all the dangers of the wilderness life. All the others had fallen through unbelief, but they had been kept through faith. God leads through darkness and suffering, same as through light and joy. And when old we may look back over a well spent life, and like Caleb, say—"The Lord has kept me alive." b. As to vitality—"I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me." God had not only kept him alive but He had kept him young. At eighty-five he felt as able "to go out" to battle, "and to come in" with the spoils, as he did at forty. When Moses was an hundred and twenty years old, "His eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated."

2. The request. (1) His reasons here given for asking for this locality are—his work as a spy; his report in the face of opposition; the oath of the Lord as spoken by Moses; and the mercy of Jehovah shown in his life and strength. These are strong points. They were well thought out, and forcibly presented. It is no wonder Joshua granted them. (2) His petition was—"Give me this mountain." That is, give me Hebron and the land lying about it. Hebron is about twenty miles south of Jerusalem. It is one of the oldest cities in the world. It has to-day a population of about seven thousand. It was soon given by Caleb to the Levites as a city of refuge. As he asked Joshua for this land, so we may ask God for a home in the heavenly world. (3) His motive was not ease, comfort or wealth, but toil and danger. It was the hardest part of Palestine to subdue. The Anakims, a race of giants, lived there. They who ever seek ease, safety and comfort, are not wholly the Lord's. Moses, Caleb, Elisha, Paul, Luther, Wesley, and many others, "Choose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season."

III. Granting the request (13-14). 1. The benediction—"And Joshua blessed him." He likely spoke in glowing language of his work as a spy, and as a soldier: and of the kindness of God in keeping him. He probably bid him God speed in his new work in completing the conquest of Hebron. And prayed that God who had shown him favor in the past would continue to do so in the future. 2. The favor—He "gave unto Caleb Hebron for an inheritance." This was what he desired, and what he asked for. If he had requested large possessions he would likely have received them. Let us ask great things of God that our joy may be full. 3. The reason for granting this request was—"Because he wholly followed the Lord." He did the will of God with his whole heart, mind, soul and strength. The blessings of heaven are sure to rest on all who lead the life of Caleb. "Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come."

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Houston District.

Dear Brethren—This being the fourth and last round for this conference year, it is expected that you will be ready to report your benevolences in full. Stir your committees; have them present with full reports. Arrange to have the quarterage brought up in full; it is not wise to overlook this part of the benevolences.

WM. BARTLEY, P. E.

Columbus District.

Dear Brethren—Please have all your committees ready, and all the other officers that have to report. Let us make a clear and full report on all lines, for we are on the home run. The time is short. Make every edge cut that will. We want to do as well as last year, if not better. I am yours in Christ,

B. F. SMITH, P. E.

North Baltimore District.

Dear Brethren—Having passed two quarters of very successful and pleasant work, let us enter upon the coming quarters determined to accomplish more, in keeping the revival fires burning, pushing all collections and bring them up if possible, stirring up the people in the interest of education, recommending our own beloved Morgan College, Lynchburg and Princess Anne. Push the Educator, a neat, clean and useful journal, and much needed in the homes of our people; remember the SOUTHWESTERN, good Methodist literature will make better Methodist people if read. Talk up the American University among our people, let the splendid temple rise. Brethren, as far as possible, throw your support upon myself and the good stewards; let there be no gathering when I come, so I may have a full sweep for you. Let us pray and study much that the work might succeed, and let us wind up all collections at the last quarter. Yours in His name,

G. W. W. JENKINS, P. E.

Cumberland River District Conference.

The Cumberland River District Conference convened at Gallatin, Tenn., according to previous notice, with L. M. Moores, P. E., in the chair. Forty-five members answered to their names. Rev. J. P. Price, Rev. E. J. Guthrie and Mrs. W. S. Williams were chosen secretaries. The presiding elder's report showed an increase in all departments of church work. Pastors' reports were excellent. Twenty-five local preachers and five exhorters had their licenses renewed. Four brethren were recommended for ordination and three were recommended for reception on trial.

Rev. J. J. Jamarr, Rev. J. A. W. Moore, Dr. J. Braden, Prof. D. W. Byrd, C. B. Wilson, and Presiding Elder Elliont of the C. M. E. Church, fraternal delegates of the Tennessee River Districts, were introduced to the conference and made interesting addresses.

Strong resolutions were offered touching the SOUTHWESTERN, Epworth Herald and Central Tennessee College. Raised on benevolent collection, $206 31.

In Koy Chapel, Sunday morning, Sunday school was taught by Rev. J. Braden, D. D., and Rev. J. P. Price. At 10 a. m., love feast was conducted by Rev. J. P. Price. Dr. J. Braden preached ably at 11 a. m., Brother J. P. Price preached at 3 p. m., and S. S. Ridout preached at 8:30 p. m.; after which 145 took the Lord's Supper. Twelve cash subscribers were secured for the SOUTHWESTERN.

Shubuta District Conference.

The Shubuta District, Mississippi Conference, convened at Ellisville, Miss., as per program, with Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., presiding. G. W. Smith was elected secretary. Dr. M. C. B. Mason delivered an able lecture, and urged the necessity of increased collections for the educational work of the Church.

The music was furnished by Miss Magnolia Shumpert and choir, and was of a high order.

The presiding elder's report showed general prosperity on all lines of church work.

The pastors, with a large number of local preachers, exhorters, stewards, Sunday school superintendents and class leaders, presented reports, showing that the various interests of the Church had been carefully looked after.

On Wednesday evening was another special characteristic. The brethren were agreeably surprised by a banquet which had been prepared by the ladies of Ellisville.

Able sermons were preached during the week by Revs. G. W. Brame, E. [illegible] Roncean, C. Washington, A. B Logan, and A. M. Trotter, presiding elder of the Meridian District.

Sunday was quite a high day for Methodism in the little town of Ellisville. At 11 o'clock, Rev. G. W. Smith occupied the pulpit to the edification of his hearers; at 3 o'clock, Rev. H. May preached ably; and at 7:30, Rev. L. Tate closed the interesting services with an appropriate sermon.

Collection during the session, $96.

Southwestern Christian Advocate.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR. NEW ORLEANS, SEPTEMBER 5, 1895.—Vol. 30. No. 36. HUNT & EATON, PUBLISHERS.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—That precocious, but progressive child of our Methodism in the West, the Omaha Christian Advocate, is a remarkable illustration of the success which may be achieved by united, persistent effort. The General Conference at Omaha provided for its publication by the appointment of a commission of deeply interested brethren, at whose head was the resident bishop. An editor was appointed and the Advocate went forth to represent our Methodism in its patronizing territory. But for the disasters and loss of crops which overtook the people last year, the Advocate would, in all probability, now be upon a "solid paying basis." Less than eight years old, it now gives promise of a successful and brilliant career. The SOUTHWESTERN congratulates editors and publishers.

—Elsewhere we call attention to that great and providential enterprise, the American University. The more we study this wonderful movement, the more are we convinced that it is the most important educational movement of the century. It is growing in the affections of the people beyond the most sanguine expectations of its friends. Bishop John F. Hurst, who has this great enterprise upon his hands and heart more than any other person possibly, is constantly cheered by the substantial co-operation of the Christian people of this land. There is absolutely to be no distinction made in any of its departments, and the colored people are assured that, through all time to come, the doors of the American University will be open to all worthy applicants. We ask a careful reading of the chapters which we will publish, with the prayer that our people will contribute according to their ability, in pushing forward this noble enterprise.

—Selfishness is one of those pre-eminently human characteristics which is so often a source of much mischief. It is ever prominent, alert and active, and being exactly the opposite of charity, seeketh the promotion of its own objects and labors diligently for the advancement of its own personal ends. Selfish people endeavor to make every movement, calling or position contribute to their personal aggrandizement. If they control patronage it is bestowed with a single eye to their own advantage.

In social, civil or religious circles the practice is about the same, and is equally obnoxious. How often do we witness the sad spectacle where offices of public trust are used by incumbents to advance their own personal interests. Nepotism is that species of selfishness which seeks the advancement of members of one's family, to the exclusion of all others, no matter how worthy or competent. These glaring violations of the ethics of political, or of social and domestic economy, attract attention, and, as a matter of course, provoke adverse criticism. The good book tells us that "Love seeketh not her own." By this we infer that a true charitable spirit will prompt one to observe the proprieties in the case, and so bestow his patronage where it will accomplish the greatest good to the cause represented, and where it will not excite suspicion.

It requires a mighty getting down to first principles, a mighty surrender of self to reach that attitude between God and man, where, like the great apostle to the Gentiles, we "have renounced the hidden things of dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor handling the word of God deceitfully, but by manifestation of the truth, commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God."

By all means "Let all things be done decently and in order."

"OUR DUTY TO THE NEGRO."

We do not remember ever to have read a more comprehensive and timely editorial from any Southern editor than the one which we are now reviewing from the pen of Dr. E. E. Hoss, editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate, the official organ of the strongest religious denomination in the South. It will hardly be doubted that the good editor voices the sentiment of a large majority of his vast constituency. Hence, the editorial is entitled to the more attention since it presages a better era for the Negro. To sum up briefly, Dr. Hoss says that the Negro is a man and a citizen; and as such, he has in common with all the rest of us the full right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Further, he pleads for that treatment of his weaker neighbor which will give him "the fullest opportunity to make the most of such abilities natural and acquired as he may possess."

He denounces "the spirit that would oppress the colored people simply because it is possible to do so with impunity." He recognizes, as does every thoughtful Christian minister in the South, that there are Negroes, and Negroes; that bad people are alike, whether black or white; that "nothing is more unjust than the disposition which is sometimes manifested to look with contempt upon all Negroes on the ground that some of them are guilty of great crimes." He advises employers of Negro labor to help lessen the burdens of their patient and faithful laborers by granting a little more than the often scanty means, and allowing them the use of a garden plot, and otherwise encouraging them in lessons of home making and domestic happiness.

On the questions of education and religion, he voices the sentiment of the philanthropic people everywhere. Knowledge is better for any soul than ignorance. Good citizenship demands that diffusion of knowledge which will bring its benefits within reach of the humblest citizen. Dr. Hoss also bears testimony to the piety of the Negro, and pays a splendid tribute to those who "have withstood a strain on character that would have been a test to even civilized Anglo-Saxons." But the Negro must understand that "no race of men can be permanently held in tutelage or propped up from the outside." It is perfectly reasonable to suppose that this well-meant process has been abused; but the Negro, recognizing that the time has come for him to demonstrate his ability to look out for his own welfare, is doing a commendable work in building character from within.

Altogether the argument is in excellent spirit, sound, logical and conclusive, and coming as it does from one of the ablest of our Southern white men, must effectively appeal to Southern white Christians that their treatment of the Negro should be in accordance with the requirements of the Gospel of the Lord Jesus; to all of which we say—Amen.

—It is quite probable that a peremptory demand will be made by the United States for the release of Ex Consul Waller, with indemnity for the outrageous manner in which he has been treated by the French authorities at Tamatave. It has been our opinion all along that the French authorities have acted far too hastily in this matter, and also that while our consular representative, Mr. Eustus, was seeking an investigation, he was nevertheless painfully tardy. It now seems that all the necessary steps have been taken, and with promptness also; and there is also a strong probability that Mr. Waller will soon be at liberty. Thus we have another instance in which our great and good government is able to protect its citizens (black or white) at home and abroad. Glorious country! Glorious flag! Glorious citizenship!

A REIGN OF TERROR.

There are some people no doubt who think we have too much to say about the treatment which is generally meted out to black people in various sections of the Southland. Guilty or not guilty, whenever ignorant and vicious native white men, with equally ignorant and vicious foreign allies, say the word, the Negro must go or be subjected to the most outrageous treatment. No discrimination is made as between the colored people who are law-abiding and industrious and those who are indolent, vicious and dangerous. Indeed, the mobocrats are more apt to terrorize the better class of colored citizens. Only a day or two ago, a reputable and law-abiding colored gentleman of this city showed us a printed notice, warning Negroes that they would not be permitted to work at a certain establishment near where he was engaged, and this, too, within a few miles of the City Hall of New Orleans.

We have just received the following letter from one of our most courageous and progressive presiding elders, which, while it reveals a terrible condition of affairs, only gives a faint idea of the terrible indignities to which our people are subjected:

"We are having a hard time in these parts. White Caps seem to have control. I have lost a whole membership of about one hundred souls at ——. They were compelled to leave their crops, and in many instances sell their homes for far less than value. Only ten days were allowed to get out of the county. All this, without any assigned reason! How long will this state of affairs continue?"

Such things cannot cease as long as so-called "political reformers" are permitted to delude the people with the cry of so-called "ballot reform," "white supremacy" and kindred expressions, designed only to array the races, one against the other. This is the sowing; but the reaping will be terrible!

A SAFE LEADER.

The following dispatch gives us unbounded pleasure

"Atlanta, Aug. 22.—The Negro race will be represented in the opening exercises of the Cotton States Exposition here next month by Prof. Booker T. Washington. The Negro orator of Alabama has been invited to deliver a formal address on opening day. The invitation was extended by a unanimous vote of the directors to-day. Washington is one of the ablest men of his race. He is at the head of an industrial school for blacks at Tuskegee, and has the fullest respect and confidence of the white people of Alabama. Gov. Oates delivered the commencement address at that institution this year. Washington has worked faithfully to fill the Negro building at the exhibition with exhibits which will show the progress of his race."

Professor Washington is a remarkable illustrator of the possibilities of the Negro, when given an opportunity to demonstrate his fitness for any position to which men may be called.

—The minutes of the Central Council of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Europe, came to hand last week. The front page has an excellent portrait of our own resident bishop, James N. FitzGerald, D. D., LL. D., who was also president of the council. On the last page are the portraits of the delegates representing Bulgaria, Denmark, Finland, Italy, North Germany, Norway, South Germany, Sweden and Switzerland, and if we include our own Bishop FitzGerald, we have our world-wide Methodism represented. Verily, our God is marching on!

—Brother S. H. Bell, a prominent member of our Church on the Friendsville (Tenn.) Circuit, departed this life in great peace recently.

The American University.

By Bishop John F. Hurst, D. D., LL. D.

On May 28, 1891, the American University was incorporated in the District of Columbia, for post-graduate and professional courses of study and for original research. Its design is to secure the best and highest instruction in every department of human learning, under influences intellectually the strongest and spiritually the purest. The charter from the District of Columbia was surrendered and a new charter, with enlarged powers, was granted by Congress in 1893.

The search for a probable site for the institution in the suburban region of Washington began in January, 1890, and was continued two weeks until January 25, when an appropriate piece of ground was found. The merits of the chosen site lay chiefly in its being an undivided tract, elevated four hundred feet above the sea level, and of such surface as to make the entire space available for sites of buildings. It consists of ninety acres of ground on the northwest heights of the District of Columbia. It is a plateau from which the ground declines both on the city and country sides. The view from it toward the northwest commands the panorama of the Blue Ridge mountains, forty miles away; while on the city side, to the south and east, the eye rests upon the national capital, the Manassas plains, and the Potomac down to Alexandria. For a perfect atmosphere, no better place could be found. This feature had to be considered with the utmost care from the fact that students would live there, or in the neighborhood, from September to the following June.

It was not known when the land was selected precisely what relation it would sustain to the great residence street, namely, Massachusetts Avenue; but a few months after the contract was made, it was learned that Massachusetts Avenue, if extended in a straight line, would go directly to the site, passing the new Naval Observatory on the way.

The land was bought by faith alone. There was no wealthy individual who came forward to make pledges for its purchase. Every step at the initial stages was taken on the ground of reliance on the great multitude of Christian people, and not upon the generosity of one or of a few. Mr. John F. Waggaman, of Washington, furnished the $1,000 for the option. The option was later accepted, and the land was purchased for $100,000. The first payment of $20,000 was made February 25, 1890. The remaining payments have been met, and on March 1, 1895, the last payment was made, and the land is now in the possession of the trustees of the American University. It seemed only fair that the citizens of Washington should pay for the site, and this plan has been strictly adhered to, though a few individuals from a distance have seen fit to add their contributions. It is safe to say that $90,000 of the amount has been furnished by the citizens of Washington alone. Congregations, Sunday schools, government officers, clergymen, merchants, clerks and mechanics, and people of every class, have contributed toward the fund. It is highly probable that at least ten thousand of the citizens of Washington have been contributors for the purchase of the site of the American University.

EPWORTH LEAGUE -:- -:- DEPARTMENT.

"Look Up, Lift Up."

Conducted by Rev. E. B. BERRYMAN, Cheraw, S. C.

August 7, 1895.

The Healing of the Centurion's Servant.

Matt. 8: 5-13; Luke 7: 1-10.

The centurion was a strong, positive character, a real Roman. Amidst Pagan notions he had been reared. Pagan gods he had worshiped. By his government he had been sent to Galilee in charge of a hundred Roman soldiers. His headquarters were at Capernaum. Here he lived in style and comparative ease. Fortunately he was gifted with an inquiring mind and a teachable heart. Happy combination! Of greater worth was this combined endowment than the wealth of Crœsus or the sceptre of Rome. Following the gentle leadings of truth, he emerged from the mists of heathenism into the light-flooded plain of the Jewish idea of God. That this change was not of a superficial nature is in part proven by the testimony of the elders that he loved them and by his having built them a synagogue. To this day the traditional ruins of this synagogue are viewed with intense interest by the tourist from Christian lands.

1. His trouble.—A servant was very ill and likely to die. Trouble on this account? How contrary to Pagan usage! By them slaves were regarded as little worthy of sympathy as cattle; valuable chiefly from a commercial standpoint. Truly, noble centurion, thou hast already anticipated one of the fundamental principles of true religion—the brotherhood of man!

2. His faith.—How grandly it serves him now! How effective, too, it is in that it is controlled by wise management. Fearing that his request might be ignored because he was a Gentile, he sends his message by Jewish elders. Behold, the Savior nears Capernaum; the cavalcade meet Him and present their pompous plea; when, lo! a change! there glides in upon the scene—

3 Beautiful humility.—"I am not worthy that Thou shouldst enter under my roof." It is the centurion himself. What wonder that faith can grow stalwart and tower high when rooted in such soil! In true grandeur of soul he further adds, "Neither thought I myself worthy to come unto Thee." What a charming spirit! Surely the earth would pass away and the heavens fall before God would deny a request of faith springing from such humility!—Zion's Herald.

Children's Day and Its Collections

So many hundred letters, laden with commendation for the "Golden Gate" Program used on Children's Day and with kinds words for the secretary, have been received, that a personal reply to each is impracticable. Will the brethren sending these letters kindly accept the cordial thanks of the writer with the assurance of his high appreciation of these fraternal messages?

All will be glad to know that Children's Day was more largely observed than ever before, and that the program issued by the Board of Education this year was much more extensively used than any previous program, the sale falling not far, if any, below eight hundred thousand, which indicates an audience on that day of nearly or quite three millions of people including the flower of the youth of the Church. It is also gratifying to state that the collections already received show an advance upon last year. The brethren will bear in mind that every dollar of this money is used in aiding worthy young people seeking an advanced education, and that there are more than fifteen hundred of such youths largely depending upon this aid to prosecute their studies the coming school year. It will be better for all parties interested if all Children's Day collections, instead of being kept until conference time, are forwarded immediately to the secretary, 150 Fifth Ave., New York City. A voucher will at once be given for the money, the individual church will thus receive credit in the published Annual Report of the Board, and the students in our schools will surely and speedily receive the benefit of the money raised for this most worthy cause.

Birmingham District Conference.

The Birmingham District Conference of the Central Alabama Conference convened in Springville, Ala., Aug. 6, Rev. W. Prettyman, D. D., presiding. N. H. Speight was elected secretary, with L. W. Goodson assistant. The missionary sermon was preached by Rev. Paul G. Goines. Thursday night the educational anniversary was held; Prof. R. S. Lovinggood, A. M., principal of the city school of Birmingham; Prof. A. W. McKinney, A. M., and Rev. J. S. Todd, B. D., were the speakers.

The SOUTHWESTERN was not left out, for local preachers and others promised as never before to subscribe for it.

Much praise must be given to the white citizens, who treated us with the greatest kindness.

The W. H. M. Society was organized, with Mrs. J. S. Todd, of Gadsden, president; Mrs. L. H. Speight, Mrs. P. G. Goines and Mrs. Laura Jackson vice presidents, and Mrs. Eliza Taylor treasurer.

The Sunday School Institute was organized, with L. W. Goodson as president and R. S. Lovinggood secretary.

The reports of pastors, local preachers, exhorters, class leaders, Sunday School superintendents and Epworth League workers were encouraging.

The 11 o'clock services were largely attended. The collection on benevolences amounted to $209 85.

N. H. SPEIGHT, Secretary.

Huntsville District Conference.

The Huntsville District Conference convened in Courtland, Alabama, August 8, with Presiding Elder I. Townsend in the chair. W. F. Smith was elected secretary. The report of the presiding elder was encouraging. Reports from pastors and others revealed a highly encouraging condition in all departments.

The afternoon on Friday was devoted to the literary work. The paper on Temperance, read by Miss Jennie L. Carpenter, brought on considerable discussion. The speakers were Revs. Glen, Wynn and Dr. Lether of the Southern M. E. Church, and the writer. The conference ordered that the paper be sent to the SOUTHWESTERN for publication.

Miss Carpenter also read a paper on the SOUTHWESTERN. She showed in it that a preacher of the M. E. Church was unfit to be pastor without his Church paper. She said that the entire membership would take the paper if the preachers would do their whole duty along these lines. Dr. Smith followed with a strong argument, showing that we gather more profit by taking our Church literature.

Sunday was a day of long remembrance. It was attended with spiritual power. Presiding Elder Townsend, L. H. Mixon, A. G. Glenn and G. W. Wynn preached able sermons, and the writer preached the closing sermon, to an over-flowing congregation. Two persons joined the church, and $120 16 was raised for benev olent purposes.

Three persons were licensed to preach, one candidate was recommended for orders, and one recommended for the traveling connection. W. F. SMITH, Sec'y.

NOT A SICK DAY

For Over Thirty Years!

RESULT OF USING

AYER'S PILLS

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills for over thirty years have kept me in good health, never having had a sick day in all that time. Before I was twenty I suffered almost continually—as a result of constipation—from dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia, or boils and other eruptive diseases. When I became convinced that nine-tenths of my troubles were caused by constipation, I began the use of Ayer's Pills, with the most satisfactory results, never having a single attack that did not readily yield to this remedy. My wife, who had been an invalid for years, also began to use Ayer's Pills, and her health was quickly restored. With my children I had noticed that nearly all their ailments were preceded by constipation, and I soon had the pleasure of knowing that with children as with parents, Ayer's Pills, if taken in season, avert all danger of sickness."—H. Christianity as Taught by Christ the True Religion.

Rev. C. L. JOHNSON, Marion, Ala.

If I am seeking poetry, I call in Homer, Horace, Virgil, Milton, Shakespeare, and our own American poets; but the teachings of Jesus Christ, the Redeemer of the world, are infinitely greater than those of a poet. If am seeking philosophy, I go to Plato and to Aristotle, the two head springs of the old system; I go to Bacon and Locke of the new school; I sit down and spend the whole evening with our own American Emerson. But the teachings of Jesus Christ, the Man of Galilee, are indescribably more than those of a philosopher. Christ taught Christianity in love, purity and a sublimity that put the whole world to wonder and brought down a voice from heaven saying, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." As a man, Christ may be called the teacher of love—for this is taught by no one else as by him.

If Mohammed should claim to teach it, I should ask him why he spreads his religion by the point of the bayonet and the edge of the sword? If Confucius should claim to teach it, I should tell him that God so loved the world and Christ sent his disciples into all the world, while the religion of Confucius is simply a national religion. Thus we might take up each religion of the world and each would lack this quality of love But Christianity being based as it is upon the teachings of Christ, and Christ being the acknowledged Savior of the world, it is truly the only doctrine of the plan of salvation centering in one great hero whose flag shall wave in the breeze above those of all nations. His kingdom is an everlasting and all pervading kingdom.

Egypt, Persia, Greece and Rome, each a great nation, rose and fell. The historian is to-day sitting, with pen in hand and watching the Kingdom of Great Britain, while our republic is wrestling in the throes of party strife, and in some localities the lynchings and other acts of lawlessness have almost brought about a state of anarchy and continuous race trouble; which, if kept up, will surely bring down our national doom with a smash that will place us among the other nations of oblivion. But Bryant says: "All things that are on earth shall wholly pass away except the love of God, which shall live and last for aye." And we learn from Christ himself that though heaven and earth shall pass away, his word shall stand. Again he says, "My kingdom is an everlasting kingdom.

These teachings are clear of all superstition and therefore a system of reason as well as of faith. We have good ground for stating that they are clear of all superstition, because Christ, the great author, is the clearest character of superstition that history hands down to us from all antiquity. In the lessons of Christ, the Christian finds a purity of sweetness that is found nowhere except in things pertaining to him.

We now conclude that, as Christianity was established by those who lived in the time of Jesus upon earth and by those who lived soon after that time, it is necessary to suppose that they would have established a system, or rather spread one that he had established, upon what they had learned from his character and what he had taught them in words. Thus accepting the fact that Jesus Christ did live here and walk the hills and plains of Galilee, teach upon the mountains and the seas, and that the doctrines of Christianity were instituted by him and spread by his own immediate trustworthy followers, we must accept the fact of the entire truthfulness of Christianity, and that while other religions contain some truth, it is the only wholly true religion.

Again, if we look at it from a mere theoretical standpoint, we must even then admit that such a system as Christianity has proven to be, must be Divine.

We now say that since we accept Christianity as being the only truthful teaching, and since it has been fully acknowledged, it ought to be taught in every school and every home from the primary grades, and the smallest child that toddles in the home to the oldest child of every family; it ought to be spread with renewed vigor from every pulpit and set forth around every family altar of the world till the kingdom of our Lord shall become the kingdom of all nations.

In these last years of the nineteenth century, when we have the use of electricity, steam and other late discoveries and inventions to extend Christianity, there should not be a single hour nor chance lost in this all-important work. We should go forth to-day saying, "Let all the earth praise the Lord for his goodness and for his wonderful works toward the children of men."

Christ has taught us as a great man; he has redeemed us as God; he has laid seemingly one hand upon the justice of God, and the other an alienated, condemned race; he has drawn man to God as one that had drifted away and made them kiss in a friendship that will last through all time and only mature and sweeten as the ages of eternity roll.

Huntsville District Epworth League and Sunday School Convention.

The sixth annual session of the Epworth League and Sunday School Convention convened at Willis, Texas, according to appointment, with Rev. A. C. Culbreath in the chair.

After devotional service, conducted by C. M. Singleton, C. G. Curtis was elected secretary, with Miss Ella Washington, Lucina Hubbard and Miss Susie Pitts as assistants; E. Holiday was elected treasurer, and C. M. Singleton librarian. C. G. Curtis, S. M. Boldea and M. Q. A. Fuller were appointed on a committee of temperance.

The convention was largely attended, with representatives from nearly every Sunday school and Epworth League chapter on the district. We had a large and nicely arranged program, which was wisely carried out. Presiding Elder Culbreath proved himself to be the right man in the right place. A nice paper was read, tendering him a vote of thanks for his wise and judicial manner of administering the institute. Papers from pastors and representatives were read and discussed.

We were favored with the presence of Rev. O. I. Jones, agent of the S. S. Union Society of the M. E. Church, Texas Conference, who spoke in the interests of the society and a handsome collection was taken for the cause. Brother Jones is one of the prominent sons of Gammon Institute. Hear ye him.

Rev. F. Gary, of Galvestoa, was introduced and he infused light and life into the meeting. He also preached Friday night. The Texas Conference does well to be proud of such a man.

Sunday was a day set apart for a grand rally, and all the pastors, local preachers and exhortors were allowed twenty minutes to produce a sermon and lift his collection. A large amount was raised.

Rev. S. M. Boldea, our popular organist, was present with his singing choir, and the occasion was interspersed with sweet music.

Several resolutions were offered touching the work of the district and its general good.

A grand temperance meeting was held on Monday morning, which was of vast importance.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered to the good people of Willis, for the generous way of caring for the convention, and also to the pastor, M. Q. A. Fuller, for his systematic way of arranging for our stay; also to the presiding elder for his fatherly manner of conducting the affairs of the district; and to the secretaries for their labor.

OUR : WOMEN'S : ROUND : TABLE

The Influence of the Home in the Uplifting of our People.

TWENTY-FIRST LETTER—BY T. E. W.

Since my last letter I have had many encouraging words from women who are deeply interested in the progress of the race. The Editor has reported the names of several prominent ladies who are expected to contribute interesting letters to this department. In another letter I will give the names of the recent additions to our Women's Round Table Club. In the meantime I invite correspondence from all the ministers' wives and other prominent ladies connected with the Church, throughout the patronizing territory of the SOUTHWESTERN. The Church at large will be especially glad to have a word from the pens of the women who are doing so grandly in pushing forward the work of the Redeemer's kingdom. Especially is it desirable to know what the women of our race, in the M. E. Church, are doing to advance the cause of their fellow-women.

Another Phase of the Woman Question.

From the number and extent of women's organizations for literary, political or reform movements a healthy reaction has begun to develop in the various clubs which are springing up everywhere in which men and women may work together. The Chautauqua Circle is one of the great organizations which has wisely emphasized the importance of the union of men and women in education. Many of the strongest Chautauqua Circles are connected with churches, and led by able men or women as the case may be. A number of the State and county officers of the C. L. S. C. are men, and a man is invariably selected as the president of the new C. L. S. C. Class.

Miss Georgia Patton, M. D., who has spent some time in Africa, returns to her native land for rest and recuperation Her description of the return voyage from Monrovia was graphic and interesting. She will probably deliver several lectures in different parts of the country on her experiences in Africa and knowledge of its peculiar people.

"AS BECOMETH THE GOSPEL."

The following letter and editorial comment from the Western Christian Advocate of a recent date is so pertinent and comprehensive that we gladly publish it entirely. We know that there are scores, even hundreds of honest Christian brethren, who are importuned and coaxed sometimes with the promise of an appointment, and often threatened with the official displeasure of the aspiring candidates, if they do not trot right up and vote for them. It is a shame on our boasted Christianity when we see men going around crying, coaxing, threatening, cajoling, courting, and resorting frequently to the most questionable methods, to get votes. As a rule, this sort of a canvasser should be left at home by a large majority. But we commend the splendid letter of our esteemed contemporary, the Western Christian Advocate, with the hope that a careful reading of it may help many of our brethren who are so sorely beset:

"A brother, whose name for piety and loyalty to Methodism is as ointment poured forth, writes:

"'Will you pardon me for a suggestion? I do not insist upon its adoption, but invite attention to it. I have no doubt but the interest of the Church will be served and God glorified by acting upon it. There are delegates to be elected at the meeting of the —— Lay Electoral and Annual Conferences at ——. Some of the best men and women of our denomination will represent the Church at that time. Unless the actions and spirit of some of the aspirants are restrained in their efforts for election, many of these good men and women will return home thoroughly disgusted with them and the management of the Church caucuses.'

"There is this danger in each of the approaching conferences. It is needful and wise to lift the warning voice. No one is worthy to represent his conference who would not a thousand times rather be forever unknown than to be exalted to official prominence to the detriment of the Church. In one sense, the ambition to be fit and worthy to represent the conference in the General Conference is landable. The moment, however, that this ambition takes unbecoming steps to secure its realization, it becomes a leprous scale on the body of a man's godliness. What, then, is becoming and what unbecoming? This is more than a question of casuistry, it is a question of practical morality. All will agree that it is becoming for those whose duty it is to select the delegates, to canvass the relative qualifications of those whose recognized merits have placed them in nomination. This is necessary to an intelligent discharge of duty.

"On the other hand, all resort to political methods should be sternly discountenanced. No one should solicit votes for himself; and beyond stating the claims of a friend, simply that you may understand them when freely making up your mind, no one should work for another. Equally wrong, from the same standpoint, it must be conceded it would be, to engage in personal and persistent 'electioneering' to defeat any one. Such methods are of the world, worldly For this reason all caucusing is unbecoming, and so also is every proposition to trade votes—to 'vote for your candidate if you will vote for mine."

"It would be unspeakably unbecoming to seek to command votes by intimidation, however disguised; or by bribes, however expressed. The holiness of Christian manhood should resent the least indication of either, as purity would spurn the advances of a lecher.

"It is unbecoming to cast any complimentary votes. When such a course is suggested, there is usually the hidden purpose to secure by guile what never could be won in honest competition. Besides, the prayerful use of our ballots is inconsistent with vending them for compliments. Every ballot should have our best judgment and conscience in it.

"In the discharge of this solemn duty we should put beneath our feet all personalities either of friendship or opposition. We should never seek to repay kindness by a ballot, where gratitude is the solitary argument; nor under any circumstances to avenge a wrong by a ballot.

"Putting aside all such things, sincerely and earnestly desiring and seeking the good of the Church, we should select every name as a sacramental act for God. And every name should be selected rather than elected; for the latter need not be performed with prayer, but the former bears the aroma of consecration."

"DON'T DRAW THE COLOR LINE."

"Our General Cabinet has endorsed the plan to appoint a colored Epworth League assistant secretary to work among his own people in the South. This is only another way of drawing the color line. We have no possible objection to the employment of a bright young colored brother to act as assistant to Dr. Schell. We know several men who would fill the position admirably. But we would not have him selected because his skin is dark, nor would we ordain that he must work only among colored Methodists. The Methodist Episcopal Church does not believe in the color line. So she has declared in a hundred formal documents, and so she says to-day. When we formed separate white and colored conferences we blundered. That inconsistent action can never be successfully defended. Our enemies say we preach one thing and practice another. It sometimes looks a little that way. Now, we must not go further in the inconsistency by electing a general church officer because he is colored, and say that he must work with his own people only. If we need a special Epworth secretary in the Southern field let us have him by all means. But he must be the best man regardless of color, and must be sent to labor with Methodist Episcopalians regardless of color. The lessons taught us by the Chattanooga incident and the newspaper comments thereon should not be lost. The Methodist Episcopal Church has never rescinded nor modified her declaration of principles, so far as her colored membership is concerned. She stands to-day where she has been from the beginning. Look out for that color line. Let no one dare to draw it in the Epworth League. A Church official who is good enough to serve the Church in one section of the country is good enough to serve it in all other sections. That Southern assistant, if he is appointed, must not be selected because he is a black man, nor because he is not a white man, but because he is a man, a brother, a Christian, a Methodist, and because he has a mission to all Methodist Episcopalians."
—Epworth Herald.

We are not surprised at the fearless, outspoken sentiments of our genial confere, Dr. Berry. We have always numbered him among the Christian editors of this land who have stood fearlessly in their advocacy of equal and exact justice for the black man, and such facts as he has packed into the foregoing comprehensive editorial are in keeping with the well-known position of the able and accomplished author. We endorse every word uttered by the Herald, and more. That the Methodist Episcopal Church made a mistake in sanctioning the establishment of colored conferences, is putting it mildly. No successful defense can be made for the act which inaugurated a system that has not only complicated matters, but has kept this ghost of the "color line" disagreeably and conspicuously prominent ever since. We have a suspicion that some of the movements looking toward the appointment of colored men to certain colored positions in the Church, are frequently encouraged by those who regard this method as the easiest way to reach what is undoubtedly desired by some, viz: The organization of the colored membership into a separate Church. From which, we pray, "good Lord deliver us."

With Dr. Berry, we have "no objection to the appointment of a bright, young colored brother to act as assistant to Dr. Schell," but we do most emphatically object to the appointment of any brother to work exclusively among colored Methodists. It is probable, that men who see only the temporary advantages which the office alone implies, would favor such a plan. In such a case, a grievous blunder might be made in the selection of the man, and we would here give a gentle word of caution. The better course would be to select the best man that can be found; guarding against loading him down with disagreeable restrictions. We have men of eminent abilities who will, if given a fair opportunity, win their way to the equal confidence and respect of their Methodist brethren in all parts of our great field. We hope that the time will never come when appointments for colored men in the Methodist Episcopal Church will be accompanied with the proviso: To colored people only. Let us have fair play all around. If it is really desired to recognize the colored man, let it be done without a compromise.

We hope our friends (and "they are legion") will not insist on placing the colored man in an equivocal position. But this everlasting color question! It has many sides and phases, and will require all the grace which the good Father can bestow to enable his children to regard it as the most natural thing imaginable, but not for a moment to be a stumbling block to retard the progress of Christian brotherhood.

—We were not favored with a complimentary copy of Miss Alice Ruth Moore's recent literary production, which the naughty New Orleans Picayune man called "slop." It is just possible, however, that the criticism was somewhat unkind, but Miss Moore will probably survive. As between admirers, who are extravagant in their words of commendation, and others who are brusque and often rude in their unfavorable comments, an amateur book-maker must suffer no little. These thrusts, however, are an excellent discipline and will be found very helpful to the lady if she proposes to pursue a literary course. If she has given to the public a book, all right; but it must be understood that they who write books do so with the understanding that the critic is abroad, and a sharp pen thrust occasionally is not the worst thing that can befall one's literary productions. But, seriously, too much praise is as much to be deprecated as too much censure. The writer who depends upon fulsome praise and obsequious adulation, depends upon trash. Miss Moore evidently has ability, and if it is worthy of intelligent criticism it will accrue to her advantage. But we hope she will be spared the fate of many who have been literally smothered to death with praise.

—Well, it is a great thing in many respects to move. Metaphorically speaking, to move is to go onward, or forward, or upward, and it may be downward. In common parlance, it is to get out of one house or place into another. Newspapers move or do not move; very often that depends very largely upon the business of the concern. We congratulate our esteemed contemporary, The Star of Zion, official organ of the A. M. E. Zion Church, on having accomplished what others of us would appreciate highly, viz: getting out of the old and narrow-contracted quarters, into the more commodious and newspaper-like quarters which it now occupies—from a rented room in Salisbury, North Carolina, to a more pretentious, connectional building in Charlotte, N. C. With better facilities and better surroundings, means a step upward and forward for the race. We congratulate Editor Clinton and the managers of the concern on being able not only to see their opportunity but to seize it.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Rev. J. M. Shumpert, D. D., presiding elder of the Shubuta (Miss.) District, writes that Rev. S. J. Wood has withdrawn from the M. E. Church.

—Brother J. H. Cole writes encouragingly of affairs at Waynesboro, Georgia. Presiding Elder O'Neal gave them a visit, which greatly revived everything.

—Rev. G. W. Ziegler, pastor of Wiley M. E. Church at Chattanooga, Tenn., is making a splendid record. At a recent rally for the church debt, the collection was $350.

—Mrs. James B. Cowan, of Centreville, La., daughter of Rev. Pierre Landry, presiding elder of South New Orleans District, has been visiting her father at his beautiful home at Donaldsonville, La. Her many friends tendered her an ovation prior to her return home.

—We are under many obligations for an invitation from Dr. Ernest Lyon, of New York, to meet the world-renowned Negro scholar and distinguished diplomat, Rev. Edward Wilmot Blyden, D. D., LL. D. The reception was held in St. Mark's M. E. Church, New York, on Friday, August 23.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

Rev. A. J. Ford, pastor of Union Chapel, this city, has been quite ill, but at this date is much improved.

Presiding Elders J. F. Marshall of the Baton Rouge, F. T. Chinn of the Monroe, and Pierre Landry of the South New Orleans Districts were in the city last week.

Rev. T. G. Montgomery of Mt. Zion reports a good day, Sabbath. General class in the morning; Epworth League service at 3 p. m. Rev. A. A. Lacy of Dulac, La., preached at night to a good sized audience. The day altogether was profitably spent.

Rev. G. S. Easton, late of Hammond, La., and Brother Crawford of the Gulf Mission, have recently been transferred out of the Louisiana Conference. Brother Easton goes back to his old home conference—the Cincinnati, and Brother Crawford to one of the Indiana Conferences. We shall greatly miss them, and regret to give up two such royal souls. We shall be exceedingly happy if we shall get in exchange two others of like spirit, sentiment and devotion to our whole Methodism.

The Editor of this paper received pressing invitations to preach last Sunday—at 11 a. m., at St. Peter's A. M. E. Church, and at 8 p. m., at our own Mallalieu M. E. Church. At the former appointment we took the place of the presiding elder, Dr. Augustus, and by his request. At the latter we occupied the pulpit for that veteran and capable pastor, Rev. Stephen Priestley, who holds his own at Mallalieu with characteristic push and vigor. We greatly enjoyed the services at each of these churches.

Accompanied by Rev. F. T. Chinn, presiding elder of Monroe District, we visited the St. James District Conference of the A. M. E. Church, at Algiers, La., on Friday of last week. Rev. T. A. Wilson, one of the most efficient presiding elders, was in the chair, assisted by an able corps of secretaries. We were received by the conference in the most cordial and fraternal manner, and in response to pressing invitations made addresses which were evidently well received. Brother Chinn was at his best, and fairly carried the conference by his eloquence. Revs. Haynes, Mitchell and Presiding Elder Wilson responded in an able manner. It was a splendid occasion, and the visit was highly enjoyed.

Texas Conference Epworth League Convention.

The convention opened Tuesday, Aug. 6, in St. Paul M. E. Church, Palestine, Texas, with Prof. H. B. Pemberton, A. M., of Wiley University, president, in the chair, who also gave a very interesting lecture, showing the advantages of the organization, objects, etc. G. J. Izard was elected secretary, with Rev. M. Q. A. Fuller as assistant.

The following well prepared papers were read: "The League and the pastor," J. E. Bryant; "The need of a reading circle in each chapter and best plan of organization," M. Q. A. Fuller; "The Epworth League a progressive institution," Miss Maggie Smith; "Are we not giving too much prominence to the literary department of our League," J. A. Mosely; "The League supplies a long want," G. J. Izard; "The unity of the League," J. H. Wilkins, M. D. Able discussions followed by Drs. Snowden of Marshall, Sparks of Jefferson, Roberts of the city, and others.

The election of officers resulted as follows: H. B. Pemberton, A. M., re-elected president; G. J. Izard, first vice president; Mrs. R. A. McMillan, second vice president; J. A. Mosely, third vice president; Mrs. E. N. Bowers, fourth vice president; J. C. Pitts, secretary; M. Q. A. Fuller, treasurer.

The secretary was instructed to notify each presiding elder to ascertain from his districts correct and full reports, and send them to Prof. H. B. Pemberton at once.

The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The great Epworth League of the M. E. Church is an educator, and should at once adopt some educational plans to raise money for said purposes; therefore,

Resolved, That this convention in session recommends to the board of control the appointment of the Sunday nearest to the 15th day of May to be observed by the Epworth League as an educational day; a collection be taken that day for the educational cause of the M. E. Church.

WHEREAS, The Southwestern Christian Advocate, under the able management of Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, has its circulation in this country flowing in too narrow a stream, and that a wider circulation of it means a wider circulation of influence and ingathering—spiritually, intellectually and financially; therefore be it

Resolved, That each officer of the Epworth League in the Texas Conference take the SOUTHWESTERN, and as many members as possible who are not officers.

Resolved, That the Editor give a space in the SOUTHWESTERN to publish the work and doings of the League in this conference.

Other resolutions commending President Pemberton's work and pledging the co-operation of the League; also to Rev. J. E. Bryant, pastor; to the good people of Palestine, and to Mrs. Della Moseley for music; after which the convention adjourned.

G. J. Izard, Sec'y.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The Season for September, just received, contains over one hundred useful and seasonable designs for ladies' and children's garments, and also twelve beautiful colored illustrations; some exquisite designs in color, of new hats, toques and waist garniture, very carefully illustrated and described. The summer and early autumn has been well studied in the quaint and pretty costumes for misses and children, whilst the ladies will find many pretty toilettes shown, suitable for any occasion, the quiet of home as well as for all ceremonious occasions. The art work embraces every popular kind in use, and of new and beautiful designs, over fifty illustrations being given, and a supplement of lace designs, some very new patterns being shown. The Season is one of the very best fashion magazines before the public, and should be in every home where a love of beautiful things is desired. The price asked bringing it within the means of all. Yearly subscription, $3 50; single copies, 30 cents. The International News Company, 83 and 85 Duane street, New York, N. Y.

A School History of the United States, by Susan Pendleton Lee, author of "Life of General William N. Pendleton;" with questions and summaries for reviews and essays, by Lonise Manly, teacher of literature and languages, and author of Southern literature. B. F. Johnson Publishing Co., Richmond, Va. Contains over 600 pages. Price, $1 50; introduction price, $1 25. Mrs. Lee, the author, is a daughter of Gen. William N. Pendleton, who was a conspicuous figure in the late Confederate army. The book is prepared very largely with the view of calling attention to the part which the Confederacy played in the late civil war, and in this respect she does full justice to her subject.

"From Virginia to Georgia," a Tribute in Song by Virginia Women," is the title of a beautiful little booklet published under the auspices of the Virginia Department of Woman Workers for the Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta, Ga. This booklet contains poems by Miss M. G. McClelland, Mrs. Margaret J. Preston, Annie Steger Winston, Amelie Rives, Anne Fitzhugh Wilmer, and a number of other talented Virginia writers. The book contains the autograph of each writer. It is sold with a view of raising funds to help in a worthy object, and, independent of that, it richly deserves a place in every home, and, we may say, in every heart. Some of the poems are the brightest and most beautiful ever written in the English language. They go from grave to gay, and will touch tender cords in every heart. Handsomely bound in vegetable parchment; beautiful emblematic gold stamp, and tied with silk cord, enclosed in a neat box. Price, 50 cents. For sale by the booksellers, or may be ordered from the publishers, B. F. Johnson Publishing Company, Richmond, Va.

Reign of High Carnival—St. Louis in a Blaze of Glory—Seven Weeks of Uninterrupted Gaiety.

The name of America's greatest carnival center—St. Louis—will be blazoned on the skies of gaiety from September 4 to October 19, 1895. The eighteenth annual reign of carnival will pervade the city, and for seven weeks European capitals noted for their seasons of mystery and regal entertainment will gracefully bow to the superiority of the city on the banks of the Mississippi.

September 4 will mark the opening of the 12th annual St. Louis Exhibition. This splendid feature of St. Louis' carnival period will remain open until Oct. 19. In addition to Sousa's world-famed band, many new attractions will be offered. Sept. 4 to 14, the celebrated French Equilibrists, the Kins-Ners, will appear. Sept. 15 to 28, Caicedo, "The King of the Wire," and Lenis Oloriz, "The Man Monkey," by their unique entertainments will delight the fun-seeking public. Sept. 30 to Oct. 13, Ivan Tscheroff's celebrated educated mules, the Russian dogs, are carded for a series of wonderful performance. Oct. 13 to 19, Price Kokin, the greatest Japanese Juggler alive, will fill an engagement, while Buck Taylor and troupe of native Sioux Indians, and Miss Cornelia Campbell Bedford of New York, Demonstrator of Cooking, will appear every day during the Exposition season.

That mysterious personage, King Hotu, and his retinue, will give a daylight parade Sept. 28. This is one of the most unique attractions of the carnival season in St. Louis, and is grotesquely staged: Oct. 7 to 12, the world-beater, the great St. Louis Fair, will be the chief attraction. On the evening of Oct. 8, His Majesty the Veiled Prophet and royal court will parade the principal thoroughfares of the city, followed by the famous ball, which is known throughout the land.

All the St. Louis theatres, during the season of high carnival, have billed most excellent attractions. Among the number might be mentioned "Trilby," "Lyceum Theatre Company," Chas. Frohman's Stock Company, Hoyt's "A Black Sheep," De Wolf Hopper, etc.

The management of the Missouri Pacific Railway and Iron Mountain Route, constantly having the interests of St. Louis in mind, will sell tickets from all points on the system to the carnival city and return at greatly reduced rates. For copy of the program giving the features of the carnival season in detail, address company's agents, or H. C. Townsend, Gen'l Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

Florence District Conference.

The Florence District, South Carolina Conference, met in Mayesville, S C., July 24-28. The pastor, Rev. Abram Middleton, made ample provisions for the reception and extended us a hearty welcome. The conference was presided over by our worthy presiding elder, Rev. A. G. Townsend. Rev. J. W. Doro, with Rev. G. W. Cooper as assistant, was elected secretary, and Rev. C. R. Brown reporter for the SOUTHWESTERN.

The following is the report of the presiding elder to the Florence District Conference:

"Dear Brethren—To all of us this has been a year of extraordinary hardships growing out of the exegencies of the prevalent unparalleled financial depression whose tardy retirement puts our patience to a very severe test. The fact that some of you have not yielded to the temptation of abandoning your work when considered in connection with the poverty and parsimony of our members can only be explained on the ground of loyalty to the great head of the Church.

"As ministers we have never been forced to live on less than that on which we have barely subsisted from January to this day. I bless God that so many of us have been kept in soundness of mind, soul and body. I personally have not had a day's sickness to interfere with my work from our conference to the present I record with sorrow the fact that some of our brethren have been temporarily prostrated and hindered in the prosecution of their work. Our esteemed Brother F. L. Baxter has been so painfully afflicted for months that he has been able to do but very little effective work this year. At one period his family well nigh despaired of his life. I am pleased to note that he is now gradually recuperating.

"Our genial Brother A. E. Quick has been so prostrated with a fever as not to be able to do any work for the past three weeks. He is convalescent and hopes to participate in the exercises of this conference.

"Brothers M. V. Gray, J. W. Dore, Jas. McEaddy, A. S. J. Brown and W. S. Neil must be mentioned among the sick who were temporarily hindered from their work.

"To lift up a prone and prostrate race is an immense work requiring skill, wisdom and power of the highest conceivable order. To such a work have you, my brethren, dedicated your splendid powers!

"The race must be divested of all elements of weakness inhering therein and be invested with all the habiliments of strength; it needs to be strengthened with spiritual might, intellectual culture and grace, and material prosperity.

"For the accomplishment of this great work there is absolute need of the unreserved and unselfish consecration of all the endowments of those who would build a race. Race builders are doing an imperishable work. They build not for a day or a year, but for eternity. They are building immortal characters which shall dwell with the saints in everlasting and ineffable bliss, or with the damned in the everlasting and unutterable tortures of an endless hell.

"I view with delight the means you are employing for the prosecution of this work. The class and prayer meetings, the love feasts and public worship, the Sunday schools and Epworth Leagues are receiving closer attention now than in some of the recent years of the past.

"I cannot too highly commend the interest manifested in the Epworth League movement, which I regard as the grandest and most effective organization of the nineteenth century. By means of its reformatory and transformative influence the dawn of the Methodism of the twentieth century will be far more glorious than its noonday of the nineteenth.

"At Bostick, in Florence County, about twenty five miles from Salem, a new point has been established. In February, Bro. E. M. Pinckney went down and received Brother W. M. Eaddy of the C. M. E. Church with a membership of 20. I preached to them on the occasion of their first quarterly conference on the third day of June. The church is located in a section in which our Church is greatly needed.

"Brother Pinckney has also made a beginning at Mullins where he hopes to develop a promising appointment.

"We have inclosed and covered a small building for religious services at McColl's Station in connection with the Tatum Charge.

"Brother Jones has established a new preaching place on the Jefferson work.

"Some of the charges have been blessed with gracious revivals during two past quarters, which have resulted in the conversion of 347 souls and the addition of 354 persons to our greatly quickened churches. The most remarkable revival of the year is that at Timmonsville, which is now in progress, in which 162 souls have been converted and 119 added to the membership.

"Our benevolences have advanced in a gratifying manner, considering the stringency of the times. Receipts to date: Missions, $86 80; F. A. and S. E. Society, $168 25; education, $147 62; Church Extension, $6 13; tracts, $4; S. S. Union, $3.

"Let me urge each pastor to do his utmost toward putting his charge at the top. Money is needed for advancement in the Master's kingdom. Endeavor earnestly to raise your whole apportionment this year.

"I congratulate you on the interest manifested by you to date and the results achieved. May God bless you abundantly in the further prosecution of the work. Respectfully submitted by yours truly,

"A. G. TOWNSEND, P. E."

The reports of pastors show an increase in the benevolences todate, notwithstanding the hard times.

Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, presiding elder of the Beaufort District, was with us, and delivered his famous lecture from the subject, "Is woman the equal of man;" he made a good impression. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. G. W. Cooper.

The Orangeburg District Conference being in session in Sumter, only ten miles away, was favored by our conference with a fraternal delegate in the person of Rev. W. H. Jones.

Our Sunday school agent, Rev. C. C. Jacobs, was introduced to the conference; also Rev. J. B. Middleton, the chief commissioner of this State for the Cotton States Exposition to be held in Atlanta this fall; he was sent by the Orangeburg District Conference as a fraternal delegate to ours. They made able speeches.

At night, Dr. Bulkly, one of the professors of our beloved Claflin, spoke in the interest of education. He was followed by Rev. D. J. Sanders, who preached an able sermon.

A step in the right direction was taken when the conference appointed a committee of five to memorialize our next bishop to re-district the State, and give us smaller districts.

Many able papers were read on various subjects, one of which touched the distribution of the missionary money given our conference; this should have been heard by the bishop who will preside at our next conference. My candid opinion is that five-sixths of our districts and nine-tenths of our charges should be made self-sustaining, and the money given our conference be used in organizing new works. The reporter received a telegram calling him home on Saturday, hence no report for Sunday.

Bennettsville, S C., the seat of next conference. C. R. BROWN, Reporter.

The Cities of Refuge.

(Josh. 20. 1-9)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

LESSON XI.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us. (Heb. 6. 18.)

The chapters between our last lesson and this are devoted to the distribution of the Holy Land. Each tribe received their part. All were satisfied. The tabernacle was set up at Shiloh. They are arranging to live in love, joy and peace among themselves. In the short chapter before us to-day we have the names and nature of the cities of refuge.

1. The command to appoint these cities (1-6). The Lord spoke to Joshua, and Joshua to the people. 1. The cities were chosen by Divine guidance. Refuge means shelter, or protection. It is closely allied to the word asylum. Christ is our refuge. These cities represented Him in many respects. They were located on hills so they might be seen from afar. Christ is daily lifted up by his ministers so all may see Him. The roads leading to them were wide and kept in good order: so the way leading to Christ is so plain that "the wayfaring men, though fools shall not err therein." Stones were set up at the crossings and on them the word "Refuge" written, so no one need lose his way in coming to them. Ministers are constantly saying to the unsaved, "This is the way, walk ye in it." The gates of these cities were never shut, any hour the manslayer might pass through them: so whosoever will, may come to Jesus at any time. The way is always open, and He is ever accessible. The people of these cities were to arrange that the refugee might live among them: so Christ feeds the soul on the bread of life and clothes it with salvation.

2. The supposed manslayer. These cities were not for malicious murderers, but only for those who killed others "unawares or unwillingly." We live in a world of accidents. Many misfortunes occur every day. It is through the mercy of God that they fall not upon us: that we are kept alive and sound in body and mind. All people are not had alike. There are sins of ignorance, sins of accident, sins of omission, sins of commission, and sins of presumption. Then there is a sin against the Holy Ghost, for which there is no forgiveness. We teach too much when we say the same degree of faith and repentance will secure the forgiveness of every class of sins. Nevertheless all sin is retained until the faith and repentance is sufficiently great to justify the forgiveness of the worst transgressions. Then all are blotted from His book of Remembrance.

3. The supposed avenger. The family has been honored in every age among the people of God. We must defend and help those who are flesh of our flesh. We are obligated to the world, but not as we are to our kindred ties. Aaron's sons were chosen to succeed him in the priest's office When Samuel was old he made his sons judges in Israel. The father associates his son with him in business, and the mother looks well after every interest of her daughter: when they are wronged we are ready to avenge ourselves on those who have injured them. These cities of refuge were to protect those, who accidentally killed others, from the enraged friends of the dead. Our civil laws prevent us from needing such places now. The Church is the household of faith. God is our father, we are born of the Spirit, and Christ is our elder brother. Let the Lord's people be swift to defend and aid one another.

4. Entering the cities of refuge. (1) Fleeing to the city. Death was behind, and life before them. They would devote all their energy, tax each muscle, and redeem every moment, till the city was gained. So feel the unsaved, Eternal death is at their back, and everlasting life is in front of them. No time is to be lost. They strive with all their powers to enter the Kingdom of God. (2) Before the city. They stand at the gate and plead their cause. They relate their story: tell how the accident happened. In an earnest way beg to be admitted. So the unsaved stand at the gate of mercy and in an humble, penitent, faithful way, seek to be accepted by Christ. They dare not plead self-righteousness, or good works, or the piety of parents, but only the merits of Christ. They beg to be saved from the wrath to come for Jesus sake. (3) Entering the city. Those dwelling in the cities of refuge were obligated to take them in, and give them a place among them. So Jesus receives us into His kingdom, gives us a place among His people, and offers us the privilege of dwelling with Him forever.

5. Dwelling in the city of refuge. He was allowed to dwell there till (1) he was tried. He was admitted on his own testimony. But now they would see if he had colored the truth, or related only half the truth, or told that which was untrue. These were then, and are now, very common errors. Hence another trial was necessary. He must "stand before the congregation for judgment." We see here the judge, the prosecution, the defense, the jury, prisoner, and the witnesses. Christ is the Judge of all the earth. We will, in the last day, stand before Him. The books will be opened. The book of nature, the book of conscience, the book of Revelation, and the book of Life. We will be judged "according to our works" (Rev. 20. 12). May we order our course in life so nothing will be brought against us in that day. If the person was acquitted then (2) he dwelt there "until the death of the high priest." If he saw fit to go away he might do so at his own risk. So we are not compelled to remain with Christ. We can do so if we wish. We depart at our peril. Without are dangers. But at the death of the high priest the manslayer might go out in safety. So our great high Priest, by His death on the cross, has liberated us, so we can go out and mingle with the world in safety, while we keep our eye on Him.

II. The fulfillment of the command (7-9). 1. These cities were appointed. That is, they were sanctified. They were set apart for this work of mercy. They were not dedicated, but were declared in a solemn way, by an act of court, to be cities of refuge. The Christ was chosen by the court of heaven, and set apart for the work of Salvation. God has satisfied a people for Himself. Jesus said—"For their sakes I sanctify myself."

2. They were well located. One in the north, one in the south, and one in the central part of Palestine Three of the cities were east of the Jordan, and they were likely located the same way. Any one could reach a city of refuge, from any part of the Holy Land, within twelve hours. Christ, our city of refuge, is convenient to all. He can be reached in less than half a day, by any one who desires to flee to Him. He is a sure and safe retreat. "A shelter in the time of storm."

3. Some see a reference to Christ in the names of these cities. Kadesh signifies holy—Our Christ is a holy refuge. Shechem means shoulder—The government is upon the shoulders of the Prince of peace. Hebron signifies fellowship—Believers are called into the fellowship of Christ. The meaning of Bezer is fortification. Christ is a stronghold to all them that trust in Him. Rameth signifies exalted—Jesus has been exalted to the "right hand of the Majesty on high." Golen means joy—The saint who believes in Christ has "joy unspeakable and full of glory."

4. They were for all people: for Israel and for the stranger that sojourned among them. Jesus is for all nations: for Caucasians, Mongolians, Malays, Negroes and Indians. We are commanded to "preach the Gospel to every creature." All need the Gospel. It suits every condition in life. All races are being saved by it. Amen.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Baton Rouge District.

Dear Brethren.—Now is the time for renewed efforts to meet all our obligations. Raise all benevolent collections and have as much of the quarterage as possible on hand at the fourth quarterly conference. Consult your district letter and try to not fail in anything. Be ready with the general conference expenses and subscription for the SOUTHWESTERN. Yours for the work, J. F. MARSHALL, P. E.

St. Joe District.

Dear Brethren—Please look well after your benevolent collections. Remember last year. Please be ready to make full reports at the third quarter. The small charges had the largest reports at the district conference. Take the general conference money at once and send the same to Cranston & Curts.

J. J. CLARK, P. E.

Tupelo District.

Dear Brethren—Please fill out your pledges for the paper and report at your last quarter. Also get all of your benevolence without fail. Yours,

S. H. NEVILS, P. E.

Jackson District Conference.

The Jackson District, Mississippi Conference, convened at Forest, Miss., July 24, with Presiding Elder J. C. Houston in the chair. P. W. Baldwin was elected secretary, and N. N. Sidney and N. E. Goodlow assistants.

Miss M. C. Anderson delivered the welcome address and Rev. A. D. Payne responded. After which Miss Lottie Williams sang a solo.

This was the largest conference ever held on the district. The presiding elder's report showed the district to be in a good condition. Reports from pastors gave evidence that the Lord had been with them the hardest year of their ministry. Many souls had been converted and added to the church, and $335 was raised for benevolence.

Each pastor pledged to raise 15 subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN.

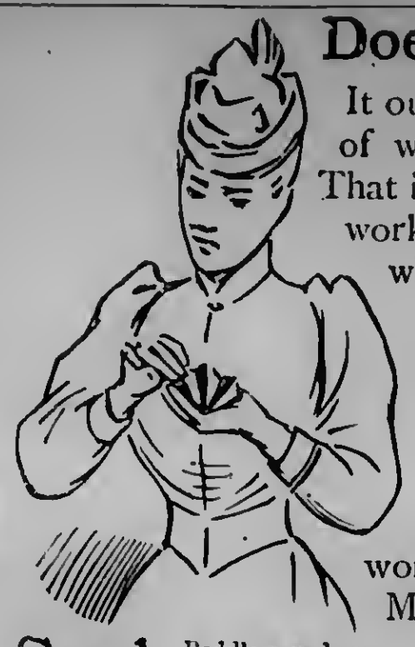
Seventy-two dollars was appropriated, to be raised in 60 days, for General Conference expenses, to be forwarded to the agents at New York or Cincinnati.

The conference was blessed with the presence of Mrs. J. C. Houston, Mrs. P. O. Jamison, Mrs. A. Gipson; Rev. P. S. Johnson, of A. M. E. Church, and Presiding Elder C. McDonald, of Brandon District, M. E. Church South, who spoke of the improvement among the colored ministers and said he would be glad to hear one of them preach.

Rev. J. C. Hibbler preached at the court house Thursday night for the whites, who were very highly pleased.

Father J. D. Walden, one of the pioneers, was present.

Rev. Mr. Hunter of the Baptist Church, was introduced and tendered a hearty welcome to his church.



Presiding Elders Shumpert, Trotter and Cowan were introduced and spoke words of encouragement.

The following brethren preached during conference: C. Jackson, R. H. Patton, J. K. Comfort, R. P. Threlkield, P. H. Davis, J. C. Houston, A. D. Payne at Baptist church and John Sharp. Prof. Logan, of Rust University, lectured Saturday night to a crowded house and presented the needs of the University and Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society.

P. A. Taylor, George W. Bentley, Thos. Smith, E. A. Hill, C. T. Taylor, G. N. Gay, James Kinard, David D. Armstrong and A. McCullumy were licensed to preach.

Bro. White and his good people made the brethern feel at home. After passing resolutions of thanks to the people of Forest, to the choir, to the railroads, etc., the conference adjourned to meet at Brandon, Miss. P. W. BALDWIN, Sec'y.

Weakness is the symptom, impoverished blood the cause, Hood's Sarsaparilla the cure. It makes the weak strong.

Does economy bore you?

It ought not to, always. Take the matter of washing with Pearline, for instance. That is a pleasant economy. There's your work made light and short for you; and while your doing it, in this easy, pleasant way, you can be thinking of the actual money that you're saving by not rubbing things to ruin, as in the old way.

That ought to be pleasant to think of, whether you're doing the work yourself, or having it done.

Millions use Pearline.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 431 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Cumberland River District.

The Epworth League Convention of the Cumberland District convened at Alexandria, Tenn., June 12–14, with Rev. Jesse P. Price in the chair. E. J. Guthrie was elected secretary and Miss Estella M. Ford assistant, and Mrs. E. N. Porter as reporter.

The following program was rendered: Relation of the Epworth League to the Church, L. M. Moores; Organization and the object of the League, J. P. Price; Spiritual work, J. W. Richmond and Thos. Belchor; Remarks to the convention concerning our duty, Presiding Elder L. M. Moores; Mercy and help discussed by the delegates; Department of correspondence, discussed by E. J. Guthrie and A. P. Blakemore; The relation of the Epworth League to the sociological question of the present age, Miss Estella M. Ford.

Revs. A. P. Blakemore and J. W. Richmond preached during the convention.

Other interesting topics were discussed which were highly edifying.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucus surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR. NEW ORLEANS, SEPTEMBER 12, 1895.—Vol. 30. No. 37. HUNT & EATON, PUBLISHERS.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—We are so overcrowded with District Conference and Epworth League Convention reports, that we are absolutely compelled to condense the matter which we now have in hand. We regret this very much. We believe, however, that our correspondents will be good natured and regard this movement as one of the things that cannot be helped.

—One of the headings of Bishop Taylor's Illustrated Africa reads, "Among the Fifty Million Black Lambs." We have read after some writers who would be disposed to dispense with the words "black lambs," and insert "yonng niggers" or "little darkies." It is refreshing to know that grace, divine grace, can not only transform the heart, but reform the language, so that it may express the truth. But the thought of saving that 50,000,000 of "black lambs" means the salvation of a world

"Waft, waft ye winds, His story."

THE FLORIDA DISGRACE.

We feel deeply humiliated that the fair escutcheon ot American liberties is again defiled by the actiou of the late legislature of Florida, in the enactment of what is knowu as the Sheats law. What will the enlightened civilized world think of a country which will tolerate a law making it a penal offense for white persons and black persons to board in the same building, and to receive literary instructiou in the same room or class. This in a Christian country, under a flag which is the synonym of strength, unity, fraternity and equality. What shall we say to England, and to Germany aud France, the great and enlightened nations of Europe. What will be thought of a man, professing the holy religion of Christianity, who could so far forget the relationship which he sustains to the whole human family as to recommend the most vigorous punishment to any white person who dared to board in the same house, or songht an education in the same room, with a black man. Such a man is State Superintendent Sheats of Florida. And the Florida legislature! What shall be said of a body of intelligent men, who could so far forget every sentiment of justice, and humanity, and patriotism, as to deliberately and almost unanimously pass a law which even a blind man must believe is in contravention with the constitution of the United States.

Mr. Sheats is evidently exasperated because Dr. J. C. Hartzell and others ask for a construction of the very strange law, of which he is the father. Here is a specimen of his reasons for fathering the iniquitous child:

"The intent of the law is to nip in the bud social equality and miscegenation, that such schools are calculated and possibly are inteuded to inaugurate in this part of the country. Those of us who love the Anglo-Saxon race and this great American republic are willing to do almost anything to preserve race purity and to save the South from the spectacle witnessed in Hayti, Jamaica, Mexico, and wherever there are no race distinctions. We believe in the education of the Negro. Our works testify to our faith, but we do not believe in the elevation of the Negro at the cost of the degradation of our race. In many sections of the South the blacks are largely in the majority. If the Negro must be educated with the whites I sincerely pray that it will only be done north of the Ohio, where the whites outnumber them. This doctrine of social equality, especially as it is enforced upon the helpless school children, is the only animosity I bear the North."

Ah, yes;. the gentleman is afraid of social equality, and hence, is no doubt prond of the stand he has taken against the poor Negro, and his consecrated and self-sacrificing white friends. And Florida, the land of flowers, and of balmy breezes, whose early history is replete with heroic struggles for liberty, must take a back seat in the galaxy of liberty-loving and progressive States of the Union, because of this deliberate attempt to turn the hand of her progress backward a half century.

"A PRESCILLA WITHOUT AN AQUILA."

Under the above caption the Christian Advocate (New York) speaks of the death of an emiuent colored woman, Prescilla Mead.. For many years she had been a domestic in the home of a prominent Methodist family, was an acceptable member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which her devotion and consecration was a "matter of remark" "so full was she of love for Christ." This good woman doubtless won her way into the confidence of the people, because she possessed those traits of character which, when allowed a proper place for their exercise, will invariably bring their possessor into notice. In that Methodist family, and as a member of that Methodist Episcopal Church, this woman stood as an illustration of the refining influences of Christianity under certain favorable environments. It makes one shudder to think of the thousands and tens of thousands of women of African descent who were born, lived, suffered and died under circumstances and environments as remote from the conditions which favored the moral and religious development of Prescilla Mead as it is possible to imagine. The distance between the two civilizations is absolutely immeasurable. The influences of Christian civilization can be measured only by their power to exalt our poor fallen humanity. It was a happy thought, aye, more, the inspiration of a Christian's faith and labor of love that impelled even the slave owner to provide for the religious instruction of the slaves. Especially were they favored who were assigned for duty in the mansion, or "big house," while there was corresponding retrogression, socially, morally and intellectually in the cabin. From these have necessariiy come the types of character with which we now have to deal. These Prescillas who are to figure so largely in the development of the coming generations of African descent to be successful must come in close touch with just such influences and environments as inhered in the training aud development of the subject of the Advocate's excellent editorial. There must be placed within reach the highest and best ideals and models, while the conditions out of which the structure of their character shall arise should be, yea must be, such as has been productive of the world's greatest and best people. Dr. Buckley recalls with evident pride "some of the most consistent examples of Christian piety among the sources of religious conviction," selecting his examples from among "certain colored men and women" with whom he was brought in contact in boyhood, and "whose testimonies in love feasts and prayers in the meetings for social devotion most deeply impressed" him. He expresses what has been often reiterated by faithful white ministers in all sections of the country, that the colored people are among the most inspiring of their hearers. The colored people are credited with being a naturally religious people. There is fortunately much truth in the statement. During the dark days of slavery in this country the parents of the generations who are now happily free exercised a sublime faith in God, and with such light as they possessed clung to the oracles of God with a devotion that has evoked the admiration of even their enemies. There are hundreds of clergymen in the Southland to-day who will cheerfully bear testimony to the marvelous religious devotion of the Negroes to whom they preached, and to whom, in many instances, they are indebted for those examples of Christian heroism and fortitude and triumph; which, in story and in song, have thrilled multitudes into an acceptance of the truth, as it is in Christ Jesus. The following generous testimonial is worthy of the head and the heart of its distinguished author:

A genuinely religious Negro, whose conscience is as acute to discern and enforce moral distinctions as his heart is sensitive to emotional impressions, is a blessing in any community. In such, eloquence, simplicity, pathos, practical sense, and universal love for every creature, blend with humility, and all with a natural dignity which no man or woman of any race can excel.

We devoutly pray that the time will speedily come, if it be not here already, when the Negro will be given the credit to which he is entitled, with a chance to take an active part in the solution of great moral problems, in the enjoyment of the fullness of the religion of Christianity, and sharing in the responsibilties of making this world better, and in bringing the trophies of his victories to the footstool of his sovereign Lord.

THE LORD WILL PROVIDE.

A brother in the Lonisiana Conference has been supplying a very poor charge. During the great financial stringency that has prevailed so long in this State, he has suffered greatly for the necessaries of life. On a Sunday appointed to take a collection for the pastor's salary the amount collected was less than a quarter of a dollar. Though sorely pressed, he was not discouraged, believing that his "great provider" still was near. The next morning he went to the river to try his hand at fishing. He threw out his line, which became entangled in some obstruction. On ascertaining the cause he was overjoyed to find at the end of the line a tin box containing some sixty silver dollars. How it got there was a mystery. No one had lost that amount. But the good brother declares that it was the Lord's doings. And so it was. We would not advise all our brethren to try the hook and line to replenish their depleted pocketbooks, yet in some way we believe that our kind heavenly Father will reward his faithful servants. This brother went out not only to add to the scanty meal but to meditate and commune with the Father out of the depth of a troubled heart. Help came from an unexpected source, and at a most opportune time. God always helps. His promises are, yea and amen. The troubles and afflictions of the righteous often furnish the opportunity for the interposition of the divine favor. "All things work together for good to them that love the Lord, to them who are the called according to his purpose. Our light afflictions, which are but for a moment, work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

God cares for his own; however dark the clouds, however loud the thunders roar, however vivid the lightnings flash, He careth for us. The sparrow shall not fall to the ground without our heavenly Father's notice. As he clotheth the grass of the field so he clotheth us. What a heritage—"All are yours."

"The birds without barn ou storehouse are fed;
From them let us learn to trust for our bread;
His saints what is fitting shall ne'er be denied,
So long as 'tis written 'The Lord will provide.'"

—The Philadelphia Conference and all Methodism has suffered a great loss in the death of Dr. James H. Hargis, late presiding elder in the Philadelphia Conference. He was a genial, whole-souled Methodist preacher, fully abreast of the times in which he lived. His death was a translation. From the active, exacting work of the district, he stepped out of the body to be with his Lord forever.

—The Ocean Grove Record pays a well-deserved tribute to one of God's noblemen in following: "A new voice on the Auditorium platform this week, one of the most distinguished, was that of Dr. D. H. Moore, editor of the Western Christian Advocate, Cincinnati. After hearing him nobody wondered why he is so much sought after as a 'dedicator,' etc., through the West. His sermon was in [illegible] station of the Spirit."

Notes From Nashville.

The question of delegates to the General Conference begins to awaken interest in the minds of several brethren in the fall conferences. Some brethren think they ought to go because they have been long in the work, and have never been honored by an election to the General Conference. Does it follow that because a man has been long in the itinerancy, that he is the most capable to represent the interests of the Church in its chief council? Some youthful preachers think the older brethren have had the reins long enough, and it is time that an infusion of young blood should take place. These young men do not realize that all the wisdom of the conference is not concentrated in them. Some think it is their turn, and that there should be rotation in the honor of attending the General Conference. If the General Conference is simply for the purpose of rewarding the old, or gratifying the ambition of the younger members of the conferences, or is the council, in which inexperienced men can do as well, or better, than those acquainted with the workings of that greatest ecclesiastical body of the Church, the conferences may select the men without regard to their ability to look after the interests of the Church; and it will be lawful and right to elect the old man because he is old in the work, or the young man because we want to show that we appreciate the young men in our conferences, or look around and see whose turn it is to be sent, and send him. If, however, the General Conference is a body in which the great interests of the Church are to be considered, the polity to be scrutinized most carefully, plans for the forward movement of the militant host devised, men selected for the responsible positions of chief executive offices, agents chosen to carry out the benevolent enterprises of the Church, and so to legislate that the world and the Church will agree that wise men have been in council and have done what will prove to be the greatest good to the greatest number, then only the wisest and most experienced men should be chosen. Men thoroughly loyal to the best interests of the Church; men active in Church work, and in love with the polity of the Church; yet broad enough to comprehend when a change is demanded by the new environments, to secure such alterations as will tend to advance the highest interests of the Church. Old men, young men, rotation men, simply as such, are not wanted—ought not to be sent, but the wise men who know and love both Methodist doctrine and discipline. This applies both to laymen as well as to ministers. No layman should be sent just because his friends wish to honor him.

The site for the Tennessee Centennial in Nashville has been chosen, and next year "all the world and the rest of mankind" will be invited to this city as they are invited to Atlanta on the 18th of September this year. There is a determination to make this centennial a grand success. There is but little of Church interest going on in this city. Brother Harden, the pastor of Braden Chapel, says he will be able to take care of the conference, but does not want any horses to care for. If brethren will exchange their cents, nickles and silver for bills, before reporting their money at conference; it will greatly facilitate the work of the conference treasurer and relieve him of a burden of labor. J. BRADEN.

Healing of the Daughter of the Syrophenician Woman.

Matt. 15: 21-28; Mark 7: 24-30.

It is said of the blessed Christ that he went about doing good. Hence it was that the woman of Canaan was able to meet him. For a year or more he had confined his labors about the beautiful Sea of Galilee. But being about his Father's business, the time came when he must needs go elsewhere. Consequently he departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon. This journey marks an entire change of scene and surroundings. "A recent writer has suggested that in this journey the Lord has 'sketched in outline the missionary plan which he left his apostles to fill up'."

1. A Distressed Woman.—She was a Gentile and a stranger to the commonwealth of Israel. Yet, she comes to Jesus and says: "Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil." Says Rutherford, "For Christ to throw the devil out of a Canaanite was very like the white banner of Christ's love to the nations, and the king's royal standard set up to gather in the heathen under his colors."

2. Sympathetic Disciples.—Though earnestly beseeched, Christ answered her not a word. This action on the part of the Master was, to the disciples, inexplicable. They had not seen it on this wise before. Hence, they besought him to give her a favorable dismission, and an answer of peace. Says Jerten: "Doubtless they were surprised at the coldness and silence of Christ; and not presuming directly to press him, they take another method, and ask him to relieve them from the importunity of the petitioner."

3. The Woman's Discouragements.—At last the silence of the Master is broken, but not as formerly. It is not "I will;" it is, "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Laidlaw remarks on this: "That he is come to the Jew first, is a pledge that he shall be preached to all by and by. But meanwhile he is true to his Father's commission. He anticipates not the divine plan and order. He is the obedient son. The Jews had rejected him, yet they are 'the lost sheep of the house of Israel' to whom he is sent."

But once more he says in reply to her cry, "Lord, help me": "It is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to the dogs." Hard indeed, yes, extra hard, seemed these words. Her plea, nevertheless, is: "Let the dogs eat of the crumbs."

4. A Great Faith.—What with coldness, a repulse, and a seeming reproach, she continues her pleading, and as a result Christ says: "O woman, great is thy faith; be it unto thee even as thou wilt." And her daughter was cured. "A great faith pleases" Christ "more than a great intellect or a great name, for faith is the foundation of the highest intellectuality and of all character that is worthy of being named."

Crumbs.

Hearing of Christ, we should seek to become acquainted with him.

We should always carry our troubles to the Lord in prayer.

Discouragements should make us only the more importunate.

Every accepted prayer is not immediately an answered prayer.

Sympathy goes a long way towards strengthening a burdened heart.

The more sensibly we feel the burden, the more earnestly we should pray for its removal.

Short, earnest, faithful prayers are invariably answered.

A lively, active faith will make that to be for us, which seems to be against us.

"When our will conforms to the will of Christ's precepts, his will concurs with the will of our desire."

Remember These Proverbs.

Do not let your clothes smother your soul.

Blank cartridge, big gun; all talk and nothing done.

Seek God for himself, or you will never find him for yourself.

You will take nothing from church unless you take much to church.

For a cracked boat a pound of putty is better than a ton of cargo.—Golden Rule.

A Timely Reminder.

Each season forces upon our consideration its own peculiar perils to health. The advent of fall finds many reduced in strength and vigor, poorly prepared to continue the business of life. The stomach and bowels, the great highway of animal economy, is especially liable to disorder in the fall. The nervous system has also suffered in the struggle. Typhoid fever and malaria in particular find in the fall that combination of earth, air and water that mark this season as especially dangerous. The falling leaves, the decaying vegetables contribute their share of contamination. Hood's Sarsaparilla furnishes a most valuable safeguard at these important points, and should be used in the fall before serious sickness has laid you low.

Our Martin (Tenn.) Letter.

The Lord wonderfully blessed us and the church has done well financially. We have purchased a $65 bell for the church and paid for it. Our benevolent collections are in advance of last year. Several have joined the church. I expect to begin a series of meetings. We have a good Sunday school under the care of Superintendent B. W. Ross. We have had several deaths during the year: Brothers Nathan Bondurant, William Heglar and Andersen Brinkley, and Sister Rachel Summers, all in full triumph of faith.

The residence of Sister Lucy Stone was burned a few weeks ago, and her little baby, aged 3, and oldest daughter, Susie, aged 14 years, perished in the flames. Susie was a faithful member of our church and Sunday school. S. T. HICKERSON.

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith." *

OUR : WOMEN'S : ROUND : TABLE

The Influence of the Home in the Uplifting of our People.

TWENTY-SECOND LETTER—BY T. E. W.

I have been thinking, and thinking, what would be good reading for our club for one hour or one day during September. Now I would have it distinctly understood that the best book for all times, and for all peoples, and for all days, is the Bible. The dear blessed Bible, the old family Bible, that brings back more precious memories than even the "old oaken bucket." I commend the Bible for the women of our race especially as the best foundation for any and all their literary achievements. I have been frequently pained to find among our leading women an utter lack of the knowledge of the teachings of the good book.

I can recall many instances in which the only conversation held was with reference to the latest styles of dress, or some light and frivolous gossip about neighbors and others. We have met, talked with, and parted from people, with the reflection that while they were good conversationalists, there was nevertheless a painful poverty of that kind of conversation which was helpful and uplifting. The point I would make is, that the Bible is the fountain of the purest and best morality. It presents the highest ideals and models in the work of character building. It is the source of all spiritual light and life. If it is read and studied as it ought to be by our women, it would be of vastly more benefit than the light and trashy love stories, and other sensational literature, which already absorbs the attention of many of our younger women at least, and that to their great detriment.

Would I have everybody to read the Bible and become religious? Yes, I most assuredly would. I would have all people know the Lord Jesus to the pardoning of sin. I would enthrone the principles of the Christian religion, mark you, in every human heart. I would have the people to be more than nominal Christians. Already Church membership is a sort of a religious fad among some classes, who place all stress upon being members of a Church. They are devout only when within its walls, and taking part in its established ritual. This done, they feel at liberty to indulge in all manner of excesses. The cup that intoxicates, the giddy and often licentious dance, the card table, and other society vices and entertainments of doubtful propriety, are the bagniappe which his Satanic majesty throws in to weaken weak souls. The literature which is found in the book of all books is the sure antidote, the incentive to better and more useful lives, and a preventative of indulgence in the evils which threaten the destruction of our women and mothers.

The American University.

By BISHOP JOHN F. HURST, D. D., LL. D.

WHY THE AMERICAN UNIVERSITY?

Wise and trusted leaders of our American Protestantism—especially of Methodism—were consulted before the first step was taken for the purchase of the land. It was believed that for the interests of all Protestant Churches the time had come when a thoroughly evangelical university should be established at the national capital. It seemed to be high time that for the best university advantages our young people should not be compelled to cross the ocean, but that the best instruction, either in this or foreign countries, should be furnished here, and that our American youth should not need to go abroad, as they have been doing since the beginning of our national history, for superior educational privileges.

The lessons of the State colleges and universities had proved to be a bad one. The most of the State institutions of learning had been developed in the most capricious way. The personnel of the entire faculty was reduced to a humiliating subjection to political fluctuations. When the State passed from the control of one party to another, both trustees and professors were subject to change. There was no fixity whatever. A still more reprehensible state of things had been found in the relation of some of the State institutions to the Christian standards. The fundamental doctrines of Christianity had not received the attention they deserved. In one case I have learned that during about a decade one of the State institutions had no chapel service for the students, and chapel prayers were only again instituted after a change in the presidency of the college.

With these sad reminders, it has been concluded that the control of the American University should be lodged in a board of trustees who are Christian people, thoroughly devoted to Protestant interests; and, while two-thirds of the board are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, there are six denominations represented in that corporation. In addition to the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church who are upon the board, three are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, namely: Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson, of Baltimore; Dr. William W. Smith, president of Randolph-Macon College and secretary of the Board of Education, and the Hon. Julian S. Carr, of North Carolina. Besides these two denominations, there are also among the members of the board representatives of Baptist, Congregational, Presbytorian and Protestant Episcopal Churches. While one Protestant Church is thus made responsible for the doctrinal quality of the university the other Protestant denominations have thus far co-operated as heartily as if the responsibility were their own. The fraternal character of all deliberations and measures has been so far without a jar, and this we regard as a strong indication of the providential mission of the university. So far as the future faculty is concerned there is no denominational limitation. But the Protestant Churches of the country may understand that there will be no promulgation of doctrines not in accord with the evangelical standards of the whole Protestant Church.

The "Southwestern."

By Miss JENNIE L. CARPENTER, Decatur, Ala.

I write this in honor of our official Church journal:

"WE ARE NEVER TOO OLD TO LEARN."

This paper I speak of is one of our brightest jewels and should be in the home of each Methodist family, and it is one of our bright lights for weary travelers. How can we tell what is going on in Christ's vineyard if we have not the SOUTHWESTERN for a guidance? Many interesting sermons are published in this paper that were preached by our most noted servants of the Lord, and obituaries of our deceased pastors and members are also published. We often hear of a sister or brother's death, and the question is often asked, "How did they die?" Had the SOUTHWESTERN been in that home, they would have known how they lived and died. This paper gives us the time when the presiding elder will make his visit. I don't think it—I know, that if all the pastors would take the SOUTHWESTERN and do their whole duty, the members, or a large number of them, would be readers of that paper. As I before said, "We are never too old to learn" the work that is going on in Christ's vineyard. I hope to see the time when our pastors and members will recognize our noted paper more, and we will then see more light in the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church. If we look we can see the good the paper has done for our race and we would be ashamed to know where our trifles lie. If we can have the secular papers in our homes, why can we not have the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE?

"METHODIST EPISCOPACY IN TRANSITION."

Bishop J. M. Thoburn, D. D., our missionary bishop for India, under the above caption has written a most able and comprehensive article, in which, to our view, he has most clearly established the fact that the effectiveness of our Methodist Episcopacy could be very greatly improved. We agree with the distingnished bishop that: "The demand for a 'districted episcopacy' is more urgent and much more general at the present time than is commonly supposed. No espiscopal system can permanently succeed which does not inclnde the continuons personal supervision of a responsible leader. It need hardly be said that our present system fails conspicnonsly at this point. A presiding bishop cannot form plans with any expectation of himself helping to carry them into effect. He knows perfectly well that when he leaves the brethren before him it will probably be to retnrn no more. He is the presiding officer of an ecclesiastical assembly; but he is not, and cannot be, the leader of a militant army. His dnties are assigned to him in such a way as to give him a maximum of anthority and a minimum of responsibility. He is rarely obliged to face the results of his own conference administration. He acquires but little local knowledge, and wields bnt little local influence. He deals with the most vital interests of a thousand of his brethren without having a personal acqnintance with one in ten, or perhaps one in twenty, among them"

We have had occasion for many years to stndy this feature of onr Episcopal plan with the reflection that this lack of continnons personal leadership and snpervision has retarded the work beyond calculation. In some parts of our great work we have had snpervision with the personal and responsible ingredient conspicnonsly absent. We have reasons to believe that the responsibilities and cares of onr bishops are very greatly increased by their efforts to keep np this snpervision and leadership. In some parts of onr Methodist field, in and near the larger cities, or contignons to an Episcopal residence for instance, there is that contact and tonch with our general snperintendents which not only makes them conspicnons but furnishes them with the opportnnity for a (necessarily limited) stndy of the personnel, and the personal of the work. But the same difficnlties occur. Here the bishop may form plans and align the forces for work, bnt before he can effectively marshal his forces, his time expires, and another comes to fill his place. Personally, we have seen movements which promised great good to thonsands of onr people, either held in abeyance or so changed and modified that bnt little of the promised good was realized by this constant and ever-recnrring change of responsible leaders. The bishop continnes:

"Onr bishops are losing tonch with the people. Large presiding elders' districts are pointed out within which no bishop has ever entered. Vast commonwealths are named within which no bishop ever goes except dnring the hnrried session of an annnal conference. The attempt to maintain the present 'systemless and ontgrown" policy mnst soon be abandoned."

The bishop wonld have the General Conference so modify the present Episcopal plan that a bishop wonld be assigned to a certain gronp of conferences, over which he wonld preside for fonr years instead of one, as is now the case. This he thinks wonld give new vigor to the Chnrch and increase its effectiveness.

"It wonld eliminate the obsolete elements in the plan and make it more practical, as well as more sensible. Each bishop wonld be subject to a removal qnadrennially, and hence wonld be still an itinerant, like other Methodist preachers. Each bishop wonld be snbject to appointment to any part of the wide field of the Church, and hence his snperintendency would be 'general.'"

We believe that the proposed changes ongbt to take place, and that not only the bishops themselves but a large majority of the Methodist ministry will favor it. It wonld be most especially welcomed by our large Southern constitnency. We call especial attention to the views of the bishop which will be fonnd in the Methodist Review of Augnst-September.

AN UNCROWNED QUEEN.

Mrs. Chanie Collins, who passed from labor to reward at her home in Lexington, Ky., a few weeks ago, was one of the remarkable women of her race. We knew her personally, having domiciled in her pleasant home during the time of our pastorate in Lexington. We had ample opportunities for studying the character of this qneenly woman. Earnest, faithful, diligent, fervent in spirit serving the Lord, might be said of her without exaggeration. For years she conducted a boarding house, which a correspondent says "was conducted on strictly business, honest and virtnons principles." Coming as she did daily in contact with the public, she carried with her always that womanly dignity and gentle courtesy that made her home one of the most popular resorts in the city. Whatever her success or popularity she never for a moment failed in her appreciation of the Church of her choice, in which she was held in the highest esteem by old and young. The writer, recognizing her fitness for the training of the young, appointed her to lead the class formed for their religions instrnction. She fulfilled her trust with admirable satisfaction, and there are many in that Chnrch to day who owe their present standing in the Chnrch and society to the influence of this good woman. She was born a slave, but her salient traits of character attracted the attention of her owners at an early age, and she was entrnsted with responsibilities that might have taxed the strength of older people. She was happily married to Mr. James Collins, which nnion was blessed with four sons and one daughter, the father and two sons preceding her to the glory land. She was a great snfferer, bnt a cheerful, patient Christian.

Rev. J. H. Stanley, her pastor, was a frequent visitor at her bedside, who cheerfully bears testimony to her trinmphant Christian life nnder great bodily affliction. To him she committed the last loving charge of a dying member—selecting the text for her funeral, the hymns, and other details of her passing away, simple yet comprehensive, and revealing the story of her last trinmph. We shall greatly miss onr beloved sister. There are too few of snch now. Dr. Stanley condncted the last sad rites, according to her reqnest. The congregation was large and sympathetic, as it gazed for the last time npon the face of one of the great women of the Church, and of the race, ere it was borne away to sleep in that spot hallowed by the graves of Pa Collins, and Robbie and Willie. We join with the commnnity, and the Church, and the family, cordially sympathizing with them in their great bereavement.

A MEDICAL LIBRARY AND BATTERY FOR NEW ORLEANS MEDICAL COLLEGE.

Mrs. Frances C. Davis, widow of the late Dr. William B. Davis of Cincinnati, Ohio, has donated a valnable medical library which belonged formerly to her hnsband, to the edncational work of the Freedmen's Aid and Sonthern Edncation Society in the Sonth. At the snggestion of Dr. Hartzell, throngh whom the gift was made, it will go to the Medical School of New Orleans University. The library consists of 250 choice medical works, and enongh additional volumes to make the nnmber nearly 300 volnmes and at low estimate is worth $600. Dr. Adkinson and Dr. Dight, the president and dean of the New Orleans Medical School, are greatly rejoiced over this timely gift. A special book case will be made and the library will be known as the "William B. Davis Medical Library," and will be one of reference for the constant nse of the stndents of the institution. In a note to Dr. Hartzell, Mrs. Davis says:

"I have jnst finished pntting the labels into the medical library of my dear hnsband. I find myself loath to part with books valnable to him and showing his line of hard, conscientions stndy, and yet I want them to be ont in circnlation, doing good; so they are ready for yon to send at yonr earliest convenience. There are 250 medical books, besides two or three dozen books for the general library. I pray that God's blessing may go with them, and that they may be a help to those who cannot afford to buy."

Dr. Clark Davis, son of the excellent Christian lady who makes the above gift, adds as his donation to the same institution, a fine galvanic battery. Such thonghtfnl aid will always be most welcome in our Sonthern schools.

We knew Dr. Davis personally, and rejoice with the thousands of onr Methodist brethren in the South that this choice library, selected by this eminent, Christian physician and friend of humanity, will come to our New Orleans University Medical College, where it will accomplish possibly more good than in any other place in this wide world. God bless the donors, and may they multiply more and more.

OUR ARMOR BEARERS.

From nearly all the district conferences which have held their sessions during the months of July and August, we have had the most cheering reports, with pledges to stand by the SOUTHWESTERN, as never before. In some instances a whole session was devoted to the interests of the paper with flattering success.

The Griffin District of the Savannah Conference, with the able and earnest Rev. John P. Wragg at its head, sends words of cheer with the following list of pledges, viz.: John P. Wragg, P. E., 20; John H. May, 10; C. R. Raudfield, 10; S. C. Maybry, 5; J. W. Queen, 5; J. T. Fortson, 5; W. C. Bryant, 10; J. D. Lovejoy, 10; S. A. Peeler, 10; D. W. Anderson, 5; E. E. Kiedy, 8; G. A. Wyatt, 10; A. McClenden, 4; E. W. Moore, 5; G. W. Flemster, 2; W. A Hill, 10; J. L. Bowdoin, 15; P. C. Price, 15; J. C. Hnnt, 10; J. C. Hillman, 25; J. D. Arnold, 2; D. McLendon, 6; R. B. Hinesman, 5. Total, 201.

The Greenville District, Upper Mississippi Conference, led by Rev. J. W. Davis, P. E., one of our most earnest and faithful armor bearers, reports: E. D. Cameron, 10; G. L. Williams, 10; J. B. Starkey, 10; E. D. Reid, 10; S. M. Taylor, 10; T A. Jordan, 15; P. S. Bowrie, 10; G. W. Hunt, 10; C. W. Walton, 10; E. Troup, 10; J. H. Everrett, 10; A. J. McAlister, 10. Total, 125.

Rev. S. H. Nevils, presiding elder of the Tnpelo District in the Upper Mississippi Conference, nobly leads one of the strongest districts in his conference, with the following splendid record: W. M. McCarty, 3; E. G. Payton, 4; I. M. Hooper, 5; J. M. Walton, 5; F. A. Chrisholm, 5; J. J. Johnson, 10; J. Bnrton, 10; W. C. Clay, 10; J. P. Cannon, 10; H. N. York, 10; Wm. Collin, 10; M. A. Rogers, 10; W. C. Conwell, 10: G. Spencer, 10; E. F. Scarborongh, 10; W. H. Whitlock, 10; W. E. Logan, 10; J. D. Oibson, 10; H. C. Norman, 10; P. L. Walls, 10. Total, 172.

A cheering letter comes from Rev. J. C. Honston, presiding elder of the Jackson District of the Mississippi Conference, pledging the district for 15 snbscribers per member within sixty days. Both the district and its capable presiding elder are thoronghly reliable.

Brethren, let the good work go on. Send in yonr snbscribers and cash at once.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

University of Denver.

Professor Wilbur D. Engle, A. M., of Albion College, has been elected professor of physics and chemistry in the University of Denver. Professor Engle has had his training in the McMillan Laboratory at Albion, of which he is said to be master. He begins his work in Denver in September.

Miss Anne Grace Wirt, A. M., instructor in modern languages in the University of Denver, will return from Germany the latter part of August.

A friend of the Iliff School of Theology has just given the school a check for one thousand dollars for new books for the library.

Among those planned for the coming year are the following lectures, 1895-96:

Rev. Robert McIntyre, D. D.—1. The preacher himself. 2. The preacher's books. 3. The preacher's methods. 4. The preacher's friends. 5. The lights and shades of a preacher's life.

Samuel A. Fisk, A. M., M. D., dean of the School of Medicine, University of Denver—The pastor in the sick room from a physician's point of view.

Senator H. M. Teller—The pastor in his financial relations from a business man's point of view.

Rev. W. C. Madison, D. D.—1. Israel among the nations. 2. Ecclesiastical marks and spiritual power; an historical study.

Rev. John R. Shannon, Ph. D., S. T. D.—Preaching; a course of four.

The abolishing of tuition has been most favorably received. There is every prospect for the largest attendance in the history of the university.

Tired women need to have their blood purified and enriched by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives them strength and health.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

The Preachers' meeting on Tuesday, the 3d, was one of unusual interest; the attendance, though not large, was representative. We noticed President Atkinson, Dr. Albert, Revs. J. F. Marshall, D. G. Butler, E. Fields, G. W. Boatner, Emperor Williams, S. Priestley, T. G. Montgomery, E. B. Richards, F. Walker, T. J. Johnson and Brother Davis. Professor Richards gave a most edifying address upon the necessity, means, evidences and results of regeneration. A most interesting discussion followed, in which Revs. Boatner, Priestley, Marshall, Dr. Albert and the editor of this paper participated. Rev. Boatner was unanimously requested to give an address on the "Freedom of the Will, at the meeting on Sept. 17. Dr. Albert gave an interesting resume of his visit to North Louisiana. The meeting appointed Dr. Albert, Rev. Marshall and the editor to extend an invitation to Dr. Ed. Wilmot Blyden to visit the city at an early date. The venerable Emperor Williams spoke tenderly and lovingly, which touched all hearts. Rev. Marshall called attention to the illness of Brother A. J. Ford. The editor of the SOUTHWESTERN was appointed to prepare some views on sanctification for the meeting of Oct. 8.

Mount Zion M. E. Church is making a good record. There were glorious times there Sunday. Rev. T. G. Montgomery, the pastor, called Monday and reported a glorious meeting. One received into full membership, two infants and one adult baptized, one funeral attended, and the sacrament of the Lord's Supper to 125 communicants. Collection, $14 25.

A visit to Camp Parapet on Sunday last was greatly enjoyed. Rev. D. W. Boatner, late of Gammon Theological Seminary, is pastor, and is undoubtedly rendering heroic service in the uplifting of the people. Sister Boatner is a model Methodist preacher's wife; genial, affable, cultured and consecrated. She makes the parsonage a pleasant home, and gives the poor "wayfaring stranger" a hearty welcome. They have an interesting family of boys and girls, who give evidence of careful and prayerful training. We preached to a small but select congregation, and feel amply repaid for our visit. Brother Boatner is one of the coming young men of our Methodism, and deserves confidence, sympathy and recognition.

The colored Baptist State convention which met in this city last week was a most important gathering of the best representatives of that denomination in the State. Rev. J. L. Burrell, D. D., was president. The convention took high grounds upon education, temperance, and in favor of the highest and best morality for our people. Some of the ablest men of the denomination were present, among which are Rev. Drs. J. L. Burrell, A. S. Jackson, S. T. Clanton, Jonas Henderson, and Revs. Fleming, Livingston, Young, Davidson of the Tribune, Marks, Flood, and others. The Editor of this paper was given a cordial welcome, and invited to address the august body. We bid our Baptist brethren God speed in their noble work, representing as they do nearly a million and a half of colored Christians, they have it in their power to do a most magnificent work for God and humanity.

Our South Carolina Letter.

Mr. Editor—For the past month we have been busily engaged with our quarterly and district conferences and protracted meetings.

Our second quarterly conference for Mayesville Charge was held at St. Mark's Church August 23. On the next day, the 24th, our conference for Florence District opened at the same church. Our kind and generous hearted presiding elder, A. G. Townsend, presided. The session was opened by the eloquent Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, presiding elder of Beaufort District, who was in attendance as a visitor. The conference was large, over 100 ministers and delegates were present. We consider this one of the most successful district meetings ever held in the eastern part of our State. Every speech, essay and sermon was of a high order. The preaching was spiritual and delivered with the power and demonstration of the Holy Ghost. Nightly the altar was crowded with those seeking religion. On Friday night we had our first convert.

After the close of the district conference our protracted meeting continued until the following Thursday night, and resulted in fourteen converts and eighteen additions to the church.

From here we went to Clarke Chapel, where the local brethren were holding a prayer meeting for five days, and the most glorious protracted meeting ever held in this community resulted in twenty-eight converts and five additions to the church; making a total of forty-two converts and twenty-three brought from the ranks of satan. To our God be all the praise.

I shall open the canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN shortly. Pray for us.

A. MIDDLETON, Mayesville.

Reign of High Carnival—St. Louis in a Blaze of Glory—Seven Weeks of Uninterrupted Gaiety.

The name of America's greatest carnival center—St. Louis—will be blazoned on the skies of gaiety from September 4 to October 19, 1895. The eighteenth annual reign of carnival will pervade the city, and for seven weeks European capitals noted for their seasons of mystery and regal entertainment will gracefully bow to the superiority of the city on the banks of the Mississippi.

September 4 will mark the opening of the 12th annual St. Louis Exhibition. This splendid feature of St. Louis' carnival period will remain open until Oct. 19. In addition to Sousa's world-famed band, many new attractions will be offered. Sept. 4 to 14, the celebrated French Equilibrists, the Kins-Ners, will appear. Sept. 15 to 28, Caicedo, "The King of the Wire," and Louis Oloriz, "The Man Monkey," by their unique entertainments will delight the fun-seeking public. Sept. 30 to Oct. 13, Ivan Tscheroff's celebrated educated mutes, the Russian dogs, are carded for a series of wonderful performance. Oct. 13 to 19. Price Kokin, the greatest Japanese Juggler alive, will fill an engagement, while Buck Taylor and troupe of native Sionx Indians, and Miss Cornelia Campbell Bedford of New York, Demonstrator of Cooking, will appear every day during the Exposition season.

That mysterious personage, King Hotn, and his retinue, will give a daylight parade Sept. 28. This is one of the most unique attractions of the carnival season in St. Louis, and is grotesquely staged. Oct. 7 to 12, the world-beater, the great St. Louis Fair, will be the chief attraction. On the evening of Oct. 8, His Majesty the Veiled Prophet and royal court will parade the principal thoroughfares of the city, followed by the famous ball, which is known of throughout the land.

All the St. Louis theatres, during the season of high carnival, have billed most excellent attractions. Among the number might be mentioned "Trilby," "Lyceum Theatre Company," Chas. Frohman's Stock Company, Hoyt's "A Black Sheep," De Wolf Hopper, etc.

The management of the Missouri Pacific Railway and Iron Mountain Route, constantly having the interests of St. Louis in mind, will sell tickets from all points on the system to the carnival city and return at greatly reduced rates. For copy of the program giving the features of the carnival season in detail, address company's agents, or H. C. Townsend, Gen'l Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

Call the Witnesses.

Seated on the platform at the love feast of Des Plaines Camp Meeting on the morning of July 28, I was greatly impressed by the number of men who bore testimony that the grace of God had been sufficient to save them from a drunkard's life and miserable death.

I wish I might have a letter from every man in Methodism who has been rescued. Let us have a silent class meeting. Come all ye who have been redeemed from the drink habit. Write me a letter and tell me about it.

Mr. Hadley, of the Water Street Mission, New York City, told us in a meeting at the St. Denis Hotel that every year he goes to a certain cell in a New York prison on the anniversary of his redemption, and spends the night alone with God in prayer. "And in a few nights," he said, "I will celebrate my thirteenth anniversary. Into that cell Jesus came. I accepted Him, and He saved me, and for thirteen years I have been a free man. What a wonderful Savior is Jesus my Lord!"

There are many thousands of these witnesses. Let us hear from every one of you. Glory to His name!

Alexandria District Conference.

The Alexandria District, Louisiana Conference, met at St. Martinsville, La., August 21, at 9 a. m., with Rev. S. E. H. Morant, P. E., in the chair. Roll call showed all pastors present except four; also a large number of local preachers, exhorters, Sunday School superintendents and other members.

Sunday was a high day from 10:30 a. m. to 10:45 p. m., during which time (except one hour and a half intermission) love feast was held. Fourteen sermons from presiding elders and pastors. Minutes and resolutions read and approved. An essay on Sabbath School work was read by Miss Florenzo Gardener. A general parting hand-shake, and dismissed to meet in Lake Charles next year.

A. J. Pickett was elected secretary, with Rev. H. C. Wilson and J. C. Smith assistants. Rev. J. A. Vincent was elected statistical secretary, with Rev. W. L. Ames assistant, and Rev. E. B. Richards conference treasurer. The conference stewards, committee on Divine worship and examination of local preachers in four years course of study, and others necessary for the order of business, were appointed. A letter from Hon. F. V. Fleming, mayor of the town, expressing his regret and illness which prevented his presence to deliver the address of welcome to the district conference, was read by Hon. A. D. Williams, who in behalf of the mayor and citizens of St. Martinsville, extended the welcome, amid great applause. Rev. G. W. Wells made the reply in behalf of the district conference.

Miss C. Turpeaux read an essay on the qualifications of the ministry.

The presiding elder and pastors read their reports; then followed reports from local preachers and exhorters, examination of character and renewal of license, etc. The local preachers and exhorters who subscribed for the SOUTHWESTERN had their characters passed and licenses renewed.

Quite a number of visitors were introduced, among whom were several Baptist pastors and deacons, and Sister Egland of Jeanerette, Rev. Wm. Porter of Clinton Charge, Rev. Henry Taylor of Valence Street M. E. Church, New Orleans.

Lake Charles was selected as the seat of the next district conference.

Resolutions were adopted complimentary to Rev. J. C. Hartzell, D. D.; Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., and Rev. S. E. H. Morant, P. E.; endorsing them as our choice of candidates for election to General Conference M. E. Church, 1896; also of thanks to mayor and citizens; J. W. Turner, his wife and members; pastor and members of Baptist Church; secretaries; committees; Rev. L. G. Adkinson; Prof. Cornelius Johnson; the Editor and business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN.

Louisville District Conference.

The Louisville District Conference assembled at Hartford, Ky., August 1, at 8:30 a. m., Rev. G. A. Sisle presiding.

Rev. E. D. Miller called the roll and 38 answered to their names. Rev. J. W. White was elected secretary, with W. H. Bloomer assistant; Miss Sallie L. Parker, of Pewee Valley, was elected reporter to the SOUTHWESTERN and Western Christain Advocate, and Brother A. Bland reporter to the Hartford Republican. The various committees were appointed.

The presiding elder appointed Rev. E. D. Miller, of Shelbyville, as a fraternal delegate to represent the original Louisville District, and Rev. J. W. White, of Morgantown, to represent the original Bowling Green District, and thus favorably consummated the union of the district. Rev. Miller made an interesting address and Rev. White heartily responded.

The presiding elder read quite an interesting report of his work, which showed improvement in each department of the church, spiritually and financially.

Thursday evening, at 8:30, Rev. J. W. White preached an able missionary sermon at the court house.

The local preachers reported and several were advanced in their classes and their licenses renewed.

At 10:30 a. m., Friday; Dr. E. W. Hammond, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, came into the conference room and was received by the conference and delegates with many cheers. The elder introduced the distinguished editor, who addressed the audience in favor of his paper and of our schools.

Friday afternoon was devoted to the Sunday School Institute and Epworth League and was nicely attended by the friends and workers of that department. The papers read were highly appreciated and the ministers were highly lifted up, and quiet an interesting discussion followed. The Hartford choir rendered beautiful selections for the occasion. Rev. Louis Robinson was the organist.

At 8:30 p. m., Dr. Hammond preached at the court house to a large audience.

On Saturday the district stewards, class leaders, superintendents and presidents of the Epworth League chapters made their reports, and all showed there was an increased of good being done in the work.

The entire work of the conference has been that of pleasure to each member and vistor. The spirit of the Lord has been with us each session. Praise the Lord for his goodness.

Our efficient and beloved presiding elder made a closing address to the conference, which warmed all hearts and created new resolves.

Rev. William Johnson spared no pains in arranging for the entertainment of the conference. He seems to be loved by his congregation.

Rev. William Venable preached a good spiritual sermon.

On Sunday Dr. Hammond preached at 11 a. m.; Rev. L. W. Miles preached at 2 p. m., and the Lord's supper was administered to 102 persons. All Christians drank freely from that blessed fountain.

Rev. A. A. Woolfolk, of Wilsonville, preached grandly at 8:30 p. m.

A Chance to Make Money.

It seems strange that people will not improve their opportunities; they all want to get rich, but have not enough enterprise to succeed. I believe any man or woman can clear $10 a day in the Dish Washer business, as it is just booming now; but not one in 500 has push enough to enter the field and reap the harvest. I have been in the business over a year, and have cleared over $20 a day, without canvassing any. I have examined all the Dish Washers, but none equal the Climax. Address the Climax Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you how to proceed, and you can do well in city or country, as every family wants a Climax Dish Washer. When we know of opportunities like this, I think it our duty to inform others, as this is a chance for all to make money honestly and easily. A READER.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Willhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St., New Orleans.

Joshua Renewing the Covenant.

(Josh. 24. 14-25.)

By Rev. G. N. Jolly, Kentucky Conference

LESSON XII.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The Lord our God will we serve, and His voice will we obey." (Joshua 24. 24.)

After the cities of refuge were established, the children of Israel proceeded to name forty-eight cities, scattered throughout the Promised Land, for the priests and Levites. The two and a half tribes were released from further duty. They returned to their homes east of the Jordan. Joshua delivered his parting address, renewed the covenant, and yielded up his life, at the age of one hundred and ten years. Our lesson to-day is the closing words of his farewell discourse.

I. The way of life presented to the people (14). 1. "Now therefore," for the reasons I have already given, you should do the will of God. Joshua had called the people together at Shechem, and rehearsed the dealings of God with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; with their fathers in Egypt, and in the wilderness; and with them since they entered Canaan. Now because He had been so kind and good to them they should obey His voice. We ought to remember the dealings of God with us in the past. 2. "Fear the Lord, and serve Him in sincerity and in truth." This does not mean a slavish fear of God. Such as a wicked servant has for his master; who obeys him because the lash is at his back. We do not serve God through fear of punishment. But filial fear, such as a good child has for his father. He obeys because he loves him. Neither the fear of punishment or the hope of reward should constrain us to serve the Lord: but pure love should be the moving cause of our devotions. The service of God should be in sincerity and in truth. It should be honest without deceit or hypocrisy. Likely there were some then, as now, who served God to be seen of men. They drew near to Him with their lips while their hearts were far from Him. Truth is fact. It stands opposite to fiction. We serve God in truth when we serve Him as He has commanded. We should have conscientions scruples in our methods of worship.

II. Accepting the way of life is a matter of choice (15). "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." It is not a matter of choice between God or no god, but between the true and living God and idols. Decide. Will you serve the God of glory, who has been so merciful to you, or the gods your fathers served beyond the floods (Euphrates), and in Egypt. 1. See here the freedom of the will. The true and false religion is set before them. They are asked to give up the one and accept the other. They had the power to do so. The same may be said of Elijah and the children of Israel on Mount Carmel (1. Kings 18. 21), and of the ministers and the unsaved to-day. 2. Notice here the force of association. By being thrown into the society of the unsaved they became idolaters. It is very hard to keep company with the wicked and not be influenced by them. Evil communication corrupts good manners. Let every one strive to associate with those who are better than themselves. 3. Behold here the choice of Joshua—"As for me and my house we will serve the Lord." He may have said this to constrain the people to serve the Lord: great is the power of influence. He knew the way of idolatry, and the way of godliness: so we know the way of life and the way of death. For his own good he chose the one and rejected the other. He would not only walk in that way himself but would have his family to do likewise. A father's influence is great.

III. The way of life chosen by the people (16-18). 1. The assertion—"God forbid"—may be understood as a prayer. It teaches that they knew their weakness and God's power. We are not likely to fall when we realize our frailty, and ask Divine help. A self-confidence that makes us cease to watch and pray is very dangerous. 2. They spoke of the works of God. His power was seen in the signs and wonders He wrought in Egypt, in bringing them up out of that land, and in giving them victory over their enemies. The power of God may be seen to-day in the history of nations. It is not hard to see the Lord's hand in the war between Japan and China. The goodness of God is seen in sending manna from heaven upon them; in keeping their young people alive as they journeyed through the wilderness, and in giving them homes in the Promised Land. We may see the goodness of God in the seed time and the harvest, in the right use of the mind and body, and in the Plan of salvation. Because of the power and goodness of God they said—3. "Therefore we also will serve the Lord" (R. V.). "Therefore" means for this cause, that is, because of the mercy and goodness of God, "we also," along with Joshua and his house, "will serve the Lord:" will do the will of God. They here promise to support the priesthood, to keep up their sin and burnt offerings, to keep holy the Sabbath day, and to circumcise their children. To observe all the laws God had given them, moral, ecclesiastical and political. They took advanced ground. All do well to dedicate their lives to God.

IV. Difficulties in the way of life (19-21). 1. "Ye cannot serve the Lord." This assertion should be explained in the light of other Scriptures. The Bible teaches on almost every page, that we can and should serve the Lord. The people did not understand Joshua to express an impossibility. It may mean ye cannot serve the Lord and idols, or it is difficult to do the Lord's will. It requires labor and watchfulness to serve God. But there are more difficulties and hardships in a life of sin. 2. "He is a holy God; He is a jealous God." The Scriptures clearly teach that God is without sin. That He is pure and holy. His children are exhorted to be "pure in heart" that they may see Him. The Bible shows the relation between God and his people to be like that between husband and wife. If they will love Him and be true to Him, then He will protect and keep them. But if they turn from Him and worship idols, then He will turn and do them hurt. God's claims on us are just, for He is our Creator, Benefactor and Redeemer. 3. "He will not forgive your transgressions, nor your sins." But the Word of God teaches, in many places, that the Lord does forgive sin. God will never forgive the sins of those who come to Him in a half-hearted way, clinging to their idols, or their depraved appetites, passions and habits But He stands pledged to forgive all who come with a whole heart, renouncing the devil and all his work. 4. "If ye forsake the Lord and serve other gods, then He will turn and do you hurt." There were still strange gods among the Israelites. They were no doubt on the back ground, but still retained. There may be church members who wear a holy front, but have many sins on the back ground: out of sight but retained. If they neglect the worship of the true God, bring their idols to the front, then He will turn and do them hurt. We are only safe when on the Lord's side. The people said—5. "Nay: but we will serve the Lord." Everything about the worship of God is voluntary.

V. The testimony of the people (22-24). 1. "Ye are witnesses against yourselves." The way of life had been shown them, the justice and holiness of God had been taught them, and they had consented to serve the Lord. They had not taken this vow ignorantly, and it had not been forced on them. It had now gone on record, and if they broke it, it would be a witness against them. 5. For the third time Joshua said to them—"Put away the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the God of Israel." The heart is the center of life. The inclination of the heart is a work of ours. We can incline our heart toward idols or toward the true God. 3. For the third time the people said—"The Lord our God will we serve, and His voice will we hear." They were short-sighted and warm-hearted. They believed they would do what they said. But they had not counted the cost. They were wayside hearers. Many young converts of to-day are like them. We may hear the voice of God to-day in His word, in His Spirit, and through His gospel.

VI. While the people were in a good state of mind and heart Joshua made, or "cut," a covenant with them. A covenant is a contract made between two parties. The covenant of works is that implied in the commands, prohibitions and promises of God. This do and live, that do and die. The covenant of Redemption is that made between the Father and the Son respecting the salvation of the world through Jesus Christ. The covenant of grace is that by which God engages to bestow salvation on man upon the condition that man shall believe in Christ, and yield obedience to the terms of the Gospel (Webster). This was likely a covenant of works.

Use It In Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat, and is in fact the great enemy of the mucous membrane: Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrah will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

The Leading.

One of the leading and best known painters in this country says, "I cannot afford to use anything but Pure White Lead" (see list of brands). Every practical painter knows this. It is only those who haven't any reputation to lose who don't know it, or will use misleading brands of White Lead or unknown worthless mixtures. Although low-priced, they are not cheap. Pure White Lead is the cheapest, because it is the best.

If colors are required they are easily made by using the National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead tinting colors. Pamphlet and color-card sent free.

Louisville District.

Brethren—I greet you once more. What has your charge done in raising the benevolent collections and minute money? Let me urge you to push forward on this line of work that we may have no blanks. Work for a revival in your charge; if you have no league, organize. I pray for God's blessings to attend all of your efforts. Yours,

G. A. SISSLE, P. E.

Ohio District.

Dear Brethren—Reports show that you are doing grandly this year. Remember your promise—all collections taken in full; no blanks allowed, is our motto. Please raise minute money and send to P. E. The Ohio District expects every man to do his duty, and I believe you will do yours. Write me often and freely. Let your people desire your return on account of a glorious revival in your work. Let us pray and help each other. Yours faithfully,

Notice—Tennessee Annual Conference.

Dear Brethren—The Tennessee Annual Conference will convene in Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 25, 1895. The following rates have been granted for those who attend the session: The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway will sell tickets, beginning Sept. 24 to 26, good until Oct. 3, 1895, at one and one-third for the round trip. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad have granted the following: You must purchase regular tickets to Nashville and at the same time procure from your agent at starting point a certificate stating that you have purchased a regular ticket, which will entitle you to return for one cent per mile, and the tickets will be put on sale Sept. 22 to 30. The I. C. Railroad will grant one and one-third rates on the certificate plan, providing there is an attendance of fifty or more at the meeting from all points.

Yours truly, J. A. W. MOORE, Sec'y.

Monroe District Conference.

The seventh session of the Monroe District, Louisiana Conference, and Sunday School Convention, convened in St. Peter's M. E. Church, Lake Providence, La., according to announcement, Rev. F. T. Chinn, P. E., in the chair. Mrs. Bulah P. Tucker was elected secretary protem. The conference was grandly entertained by the members and people of Lake Providence, both black and white. The good old SOUTHWESTERN was not forgotten. We are standing by the rule that no local preacher or exhorter's license be renewed except he subscribes to the paper. The session was grand in every sense. On Sunday sermons were preached by Revs. W. M. Hanero, N. W. McNeal, E. Hutchinson, A. B. Venable and G. J. Rogers; the presiding elder, Rev. F. T. Chinn, closing up grandly at night.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache.

Knoxville District Conference.

The district conference convened at the M. E. Church in Morristown, Tenn., Aug. 15, with Presiding Elder Owen Hypsher in the chair. W. A. Webber was elected secretary, with E. Knot assistant, and D. T. Turner reporter for the SOUTHWESTERN. The usual committees were appointed.

Revs. J. A. Guthrie, of the Bristol District, and Sparks, of the C. M. E. Church, were introduced.

Reports of pastors showed improvement; souls converted, churches built, benevolence looked after and subscribers added to our church paper. Rev. Hurd preached the introductory sermon to a large congregation.

One of the grand features of the conference were the literary exercises. The papers showed study and thought.

Prof. J. S. Hill, D. D., president of the Morristown Normal Academy, was present and read a paper on the history of the East Tennessee Conference, which was enjoyed by all.

On Friday night the conference was invited to President Hill's beautiful residence, where they enjoyed the hospitalities of Mr. and Mrs. Hill.

The conference refused to renew the licenses of local preachers not attending conference nor taking the SOUTHWESTERN.

The conference was largely attended and nobly entertained by the good people of Morristown. D. T. TURNER, Rept'r.

St. Joe District Conference.

The St. Joe District Conference, of the Central Missouri Conference, convened in Moberly, Mo., August 14, with Rev. J. J. Clark, presiding elder, in the chair. Rev. Cox delivered the welcome address, which was responded to by Rev. L. F. Payne. Both speeches were impressive and instructive. Wm. H. Wheeler was re-elected secretary.

The report of the presiding elder and reports of the pastors and others, all demonstrated a general improvement, and that the departments of the church as a whole had been looked after.

The following brethren were licensed to preach: R. J. Vivion, W. L. Lee, Lewis Williams, Richard Goodrich, J. H. Boone and Edward Brown.

Strong and inspiring sermons were preached during the session. On Saturday evening Dr. M. C. B. Mason conducted the F. A. and S. E. S. anniversary. He fairly electrified his audience by his masterly oratorical flights and common sense talk, and no doubt left the church with fresh zeal to do more for the great society. The session in many respects excels all others previous to it.

WM. H. WHEELER, Sec'y.

Spartanburg District Conference.

The Spartanburg District, South Carolina Conference, convened at Welford, S. C., August 8, Rev. N. F. Bowen presided. Rev. M. M. Manzon was elected secretary, with Revs. J. W. Moultrie and W. S. Thompson assistants. The address of welcome was delivered by Brother B. Moore, and responded to by Brother A. Simpson. The reports of pastors show an increase spiritually and financially. The benevolent collections will be in advance of last year. The Sunday School Institute was conducted by Rev. C. C. Jacobs, agent of the Sunday School Union, and proved a source of interest and profit. Rev. J. A. Brown, presiding elder of the Greenville District, and Rev. J. B. Middleton, of Camden, were present and made interesting addresses. The lecture by Prof. Wm. L. Bulkley, A. M., Ph. D., was enjoyed by all. On Sunday at 10 a. m., the love feast was held. At 11:30 a. m., Rev. C. C. Jacobs, A. M., preached grandly. The addresses, sermons and essays were of a high order. Presiding Elder Bowen leads acceptably. A true spirit of brotherly kindness and love prevailed during the whole session, which closed Sunday night.

Lost Friends.

We make no charge for publishing these letters from yearly subscribers. Others will be charged 50 cents. Pastors will please read the requests published below from their pulpits, and report any case where friends are brought together by means of letters in the SOUTHWESTERN.

I wish to inquire for my lost relations. I used to belong to a Jim King that lived in Tennessee; he moved to North Texas, near the town of Sherman. My mother's name is Recly, and used to belong to Marshal King. Mother was sold to a Rev. Anderson, who took her to Alabama. There were three sisters—Mary, Kate and Charity, and two brothers—Louis and Henry. Sister Kate and brother Lewis were left in Tennessee, also an aunt named Mary and an uncle named George. I was sold after reaching North Texas to a doctor's wife, who brought me to Hallettsville, where I now live. Please help me to find some of them, as I am all alone. Address me at Hallettsville, Texas, care of Rev. J. W. Weakley, who is my pastor.

IN THE SHADE.

Sunday-at-Home.

Sometimes God leads his own,
So prone to linger in the blinding glare
Of earthly good—through narrow ways of care
And loss and hindrance heretofore unknown,
And in the shadows gives them space for thought;
But when the discipline its work hath wrought,
With thankful joy his children understand
The gloom was but the shadow of his hand.

Sometimes he leads his own
Far from the throbbing heat and rush of life,
Beyond the utmost echoes of its strife,
And in green pastures maketh them lie down
To rest awhile, O sweet and hallowed shade,
What dream of death should make their souls afraid?
The passing dimness that its presence flings
Is but the healing shadow of his wings!

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—"When a man's ways please the Lord he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him." Surely a very effective way to dispose of those who feel it their duty to hate and oppress their fellows. Enemies are not always open, outspoken and bold. On the contrary, they frequently approach under pretense of friendship—soft, insinuating, mild. But bear ye in mind, Christian brother, that all their efforts to harm you will utterly fail, if your ways please the Lord. And pleasing Him, he will compel them to sue for peace.

—The New York Independent, that fearless and noble champion of human rights, gives a shoulder blow to the Christian Observer, the special champion of the opposite, in the following:

That sweet-spirited Presbyterian journal, the Christian Observer, of Louisville, Ky., has got a new name for the American Missionary Society, which it calls the American Miscegenation Association, because it does not refuse to receive white scholars who want to attend the best school in Orange Park, Fla., to which Negroes are admitted. It says:

"The effect of compelling any noble-spirited young man or woman to study and play, to eat and sleep and associate continually with companions of an inferior race, is humiliating and degrading in the extreme."

Why, bless you, there is no compulsion. They asked the privilege of going to the school and they pay for it. They sat and sleep and associate with them as little as they please, and the "inferior race" is not always inferior. The Christian Observer approves the Florida law. Why not then enact it in Kentucky, forbidding private schools to receive both races. There is Berea; try it.

Persons who jump at conclusions are usually unreliable. Right conclusions are reached by a process in which intelligence, the reason and the judgment are allowed to act. The greatest results ever achieved are those which have grown out of the wise and deliberate plans of thoughtful people. The impetuous fellow is a menace to society. He has his pet theories, his strange vagaries, and peculiar notions, and insists that what he thinks and does must be accepted by all without even a question.

Occasionally such a fellow gets into the Church, then there is confusion worse confounded. Or, if in the conference, he aspires to be the leader and proceeds straightway to "kill off" every brother who does not immediately acknowledge his superiority. An impetuous, quick-tempered, nervous and fidgety leader cannot succeed in anything, except it be in creating a disturbance. It is the cool, calculating, thoughtful man that accomplishes things. But, by all means, he only is worthy of the confidence of his fellow Christians, who gives the most abundant evidence that he is endowed by that wisdom which is from above, which "is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy."

—We are greatly indebted to the Epworth Herald for the group of Methodist Editors, and especially that the expressive and intelligent countenance of the genial Dr. Berry is among them.

IN DARKEST NEW ORLEANS.

That citizen must be obtruse indeed who does not have a pride in good government. Somehow we have felt for years that all good citizens ought to take part, yes an active part, in the election of the men who are to represent them in the offices which are necessary to the perpetuation of the national, state or municipal governments. The citizen is under moral and political obligations to see that the trusts which he has by vote committed to the man or men of his choice are faithfully discharged. We have corrupt politics to-day because the better class of voters have relegated these important matters into the hands of bummers, ward heelers and boodle politicians, who put men into office by the use of the most corrupt methods. The political history of New Orleans is a reproach to every good citizen. Every attempt at reform has been met with the most determined opposition.

For more than a year the criminal courts of the city have been engaged in the trial of various city officials, against whom grand juries have found indictments. Several have been found guilty and sentenced to terms of imprisonment. Leading newspapers have been for or against the wrongs, and every reform proposed has been opposed frequently by many in high social and political positions. For some time attempts have been made to enforce the Sunday closing law, and thus give to the lottery cursed city at least a respectable looking Sabbath. It is surprising how the law has been evaded. Prominent citizens have made common cause with the enemies of our Sabbath, and have thus prevented the enforcement of the law. It is strange, yet true nevertheless, that people deliberately and earnestly oppose the enforcement of laws, thus encouraging the desecration of the Sabbath, and encouraging the criminal classes. A prominent daily suggests that the political and moral destiny of the city is in the hands of an oligarchy bent only on spoil, and caring nothing for the peace and happiness of the good citizens. It is a sad, sad comment on the boasted Anglo-Saxon civilization of this age, that a city government so exclusively in the hands of our white fellow-citizens should make a record for itself, which, in comparison, would cause the worst rule of the dreaded Negro to dwindle into utter insignificance. But the present status of New Orleans is one of the revenges of history. We would humbly suggest to those who are trying to bring about the much needed reforms, that among the most effective agencies in the accomplishment of the desired objects is the successful manipulation of the thousands of colored people of this city, who form that aggregate moral force which must, to a great extent, determine the city's weal or woe. He is a wise diplomat who can recognize the importance of our suggestion, and who will seize this strategic force for the salvation of the city.

A Roman Catholic colored man who died recently in New Orleans, left $300,000. One of his bequests was $3,000 to the M. E. Church.

We clip the above from the St. Louis Christian Advocate, and suppose reference is made to Mr. Thoma LaFon, a Roman Catholic colored man who died recently in this city, leaving a fortune estimated at $300,000. Of this amount some $9,000 was left to our LaFon Old Folks' Home for colored people, and about $6,000 to our New Orleans University. The bequests to the Methodist Episcopal Church here were not less than $15,000, while the benevolent old gentleman remembered other institutions for the benefit of colored people in sums aggregating probably 100,000. Mr. LaFon was known as a creole. His deeds, however, show him to have been a Christian philanthropist. Would that there were more of them.

—Rev. William Bartley, presiding elder of the Houston District, Texas Conference, recognizing the great work which is being done in the district by Rev. O. I. Jones, our efficient State Sunday School Agent, writes:

Dear Editor—I wish to express my opinion concerning the action of the General Board of the Sunday School Union of the M. E. Church in the appointment of a field agent in this conference and State. Rev. O. I. Jones is an efficient man in the place. His work in the Houston District has made quite an improvement in the collections for the Sunday School Union. He has visited each charge and more than doubled the collections. Last year the entire collection for the Union was $16 from the Houston District, and this year the collection amounts to $50. I think the board did the best thing when it appointed Brother Jones agent in this State, and I believe to continue him will serve to bring the collections for the Union up to the standard needed; and, in my mind, is the best medium through which our people can be made to see the work of the Church in the Sunday School.

Respectfully yours, WM. BARTLEY,
Houston, Texas.

We have on another occasion expressed our satisfaction with the appointment of Brother Jones, whom we know to be in every way worthy and well qualified for the great work to which he has been called. But we must not make the very popular mistake that the only thing for the agent to do is to collect money. Our people give money, agent or no agent. Give them a strong sermon—a "stirring" one, as it is popularly called—with the usual "rousements," then start the song, open the way for the grand march to the table—and you have the collection. From careful observation, we know that our people give liberally, but they give impulsively. They give generally because they are asked to give, and very often without knowing or caring what it is for. We insist upon it, that the continued demands to increase our benevolent collections without, at the same time, the inauguration of a thorough course of training in the ethics of systematic benevolence, may increase the collections, but will not increase the confidence and love of the givers in favor of the extension of our work. Brother Jones hardly needs a suggestion from us, but we desire most earnestly to co-operate with him in the adoption of the latest and most approved methods of systematic giving. Such a course will soon bring our people up to that point of efficiency in which they will be recognized as most important factors in the extension of our work in the South and elsewhere. Let us have organization, organization, organization, then enthusiasm.

—Rev. J. H. Reed, A. M., of Paris, Texas, having accepted a professor's chair in Wiley University, will enter upon the discharge of his duties October 1. After that date correspondents will address him at Wiley University, Marshall, Texas. The following resolutions, from the official board of Mt. Zion M. E. Church at Paris, Texas, shows the estimation in which he is held by his flock:

WHEREAS, In the judgment of the authorities of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, our worthy pastor, Rev. J. H. Reed, has been appointed to the chair of mathematics and sciences in Wiley University, Marshall, Texas, be it, therefore,

Resolved, That the official board and members of Mt. Zion M. E. Church regret to lose the services of a safe leader, a true minister of the gospel and a devout Christian gentleman and scholar. Resolved further, That we congratulate the University on this worthy addition to the faculty, and pray for him the highest success in the educational department of the Church.

—Brother J. C. Epperson writes a sad letter from Cooper, Texas. There is hardly a doubt that the picture is overdrawn—church demoralized and people leaving the place because of the mob spirit that prevails there! Let us pray for them.

TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

Newburg, Ind.—Joel Perkins writes: I am glad I subscribed for your paper, and believe that I have gained some very useful knowledge. We are moving along very well here spiritually, both Sunday school and church advancing. Death has visited the family of Mr. and Mrs. Folding, and they are mourning the loss of their daughter Francis, who was taken ill at Chicago, brought home on the 13th of August and died on the 19th.

Texarkana, Tex.—M. C. Dason writes that the third quarterly for St. Paul's Church was held, with Presiding Elder C. C. Minegan in the chair. Every officer present with written report. It is said that this was the best session in the history of the church. Pastor reported 37 conversions, 42 accessions, $8 for benevolence, $22 for building, total quarterly collection $94; the parsonage nicely finished and freshly painted, which makes it the best on the district. Sunday the elder preached two excellent sermons; 50 communed and two children baptized; collection $20 80. Rev. E. M. Alexander was recommended for ordination and admission. Rev. W. H. Jackson, the able pastor, is pulling things through all right.

Huntsville, Texas.—Presiding Elder A. C. Culbreath, under date of Sept. 2, says: We had a ten days' meeting, with the following ministers: C. G. Curtis, C. M. Singleton, M. Q. A. Fuller, S. M. Balden, R. J. Campbell, E. Halliday, E. Michaux, P. A. Dismuke, S. S. Linday, J. A. Steward, Dr. Morris; also, Rev. Steptoe, of the A. M. E. Church; Dr. Piper, of the M. E. Church South; and Rev. Dr. Weeton, P. E. of M. E. Church South; all of whom gave us good sermons. Conversions 23; united to the church, 23; adults baptized on the ground, 15; infants baptized, 4.

Sheraw, S. C.—Rev. E. B. Burroughs, writes under date of 7th inst.: We have just closed a most glorious and successful revival at this place. Results—44 conversions and 63 accessions; 25 of the converts are men, and one, an old lady 90 years of age. To God be the glory and the praise!

Shelby, Miss.—Brother J. C. Hall says: Our third quarterly conference was held Aug. 31 and Sept. 1. Rev. J. H. Everett, the pastor, presided. Reports showed improvement along all lines; 5 added to the church, 2 conversions in the Sunday school, and $10 benevolent money raised this quarter. All officers have promised to take the SOUTHWESTERN, so look for 10 cash subscribers shortly.

Pleasant Ridge, Texas.—Brother S. P. Alexander writes: The Rev. J. H. Swann, our pastor, has been faithful on his circuit and the people here are well pleased with him. We are all farmers and mostly free holders. Our free school has closed. Miss Effie Strain, our teacher, has done good work.

Crystal Springs Circuit, Miss.—Brother P. H. Rembert writes: After eight days working in a revival thirty souls have been converted. Revs. Wm. Payne and J. Ford rendered good service. The work is spiritually alive and moving nicely.

Newport, Ark.—Brother G. A. Hall says: My third quarterly conference was held August 24 and 25. Presiding Elder J. W. Jackson was on time. Reports full. The spiritual condition of the charge is better than it has been for years. The congregation is increasing. The presiding elder lectured Tuesday night to a crowded house. One conversion this quarter, and benevolent collections to date $30; full members of the charge 18.

Littig, Texas.—Presiding Elder Mack Henson writes: Reports from my district shows that after a good session of the District Conference, Epworth League, S. S. Institue and W. H. M. societies, were well organized, with the able assistance of Sister E. S. Spriggs, corresponding secretary of W. H. M. Dr. G. R. Townsend, president of Epworth League work in West Texas Conference, done his work on a grand scale and left the chaptor on a firm basis, with a mind to work. Dr. O. I. Jones, S. S. agent for Texas Methodism, in his able addresses, gave inspiration and impetus to the whole work.

Jackson, La.—Rev. D. M. Seal, pastor Magnolia Church, says that on the night of Aug. 20, a host of members and friends stormed the parsonage with many pounds of choice groceries, which were highly appreciated.

Center Ridge, Ark.—Pastor W. J. Cunningham says that the second Sunday in August was observed as Children's Day, and that $3 was collected and forwarded to Dr. M. C. B. Mason in the interest of the Bud Long Hall at Philander Smith College.

Alexander, Ga.—Brother D. H. Martin writes: I was appointed to this charge by Presiding Elder O'Neal and by the help of the Lord I continue until this day. I have secured an acre of ground and am now trying to gather in the lost sheep of the house of Israel.

Heathman, Miss.—Rev. G. L. Williams says: At Heathman Chapel we had a thirteen-nights' meeting, which resulted in 20 conversions, and three confessed Christ since the meeting closed.

Spring Circuit, Texas.—Brother Henry Dickson writes: Our quarterly was held at Bogie Chapel, with Presiding Elder Culbreath in the chair. The reports show the work is spiritually in line. The elder preached and administered the Lord's Supper to 48 souls. Conversions this quarter 9, baptized 6, and joined the church 12. Presented the claims of the SOUTHWESTERN. Collection, $39 50.

Dangerfield, Texas.—Brother G. W. Norris says: We held a two weeks' protracted meeting, with 9 conversions and 13 added to the church. We have added another room to the parsonage and the foundation laid for a new church at Liberty. The work is doing well spiritually and we are marching on.

Lauderdale, Miss.—Brother A. Butler writes us that his third quarterly conference was held with Presiding Elder A. M. Trotter in the chair. Reports were good, and collections $66 50.

McCool, Miss.—Sister Ellen Burton writes: Our third quarterly conference was a pleasant occasion. Presiding Elder Jamison was at his post. Rev. J. M. Nevils and Prof. J. D. Caldwell were visitors. Reports good. Our pastor, N. B. Blackman, is doing good work.

Pine Bluff, Ark.—Brother G. W. Davis says: I found the work as it was left by my predecessors and have gone forward to a measure of success. The outlook is quite promising. The SOUTHWESTERN is a favorite here.

East Waco, Texas.—Brother A. J. Lynch writes us: We had a grand time at our ten days' meeting, and had 42 converts. The Lord is on our side.

Patoutville, La.—Brother J. W. Winey informs us that Sister Harriet Kaitley died Aug. 18, and was faithful unto death.

Cottonport, La.—Pastor J. C. Smith states that his revival at Union Church closed with 6 converts, 2 backsliders reclaimed, baptized 5 adults and 4 infants.

Bastrop, La.—Sister Etta E. Lee writes that Presiding Elder F. T. Chiun held their second quarterly love feast at Mt. Neho Church, Rev. A. B. Venerable pastor. It was one long to be remembered.

Yazoo City, Miss.—Brother N. N. Sidney informs us that he has closed his revival at Mt. Olive Church with 15 happy conversions.

Scooba, Miss.—Brother W. H. Smith writes: Our third quarterly conference was held with Presiding Elder A. M. Trotter in the chair. Reports showed the work to be in good condition. The elder talked in the interest of the SOUTHWESTERN and we obtained thirteen pledges to take the paper.

Cedar Keys, Fla.—Brother F. M. Spicer writes us that thirty-one converts and twenty-one probationers are the results of his work. Cedar Keys is one of the most important charges on the Gainesville District.

Hazlehurst, Miss.—Brother M. A. Hobson writes: We have have had the pleasure of seeing in our city the Revs. H. Roundtree, A. D. Payne, J. C. Hibbler and H. May. These divines were visiting relatives, with the exception of Rev. J. C. Hibbler, who assisted us in a four days' meeting. The fruit of his visit will be gathered in after days.

DeSoto, Miss.—Pastor J. Jordan says: Our presiding elder was with us on time. Reports very good. The elder preached grandly, and 45 partook of the Lord's Supper. Collection $30 05.

Notes From Nashville.

The Nashville District Conference met at Murfreesboro, Tenn., Aug. 21. There was a full attendance; over sixty answering the first roll call. H. W. White, the presiding elder, directed the proceedings of the conference with dignity, discretion and dispatch. J. A. W. Moore, with W. R. Smith as assistant, kept an accurate account of the action of the conference. The reports of pastors and others were indicative of progress. The conference was royally entertained by the people of Murfreesboro, who are noted for hospitality. The subject of renewing license of local preachers developed the fact that quite a number of the brethren had used tobacco during the year, but no license was renewed of any who were present unless they promised to abstain "wholly from the use of tobacco," and also subscribed and paid for the SOUTHWESTERN. The opening sermon by S. Knight was full of plain, wholesome thought and very practical. The educational anniversary was addressed by Prof. M. W. Dogan, professor of mathematics in Central Tennessee College and the writer.

The District Epworth League held its annual meeting in connection with the conference. The representatives of the several leagues present were deeply interested and topics of interest to the progress of the league were discussed at length. J. A. W. Moore was re-elected president and Mrs. Dr. McClellan secretary. The district conference recommended that future sessions of the conference begin at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon and close not later than Friday noon of conference week. During the session Rev. C. B. Wilson addressed the conference, bringing greetings from the Cumberland District, and Rev. H. W. Key, presiding elder of the West Tennessee, spoke words of greeting, and exhorting to increased activity in behalf of the aggressive work of the Church.

The citizens of Nashville are urging all voters to register; as the last legislature arranged that the registration should be good for two years, with only a brief opportunity to register again before the next presidential election. This is thought by many to be intended to diminish the colored vote. If so, it will result in exciting more interest in registration than ever before.

The sad news reaches us of the death, at Marshall, Texas, of Miss Lulu Evans, the first graduate in the musical department of the Central Tennessee College. She graduated in 1894, both in music and in the senior normal course. She taught a year in Texas and has finished, so suddenly, what we hoped would have been a long, useful and Christian life. She was specially gifted in music and her performances on the piano at her graduating exercises would have been creditable in any conservatory of music. She was the sister-in law of Rev. I. B. Scott, D. D., president of Wiley University. She had a host of friends who will be pained at her death. J. BRADEN.

That Tired Feeling

Is a common complaint and it is a dangerous symptom. It means that the system is debilitated because of impure blood, and in this condition it is especially liable to attacks of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for this condition, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate or life.

HOOD'S PILLS act easily, yet promptly and efficiently on the bowels and liver. 25c.

TURNING GRAY

AND THREATENED

WITH BALDNESS

The Danger is Averted by Using

AYER'S Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Neb.

WHY IN WASHINGTON?

Washington has long been the political and scientific center of the country, and it is the most available place for becoming the intollectnal conter of the continent.

The fitness of the national capital as onr country's trne educational center did not escape the attention of George Washington. With characterlstic far-sightedness he fixed npon it as the only proper location for a truly national nniversity. He spoke and wrote on the importance of it, planned for such an institution, and gave $25,000 as the foundation of a fnnd for his "favorite National Universlty."

The original letter in which Washingington makes this donation known, written from Philadelphia to Governor Brooks, of Virgluia, March 16, 1795, has recently come into tho possession of the present writer. In this letter he says:

"Ever since the General Assembly of Virginia were pleased to snbmit to my disposal fifty shares in the Potomac, and one hundred in the James River, Company, it has been my anxious desire to appropriate them to an object most worthy of public regard.

"It is with indescribable regreat that I have seen the youth of the United States migrating to foreign conntries, in order to acqnire the higher hrauches of erudition, and to obtain a knowledge of the sciences. Although it would be injnstice to many to pronounce the certainty of their imbibing maxims not congenial with repnblicanism, it mnst nevertheless be admitted that a serions danger is enconntered by sending abroad among other political systems those who have not well learned the valne of their own.

"The time is therefore come when a plan of nniversal education ought to be adopled in the United States. Not only do the exigencies of public and private life demand it, bnt if it should ever be apprehended that prejndices would be entertained in one part of the Union against another, an efficacions remedy will be to assemble the youth of every part nnder such circnmstances as will, by the freedom of interconrse and collision of sentiment, give to their minds the direction of trnth, philanthropy, and mutnal conciliation.

"It has been represented that a university corresponding with these ideas is contemplated to be built in the federal city, and that it will receive considerable endowments. This position is so eligible from its centrality, so convenient to Virginia, by whose legislatnre the shares were granted, and in which part of the federal district stands, and combines so many other conveniences, that I have determined to vest the Potomac shares in that nniversity.

"Presnming it to be more agreeable to the General Assembly of Virginia that the shares of the James River Company should be reserved for a similar object in some part of that State, I intend to allot them for a seminary, to be erected at such place as the wisdom of the legislature shall deem most proper.

"I am disposed to believe that a seminary of learning npon an enlarged plan, bnt yet not coming np to the fall idea of a nniversity, is an institntion to be preferred for the position which is to be chosen. The students, who wish to pnrsne the whole range of science, may pass with advantage from the seminary to the nnlversity; and tho former, by a dne relation, may be rendered co-operative with the latter.

"I cannot, however, dissemble my opinion that if all the shares were conferred on a nniversity it would become far more important than when they are divided; and I have been restrained from concentering them in the same place merely by my anxiety to reconcile a particnlar attention to Virginia with a great good, in which she will abundantly share in common with the rest of the United States.

"I mnst beg the favor of yonr excellency to lay this letter beforo that honorable body at their next session, in order that I may appropriate the James river shares to the place which they may prefer. They will at the same time again accept my acknowledgments for the opportunity with which they have favored me of attempting to supply so important a desideratnm in the United States as a nniversity adeqnate to onr necessity, and a preparatory seminary."

This beautiful plan of Washington's failed. From his days to onr own, however, distingnished statesmen and edncators have renewed the advocacy of the project. Recently the Roman Catholic Church has established an institntion here to represent its faith, promote its interests, and become the heart of its edncational system. We admire its conrage and the keenness of its vision. But we deem it dne to Protestantism—to which the world of science and vital religion looks for leadership—to undertake the establishment of an institntion of learning which shall represent its highest educational purposes and that spiritnal life on acconnt of which the world has deemed it worthy of confidence.

The nniversity mnst be in Washington because of the nnequaled facilities of the national capital as a distributing center for great intellectnal and moral forces, and because of the incomparable advantages for scientific and literary investigation presented by the general government. American nniversity life is destined to center here. The Congressional, Departmental and Technical Libraries, the Smithsonian Institntion, the National Mnsenm, the Army and Navy Medical Mnsenm, the great Naval Observatory, the Department of Agricnlture and Labor, the Patent Office, the Geological Snrvey, the Bnrean of Ethnology, the Botanical Garden, the Museum of Hygiene, the Bnreau of Education, and the many snbdivisions of scientific investigation nnder the direct patronage of the government, are gratnitously furnished and constantly mnltiplying. Already the money invested in the collection of these departments and bnreans amonnts to more than $32,000,000; and for their maintenance and increase abont $3,500,000 are expended every year. All these great collections are now thrown open by special act of Congress to all scientific students without a dollar's cost to the stndent. In the shaping and secnring of this liberal legislation the labors of President William W. Smith, LL. D., of Randolph-Macon College, were largely influential and effective. Money given for education here will go farther than anywhere else in the conntry, because of these priceless accessories. A student in the American University will always find this other nniversity—Washington's matchless collection of science and art—within reach and without cost.

In Memoriam.

Sister Lula Beatrice, oldest daughter of Rev. A. M. Trotter, presiding elder of the Meridian District, Mississippi Conference, died on 21st of Angnst, at 6 p. m. She professed faith in Jesus and joined the Central M. E. Church in Jackson, Miss., dnring the pastorate of her father. At her death her membership was in Asbnry M. E. Church, Holly Springs, Miss. She was not sick very long and her death was qnite unexpected. This bronght great sorrow to her fathor and other members of her family, as it has only been but a few years since his wife died. Lnlu Beatrice Trotter was 14 years, 2 months and 18 days old. She said she wanted to hear sacred music.

Holly Springs District Conference.

The first session of the Holly Springs District convened June 27, at Duck Hill, Miss., in Benford Chapel M. E. Church, with Rev. W. McDonald, P. E., in the chair. Rov. N. H. Williams was elected secretary, with W. C. Weatherall assistant, and G. J. Dobson was elected statistical secretary, with C. W. Butler assistant. The elder read his report of the district, which showed marked advancement on all lines. The pastors also read their reports, which indicated success in every department of Church work. Able sermons were preached hy Revs. H. B. Hart, W. F. Isaiah, H. A. Robinson and L. F. Jones. The following were introdnced to tho conference: Revs. R. P. Bnrt of the A. M. E. Church, W. H. Eskridge of the Baptist Church, Presiding Elder S. H. Novils of the Tupelo District, Profs. J. A. Williams, E. H. McKissack and G. G. Logan. They spoke words of cheer, and Prof. Logan addressed the conference in the interest of Rust University with much credit to himself and the school he represents.

On Sunday morning a speaking meeting was conducted hy C. W. Butler, and all present witnessed the power of the Holy Ghost. At 11 a. m., the presiding elder preached an able sermon, after which 77 bowed at the communion table. Able sermons were preached during the day by Revs. S. D. Troup, W. McDonald, P. E., and Dr. M. C. B. Mason. The report of the statistical secretary showed that the benevolent collection was $204 35. Collection during the conference was $30 85. Next conference will convene at Batesville, Miss. G. J. Dobson, P. C.

It is Known By Its Cures

It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit.

The thousands of people whom it has raised from disease and despair to happiness and health, are the strongest and best advertisements Hood's Sarsaparilla has. No other preparation in existence has such a record of wonderful cures.

This is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sale, and requires for its production the largest laboratory in the world.

Now if you need a good medicine, why not try that which has done others so much good. Remember

A WORD FITLY SPOKEN.

The following from the Christian Advocate (Nashville, Tenn.) is so full of truth and good common sense that we publish it for the benefit of our many readers:

"Whenever our preachers cease to preach "sound doctrine"—including the distinctive doctrines of Methodism, they will cease to build the Church after New Testament directions; and will realize, but too late, that they have in their hands a disloyal and intractable membership, as well as a membership without intelligent conviction, without experience, and wholly unable to give a reason for the hope they profess. The foundations must be preserved!

It has often occurred to us that there has been a failure on the part of many of our preachers to preach "sound doctrine." Our pulpits are often characterized by flashy and sensational methods to attract the people with the ultimate object of getting a big collection. We have gone to the house of God frequently, hungering and thirsting for the pure word of consolation, and have been sadly disappointed to receive and hear in its stead a tirade upon some of the foibles of the flock, a regular pulpit "lambasting" of some member who did not feel like bowing down at the feet of his august majesty, the preacher. As for the doctrines—the distinctive doctrines of Methodism, we have heard in some Methodist pulpits utterances which, if made in some other parts of the country, would subject the preacher to trial before his annual conference for heresy. We have heard many well meaning preachers handle the Word of God with an abandon that suggested very defective training to say the least of it. And the interpretations put upon the Holy Word have at times been illogical, far fetched and ludicrous. We have heard it observed frequently, that the preaching among our people of to-day is less doctrinal and helpful, if not less intelligent, than that which the fathers of twenty-five or thirty years ago dispensed to the people. We have known a score or more of these fathers who ranked among the best preachers of the century. They studied God's Word thoroughly, and frequently pursued courses of private instruction under some of the most accomplished teachers of our Methodism, and with the gifts and graces of the spirit joined to those added qualifications, gave them power in the pulpit and standing among their brethren. We insist upon it now, and shall insist upon it at the expense of giving offense to some, that we need a great reformation in our pulpits in the great Southland. Our people are suffering for the want of proper spiritual teachers; for teachers who study the Word which they preach, and whose practices correspond with their teachings.

Under this regime we already have an "intractable membership, as well as a membership without intelligent conviction." Some of our conference examining committees are responsible for putting into the pastorate inefficient men; frequently those who have been called to the offices of class leader, steward or Sunday school superintendents. Encouraged by designing brethren, they are rushed through the classes to prey upon a long suffering people. There is hardly any excuse for this condition, since there are scores of schools where collegiate and classical instruction is given, and as frequently with departments of biblical instruction. Gammon Theological Seminary, with its able and consecrated faculty, furnishes unsurpassed facilities for that theological instruction which has already wrought wonders among the colored people of the South.

Our brethren might as well understand now, that mere verbosity or gift of gab, that grimaces, contortions, yelling, jumping and loud hallooing will not do for this age of enlightenment. Study the books. Read the literature. If the schools, colleges and theological seminary are not within reach, employ a private teacher. Study at all hazards, and make every sacrifice to keep abreast of the thought of the Church.

Let it be understood, however, that all these qualifications will not make a man who is morally weak equal to the demands. We need the pure religion of the meek and lowly Christ, then we should add to our faith virtue, and knowledge, and patience, and brotherly kindness, and charity; which, with the advantages of persistent study, will give qualifications which will not only make our ministers workmen approved unto God, but living epistles known and read of all men.

THE NEGRO AND THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE.

It is about settled that a majority of the white people in South Carolina are in favor of a wholesale disfranchisement of the colored citizens of that State, and so far as it is possible for the constitutional convention now in session to accomplish its desired object, the Negro will be practically debarred from holding an office, or from depositing his vote.

That all the Southern States would like to put themselves into perfect and complete harmony with this action scarcely admits of a doubt. The "Mississippi plan," which has already reduced the colored vote in that State to a minimum, is regarded by many Southern white people as the initial movement looking toward the elimination of the Negro from Southern politics. But the heartless plan of the South Carolina buccaneers is, to many, the best and most comprehensive, since it proposes to rob the Negro of every right which he now possesses. The convention exhibits a defiance of constitutional guarantees, characteristic of the people of that State. It is amusing to notice the consideration displayed toward the poor illiterate but respectable white man in all the proposed movements in favor of ballot reform. The leaders of these movements ought to be big and broad enough to acknowledge the fact that there are poor illiterate but respectable black men who should be permitted to enjoy these immunities in common with their poor illiterate but respectable white brethren. This species of discrimination is manifestly unjust, and will receive the endorsement of but few white citizens outside of the prejudice cursed localities which are so productive of the growth of this species of disloyalty.

This high-handed rape of the ballot may afford some solace to those prejudiced souls, who have been kept in a state of nervous excitement bordering on frenzy for fear of so called "Negro domination." We are told that the immense illiterate Negro vote is a constant menace to the institutions of our common country. We believe this is true, but at the same time there is as much, if not more, danger in the illiterate white vote. Take the present political history and complexion of many of the principal Southern cities for instance. One need not go very far to discover that the illiterate Negro voter is not responsible for this condition. In fact, take the principal localities in which the champions of Negro disfranchisement reside, and it will be found that the illiterate white voter is the master of the situation. Almost anyone possessing even a limited knowledge of political affairs knows that the masses of American voters, or voters in the United States, possess a very limited knowledge as to the interpretation of any clause of the constitution of the State, or of the United States. As to ability to read the English language, etc., there are unfortunately too few of them for the safety and perpetuity of our institutions. There are hundreds and thousands of voters who speak no language except that of the country from which they have recently came, and where they were born. It is notorious that some of these voters whom blatant political demagogues seek to protect have been placed into political office and power less than six months after they landed in this country. The Negro is an American. His citizenship was purchased at a tremendous cost. He himself helped turn the tide by which that sovereign right came to him. He has been faithful to his trust, loyal, patient, and deserving of the sympathy and confidence of all his fellow-citizens.

It is no fault of his that designing adventurers and political demagogues have made him at times a spoilsman and a boodler. His teachers have been many—examples have never been wanting. Yet we say without hesitation that the majority of Negro voters, even including those who have had limited opportunities for the acquisition of that knowledge of political affairs desirable, are among the most reliable of those who enjoy the right of suffrage, and that they will compare very favorably with the masses of their white fellow-citizens. We believe in intelligent suffrage. We believe in ballot reform, and that the American voter, white and black, should stand on the most perfect equality—having equal opportunities, equal incentives, and under equal obligations to comprehend intelligently the rights, duties and privileges of citizenship. With the Negroe's love of knowledge and appreciation of the elective franchise, we have full confidence in his ability to meet every requirement. We are sanguine enough to believe that the ratio of his progress toward the highest standards of citizenship will be greater than that made by his more highly favored white fellow-citizen with the same advantages. After all, may not this severe discipline help lay the foundation for higher and better social and political conditions?

THE RELIGIOUS PRESS ON THE NEGRO.

Every black man who makes a step upward on the ladder of civilization is an example and inspiration to every member of his race below. In so far as he succeeds in the struggle of life, he helps to obscure the color line.—Zion's Herald.

We admire the candor with which our distinguished confrere studies this question. Such utterances are of incalculable value as a stimulus to the black man who is making an earnest, honest effort to rise to higher conditions.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Rev. J. L. Wilson, A. B., late of Holly Springs, Miss., has been appointed principal of Meridian Academy. Correspondents will address him at Meridian, Miss.

—Brother E. B. Richards, of Opelousas, La., sends the following: "Allow me to say that on August 23 we had the third son born unto us; his name is George Edward Richards. All is well to day. Your brother in Christ."

—Prof. E. A. Robertson, of Indiana, has been appointed president of George R. Smith College, Sedalia, Mo., to succeed Rev. Dr. P. A. Cool, who recently retired from the presidency to accept the pastorate of First Church, Sedalia. Dr. and Mrs. Cool celebrated their silver wedding August 17.

—The Northwestern says: "Mr. C. C. Morse, the business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, New Orleans, La., called at our office last week." We gratefully recall the fact that in our first parish we witnessed the conversion of this now useful servant of the Church.—Zion's Herald.

—Brother Robinson has just completed a neat parsonage at Biloxi, Miss., and is living in it. It is the work of his own hands principally, so we hope he will be greatly blessed in its occupancy. His work progresses finely; benevolent collections nearly all up, and there are many other signs of improvement.

—Booker T. Washington was the guest of Albert K. Smiley at Lake Mohonk, N. Y., Aug. 26. He spoke for his school, and the collection raised afterward amounted to $1000. Mr. Smiley has for several years past held "Negro conferences" at his place and never was a Negro invited to take part in the deliberations. Now he is giving the Negro an opportunity to be heard in his own behalf.

The National Department of the Woman's Keeley League, to secure a day of prayer in the week of prayer, says: "Believing, as we do, that intemperance and its results constitute one of the greatest obstacles in the way of the gospel in every land, and having unshaken faith in the willingness of God to answer the believing prayers of his people, we, as Christian workers, earnestly petition that one entire day of the week of prayer be devoted to prayer for the removal of the drinking usages of society, and the abolition of the traffic in alcoholic beverages and of the opium habit and trade."

—The Chautauqua Reading Circle has organized a new feature in connection with its four years course, known as the "Teachers' Reading Circle." This is a department of the C. L. S. C., and closely identified with it, but designed to give to teachers the advantage of some special study of pedagogical subjects, and at the same time provide a course which may be a help to many busy teachers who feel the need of a plan requiring a little less work and expense than the full C. L. S. C. course. The plan has received the hearty co-operation of educators and promises to meet a genuine want.

Reign of High Carnival—St. Louis in a Blaze of Glory—Seven Weeks of Uninterrupted Gaiety.

The name of America's greatest carnival center—St. Louis—will be blazoned on the skies of gaiety from September 4 to October 19, 1895. The eighteenth annual reign of carnival will pervade the city, and for seven weeks European capitals noted for their seasons of mystery and regal entertainment will gracefully bow to the superiority of the city on the banks of the Mississippi.

September 4 will mark the opening of the 12th annual St. Louis Exhibition. This splendid feature of St. Louis' carnival period will remain open until Oct. 19. In addition to Sousa's world-famed band, many new attractions will be offered. Sept. 4 to 14, the celebrated French Equilibrists, the Kins-Ners, will appear. Sept. 15 to 28, Caicedo, "The King of the Wire," and Louis Oloriz, "The Man Monkey," by their unique entertainments will delight the fun-seeking public. Sept. 30 to Oct. 13, Ivan Tscheroff's celebrated educated mutes, the Russian dogs, are carded for a series of wonderful performance. Oct. 13 to 19, Price Kokin, the greatest Japanese Juggler alive, will fill an engagement, while Buck Taylor and troupe of native Sioux Indians, and Miss Cornelia Campbell Bedford of New York, Demonstrator of Cooking, will appear every day during the Exposition season.

That mysterious personage, King Hotu, and his retinue, will give a daylight parade Sept. 28. This is one of the most unique attractions of the carnival season in St. Louis, and is grotesquely staged: Oct. 7 to 12, the world-beater, the great St. Louis Fair, will be the chief attraction. On the evening of Oct. 8, His Majesty the Veiled Prophet and royal court will parade the principal thoroughfares of the city, followed by the famous ball, which is known of throughout the land.

All the St. Louis theatres, during the season of high carnival, have billed most excellent attractions. Among the number might be mentioned "Trilby," "Lyceum Theatre Company," Chas. Frohman's Stock Company, Hoyt's "A Black Sheep," De Wolf Hopper, etc.

The management of the Missouri Pacific Railway and Iron Mountain Route, constantly having the interests of St. Louis in mind, will sell tickets from all points on the system to the carnival city and return at greatly reduced rates. For copy of the program giving the features of the carnival season in detail, address company's agents, or H. C. Townsend, Gen'l Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

The New Orleans Preachers' Meeting met on the 10th inst., at Wesley M. E. Church. Rev. T. G. Montgomery presided and C. Monroe was elected secretary pro. tem. Quite an animated discussion was held on the subject of temperance, the meeting taking high ground on this subject. Rev. H. Taylor was authorized to call attention to pastors to the necessity of using unfermented wine for the sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Rev. W. R. Butler, of the First Street Church, has returned after a brief visit among friends in the northern part of the State. He made himself useful to the cause of temperance, and the people at Mansfield, La., assisting in the campaign, which resulted in such a splendid victory for local option. Brother Butler comes back ready for the Lord's work.

Rev. D. J. Price, the efficient pastor of St. Matthew's M. E. Church at Algiers, La., reports the charge in a good condition. There are indications of a great spiritual awakening. The Sunday services were unusually interesting and profitable. Rev. Pierre Landry, the presiding elder of the district, was present, and rendered efficient service. Rev. Mr. Coffey, of the African M. E. Church, preached acceptably at the evening service. Brother Price brings in two cash subscribers to crown the day's work.

Rev. Pierre Landry, presiding elder of the South Louisiana District, is putting forth extra efforts to score a grand victory in benevolences, the salvation of souls, and in a general forward movement.

Brother Boatner, of Camp Parapet, called in to cheer and encourage us, after a hard day's battle for our Methodism at the Camp.

Rev. T. G. Montgomery, the faithful and indefatigable pastor of Mount Zion, has been disabled for the past week. News comes that he is convalescing.

Rev. A. J. Ford, of Union Chapel, continues on the sick list. Let the Church pray for the recovery of these good and faithful brethren.

First Street Church is preparing for a regular campaign for the Master. Bro. Butler, the pastor, is holding a series of preparatory meetings, which have already resulted in much good.

Rev. J. W. Hilton, of Plaquemine, La., preached a strong, inspiring sermon on Sunday night, which very greatly benefitted all who heard it.

Rev. J. W. Hilton, the able and energetic pastor of our Hurst M. E. Church at Plaquemine, La., has been recuperating a few days in the city. His church is in a splendid spiritual condition; ten souls having been converted during the past few weeks. The meeting is going on successfully.

EDUCATIONAL.

Wiley University, Marshall, Texas.

This school will open October 1, and the president desires all students who expect to attend during the fall term to be present on the first day if possible. The new teachers are Rev. J. H. Reed, A. M., who has had several years experience as a teacher; Prof. R. S. Lovinggood, A. B., who for a number of years has been principal of the public school of Birmingham, Ala.; and Miss Bessie S. Hill, A. B., who has been employed for some time as a teacher in Huntsville Academy. Mr. Charles L. Marshall, from the shoemaking department of Tuskegee Institute, will have charge of our shoe shop and direct the young men who desire to learn that trade. The literary, printing, sewing, cooking and other departments will be opened on the first day for the reception of all who desire to enter. A large attendance is anticipated for the session.

"Trust Those who have Tried."

Catarrh caused hoarseness and difficulty in speaking. I also to a great extent lost hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill.

I used Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh and have received great benefit. I believe it a safe and certain cure. Very pleasant to take.—Wm. Frazer, Rochester, N. Y.
Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

Our genial and good natured brother, Rev. F. T. Chinn, presiding elder of Monroe District, went with the Grand Army veterans on their pilgrimage to the Louisville (Ky.) reunion, and has doubtless enjoyed the trip to "old Kaintuck" among old friends and relatives.

How Mrs. Wm. Henry Makes Money!

I have been so successful in the past four months that I feel it my duty to aid others by giving them my experience. I have not made less than $18 any day for the last five months, and have not canvassed any. I put a notice in the papers that I am selling the Iron City Dish Washer, and people send for them by the dozen. They give such good satisfaction that every family wants one. Dishes washed and dried in two minutes. I think any person can easily clear $10 a day, and double that after they get started good. I don't see why any one should be destitute, when they may just as well be making lots of money if they try. Address the Iron City Dish Washer Co., 145 S. Highland Ave., Station A, Pittsburg, Pa., and they will give you all the instructions and testimonials necessary to succeed.

Natchitoches District Conference.

At Marthaville, La., the third session of the Natchitoches District Conference convened Aug. 14, in the Corinth M. E. Church, of which Alfred McGlocklin is pastor. It was one of the best sessions ever held on this district. Rev. H. J. Wright preached with ability and satisfaction. J. J. Obee was unanimously elected secretary, with M. C. Harris and D. K. Mocklebury assistants. Wm. Harrison was elected statistical secretary, with G. G. Golsten and Willie Dyas assistants, and Rev. M. S. Goins treasurer, with J. W. Lewis and James Wright assistants. Forty-two answered to the roll call. Reports showed that every interest of the Church was looked after. Revs. Wiley Willian, S Horton, Washington Allen and Charles Salhewhite, from the Baptist Church, were introduced, and gave us a hearty welcome in their midst. Baptists as well as Methodists gave the conference a hearty welcome. The SOUTHWESTERN occupied a large share of attention, and it was the opinion of all that the local preachers and exhorters, as their characters were passed and licenses renewed, should take the paper. The Editor was complimented with a present, which will convey an idea of the estimation in which he is held on this district.

Sunday was a high day in Methodism at Bedford. Early in the morning, all sorts of vehicles, loaded with human cargo, poured into the town. At 9 a. m., Revs. M. J. Dyer and Harrison conducted the love feast. Our white friends deserve much praise for so ably assisting in caring for the conference. Boyce was chosen as the next seat of the district conference. Joshua J. Obee was elected district manager of the Epworth League.

Bishop Taylor and his Book.

The publishers take unusual pleasure in announcing The Story of My Life, by Bishop William Taylor. The book is autobiographical and complete—a faithful and graphic transcript of the life work of one of the most remarkable characters of the century.

Bishop Taylor has interwoven his career with the religious history of the age to an extent that no other living personage has done. His work has been as heroic as it is picturesque and peculiar. His life has been in every sense unique; and now, as he nears the close, he has, in his own words and manner, recorded, as if for posterity, the extraordinary vicissitudes and events in which he has been the leading actor.

Bishop Taylor is about to complete his seventy-fifth year. He is again in America, and is giving the finishing touches to the product of his life story. The book which he has produced will be regarded by all thoughtful persons as the only work of its class and kind. Like character, like product have The Story of My Life the bishop has depicted, reviewed and completed, in the natural and inimitable style which belongs to himself alone, the whole drama of his history. The story is at once instructive and inspiring. No other than the author could have acted it or told it. Without doubt this publication is going to be the permanent memorial of the most extraordinary personal evangelism known in history since the days of St. Paul.

The first division of the bishop's work is entitled, "Early Life and Trial Period in the Ministry." In this part he gives an account of his ancestry and boyhood; of his conversion and entrance into the ministry; of his experiences as circuit rider in Virginia; of his pastoral work at Georgetown, and his contact with the society of the Capital. At this juncture he was transferred—we might almost say translated—by Bishop Waugh to California.

Then follows the remarkable episode of his street preaching and religious work among the miners, the roughs, and outcasts, who in the fifth and sixth decades constituted almost the entire population of California. The picture of "Father Taylor," as he now began to be known, standing among this melange of peoples, preaching to all kinds of folks, from the wealthy and half-aristocratic mining nabobs to the gamblers of Poker Flat, is one of the most interesting and striking revelations in the personal history of this generation.

In the next part of the work we see William Taylor an evangelist in the old States and in Canada, then in England, and then in Australia. In that island continent his career, as shown in this Story of My Life, was almost as marvelous as in California. At Melbourne and Sydney and Adelaide and many other places he encountered the same outcast elements of civilized society as he had found on our western coast. The dissemination of Gospel truth in these far parts was accomplished by William Taylor at a time when the penal colonies had not yet fully transformed themselves into States.

In the next department, "My Mission to South Africa," we have like scenes, but now for the first time among a different race of men. Here William Taylor began his preaching to barbarians; here he had his first contact with the lowest forms of human life; here he met the Bushmen and the Kaffirs, and began to teach and evangelize that race to which he has given the energies of fully eighteen years of his eventful life.

The work of William Taylor becomes world-wide. At length he is made bishop of Africa. He becomes in a measure responsible for the new system of evangelization which he has tried with so much persistency in the Dark Continent. Only a month ago he returned from that country.

Bishop Taylor's book is copiously illustrated with original engravings prepared especially for the work by the great artist, Frank Beard. The pictures are faithful delineations of the strange scenes in which the author has been the leading figure. The book will strike the best chords in the religious heart of the American people; it will enable them to renew and perpetuate an acquaintance with the great evangelist, and will thus carry forward his personal influence into the twentieth century.

Bishop Taylor may be nearing the end of his great career, but the man will continue to live and to preach long after his visible part shall have been hidden behind the curtain of death. His voice and his manner will, in this Story of My Life, repeat themselves to the generations following. In a far off time the echo of this greatest missionary's voice will be heard as the voice of one crying in the desert places of the world, saying, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord."

The publishers announce The Story of My Life with confidence that the book will receive the heartiest reception at the hands of the Methodist people and of all religious people. The merely secular reader, as well as others, cannot fail to find in this autobiography of a great personage traces of a career which has its interest for all men of all races, and in all climes under the sun.

A WAR ECHO.

EVERY HONORABLE VETERAN DESERVES HIS PENSION.

And the Lone Limb is not the only Reason for a Government Reward Either.

[From Journal, Lewiston, Me.]

Samuel R. Jordan has just given the Journal an account of his life, which in view of his extremely hard lot for the past few years will be read with interest.

"I am 48 years old and have always lived in New Portland. I enlisted in the army in 1862 as a private in Company A. 28th Me. Volunteers. My army experience injured my health to some extent, although I worked at blacksmithing some part of the time, when suddenly, several years ago, I was prostrated with what able physicians pronounced Locomotor Ataxia. At first I could get around somewhat yet the disease progressed quite rapidly until I had hardly any feelings in my legs and feet, they felt like sticks of wood and I grew so much worse that I could not move for three years without help, as my neighbors and friends could testify. I employed several physicians in my vicinity, and elsewhere, and they all told me that medicines would not help me, that they could do nothing to effect a cure and that in time I should become entirely helpless. I became discouraged. I was a great care to my wife and friends. Shortly after I met an old army comrade, Mr. All. Parlin, a resident of Madison, Maine, and he incidentally mentioned how he had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a severe case of rheumatism and a spinal and malarial trouble, that he had suffered with consequent of his army life, and had been greatly benefitted by their use. By his earnest recommendation I was induced to try the pills. After taking them for a time I began to feel prickly sensations in my legs and a return of strength so I could move them a little. After a few weeks I began to feel a marked improvement in my condition. I soon was enabled to walk around a little with the help of crutches. After taking for some time I can now walk without crutches, my general health is much improved and I have regained my old-timed vigor. I can walk about and enjoy life once more, for which I feel very thankful, and this happy result is due to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine in the sense that name implies. They were first compounded as a prescription and used as such in general practice by an eminent physician. So great was their efficacy that it was deemed wise to place them within the reach of all. They are are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

THE POSITIVE CURE.

ELY BROTHERS, 66 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

A LUNG GYMNASIUM.

The Rev. J. T. Wilhide, a Methodist minister, has invented a new breathing tube, which he calls the EXHALER, which is in reality a Lung Gymnasium, as the use of it will widen and strengthen every one of the six million air cells in the lungs, whether diminished by tubercle or not, increase their activity and strengthen the elasticity of their tissue, making consumption almost impossible. It is equal to the very best elocutionary exercise to strengthen the throat and vocal organs, deepen and enrich the voice and increase its power. It introduces 2 to 4 times more air into the lungs, consuming a large quantity of oxygen, and so purifies the blood, increases the circulation, relieves congestions and many morbid conditions of the system. The price is only $1 50 by mail, postpaid. An illustrated descriptive circular will be sent on application. E. H. MORSE, 631 Poydras St, New Orleans.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, OCT. 6, 1895.

The Time of the Judges.

(Judges 2. 1-12. 18)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The Lord raised up judges which delivered them." (Judges 2. 16)

The greater part, if not all, of the book of Judges was written by Samuel. It covers a period of about four hundred years. It is not supposed to give the history of all that occurred to Israel during that period. It records only the leading events. It may be divided into three sections—the introduction, the historical part, and the appendix. This lesson is connected with the first part.

I. In the rebuke of the Angel (1 5) we have 1. A great preacher. Who was he? Was he a prophet, or a priest, or a created spirit, or the Angel of the Covenant? I know not. The weight of evidence indicates that he was the Angel Jehovah. The same that appeared to Abraham in the plains of Mamre, to Hagar in the wilderness of Beersheba, to Jacob at the brook Jabbok, to Moses in the burning bush, and to Joshua, by the walls of Jericho. But who he was is not so important as what he said. God has spoken unto His people in "divers manners," but in every instance it was the message and not the messenger they were to heed. The word of God when presented in its purity will have a good effect regardless of the speaker. But the result will be much greater if the preacher is of good report among the brethren. He "came up from Gilgal to Bochim." This does not weaken the assertion that he was the God-man. The Gilgal here referred to was down near Jericho. There was the heap of memorial stones; there the manna ceased to fall, and the people ate of the old corn of the land; there circumcision was re-established; and there the first passover ever observed in Canaan was eaten. The people were likely assembled at Shiloh—a city north of Bethel. There was the tabernacle and ark, and in that place they often met for worship. Bochim—the word means weeping—was no doubt some place in Shiloh where the priests were accustomed to address the people. It probably derived its name from the result of the angel's sermon. It is a blessed thing when the Gospel moves the unsaved to penitential tears.

2. A Great Congregation—"All the children of Israel." The time was likely the feast of the passover. This congregation was great in numbers—many thousands of men, women and children Great in influence—other nations feared and revered them. Great in wealth—a goodly land and many flocks and herds. And great in wickedness—they had gods many, that they served. Jesus, when in the flesh, did not always preach to great congregations. We should assemble to worship God, and the minister should preach to those present.

3. A Great Sermon. (1) God had brought them up out of Egypt. We have been in the Egypt of sin, but the Lord has delivered us and made us free indeed. By repentance, faith and prayer we are saved. (2) He had led them into Canaan, and given them pleasant homes. So when the Lord saves us He not only saves us from sin but gives us a home among His people. (3) He had made a covenant with them: had gone into a solemn contract, that if they would make no league with the inhabitants of the land, and would throw down their altars, then Canaan should be theirs forever. This contract they had broken. We have taken upon ourselves Church and baptismal vows. We have pledged ourselves to renounce the devil and all his works, and to love and serve God. (4) They had "not obeyed His voice." They knew the will of God, had promised to observe the same, but had broken their obligation. We know the way of salvation, we have pledged ourselves to walk in it, but many of us have not done so. The path, from the cradle to the grave, is paved with broken vows. By nature man is weak and sin is strong. (5) "Why have ye done this?" Why have ye broken your vows, and gone away into idolatry? This was a leading question, and for it they had no answer. They were, like the man who had not on the wedding garment, speechless. We cannot justify a wicked life without defending sin. This we are not ready to do. The world desires nothing to do but live: just have a good easy time. But life is a battle to be fought, a race to be run, and an edifice to be erected. (6) They did not keep the covenant, therefore, other nations were not driven out. They harassed Israel, and their gods were a snare to them. If we break our Church vows sin will not be driven out of our heart, and the gods of this world—pride, ambition, riches and pleasure—will be a snare unto us. But thank the Lord, "the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin."

4. A great result—"The people lifted up their voice and wept." Six hundred thousand sinners in penitential tears. They had sinned by worshiping idols. The great preacher, great sermon, aided by the great Spirit, melted their heart to tenderness, but it hardened again before it was cast into the new mold. How often do sinners to-day, when sitting under the sound of an earnest Gospel sermon, feel conviction deep and pungent. When such is the case they should follow up the impressions made till led out into full light of the Gospel. "They sacrificed there unto the Lord." They likely made a sin offering. This secured the forgiveness of transgression. They then sacrificed the whole burnt offering. This was dedicatory. They said by it that they consecrated their entire lives to God Christ has been accepted as our great sin offering. Our lives should be dedicated to Him.

II. The degeneracy of the people (6–12). 1. The people in their new homes. Canaan had been divided among them, and they had gone to their places of abode. Some time after this Joshua had called them together at Shechem. They had faithfully promised to serve the Lord. A covenant was made between Jehovah and them. They then "departed every man unto his inheritance." God has given us pleasant homes. We should assemble to worship Him. It is proper for us to enter into a covenant with Him. After worship we should return to our homes

2. The steadfastness of the people—"They served the Lord all the days of Joshua." They were for a generation true to Jehovah. While Joshua, and all the elders "who had seen all the great works of the Lord" lived, they were steadfast in their devotions. They were not true to the Lord in their heart, but only served Him through love to Joshua and the elders. Many serve God to-day because of their love for parents or ancestors. This is a noble principle, and much better than no service, but there should be something more in our devotions.

3. The death of Joshua. He, like Joseph, departed this life at one hundred and ten years of age. Death loves a shining mark. The great and good, same as the small and bad, yield up their lives. He is called—"The servant of the Lord." What nobler words can be said of any one. He obeyed the Lord and was highly honored by Him. He was quietly laid to rest in the mount of Ephraim. Tradition says the stone knives, with which he circumcised the children of Israel at Gilgal, were buried with him It is not said the people mourned for him thirty days as they did for Moses. But they no doubt loved him, and had profound respect for his faith and devotion.

4. The generation that arose after Joshua. (1) They "knew not the Lord." They knew not His power as seen in Egypt, in the wilderness, and in Canaan. They knew not His mercy as it was shown to their fathers times past numbering. This shows a great want of moral and religious training. They had not far in the past promised to teach the words of God to their children. This they surely had not done. Idolatry, the judgment of God, and everlasting punishment, are the results of their negligence. Great are the responsibilities that rest on parents. (2) They "did evil in the sight of the Lord." His moral and civil laws were in part or in full set aside. They ceased to bring gifts and offerings to the Lord as did their fathers. The priesthood was not sustained. The heart of man in every age has been deceitful above all things and desperately wicked He promises well and performs poorly. Idolatry is the sin charged against them. Man will worship, and when the God of glory ceases to be adored by him, he bows to the work of his hands. When the Lord goes out Satan comes in. No middle ground. We are for God or against Him. Baal signifies lord, husband, patron and protector. It was the chief male god of the Canaanites, Phoenicians, Moabites, and other tribes. He is the sun-god, and through him that luminary was worshiped. This was not the first, neither was it the last time, Israel was seduced to the worship of this god. We need not be surprised that the Lord was provoked to anger. Their conduct was not excusable. If the nations among them had served the true God, they would have done likewise. Instead of lifting up the Canaanites they were pulled down by them. Great is the power of influence for evil.

it for granted that you want to get the best results in painting, you will have to use Pure White Lead to obtain them. There are many mixtures branded "White Lead," "Pure White Lead," etc., which contain little, if any, White Lead, but are principally barytes, which is of little value, if not worthless. To be sure, accept only a genuine brand (see list).

If you want any shade of color, tint the White Lead with National Lead Co.'s tinting colors, prepared expressly for this purpose. A feature of these colors is the ease with which they are used and the exactness with which the desired shade is obtained. For particulars send for pamphlet, free.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Wytheville District.

Mr. Editor—I am now winding up my fonrth quarterly conference, and am glad to say this has been a year of peace and pleasnre. There has been no trouble between the pastors and people whatever. There have been good revivals of religiou in every station and circuit on the district. The camp meeting fires are now in full blast, and are proviug to be a blessing to the people. Sinners are beiug converted, backsliders reclaimed, aud the church wonderfully edified. I think a few more camp meetiugs in this part of the conntry will solve the great Negro problem in the Wytheville District. Our white friends have never been known to take such active part in the meetiugs in the history of the district as they have done during this camp meeting season, and they frankly confess that they never heard better preaching in all their livee. The benevolent causes are carefully looked after, notwithstanding the scarcity of money. They will be in advance of last year.. We have orgauized Epworth League Chapters in all our stations and circnits, and they are in good working order. We have held two Epworth League conventions, which have proved to be a great benefit to our young people. We never forget to present the cause of the dear old SOUTHWESTERN at all our gatherings, and most especially at our qnarterly meetings; aud always make it a point to impress it on the minds of the officials the great importance of reading some of our Church papers. At our district conference, which convened June 27, at Bradford, Va., we had representatives from all parts of the work who pledged themselves to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN, and to do all they could for its circulation. The conference, in its resolutions, said that it would not rest contented until each family within the bonnds of the district became readers of the dear old SOUTHWESTERN. Our watchword is ten thousand subscribers, and we think it is a very small nnmber for the seventeen colored conferences of our Church with their 250,000 members.

W. H. PLEASANTS, P. E.

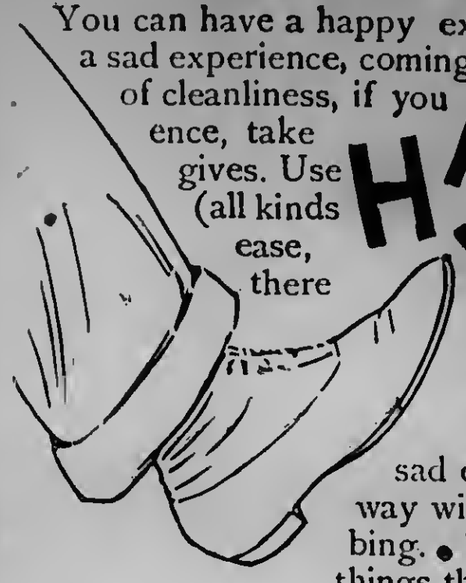
Greenwood District.

Dear Brethren—The second district conference of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, will convene in Kosciusko, Miss., Wednesday morning, October 23. Let every member be present. Every pastor is expected to report all benevolences in hand and all pledged subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN sent in. Some pastors on the district have reported all collections in hand. Be prepared to elect your lay delegate in the quarterly conference; elect your best representative.

W. E. MASK, P. E.

Griffin District.

Dear Brethren—The year is drawing to a close, and we must push our benevolence so as to have full reports. Let us show ourselves equal to the demand, and be known by our work. We rely upon you for success. At this quarter each charge will elect a delegate to attend the lay conference. Let the trustees be present with full reports, and also with the deeds to all Church property. Do not forget your pledge to the SOUTHWESTERN. Let a round list of subscribers be sent from your work. Take your collections at once, and forward them to Cranston & Curts. Wishing you great success, I am yours in the work,



J. P. WRAGG, P. E.

Greenville District.

Dear Brethren—Please notice the date, day and place of your fourth quarterly conference for 1895. Give out the notice at each of your churches and see that your local preachers, exhorters, Sunday school superintendents, presidents of Epworth Leagues, class leaders and stewards have their reports written. Let each member of your charge be seen by his or her leader, and urge that all pay their quarterly assessments. The stewards must report under the 8th question, all monies collected during the quarter for all purposes except ministerial support, and under the 12th question they must report the amounts paid on pastor's support. Be sure that you faithfully and plainly state to the people all the claims for benevolent purposes, and report to the quarterly conference all that has been collected. Urge the members to subscribe to the SOUTHWESTERN. Each local preacher and Sunday school superintendent must take the paper, and all other officers must be urged to take it. Report number of conversions during the quarter.

J. A. BROWN, P. E.

Hints or Kicks? Which?

You can have a happy experience, coming from hints—or a sad experience, coming from kicks. Now in the matter of cleanliness, if you want the happy experience, take the hints that gives. Use Pearline for washing (all kinds of washing) and you have ease, economy and safety. Is there a hint in the fact that hundreds of millions of packages of Pearline have been used, and the sale increases? But if you want sad experience, take the old-fashioned way with soap, and rubbing and scrubbing. That's hard for you, and for the things that you wash. It's all rub, rub, rub—in other words, it's the experience based on kicks.

HINTS

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 429 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Meridian District.

Brethren—Have each of the pledges to pay for the SOUTHWESTERN before this conference made good; if not, see to it at once, and get ready. I will call the roll and every one's answer should be present, and that "I am a cash reader of the SOUTHWESTERN;" and each leader will report the greatest number in his class, who takes the Church paper. Strive to have every cent assessed for benevolent purposes, and by all means collect and send in at once the amonnt for General Conference expenses.

A. M. TROTTER, P. E.

Notice.

As secretary of the East Tennessee Conference, I have arranged with the Southern and the Norfolk and Western railroads to have excursion tickets sold over their lines to Abingdon, Va., the seat of the next conference. Tickets will be on sale October 13-15, and will be good to return until the 24th. All candidates for admission on trial and the members in the four years' course of study are requested to be ready for examination on the 15th.

THE PRIZE BABY OF KANSAS CITY MO.

Cured of Disfiguring ECZEMA By the CUTICURA REMEDIES

Our baby when three weeks old was badly afflicted with Eczema. Her head, arms, neck, limbs, and nearly every joint in her body was raw and bleeding when we concluded to try CUTICURA REMEDIES. We began with CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA SOAP, and after the first application we could see a change. After we had used them one week some of the sores had healed entirely, and ceased to spread. In less than a month, she was free from scales and blemishes, and to-day has as lovely skin and hair as any child. She was shown at the Grange Fair, and took a premium as the prettiest baby, over sixteen others. MR. & MRS. PARK, 1609 Belleview Ave., Kan. City. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG & CHEM. CORP., Boston.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Savannah District.

Dear Brethren—This fourth round closes out the conference year, as you know. Let it be brimful of success, as much of it is dependent on our earnest efforts. I will do all I can to make it so. Yours in Christ, J. WATTS, P. E.

Natchitoches District.

Brethren—Let each one of you be ready to make full reports on your benevolent money, or have your vouchers on hand. Also, have your officers and committees selected from among your best men and women. The conference is also to elect a lay delegate, and we trust, who ever is elected, will be a representative of the Church. You are called upon to be up and doing. Yours fraternally,
H. J. WRIGHT, P. E.

Vicksburg District.

Dear Brethren—Let this be a quarter of unusual activity in every department of our church work, and by all means strive earnestly to bring up the full apportionment for the various benevolent causes. The local preachers and exhorters must be ready to pay for the SOUTHWESTERN by the time of holding their conference. We hope all the members will be prepared to subscribe for our church paper.
S. A. COWAN, P. E.

Holly Springs District.

To Ministers and Members—The second session for 1895 will be held at Batesville, Miss., Nov 20, at 9 a. m., and I hope all will be present on the first day and have written reports ready. Every member will have in his possession the SOUTHWESTERN, or have the cash in hand to take it. When I come to hold the fourth quarter, every reader of our church in the district must take the paper. Also, the ministers who pledged themselves for a certain number of the paper in the last district conference, please carry out your pledges. Let us not fail and remember that every cent of our benevolence must be raised.

I pray God's blessing upon each and every one. Yours for Christ and Methodism, W. MCDONALD, P. E.

Notice.

The minutes of the ninth session of the North N. O. District Conference are out. Pastors out of the city will please send their money for same immediately, in accordance with the motion that each member of the district conference would pay twenty-five cents for minutes. City pastors will please be ready. We will make an immediate canvass of the various city churches in the district. Yours fraternally, D. J. PRICE, Sec'y.

Rome District Conference.

The Rome District Conference convened at Carrollton, Ga., as per announcement, with Presiding Elder H. R. Allen in the chair. The roll call showed an attendance of 72 members. F. M. Gordon was elected secretary and A. B. Allen assistant.

Rev. G. W. Lewis preached the introductory and B. Boston the ministerial sermon. The pastors' reports showed that their charges were improving financially and spiritually. Many members have been added to the Church.

Revs. Coates and Giddens offered resolutions on the SOUTHWESTERN. It was urged that each member of the conference become an agent.

Revs. R T Adams, M. M. Alston, S. Smith, G. W. Arnold and M. C. B. Mason, and Prof. L. J. Price were among the visitors. Dr. Mason addressed the conference in the interest of the F. A. and S. E. Society. F. M. GORDON, Sec'y.

gets to be a weighty matter, in these days when colored stockings will shed their colors. Pearline does this work beautifully.

It's not only thoroughly effective, but it's healthy. Doctors recommend Pearline as a soak for rheumatism.

Try it in the bath. It will give you a new idea of cleanliness. Bathing with Pearline is a perfect luxury.

Greenville District Conference.

The first District Conference of the Greenville District met at Webb, Miss., as per announcement, with Presiding Elder J. W. Davis presiding. A. J. McAllister was elected secretary, with E. Tronpe and J. H. Everett assistants, and G. W. Hunt statistical secretary. P. S. Bowie preached the introductory sermon.

The presiding elder's report showed a very hopeful condition along all lines.

The reports from pastors, local preachers and others were very encouraging.

Presiding Elder W. McDonald, and the Revs. W. M. H. Davis of the A. M. E. Church, and J. W. Johnson of the C. M. E. Church, and Prof. G. G. Logan of Rust University were introduced and made remarks.

Prof. Logan ably represented the work of F. A. and S. E. Society. P. S. Bowie, W. McDonald, E. D. Reed, A. J. McAllister, C. W. Walton, J. H. Everrett, G. G Logan and E. Tronpe preached acceptable sermons. The subjects for discussion were ably handled.

A SOUTHWESTERN revival took place, led by Presiding Elder Davis, who spared no pains in representing the grand old paper. Several brethren pledged themselves to send within 100 days the number of subscribers opposite their names.

Sunday was a high day in Isreal. Prof. Logan preached at 11 a. m., and at 3 p m. the memorial services of Rev. L. W. Washington took place and was largely attended by colored and white people.

Resolutions were passed, and then closed one of the best sessions of the district.
A. J. MCALLISTER, Sec'y.

Little Rock District Conference.

The Little Rock District Conference convened at Morrilton, Ark., according to notice, with Presiding Elder W. H. Morris in the chair. John Qualls was elected secretary and John W. Lewis assistant.

The introductory sermon was preached by Elza Roberts.

The presiding elder, who was called to the sick bed of his dear wife for the past two or more weeks, arranged so as to be with us and read his report. It was inspiring and full of comfort, showing an increase along all lines of our work. The reports of pastors and officers show prosperous condition of the churches, Sunday schools and Epworth Leagues.

Dr. W. O. Emory addressed the conference on the work and needs of Philander Smith College.

The F. A. and S. E. Society held its anniversary, and the following brethren preached edifying sermons: John W. Lewis, W. O. Emory, M. N. Langston and John Qualls.

The presiding elder delivered an address on the SOUTHWESTERN, which was forcibly applied and will bring about a revival for our paper before long.

Resolutions were passed, thanking the good people for their generous treatment, etc., and the conference with the love feast adjourned.
JOHN QUALLS, Sec'y.

MY BELOVED.

O Thou, in whose presence my soul takes delight,
On whom in affliction I call,
My comfort by day, and my song in the night,
My hope, my salvation, my all?

Where dost thou, dear Shepherd, resort with thy sheep,
To feed them in pastures of love?
Say, why in the valley of death should I weep,
Or alone in this wilderness rove?

O why should I wander an alien from thee,
Or cry in the desert for bread?
Thy foes will rejoice when my sorrows they see,
And smile at the tears I have shed.

Ye daughters of Zion, declare, have you seen
The star that on Israel shone?
Say, if in your tents my Beloved has been,
And where with his flocks he is gone.

He looks! and ten thousands of angels rejoice,
And myriads wait for his word;
He speaks! and eternity, filled with his voice,
Re-echoes the praise of the Lord.

Dear Shepherd, I hear, and will follow thy call;
I know the sweet sound of thy voice;
Restore and defend me, for thou art my all,
And in thee I will ever rejoice.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

"ROLL JORDAN, ROLL."

Rev. R. Howze, our enterprising pastor at Enterprise, Miss., sends in a list of nine subscribers, eight of whom are Jordan's. It is indeed gratifying to know that our brethren are at work, loyally and faithfully helping the manager, the editor and the Church at large. It is hard to get it into the craniums of some, that every cash subscriber to our periodicals helps to increase the annual conference dividends from the Book Concern. But the "Jordan" will roll! Who'll be the next?

THE SAFE LEADER.

It is perfectly human to desire places of position and power. The struggles which we are called upon to witness at times, are the legitimate results of this desire for the mastery. This world is likened unto a great race, or a mighty conflict, in which men strive with men for the mastery; in which they throw time, talent, life; all for perishable rewards! And so the struggle has been going on for centuries. Looking at it from a merely human standpoint, the records show improvement only in the methods which men use to accomplish their objects. But there has been no improvement in the results. They have been the same under all the circumstances and in all the phases through which the human family has passed. The successful competitor of to-day is often the defeated contestant of to-morrow. But the struggle goes on nevertheless, and the multitudes push forward to conquer, to lead, to die; forgetting that "the paths of glory lead but to the grave." How sordid! Of the earth earthy is characteristic of the whole race of Adam. And the entire record of that race, without the interposition of our kind heavenly Father's love, is one of disappointment, disaster and death. The Psalmist recognized this leadership, and exultingly cries: "Thou wilt show me the path of life." A leader forsooth, who will reveal to man the source of infinite happiness—the course which leads to present and eternal happiness; the path of life. Not the little transitory and circumscribed period which we call life; not the brief threescore years and ten—so full of sorrows and labor that the soul often cries: "O that I had the wings of a dove, for then I would fly away and be at rest." Ah, no; but the path, the way of spiritual exaltation and enlargement of the richness and fullness of the enjoyment of that life, which is eternal, because it reveals to us the "gift of God," in whose presence "there is fullness of joy, and at whose right hand "there are pleasures forevermore." Let us then follow our Captain, "and be led to certain victory."

—The Christian Advocate, of New York, observes: "The frankness of the following from Zion's Herald deserves commendation:"

"We are being forced to the conviction that there is as much pretense and hyprocrisy upon the 'color question' right here in Massachusetts as anywhere else. The latest illustration comes from Springfield. The Rev. Bradley Gilman, of Springfield, Mass., has been a bicyclist for a number of years; and, in consequence of the benefits to he received from the efforts of the American League of Wheelmen, it was urged that he should join the league. Soon he received a circular in which it was said: 'Our rules require a member to be an amateur, to be white, and to be eighteen years of age.' And yet how vehement we become when the color line is drawn in any part of the Southland!"

We have also observed that there is much, far too much, pretense and hypocrisy upon the color question both in the North and in the South. But our observations become more painful when we notice so many incidents of the kind mentioned by the Zion's Herald in that section of the country, which if not cursed by slavery, is nevertheless keeping abreast with any other section in its prejudices against black men. Southern prejudice against the Negro is bitter, cruel, relentless. But it must be borne in mind that the South fostered and encouraged for more than two hundred years an institution which was predicated upon the idea of the natural social, moral and spiritual inferiority of the Negro slave. The legality of this iniquity has been wiped out by blood, but it has never been thoroughly repented of. Its blighting, withering curse now falls with the fury of the inquisition upon the descendants of those who were the subjects of the greatest oppression under the sun. Hence, in the South to day the battle is between millions of nominal freemen, who are making an honest struggle in the midst of most unfavorable surroundings to reach higher moral and social conditions, and millions of white men, the children of fathers who staked reputation, happiness and high social place upon the unholy institution, and who went down in the general wreck of the accursed thing. We do not believe that the world has ever witnessed such a horrible perversion of the divine law as was practiced by these deluded people. "Pity it is, but pity 'tis true," that all the survivors of the terrible collapse could not see their way clear to acknowledge the wisdom of the act which made all men free, and to have taught their children and their fellow-citizens lessons of loyalty and true patriotism. Had this been done, there would have been no Negro problem to-day; no cry of "Negro domination," nor of "white supremacy," and kindred sectional and inflamatory invective would be heard in all our fair Southland. These are among the reasons why prejudice exists among the white and colored people in this section to-day. But no such reasons exist in the North. There the Negro has always enjoyed freedom. Her schools and colleges have been opened to him and he has entered and achieved success. The question of his "previous condition of servitude" has not arisen to frighten and dismay his friends.

We submit, that the great North, which has done so much towards ameliorating the condition of the Negro; which has contributed millions of dollars to found schools and colleges and thousands of her best young men and women to teach in these schools and help in the uplifting of the teeming millions in the Southland—we submit, that, to be consistent with its past glorious record, such things as are mentioned by the genial editor of Zion's Herald and approved by the ever-watchful and able editor of the Christian Advocate ought not to exist. Furthermore, we believe that the religious press of the North and the South can so affect the trend of sentiment, that discriminations on account of the mere accident of color will be considered unworthy of intelligent people.

Thousands, yea tens of thousands, of colored people throughout the Southland will rejoice to know that this eminent servant of God, philanthropist, teacher, and friend of humanity, has reached and passed his four score years. Born in Ipswich, Mass., eighty years ago, the doctor is yet in the land of the living, hale, hearty, and almost as robust as in the days of his earlier life. Few men are better known and more highly respected in the Methodist Episcopal Church and in the country at large than he. Perhaps the greatest work of his life is that which records his devotion to the work of bringing Christian education within the reach of the millions of recently emancipated slaves. With our honorable Bishop Walden, he was among the first of the representatives of our Church to recognize the imperative demands upon its consecrated wealth and zeal for the uplifting of the black man of the South. The history of our Freedmen's Aid Society is resonant as well as fragrant with his heroic devotion to the people, for whose social, moral, intellectual and industrial advancement he has consecrated his time, talent, wealth and life. For nearly a score of years he stood as a most conspicuous representative of our Southern educational work, as corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid Society, an organization which has done more for the education and Christianization of the Southern colored people than any other of the great agencies instituted for that purpose. In the purchase of property for the schools, and in the selection of eligible sites for the same, the most admirable wisdom of our venerable brother and friend was displayed. His business acumen, strict integrity, unflinching devotion to the colored people, intense enthusiasm, coupled with deep and fervent piety, are among the salient qualifications which the Methodist Episcopal Church recognized in selecting him for this most important office. Notwithstanding he was not a delegate in the General Conferences, he was elected corresponding secretary in '72, '76, '80 and '84, without opposition. The General Conference at New York elected him the honorary corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society without a dissenting vote.

In many parts of the Southland there are monuments in brick, and stone, and wood, which have spoken, and will speak, of his skill and masterful handling of the great trust reposed in him by the Church. But there have gone out of these schools into the home life of the people, into the pulpits, and school rooms, the hospitals, and in fact into every department of the social and moral and domestic life of the race, thousands of influences and agencies, which, like the divergent rays of the sun, are to-day carrying light and joy and life to the increasing millions of our people, in whose good deeds and zeal and character Dr. Rust will live through the countless ages.

It was a fitting tribute to the moral worth of the great and good man, when on the 12th day of this month, there assembled at his beautiful home in Cincinnati representatives of the Western Methodist Book Concern, and of the Cincinnati Conference, and of the Union Central Life Insurance Company, of which he was an honored vice president, and representatives as well as of the highest and best social life of the city, with whose social and commercial interests he had been so intimately identified. It was a memorable anniversary. The tributes were deserving, while they stood for the confidence and esteem in which the good doctor is held by his legion of friends. The SOUTHWESTERN joins in the congratulations.

Blind Bartimeus.

Mark 20:29-34; Luke 18:35-43; Mark 10:46-52.

"As the rosy door of the morn swings wide
At the touch of the king of day,
So the shrouded eyes felt the hand Divine,
And the shadows were rolled away."

Seemingly there is a contradiction in records given of this miracle. Says Scott: St. Matthew mentions two blind men who received sight on this occasion; probably the other was excited to apply to Jesus by Bartimens example, and was much less known. Both Matthew and Mark record the miracle as wrought when Jesus 'went out of Jericho;' but Luke says it took place 'when he was come nigh to Jericho,' and he afterwards records an event which took place near the city." These apparent contradictions should not, however, trouble us in the least. "What is really proved by these variations is the freedom and independence of the narrators, their honesty, their substantial accuracy, and the truthfulness of their narrative."

1. A Blind Man by the Way.—It was customary for beggars to sit along side the roads leading into the city. Hence it was that Bartimens was found in the way as Jesus went out of Jericho. It is a good thing to stand in the way and to inquire for the old paths.

2. A Blind Man Calls to Jesus.—The multitude was great and conversing about the Great Teacher and his many wonderful works. "And when he hears that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry out and say, 'Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me'." All men spiritually blind should imitate blind Bartimens.

3. A Blind Man is Called by Jesus.—Christ, hearing his plaintive cry, stands still and commands him to be called. How blessed that call! How the blood must have quickened in the veins of the poor, blind beggar! Perhaps he asks, "Is it true that I am called?" "Yes," says the disciples. "be of good comfort; rise, he calls thee." And so may the guilty, the empty, the naked, the tempted, the spiritually blind, be of good comfort, for he calls them to-day.

4. A Blind Man Goes to Jesus.—Bartimens is no sooner called then he casts away his garment and goes to Jesus. So must it be with those who would now be saved. They must cast away every thing that would have a tendency to impede them in their way to Christ.

5. A Blind Man Tells Jesus What he Wants.—Coming to Jesus he is asked, "What wilt thou that I should do unto thee?" Says one: "No doubt Jesus knew what he wanted; but he will have to tell it out, that in the fuller exercise of his faith he may be more prepared to receive the blessing." Thus must it be to day. We must make known our wants.

6. A Blind Man Receives his Sight.—"And Jesus said unto him, 'Go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole.' And immediately he received his sight." The condition upon which he received his sight was faith. He believed that Christ could remove his blindness, and accordingly was he blessed. So must it be with men to-day. Says Cox: "The Lord is with us still. If you are blind and cannot see him; if you are deaf and cannot hear him; nay, if you doubt his presence and can only cry and hope that by some dubious happy chance he may be near, he will open your eyes and unstop your ears and grant you the very desire of your heart."

7. A Seeing Man Follows Jesus.—"And immediately he received his sight and followed Jesus in the way." Thus he showed his gratitude. Says Laidlaw: "If all who have experienced Christ were to live up to their experience of his mercy, the Church would be like a mass of molten metal in the midst of a cold world—the world, indeed, would be set on fire, and the whole earth would be filled with his glory."

Class Legislation.

By Rev. G. J. IZARD, Franklin, Texas.

Mr. Editor—Please allow me space in the grand official organ of our Church, to endorse the sentiments of Dr. Speight, of Anniston, Ala., and also what Mrs. M. R. Rogers Webb, of Columbus, Texas, said. First, I wish to praise the grand Church of our choice for wielding such an influence as to have converted Mrs. Webb to the fact that ecclesiastical class legislation is injurious to both morals and science. I am personally acquainted with this sister of such high attainments. When I last saw her, 1892, she was a strong advocate of a church which had for its foundation class legislation on account of color. She was thoroughly canvassing the State of Texas for a paper that was then being edited by Dr. Russell of Dennison. The paper referred to, was edited in defense of the A. M. E. Church. Now, everybody knows this Church to stand firm against the M. E. Church and all other churches that have the doctrine that we cherish.

It has always been my sentiment that this class legislation agitated by the colored man, is the ground reason the Negro problem is so hard to be solved. Right here lies the secret to solve the Negro problem. I am not at all surprised at the Southern white man for standing so firmly against the equality of men, because he has been educated that way; the young Southern whites have inherited this spirit. Right in the pales of our dear old Church too much of this spirit exists. Dr. Speight certainly did strike the key that ought to sound throughout the length and breadth of the Negro race.

Every pulpit ought to take a decided stand against class legislation on account of color. Once or twice I have written on this subject, not to air myself at all, nor to get myself before the public in print, but to do all I could possibly do, with tongue and pen, to advance the kingdom of our God. If class and race prejudice could be broken down, lynching and mob violence would cease.

Our Lord's Christ taught us to say when we prayed, "Thy kingdom come and thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven."

Class legislation is not catholicism in the sense of the apostles. No man who believes in class legislation in religion on account of color, cannot from his heart say the apostles' creed, especially where it says, "we believe in the communion of saints." Please, dear brother ministers, let us learn to practice what we preach and pray.

The Southern Jim Crow car law is the result of slackness of us who believe in "the communion of saints," and the sad mistakes of a few colored men who are struggling so hard for leadership over the masses of our race.

Let us resolve, brother ministers, to use both tongue and pen to break down the prejudice. The way to do it, is to bring the races together and work together, educate together and shout together. Everywhere you get a chance to stick a piece in any paper on this line, do so.

A Faithful Steward.

By C. C. MCCABE.

On the 7th of last July the portals of the tomb were opened to receive the precious dust of Mrs. Adoline M. Smith, of Oak Park, Illinois. Her glorified spirit is with Jesus in her heavenly home, but she will live in her works and in her deeds of mercy and helpfulness until "He shall come whose right it is to reign."

She was so humble, so gentle, so unobtrusive, that a casual acquaintance would give no conception of the wonderful gifts she laid at the Master's feet. She was utterly and forever emancipated from the love of the world. It was a joy to her to give. The list of her offerings thrills my heart just to read it.

I have had a list made out from the records, and I herewith present it to be carefully considered by those who desire to make their money count for the kingdom of heaven in this world.

Her husband, Philander Smith, left her an estate valued at one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. She accepted the trust and this is what she did with the money:

Grand total	$135,428

Her economical living and prudent care of the property, has enabled her to invest, as the Lord's stewardess in His work during the past thirteen years, $10,000 more than the principal left to her.

I have in my office a list of two hundred millionaires. I take the liberty to send to each one of them a copy of this list, hoping that they will scan it well. Most of them are Christian men and women. O that the mantle of Adeline M. Smith might be multiplied two hundred fold and fall upon every one of them! Among them are men and women who give a million for missions every year and not suffer for food and raiment. Very few of them are Methodists, but nearly all of them are Christians and take the sacrament, and swear allegiance to the King of kings. What does that oath mean?

Nearly everyone needs a good tonic at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true tonic and blood purifier.

Among the helpful books that have come to our table recently, are the two little gems: "At Hand," by Rev. M. R. Drury, D. D.; and the "Sword of the Lord," by D. W. Whittle. We commend these little volumes to the Christian worker everywhere as containing invaluable suggestions and helps to the study of the Word of God and in the work of soul saving. Dayton, Ohio: W. J. CANCER CURED
—AND A—
LIFE SAVED
By the Persistent Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improve. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A. FIELDS, Bloomfield, Ia.

The American University.

By Bishop John F. Hurst, D. D., LL. D.

The American University proposes to receive as students young men and women who shall have completed their academic studies and received their first degree. Its plan is to furnish the amplest facilities for the broadest and highest work in professional, special and original studies. The ideal of advanced education must now be higher. The standards of a few years ago will not suffice for to-day.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

In the realm of material appliances for comfort and health, the American people, both in their labor and in their leisure, are satisfied with nothing less than the best that can be devised by the ingenuity of mankind. So in the pursuit of intellectual culture the American people will not be permanently content with any system of learning that does not include the highest and the best.

Toward the realization of the ideal best the effort has been continuously and persistently made, from the founding of Harvard College down through the two and a half centuries of our colonial and national history. As in art, so in science, literature and education, America has hitherto been and must yet for a time be, though in a decreasing degree, dependent upon Europe for what is highest in attainment. For the past thirty years there has been a most hopeful, vigorous, and, in the main, a well directed series of movements in several distinct centers of American education toward the establishment, upon the college foundations laid in earlier years, of courses of study having the principal features of the advanced university work of the old world. Though these outgrowths of the collegiate course in the direction of elective, professional and post-graduate studies have often been seriously lacking in the essentially full equipment of a true university, and in some instances have doubtless diverted the collegian at a premature stage from his much needed process of training; yet to the observer of the progressive spirit and methods of American education, it is to-day apparent that a great and commendable advance has been made toward the goal of supreme excellence.

The need for the higher education is clear, and the call is loud. To meet the need there must be the creation of the new methods and their adaptation to existing institutions. To supply the facilities that shall be equal, or superior, to those found in Europe, in order to keep at home those who now in large numbers go abroad for help not adequately furnished on American soil, is perhaps a worthy object for our endeavor; yet a more worthy ambition is so to develop our present institutions, and to establish such others of higher grade, as that we shall encourage and stimulate a hundred-fold larger number of our trained men and women to enter these higher walks of thought, and add by a large increment to the percentage of those who not only possess knowledge, but who, by personal influence in all the avenues of professional, commercial and social life, incite the multitudes to do more of independent thinking.

In this general forward movement among educational forces the interest of all the Methodist Churches is not merely that of an onlooker, but more, that of an earnest and active participant. In all our colleges and higher institutions there is a strong and steady progress toward the lofty standards involved in a true university. The sober thought of the Church recognizes the great, if not insuperable, difficulties of developing any one or any few of our existing institutions into such a university as the gravity of the situation requires for our denominational stability, and for our leadership among the Protestant forces of this age. The very excellences and advanced standards of all our Methodist schools point to the necessity for a unique and crowning institution that shall so thoroughly unify and efficiently supplement their work that Methodism may contribute not only its numerical quota of able thinkers and scholarly authors for the coming centuries, but that in the future contests on the arena of thought the intellectual fiber of all our Protestant champions of truth may be proved the best the world has ever seen.

MAGNITUDE OF OUR UNDERTAKING.

The institution is designed to represent the highest form of Christian education, to be an exponent of the best forces of Christian thought and activity, and to express, at this center of our civil and political influence, the firm faith of our people and their devotion to Christ and his kingdom. We cannot afford to make it inferior to the strongest in the Union.

PROPOSED BUILDINGS AND ENDOWMENTS.

These should include the Administration Hall, to contain the general offices for the management of all departments, with a Senate Chamber as an auditorium for the general assembly purposes of the university. There should be combined with it a Library and Chapel, forming a central group. To these must be added a series of buildings:

Hall of History.—Departments: American; European (West and North); Mediterranean; Oriental.

Hall of Science.—Departments: Mathematics; Physics; Chemistry; Biology (Physiology, Comparative Anatomy).

Hall of Philosophy.—Departments: Metaphysics and History of Philosophy; Christian Archæology; Evidences of Christianity; Comparative Religion; Psychology and Logic; Sociology and Economics; Civics (Constitutional Law and Science of Government).

Hall of Languages and Literature.—Departments: Oriental and Semitic; Greek; Latin; Romance; Germanic; English.

Hall of Law; Hall of Medicine; Hall of Art.

To these must come such other structures as the expanding needs of the university shall demand. In addition to these buildings there must be special endowments for instruction in the various halls, classified under the general names of Professorships, Lectureships, Fellowships and Studentships.

For these purposes we estimate that Ten Million Dollars must be dedicated to God and humanity. For this sum—$10,000,000—we make our appeal. We appeal to all friends of Christian education, under whatever denominational banner, and to all lovers of Protestant America, for co-operation in the great work of establishing the American University, which shall conserve and promote all the interests of our country and our common Christianity. Members of other Christian bodies have given practical expression of their gratitude at the inauguration of this great enterprise. The influence of its work will not be limited, but will be world-wide.

To the rich we appeal to give largely of the wealth of which the Lord has made them stewards. How can they better perpetuate their beneficence and name than by some princely gift to build a hall or endow a chair of learning in such an institution at the national capital?

To those of limited means we appeal to give according to their ability, though their gifts be farthings. They or their children may be the recipients of thousand-fold benefits.

The assets of the university, in real estate, securities, and substantial subscriptions, are now $500,000, exclusive of the site, now valued at three times its purchase price.

Bequests should be made to "The American University, situated in the District of Columbia." We advise, however, that all who have the ability should make their gifts promptly, in their lifetime, that they may have the satisfaction of seeing the fruit of their beneficence. The risk is too great and the issues too serious, in these days, to intrust too confidingly one's noble benevolent plans to the doubtful mercies of discontented heirs and industrious attorneys.

Our Rust University Letter.

Dear Doctor—Bishop Vincent has appointed Rev. J. L. Wilson, A. B., B. D., principal of Meridian Academy; to which position he had been unanimously elected by the board of trustees. This is a position which Brother Wilson is qualified to fill with marked success, and we expect good things of him. Bishop Vincent has appointed Prof. G. G. Logan, A. B., of Rust University, to fill the vacancy made by Rev. J. L. Wilson's appointment. Prof. Logan is one of the best speakers of the conference.

The workmen are busy getting the buildings of Rust University ready for opening of school. The prospect is excellent for a large attendance. Yours,

Holly Springs, Miss. EZRA.

In Memoriam.

The Rev. John Sharp, our pastor at Madison, Miss., departed this life August 31, in full triumph. Brother Sharp was one of the coming young men of the Mississippi Conference. He was a hard student, earnest in his manner of life, loyal to the cause, consecrated to the work, and ambitious for the cross of Christ. He died at his post, telling his flock that his "dying testimony is the manner in which I have lived among you; I am going to heaven, follow me."

His funeral was attended by the writer, assisted by the Revs. R. P. Threlkeld of Canton, M. B. Bailey of the A. M. E. Church of Madison, and Aaron Reed of the Baptist Church, Crystal Springs.

His remains were deposited behind the beautiful little church which he had built at Madison. J. C. HIBBLER.

ANOTHER EPOCH.

The opening of the Cotton States Exposition at Atlanta, Ga., last week, marks an important epoch in the history of the Negro race. For the first time in his history the Negro has been invited to take a most prominent part in a great exhibition, wherein will be displayed the best specimens of the industrial, mechanical, commercial and intellectual activities of the great American people. The recognition of the Negro in the opening exercises was all that could be hoped for and our able representative, Prof. Booker T. Washington, president of Tuskegee College, fully maintained his reputation as an orator and a scholar. His address was one of the striking features of the day, and at its close, the speaker received the hearty congratulations of hundreds of his hearers. Prof. Washington paid a deserving tribute to the commissioners, who had so generously recognized the manhood of the Negro in providing a suitable building, and in giving inspiration to the efforts of the colored people in the various Southern States, with a cordiality and a heartiness unparalleled in the history of this country. Said Prof. Washington:

"One-half of the population of the South is of the Negro race. No enterprise seeking the material, civil or moral welfare of this section can disregard this element of our population and reach the highest success. I but convey to you, sir, President and directors, the sentiment of the leaders of my race, when I say that in no way have the value and manhood of the American Negro been more fittingly and generously recognized than by the managers of this magnificent exposition at every stage of its progress. It is a recognition which will do more to cement the friendship of the two races than any occurrence since the dawn of our freedom. * * * Not only this, but the opportunity here afforded will awaken among us a new era of industrial progress. Ignorant and inexperienced, it is not strange that in the first years of our new life we began at the top instead of the bottom; that a seat in Congress or the State legislature was more sought than real estate or industrial skill; that the political convention or stump speaking had more attractions than starting a dairy farm or truck garden."

He also called upon his people to cultivate friendly relations with the Southern white man, their neighbor, and of making friends in every manly way of the people of all races, by whom they are surrounded. In commerce, in agriculture, in mechanics, in the domestic service, and in the professions, he recognizes the magnificent opportunities by which his race can win the confidence and respect of their Southern white neighbors. Then follows another beautiful passage:

"And in this connection it is well to bear in mind that whatever other sins the South may be called upon to bear, when it comes to business pure and simple, it is in the South that the Negro is given a man's chance in the commercial world, and in nothing is this exposition more eloquent than in emphasizing this chance. Our greatest danger is, that in the great leap from slavery to freedom we may overlook the fact that the masses of us are to live by the productions of our hands, and fail to keep in mind that we shall prosper in proportion as we learn to dignify and glorify common labor and put brains and skill into the common occupations of life; shall prosper in proportion as we learn to draw the line between the superficial and the substantial, the ornamental gewgaws of life and the useful. No race can prosper until it learns that there is as much dignity in tilling a field as in writing a poem. It is at the bottom of life we must begin and not at the top. Nor should we permit our grievances to overshadow our opportunities."

The speech was in every way creditable to the head and heart of the intensely earnest speaker, and we have reasons to believe that untold good will result therefrom. The cordiality with which the colored commissioners were received, and the many other indications of the good will of those having the great exposition in charge, should stimulate our colored people in the States and localities where they have been tardy to renewed efforts in bringing forward their exhibits.

As we have frequently called attention to this great and grand opportunity for the race, so we again urge upon our people to give it their most cordial co-operation. The commissioners have arranged for several congresses; the Afro-American press; the religious congresses being among the most notable. But the Negro exhibits from the various States, though not as full as desired, will nevertheless form an attraction hardly second to those of the white people. As many of our people as possible should avail themselves of this splendid opportunity to see the race at its best.

THE RELIGIOUS PRESS ON THE NEGRO.

It gives us pleasure to note that there is more and more of a disposition to give the Negro a hearing before the bar of public sentiment. No agency is doing so much in the accomplishment of this object as the religious press of this country. We hail these expressions as an omen of a better era for the Negro. The Biblical Recorder has the following:

"By the way, we may lay many things at the door of the Negro, but we should not overlook the service he has done as a bulwark against immigration. Negro labor has kept out alien labor, has kept out discontent and strikes and anarchy. If we will educate the Negro properly, teaching him his station, pointing him to wholesome ideals and arousing worthy ambitions, he will continue to be the safeguard in lower laboring circles in the South. And we ought to stand by him in the competition that Italians, Irish, Poles, etc, will bring upon him, because he is better suited to our climate, able to do more work, more tractable, and possessed of more of the spirit of our institutions than they. Take the Negro out of the hands of designing politicians and he is more desirable than any alien of the lower grade. Education will do this; education and proper but firm and uncompromising treatment."

That eagle-eyed friend to the Negro, the New York Independent, has this deliverance on the South Carolina iniquity:

"The South Carolina Constitutional Convention is just now about to meet, and will do its work, and declare its result adopted without being referred to the popular vote. That is the way it was done in Mississippi. Very democratic that is! By the Mississippi plan, or something like it, as many Negroes as possible will be excluded from the ballot, and no white people. This can be done only by providing for a great system of perjury, by boards of registry sworn to do justice, but who shall be required to do injustice. The schools of the Negroes are very likely to be crippled by giving them nothing except what Negro taxes pay, thus relieving the rich from providing free schools for the poor. This may all be done; but we venture to take the role of the prophet, and declare to such a convention that it can accomplish nothing more than a delusive success. Let the free school system be struck, the greatest blessing the South has received since the War, one that makes the present "carpet bag" Constitution a boon to the State of South Carolina, and the Negroes of that State, with the help of the Christian people of the North, will do what the State refuses to do. The Negro preachers will turn school trustees and school collectors. The North will help them, and the schools strangled by the crime of the State will spring to life again. The curse of God is on such a proposition of cruelty and folly. God will overthrow it; yes, and the good people of the North will join with the good people of South Carolina in making the plan a disastrous failure."

We hope that the Independent is a true prophet. Certainly the Negro has stanuch and tried friends in the North. They fought and bled for him once, and may do so again. At all events they will not allow his intellectual progress to be retarded by the nullificationists.

EXTENSION LECTURE COURSES.

Chautauqua has, as so often before, hit upon a happy idea this time in connection with the University Extension Movement. It is a plan for "Read Lectures" by means of which any community, however small, may enjoy a course of scholarly lectures without financial risk. The lectures are loaned in the form of type written manuscript, with a sufficient number of tickets and syllabuses for the use of those attending the course. The community secures its own reader and one half of the proceeds, in no case exceeding twenty-five dollars, goes to the Chautauqua office at Buffalo. The remainder is retained by the society undertaking the course. The plan has been in operation for three years, during which time more than two hundred courses have been given. Social Science, Old Greek Life and the Poetry of Robert Browning are among the subjects presented.

—Proceedings of the Ohio District Conference Epworth League and Sunday School Institute have been forwarded, a copy each, by Rev. H. W. Tate of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Rev. R. L. Dickerson of Maysville, Ky. Rev. M. S. Johnson, presiding elder, presided; and Rev. R. L. Dickerson and Misses Julia Young and Nellie White were elected secretaries. The meetings were largely attended, and the literary exercises were of a very high order. Revs. J. Courtney, D. D., presiding elder of the Lexington, and E. L. Gilliam, presiding elder of the Indiana Districts, were among the distinguished visitors. The district takes the front rank in all departments of Church work. Many interesting papers were read, several of which will appear in the SOUTHWESTERN from time to time.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Bishop and Mrs. Hust are rejoicing in the birth of a son.

—Rev. D. W. Boatner of Camp Parapet M. E. Church honored our home with his presence last week. The visit was highly appreciated.

—St. Paul's M. E. Church at Texarkana, Texas, is in a splendid condition. A grand rally for pastors' salary recently, netted over $56. Rev. W. H. Jackson, the pastor, leads acceptably. All departments organized.

THOUGHTS FROM EXCHANGES.

—Real beauty is spiritual. A human face, to be beautiful, must mean something. A face which has no expression of character in it, although faultless in every line, can be attractive, if at all, only in the eyes of a soulless idiot like its owner.—Religious Telescope.

—"All things work together for good to them that love God." How can a Christian be sad and gloomy with a full belief of that divine declaration deeply imbedded in his soul? It is replete with sunshine and comfort for all who truly love the Lord. All things, not some things, if accepted in love, work together for a beneficent end.—Ex.

—The Church of Christ is an army. Those who compose it are to fight—fight for the right and against the wrong. How are soldiers made? Not by sleeping on feather beds, or doing dress-parade duty. Soldiers are made on the march, made as they face the enemy in actual warfare. The qualities of courage and skill are acquired in real service. So let every soldier of Jesus Christ become valiant and strong—a "good soldier," as Paul says.—Ex.

—It is no credit to a Christian to be outwitted by the devil. He has the privilege at all times of receiving the guidance of the Holy Spirit, and if he has his guidance he is more than a match for the devices of Satan. If he does not have the guidance of the Spirit in all matters pertaining to his Christian duty and his soul's salvation it is his own fault; for it is because he has not desired and sought it.—Ex.

—Righteous men and women are men and women who are consciously right with God, right with their neighbors, and right with themselves. Self-righteous people are only right with themselves and consciously wrong with God and with their neighbors. In public they are pretentious and boastful as were the Pharisees, but in their secret meditations their own hearts condemn them and their own guilty conscience loathes them.—Telescope.

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucus surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

—Among the advantages that accrue to subscribers of the SOUTHWESTERN is the privilege of getting almost any publication desired at the lowest club rate under our clubbing arrangements. We don't have room to carry such a long list as we have, and only occasionally give a sample as follows: We will send the Twice-a-Week Gazette of Cincinnati, 15 months and the SOUTHWESTERN till January 1897, for only $2.35, which is a combination we can cordially commend to all our readers. The Twice-a-Week Gazette is the oldest metropolitan publication in Ohio. It has eight pages of eight columns each, and contains the cream of good things from the daily Commercial Gazette, the leading Republican newspaper of the West. It appears every Tuesday and Friday and contains the best telegraphic news and market reports. It is as good to most readers as a daily newspaper, while it contains a vast amount of choice matter for the farmer, the laboring man and the household, prepared especially for it.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

The New Orleans Preachers' Meeting was quite largely attended on Tuesday, Sept. 17. Rev. Stephen Priestley, the vice president, occupied the chair, and Rev. C. Monroe acted as secretary pro tem. The principal topic of discussion was the very able and comprehensive address of Rev. D. W. Boatner, of Camp Parapet, whose subject, "The Freedom of the Will," was handled in a masterly manner. Brother Boatner is a young man of acknowledged ability, and a recent graduate from Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga. The discussion of the theme was continued, and remarks were made by Prof. Richard of Malden, Revs. W. R. Butler of First Street, T. J. Johnson of Wesley, F. Harvey of Gretna, and the Editor of the SOUTHWESTERN. Revs. J. O. Brown of Mansfield, C. D. Shallowhorne of Donaldsonville, La., and Evangelist Crafts of Mississippi, were present, and by invitation favored the meeting with interesting remarks. The chairman, on inviting Rev. Edward Wilmot Blyden, D. D., LL. D., to visit this city in the near future, reported that Dr. Blyden had accepted, and would fix a satisfactory date for the visit in the near future. The meeting expressed sympathy for Revs. Ford of Union Chapel and Montgomery of Mount Zion, who have been sorely afflicted. Rev. Frank Walker of Thompson Chapel was requested to address the meeting on October 22 next; subject, "The Inspiration of the Bible." The assignment of these important subjects is attracting wide attention, and is accomplishing much good. Sister Murrell, a faithful widow of one of the pioneers of the Louisiana Conference, was an interested spectator, and also addressed the meeting briefly.

Rev. C. Monroe of Williams M. E. Church is pushing the battle gloriously forward. Supplemented by an earnest and progressive young membership, the able pastor leads grandly. At a recent rally the collection amounted to $90. Sister Monroe, the beloved and faithful wife of the pastor, has been seriously sick, but we rejoice to know that she is again convalescent.

Mrs. I. M. Terrell, the accomplished wife of Prof. Terrell of Fort Worth, Tex., and daughter of Rev. Pierre Landry, presiding elder of the South New Orleans District, has been visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Palmerston Landry of this city. Her visit has been in all respects a pleasant one. Her numerous friends and acquaintances were profused in their contributions to her happiness during her brief visit. She left for her Texas home on the 19th.

At First Street Church, on Wednesday evening of last week, the Editor of this paper conducted the services; the pastor, Rev. W. R. Butler, having held preliminary services up to that evening which was to be the beginning of the revival. At the close of the sermon nine persons came forward in answer to the invitation to seek an interest in Christ. The meetings are increasing in interest, and there is a promise of a most gracious outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

Revs. A. J. Ford of Union Chapel and T. G. Montgomery are reported better at this writing.

Rev. D. G. Butler, pastor of Pleasant Plains M. E. Church, this city, has had very gratifying success. The church has been greatly revived, and the Sunday school in a better condition than ever before. The old church has been painted, and the lot is now being filled preparatory to building a parsonage. The outlook is promising. Brother Butler preached last Sunday morning and evening to good audiences.

Rev. H. B. Leech, pastor of the colored Methodist Episcopal Church of America in this city, gave the office a pleasant call on Monday. On October 6 he will begin a series of revival meetings at the church, corner of Prytania and Connery streets. He will be assisted by Bishop Cottrell and quite a number of eminent divines of the denomination.

Our Flemingsburg (Ky.) Letter.

We have just closed a glorious seventeen days' camp meeting, the first camp meeting ever held in Flemingsburg. We had two objects in view in holding this meeting. The first, to arouse the people to seek a deeper, higher and broader interest in the plan of salvation; the second object, to raise money to build a larger church. The members prepared themselves to make this meeting a success both spiritually and financially. Rev. R. L. Dickerson of Maysville preached the opening sermon. God was with us.

The meeting grew in interest from the beginning, and there were shouts of praise and rejoicing over the conversion of precious souls.

The meeting was to last only nine days, but at this time it was so interesting that we continued eight days longer; yet at that time the interest was greater than ever. Black and white, lawyers, judges, bankers, doctors, the rich and poor, all joined in the request that the meeting be continued. Brother Fisher rendered special service.

There was no color line drawn, white and black stood and sang together. The pastors of the white churches freely took a part, viz: Christian, Presbyterian and M. E. South.

Sixteen persons professed faith in Jesus and backsliders were reclaimed. Old citizens said they never witnessed such a demonstration of the Holy Ghost in all their lives. On the ground was administered the Lord's Supper, love feast, the adults and infants were baptized, and probationers were read in full membership. We were ably assisted by Revs. Paris Fisher, Joseph Small, R. L. Dickerson, J. H. Ross, J. H. Stanley, Edward Williams, T. R. Fletcher, Willis D. Locke and Joseph Hopewell.

I have been treated with rare kindness by the good people of Flemingsburg, and donation after donation has come into the parsonage by old and young, women and men.

Fleming County is one of the best in Kentucky, and if the colored people don't succeed it is their fault. No intoxicating liquors are allowed to be sold.

I saw in Flemingsburg what I never saw before, nor expected to see. I saw ex-confederate soldiers and ex-federal soldiers and the militia march side by side to the graveyard with colored veterans, and strew flowers over the graves of the blue and the gray.

My church is in good working order. We have organized a choir of thirty-eight members and an Epworth League of sixty-seven members. Forty-seven persons have joined the Church since conference.

W. W. LOCKE.

The following item was handed in as we go to press:

We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the announcement of Gilbert Academy and Industrial Institute, Baldwin, La., published in another column. Dr. Albert, the new vice president, has taken hold with the resistless purpose to make it go. And if ripe scholarship, wise management and indomitable will-force mean anything, he will make it what it promises to be—one of the greatest institutions in all this Southern country. The advantages offered are unexcelled. Let our pastors and parents all rally to his support, and let our young people crowd upon him there from opening day, October 1, to the close of the session, June 2 of next year.

OUR : WOMEN'S : ROUND : TABLE

The Influence of the Home in the Uplifting of our People.

TWENTY-THIRD LETTER—BY T. E. W.

Manish Women.

Say what you please, the world does not admire manish women or womanish men, and it never will. No sort of men admire manish women, and no sort of women admire womanish men. Men have a thorough contempt for a womanish man. What women think of a manish woman we will not undertake to say. It is not progress but decay for a woman to become manish, or for men to become womanish.—Western Recorder.

Cultivate Your Child's Teacher.

The first thing to do is to visit the school which your children attend. Make a point of this, even if it means a sacrifice of something else, writes Edward W. Bok in an article on "Our Schools and Our Teachers," in the September Ladies' Home Journal. Few things can be more important than to see for yourself the surroundings of your child during school hours. Observe quietly yet keenly, but remember that any observations or comments you have to make, the teacher of the class in which your child happens to be is not the proper person to whom to make them. The principal of the school or the superintendent is the proper functionary for such purposes. The teacher is helpless; she must accept conditions as she finds them. She is an employee, pure and simple. But seek her out and win her acquaintance and confidence. Show her that you mean to co-operate with her. She knows that the best results can only be obtained when teacher and parent co-operate. Invite her to your home—not in a general way, but at a definite time. Make her feel that you want her to be something more than the teacher of your child. Make a friend of her if you can; at least give her the opportunity to show that she has another side to her nature than that which she shows in the classroom. The teacher's burden is a heavy one rather than a light one.

Woman's H. M. S. Notes.

Encouraging reports come from the various fields. One from Berkeley, Cal., writes: "We are very hopeful about our work; notwithstanding our difficulties, we have done much better than in any previous year." Another writes from Hastings, Mich.: "My heart is in this grand work. We have an excellent auxiliary of thirty-four members. We had fifty bee hives, and when we had our swarms we realized over $50, with which we made two life members. Nearly all of our members take 'Home Missions;' we have pledged $200 toward naming the dining room in the Aldrich Deaconess Home, and have raised nearly the whole amount. At our district meeting in May we voted to adopt a beneficiary in Ritter Home, a daughter of some Methodist minister."

The superintendent of Emerson Home, Ocala, Fla., says: "Emerson Home is a light shining in a dark place; it is in a hostile land, subjected to every kind of criticism that prejudice can devise, and should receive full measure of helpful sympathy from all who believe in doing good as they have opportunity."

The conference secretary of the North Nebraska Conference writes: "If you could read the letters of the auxiliary secretaries as they tell of the year's struggle against hard times, removal of members, and their endeavor to keep the auxiliaries alive until another crop shall be harvested, I am sure you would be glad that an effort is being made to hold the fort. No one, not an actual observer, can realize the utter want that has existed among people, who, when crops are a success, are in good circumstances. We have a prospect of bounteous harvests this year, and we feel confident that if they are a success North Nebraska Conference will not fail to do her best."

St. Bartholowmew' Rescue Mission Training School.

The next session of this school begins Oct. 15, continuing two months, closing Dec. 14. It fits the students or "Rescue Volunteers" for practical rescue work in missions or pastors' assistants to reach the non church-going public, especially those who have fallen through drink and accompanying vices. They are trained and practiced in personal work in the Rescue Missions and by visiting the tenement districts and the slums of New York City, under the direction of expert workers.

Applications or letters requiring further information should be sent at once to Col. Henry H Hadley, Supt of St. Bartholomew's Rescue Mission, 205-207 East 42d street, near 3d avenue, New York City.

—Of Dr. Kynett's new book, "The Religion of the Republic and Laws of Religious Corporations," Isaac Franklin Russell, D. C. L., LL. D., professor in the University of New York, law department, and author of "Outline Study of Law," says: "The work is of great value. Nowhere can one find a more extended and luminous exposition of the great doctrine now authoritively announced by our highest tribunals, that Christianity is a part of the common law. The second part of the book on the laws of religious corporations in the different States of the Union, is invaluable as a work of reference. The lamentable failure in recent years of many noble benefactions to religions and charitable uses through failure to observe the requirements of the law in the instrument of gift, make it of increasing importance to have at hand such a compendious and accurate treatise as you have now given to the public. I have examined carefully the portion of Part II, which deals specially with the law of New York, and I doubt not the rest of the book illustrates quite as fully the copious and exact learning of the author."

"Yield Not to Misfortune."

I was afflicted with catarrh last autumn. During the month of October I could neither taste or smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marens Geo. Shantz, Rahway, N. J.

I suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since a boy, and I have never hoped for cure, but Ely's Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results. —Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill. Cream Balm is agreeable.

Ministerial Institute.

The first session of the Ministerial Institute of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, met in Winona, Miss., Sept. 5-6, 1895. Several of the pastors were present and manifested much interest in the study of the personality, divinity and work of the Holy Spirit, and the personality, divinity and work of the Son of God. Some very able papers were read on the following subjects: The freedom of the will, Revs. N. R. Clay and W. H. Hundly; The fall of man, Rev. D. Green; The unity of man and his common parentage, Revs. F. G. Wilhon and W. E. Mask; The necessity of a general judgment, Rev. C. P. Hoad. Much lasting information of untold value came out of the institute. This is the thought age of the world's history. No brother who intends to keep pace with the age can afford to let such opportunities slip.

The institute was permanently organized under a constitution and the legal officers and will meet annually in connection with the first district conference. We look forward to even more interest in this work next year.

The Triumph of Gideon.

(Judges 7. 13-23)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Though a host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear." (Psalm 27. 3)

Many wicked tribes dwelt in Canaan after it had been subdued by Joshua. These were ever leading God's people into idolatry. He would punish them for their sin, they would repent, and a deliverer would be raised up. Gideon was their fifth and greatest judge down to this time. His appearance and piety constrained the Lord to select him. The Angel of the God found him threshing wheat in the town of Ophrah, west of the Jordan. God calls the employed to greater work. The Angel said to him—"The Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valor." Gideon supposed the Angel to be a mere man and replied—"If the Lord be with us, why has all this befallen us?" The Angel told him to go in his might and he would save Israel. He, like Moses at the burning bush, begged to be excused. The Lord insisted, and again like Moses, he desired a sign. This was given—a fire came out of the rock and consumed the sacrifice. Our unbelief and timidity are ever making us ask for signs from heaven. That night Gideon threw down the altars of Baal, built an altar unto the Lord, and offered sacrifices thereon. We must put away sin before God will accept the offering we bring. The people were angry and desired to take his life. The wicked always become enraged when we oppose their ways. Joah, the father of Gideon, prevented them from killing him. A few words fitly spoken by a firm man often prevents much crime. The Midianites, the Amlekites, and "the children of the east," pitched their tents against Israel in the plains of Jezreel. The Spirit of the Lord came upon Gideon, he blew a trumpet, and soon gathered a host unto him. His army was 32,000 strong. Still he doubted. The sign of the fleece was given. The men were too many for God to have all the glory. Those who were fearful and afraid were asked to return to their homes. Twenty-two thousand went back. Still there are too many. The army was brought down to the water. Those who kneeled down and drank—thus showing slowness—were accepted. Many sluggish soldiers of the cross will be left when God comes to make up His jewels. The army was now reduced to three hundred. With these Gideon proceeded against the foe who were "like grasshoppers for multitude," and their camels were "without number."

I. Before the battle (9-15). Gideon was directed to visit the camps of the enemy. The design of this journey was to encourage him: not so much to increase his faith, as to give him self-confidence. Our land is full of enemies to God's people. His children are often sent among them. They should be wise, thoughtful and earnest in hearing their views.

He heard a man relate a dream. From it he learned his enemies frame of mind. This whole matter is under divine guidance. The heathens had no confidence in the true God, yet they saw a hidden mystery in dreams. Abraham, Jacob, Laban, and many others received Divine revelations in dreams. As this barley loaf knocked over and turned upside down a tent—emblematic of all the tents of the enemy—so the Gospel will overthrow all the haunts of vice.

This dream was not interpreted by a soothsayer. It revealed the work of Gideon. His sword would overthrow the tents of the Midianites. We may let the heathen represent the world; Gideon and his hand the Church; and the barley loaf and sword of Gideon the Gospel. Jehovah was then, and is to-day, the great invisible power leading His people on to victory. We live by faith and not by sight.

The result of the dream and interpretation was great. It inspired devotion—"he worshiped." In his heart he praised the Lord for leading him among the tents of his enemies, and causing him to learn their mind. It also increased faith. When he returned he said to Israel—"Arise, for the Lord hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian." God never acts without cause, and His object is always Great. He has many methods to increase our faith. May we always have the wisdom and piety to profit by them.

II. The battle (16-20). The three hundred men were divided into three companies. This was then, as now, a very common method of fighting. God has divided the household of faith into many denominations, and placed them in as many fields of labor. Each branch of His great Church is expected to fight the enemy of souls along its line. No one denomination can do the work of another, much less that of the entire Church. May each branch do well its part.

Each man was armed for the battle. He was given a trumpet, pitcher and lamp. Strange weapons of war, but God will fight their battle. We are soldiers of the cross. God has armed us with His Spirit and Word. When our heart is surcharged with love, joy, peace, truth, temperance and faith, and our head filled with the knowledge of God's Word, then we are well equipped for the battles of the Church.

When they charged on the foe, they blew the trumpets, broke the pitchers, and carried in their hands the flaming lamps, and cried—"The sword of the Lord, and of Gideon." Strange proceeding, yes, but it was God's method. The same may be said about the walls of Jericho. The world is to be saved "by the foolishness of preaching" God's methods are usually simple. He often brings about the greatest results through the weakest agents. He divided the Red Sea with an east wind, drove out the Canaanites with hornets, healed the bitten Israelites with a serpent of brass, and threw down the walls of Jericho with the trumpet's voice. When Jehovah says he will do a work, let that suffice, and consider not the ability of the agent

III After the battle (21-23). The effect of this charge was wonderful. The enemy was filled with fear. God often goes before His people and prepares the way for their coming. He makes them strong and their foes weak. They fled, not all in the same direction, but in different ways. A guilty conscience needs no accuser. Every one is a coward whose cause is not just. They were confused, and fought one against another. When fear dethrones reason we may turn against our best friends. Gideon and his band pursued the flying foe. It is likely the thousand who went back now came out of their hiding place and aided in the overthrow. It takes but little courage to chase a flying enemy. God is giving His Church the victory over the powers of darkness. After this battle the people desired to make Gideon their king. They were wrong in their intention, therefore he refused to become their supreme ruler. He had more godliness than many chief magistrates of to-day. Yet he became their judge and ruled them for forty years, and during that period they had rest. One great man at the head of a nation may do much to moralize and Christianize the people.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS

Brookhaven District.

The second district conference will convene at Brookhaven, Miss., Nov. 28, 1895. Dear brother pastors, officers, members and friends, for the Lord's cause let us do our very best this year for all the benevolent causes of our Church, that have done and are still doing so much for us. For two years our district has stood in front of the other four districts of the Mississippi Conference, for which I am proud. But I would have been happy if all on our district had done something. Only a few have been helping to keep our district in front. Let all fall in line. Please hurry forward every collected dollar to the missionary treasury at once. The missionary committee will soon meet. We hope for no reduction. Send your money in, brother pastors.

I. L. PRATT, P. E.

Waynesboro District.

Dear Brethren—This brings each of us to the annual conference that will judge who we are by what we have accomplished. We have had glorious revivals, many souls converted to God, and the Church edified; but financially we are far below what is expected of us. At the district conference, on the benevolences the smaller charges were fifty to sixty-five per cent in advance of the larger charges. Now, brethren, is the time of money with our people. Let us put the claim before our congregations, show them the importance, and urge them to do their duty, so we can meet the annual conference with our whole assessment. As men of God, asking the help of our Father, for all men want something and will strive to show themselves worthy of the same; let us stir, and success will be ours.

Yours in Christ, R. R. O'NEAL, P. E.

Indiana District.

Dear Brethren—The year is half gone and the winter is almost upon us. Permit me to urge you to do two or three things:

First—Pray for a gracious revival in the Church and for the conversion of many souls. We ought to have one thousand on the district. Shall we have them? Let us make our quarterly meetings great spiritual feasts.

Second—Raise every dollar of your benevolent money before Christmas.

Third—Raise and send in to me the money for minutes. Let us work and pray together and God will give us the victory. Fraternally yours,

Lexington District.

Dear Brethren—This fall is the time for revivals. A good revival always brings success. Give your attention to the benevolences of the Church. We must have all the benevolent money on this round. Yours ever,

JOSEPH COURTNEY, P. E.

Notice.

Dear Brethren of the Tennessee Annual Conference, M. E. Church—Please inform every brother who wishes to appear before committees to be present on the 24th, at 9 a. m. J. A. W. MOORE, Sec'y.

Topeka District Conference.

The seventh session of the Topeka District Conference, Central Missouri Conference, met at Asbury M. E. Church. Presiding Elder R. E. Gillum, D. D., was present as he always is. W. A. Ray was elected secretary. The presiding elder's report showed a growing condition. Several distinguished visitors were with us. Among them were: Presiding Elder J. J. Clark and Presiding Elder L. K. Billingsly. The session was a source of information. The pastors and delegates were nearly all present. We did not forget the SOUTHWESTERN, God bless the paper and its dear editor.

W. A. RAY, Secretary.

That dull listless feeling every morning indicates the need of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Dadeville District Conference.

The Dadeville District, Central Alabama Conference, convened at Bluffton M. E. Church, West Point, Ga., August 1, with Rev. C. Rogers in the chair. W. H. Wright was elected secretary, with Rev. B. G. Smith as an assistant. The presiding elder gave an address upon the business of the conference. Committees were appointed, and the character of the local preachers and exhorters were looked after.

On Thursday night a large audience assembled to hear a lecture given by Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, on the general work of the M. E. Church and the need of it in the South.

On Friday morning each pastor reported the religious condition of his work.

Presiding Elder J. P. Wragg, of Griffin District, and Revs. S. C. Upshaw, J. C. Hunt, J. W. Queen, E. W. Moore, W. A. Hill and Wimbush were introduced.

Presiding Elder Wragg addressed the conference on the benevolent cause. Dr Bowen spoke in the interest of Gammon Theological Seminary and the F. A. and S. E. Society. The conference sermon was preached by Rev. B. G. Smith.

Two were converted and joined the Church.

Saturday at 11 a. m., Brother B. Jackson preached.

Sunday at 11 a. m., the presiding elder preached with power; at 3 p. m., Rev. E. B. McCauley preached; at 7 p. m., Brother J. T. Martin preached.

Mrs. Clara A. Smith, one of Clark University students, organist of Roanoke, Ala., was present with her most excellent choir.

The SOUTHWESTERN was strongly represented by Rev. E. B. McCauley, ex-presiding elder of the Dadeville District. Each pastor pledged himself to secure twenty subscribers for the paper.

W. H. WRIGHT, Sec'y.

Navasota District Conference.

A Chance to Make Money.

I want to tell you of my wonderful success. Being a poor girl and needing money badly, I tried the Dish Washer business and have cleared over $200 every month. It is more money than I ever had before and I can't help telling you about it, for I believe any person can do as well as I have if they will only try. Dish Washers sell on sight; every lady wants one. The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo., will give you all necessary instructions, so you can begin at once. The Dish Washer does splendid work, you can wash and dry the dishes in two or three minutes without putting your hands in the water at all. Try this business and let us hear how you succeed.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Wytheville District.

Mr. Editor—I am now winding up my fourth quarterly conference, and am glad to say this has been a year of peace and pleasure. There has been no trouble between the pastors and people whatever. There have been good revivals of religion in every station and circuit on the district. The camp meeting fires are now in full blast, and are proving to be a blessing to the people. Sinners are being converted, backsliders reclaimed, and the church wonderfully edified. I think a few more camp meetings in this part of the country will solve the great Negro problem in the Wytheville District. Our white friends have never been known to take such active part in the meetings in the history of the district as they have done during this camp meeting season, and they frankly confess that they never heard better preaching in all their lives. The benevolent causes are carefully looked after, notwithstanding the scarcity of money. They will be in advance of last year. We have organized Epworth League Chapters in all our stations and circuits, and they are in good working order. We have held two Epworth League conventions, which have proved to be a great benefit to our young people. We never forget to present the cause of the dear old SOUTHWESTERN at all our gatherings, and most especially at our quarterly meetings; and always make it a point to impress it on the minds of the officials the great importance of reading some of our Church papers. At our district conference, which convened June 27, at Bradford, Va., we had representatives from all parts of the work who pledged themselves to subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN, and to do all they could for its circulation. The conference, in its resolutions, said that it would not rest contented until each family within the bounds of the district became readers of the dear old SOUTHWESTERN. Our watchword is ten thousand subscribers, and we think it is a very small number for the seventeen colored conferences of our Church with their 250,000 members.

W. H. PLEASANTS, P. E.

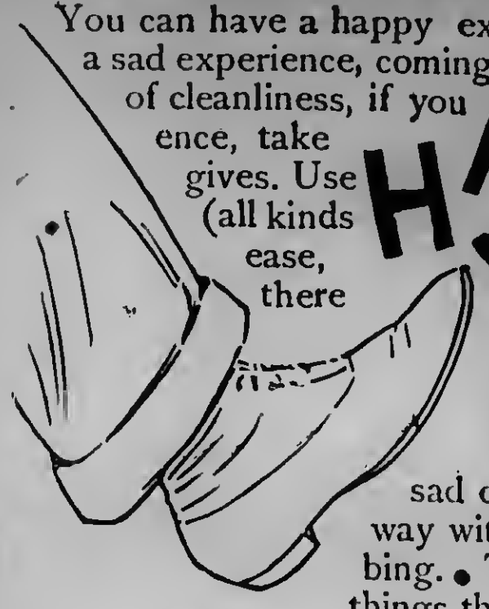
Greenwood District.

Dear Brethren—The second district conference of the Greenwood District, Upper Mississippi Conference, will convene in Kosciusko, Miss., Wednesday morning, October 23. Let every member be present. Every pastor is expected to report all benevolences in hand and all pledged subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN sent in. Some pastors on the district have reported all collections in hand. Be prepared to elect your lay delegate in the quarterly conference; elect your best representative.

W. E. MASK, P. E.

Griffin District.

Dear Brethren—The year is drawing to a close, and we must push our benevolence so as to have full reports. Let us show ourselves equal to the demand, and be known by our work. We rely upon you for success. At this quarter each charge will elect a delegate to attend the lay conference. Let the trustees be present with full reports, and also with the deeds to all Church property. Do not forget your pledge to the SOUTHWESTERN. Let a round list of subscribers be sent from your work. Take your collections at once, and forward them to Cranston & Curts. Wishing you great success, I am yours in the work,



J. P. WRAGG, P. E.

Greenville District.

Dear Brethren—Please notice the date, day and place of your fourth quarterly conference for 1895. Give out the notice at each of your churches and see that your local preachers, exhorters, Sunday school superintendents, presidents of Epworth Leagues, class leaders and stewards have their reports written. Let each member of your charge be seen by his or her leader, and urge that all pay their quarterly assessments. The stewards must report under the 8th question, all monies collected during the quarter for all purposes except ministerial support, and under the 12th question they must report the amounts paid on pastor's support. Be sure that you faithfully and plainly state to the people all the claims for benevolent purposes, and report to the quarterly conference all that has been collected. Urge the members to subscribe to the SOUTHWESTERN. Each local preacher and Sunday school superintendent must take the paper, and all other officers must be urged to take it. Report number of conversions during the quarter.

Hints or Kicks? Which?

You can have a happy experience, coming from hints—or a sad experience, coming from kicks. Now in the matter of cleanliness, if you want the happy experience, take the hints that Pearline gives. Use Pearline for washing (all kinds of washing) and you have ease, economy and safety. Is there a hint in the fact that hundreds of millions of packages of Pearline have been used, and the sale increases? But if you want sad experience, take the old-fashioned way with soap, and rubbing and scrubbing. That's hard for you, and for the things that you wash. It's all rub, rub, rub—in other words, it's the experience based on kicks.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 429 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Meridian District.

Brethren—Have each of the pledges to pay for the SOUTHWESTERN before this conference made good; if not, see to it at once, and get ready. I will call the roll and every one's answer should be present, and that "I am a cash reader of the SOUTHWESTERN;" and each leader will report the greatest number in his class, who takes the Church paper. Strive to have every cent assessed for benevolent purposes, and by all means collect and send in at once the amount for General Conference expenses.

A. M. TROTTER, P. E.

Notice.

As secretary of the East Tennessee Conference, I have arranged with the Southern and the Norfolk and Western railroads to have excursion tickets sold over their lines to Abingdon, Va., the seat of the next conference. Tickets will be on sale October 15-16, and will be good to return until the 24th. All candidates for admission on trial and the members in the four years' course of study are requested to be ready for examination on the 15th.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

A COMPREHENSIVE DOCUMENT.

We call especial attention to the able and comprehensive article from the pen of President Wilbur P. Thirkield of Gammon Theological School. It is indeed refreshing, in these days when the Negro is so sorely pressed for real and substantial friends, to know that he has yet a few fearless and unflinching friends.

The article does credit to the head and heart of this popular Christian minister. May his tribe increase!

The conclusions reached in this very able article, have been reached by a process of experiments as well as experience, which render them absolutely irresistible. We are more and more confirmed in our opinion that "contact with the race that has enjoyed the largest opportunities in the intellectual and spiritual life" is the only hope of the Negro. This Christian philosopher shows how this can be done without the sacrifice of either manhood, dignity or principle on the part of the stronger or the weaker. We appeal to our brethren of the Methodist Episcopal Church and of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South, to lay aside every vestige of color prejudice, and to study this question calmly, dispassionately, and in the light of the Negro's past, present and probable future history, taking as a guide the brave, noble words of President Thirkield; let us have no more separation, but rather contact and association. That kind which will settle this question upon the broadest Christian basis, and not upon the question of the color of the skin.

We ask a careful, prayerful reading of Dr. Thirkield's article.

"THE FROZEN TRUTH."

Our esteemed contemporary, the Omaha Christian Advocate, discussing "Diocesan Episcopacy," has the following:

"There is one phase of the plan proposed by Bishop Thoburn which will bear wise consideration, and that is the demand for greater responsibility on the part of each bishop for the results of his own work. Usually their work is well done, but the frozen truth compels the assertion that sometimes appointments are made by a bishop that would not be made if the bishop had been better acquainted with the conditions, and if he were compelled to remain in the midst of his work. We do not assert that this is always an unmixed evil, but sometimes it works great injury to both pastors and charges. Our bishops as a rule intend to be fair, and abhor the idea of being hoodwinked, but this does not prevent their occasionally being imposed upon. There are few close observers who cannot recall instances in which a bishop has been deceived by some designing layman, or by some unworthy presiding elder. There are instances easily within the recollection of many where a single person has had the ear of the bishop during an entire conference, and to such a degree as to astound the whole body. This might be the case under other conditions, but the bishop who is required to face his own work after it is done will be likely to find out his errors, and in many instances revise his judgment."

It is indeed a difficult thing to circumvent the influences of these designing folks who, if they do not openly boast of their ability to manipulate the bishops in the interest of their own selfishness, their cunning and duplicity, are, nevertheless, discernible, though often disguised behind the blandest smiles and the most genial and interested outward appearance. Legislation that would rescue the bishops from the hands of these deceivers would be welcomed.

THE INDEPENDENT ORDER OF TRUE REFORMERS.

We believe in race enterprises with all our heart, as one of the means of its elevation, but we almost backslide when we read of the possible dissolution of the Order of True Reformers, by all means the strongest organization of the kind among our people. With a membership running up into the tens of thousands; a large building in Richmond, Virginia, in which they have conducted a banking business with an invested capital of over $200,000. A Rev. W. W. Brown, who claims to be the founder of the order, has been recognized as the president, with a salary of $1800 per year with perquisites amounting to probably one or two thousand more. We have regarded the institution as a most magnificent illustration of what the race could do when properly encouraged by its own members. But we have feared that the persistent efforts of certain men, whose only ambition is to be at the head of somebody or something, would eventually produce friction, confusion and discord. We are grieved at the action of President Brown in offering to sell the patent and plans by which the order is operated, for the extravagant sum of $50,000, in annual payments of $5000. Strange to say, a majority of the members of the convention to which the proposition was made voted for it; thus, unconsciously, in our judgment, sounded the death knell of the noble order. The dissolution of this enterprise will be a serious blow to the progress of our people in the territory occupied by the order, and elsewhere. Perhaps Rev. Brown will see his way clear to show to the whole race that his interest in them and the tremendous work he has performed for the organization, was not that he might fleece his unsuspecting people, but that he might indeed be their unselfish and interested friend. This he can do by withdrawing his proposition and refusing to enrich himself out of the hard earnings of the race. At the same time the Richmond Planet might do a splendid piece of missionary work for the whole race by acting as an escort to the gallant Reformers until they reach the high sea of financial security. A house divided against itself cannot stand; yet we must confess that the business of all public institutions should be conducted in such a way as to inspire public confidence. Seriously we have thought that the order should be relieved of the excessive burdens upon it by the persistent efforts of some of its so-called friends to load it down with useless and meaningless paraphernalia, which serves too well the purpose of drawing into it not by any means the best classes of our people. We hope the True Reformers will reform in this respect.

—We congratulate the Pacific Christian Advocate on the celebration of its fortieth anniversary. It has portraits of the seven editors which the paper has had since its organization. They are: T. H. Pearne, D. D., who founded the paper, now of Cincinnati Conference; H. C. Benson, D. D., who was elected in 1864, and served four years; Isaac Dillon, D. D., who served from 1868 to 1876; John H. Acton, D. D., who was chosen editor in 1876; H K. Hines, D. D., who served from 1880 to 1888; W. S. Harrington, D. D., his successor; and A. N. Fisher, the present editor. The paper is among our most valuable exchanges and is in every way worthy of the patronage of the great Church which it so ably represents.

—Let us learn to be like our Lord and Master; when we have to go forth to some sorrow or conflict, let us go forth with a song.—Mark Guy Pearse.

THE MASTER'S PRAYER AND THE NEGRO'S PLEA.

The Master's prayer is, "Thy kingdom come." That kingdom is righteousness, love, peace and good will. It means the spirit of actual brotherhood among men. It is not mere sentiment; it it is the incarnation of the Rule—do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

The Negro's plea is, that this prayer be fulfilled. While he may not look for the triumph of this kingdom in the national life, may he, should he, not expect the kingdom of God to prevail in the Church? As a child of God and a member of this brotherhood in the kingdom, has he not a right to a brother's share in its full privileges, as well as in its duties?

Instead of treating from a general point of view this theme by a long-promised article, a recent letter from one deeply interested in the largest usefulness of our Church among the colored people, leads me to make a special application of the thought to the Negro in his relation to the Methodist Episcopal Church. This letter brings information that the sentiment in favor of the separation of our colored membership from our Church seems to be growing. After years of exceptional opportunity for observation and study, in my judgment such an agitation or movement seems sadly opposed to the coming in of the kingdom of God. Aside from the fact that our colored members are in the Church of their choice and have not asked to go out or to be set off, and independently of the principle involved, this view is enforced by several considerations.

The Negro needs contact with a race that has enjoyed the largest opportunities in the intellectual and spiritual life. In the South he is persistently shut off to himself. While he may be supposed to have equal civil rights, yet even by State laws he is compelled to isolation. In State, in Church, in school—in all the higher walks of civil life, where contact might elevate, enlighten, ennoble—the Negro of education, refinement, aspiration, must walk with those who have in slight degree only shared in the full advantages of our higher civilization. And this, not because he is filthy, ignorant or vile, but because he is black. That is, no matter what his culture, he is treated not as a man, but as a Negro. The opportunities for meeting with the baser elements of the white race are open. They may mingle on the lower levels, and they do mingle. So that, in general, the contact which the Negro has with the race that has had larger opportunity, is in company with those who have abused that opportunity, and it works in dragging him to a lower level. The exceptions to the above form a hopeful chapter in the ever-brightening life of our Southland.

In the Methodist Episcopal Church, through its conferences, literature and schools, there yet remains some contact with the larger and higher life. This has resulted in the improvement of our conferences. It has inspired in these preachers, who are the acknowledged leaders of their people, loftier ideals and more spiritual aims; and the growth into higher life and nobler purpose becomes more evident with the passing years. The Negro needs fellowship with our Church, not because it is predominantly white, but because it represents what education, wealth and higher civilization do for a people after generations of experience and opportunity. Every conference session is an object lesson. The work of our bishops alone is of inestimable value. Their careful supervision has done much in the elevation of the moral tone of our conferences; and they are there training ministers of the Negro race, who, at no distant day, I trust, shall preside over conferences of our Church and preside with the wisdom and dignity that uniformly characterize

The Grand Army.

Louisiana and Mississippi at Louisville, Ky., September 11, 1895.

BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

General Charles W. Keoting commanded the first division in the grand parade; General T. L. Macvey commanded the first battalion; Comrade McCormick commanded the first platoon; Col. F. C. Antoine commanded the second plateon, with Captain Chas. W. Dalo, son of a veteran, on the right; Col. J. F. Jailliot commanded the third platoon: Col. William Rogers commanded the fourth platoon; Col. James Lewis commanded the fifth platoon; Col. Paul Bruce commanded the sixth platoon.

Louisiana and Mississippi departments have every reason to rejoice. The only colored son of a veteran in full uniform in the parade was the delegate at large to the S. V. encampment from the Gulf Division, in the person of Captain Chas. W. Dale; and as the battalion marched down Broadway they were cheered by enthusiastic multitudes of people on both sides of the street. The white sons of veterans would cry out as Captain Dale passed, "There is one of our boys—three cheers for the sunny South." The old veterans seemed to forgot their many pains and aches, and walked as straight and nimble as they did in 1861-65.

Col. F. C. Antoine and Col. Paul Bruce were delegates at large.

General C. W. Keoting, department commander; General S. L. Macvey, senior vice commander; General N. E. Anderson, junior vice commander; General E. S. Stoddard, acting adjutant general; M. Ferrand, council administrator. These were members of the encampment present, and voting.

The following are the officers of the W. R. C. who were members of the convention and witnessed the parade: Mrs. J. B. Lewis, department president; Mrs. Sarah Miller, S. V. president; Mrs. J. H. Taper, J. V. president; Mrs. L. Dehoise, treasurer; Mrs. Selena Gray, delegate at large. Also the president of the corps and their friends, who witnessed the parade: Mrs. Julia North, president of Corps No. 6; Mrs. Eliza Davis, president of Corps No. 7; Mrs. Mary Swan, president of Corps No. 5.

Visiting ladies: Mrs. Carrie Devesan, Mrs. C. W. Dalo, Mrs. M. Harris, Mrs. Emanuel, Mrs. G. Washington, of Natchez, Miss.

The Louisiana Battalion was received with deafening applause and throwing up of flags; you could hear the words clear and distinct, "Three cheers for the South."

Mmes. Gray, Dehoise, Miller and Taper were invited by Col. Waterson to witness the parade from his balcony and were served with ice tea.

I left Louisville on Sunday evening the 15th. The train ran into Knoxville Monday morning the 16th. I found Knoxville a beautiful little city, and from every house top and door waved, with the word "Welcome" inscribed on it, the stars and stripes. I went to the building where the commandery was in session. I found it profusely decorated. I presented my credentials and was given a hearty welcome I was introduced to General Bundy Russell of Kansas, and other gentlemen who assured me that the colored sons of veterans were fully recognized. I heard the reports read from the commander-in-chief and other officials, which were as fine as I have ever heard. Bundy and Speelman made special mention of the colored work; this part of their report was warmly received. The afternoon was spent entertaining a delegation of ladies, who presented the commander-in chief with a beautiful basket of flowers. I then listened to the eloquent remarks of General Lawler and others. While the audience were drinking down, so to speak, the words of these gray-haired veterans, they were interrupted by a committee of confederates who came armed with an invitation for the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., to be the guest of the Confederates at their banquet. After the invitation was received I felt somewhat shaky. A brother came to me and asked if I was going to the banquet. I started to say I would go to my room. He said you will be treated right, and if you are not, an insult to you is an insult to all of us. My faith was strengthened and I fell in line, not at the last, but in the front rank, and marched to the feast. When we got to the spacious building I was invited to be seated, not by myself, but in company with my white brothers, and was among the first served. There are many more things I could say. I must say that Louisville and Knoxville have extended the hand of welcome, and in all my life I was never treated better than while in these beautiful cities.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

"The Little Foxes That Spoil the Vine."

By R. H. JOHNSON, Dickson, Tenn.

The SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE is one of the true vines of Methodism planted in the Southwestern part of God's great vineyard in the U. S. A.

Some time ago the editor of this paper spoke of some "Little Foxes Spoiling the Vine," and being particularly interested in this Southwestern vine, I began to cast about for the little intruders. You would be surprised at the number of these little foxes who are tugging away at this Southwestern vine! We find them daily—these little foxes, LITTLE tiny fellows, just sitting back against the vine!

Fox No. 1 is a pastor who claims to be too busy to "fool about getting subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN"; and this same little fellow kicks, and paws, and raises all manner of confusion because the "article" he sent to the paper was not published just as he wrote it. He had given a detailed description of a "big rally" and "a soul-stirring sermon," preached by "much-lauded and honored Rev. Josiah Jones." He had also described "a surprise party, led by Sister Polly Snooks," and wound up by saying "The SOUTHWESTERN is not forgotten." The editor looked over the long-winded manuscript, scratched his cranium a few times; sighed, dropped the thing into the waste basket, and wrote something like this: "Our church at Dodgetown is in a prosperous condition. The pastor, Rev. All Wind, writes: 'Our rally resulted in $—. Rev. Josiah Jones preached acceptably.'" Whereupon this little fox waxeth very wroth and declares that he will never write another "peace" to the SOUTHWESTERN, and he "can't have the audacity to ask the people to take the paper in which they can't get a decent hearing." Yes; these little foxes do spoil the vine.

Fox No. 2 is a local preacher, who claims to be too poor to take the paper; yet, he takes two or three secular papers! But, if you press him right close, he will tell you that the SOUTHWESTERN'S news is stale, and that he "don't like to read anything after it has been kept over too long!"

Fox No. 3 is a big-head, sour, presumptuous Sunday school superintendent, that thinks he knows everything. He blows and spurts around, and says "The SOUTHWESTERN is a failure, and the price is too high!" and, so on through a long list of silly complaints. He reads the daily papers and one or two secular weeklies, and a monthly or two comes to his address! Yes; he is a sub of the first water.

There are other little foxes—"leetle, touchie fellers," too small to mention, but they do untold harm to the vine.

All of God's true workmen should keep an eye out for these little foxes, and take their (official) heads off wherever they are found. But the best way to kill them off, is to club them to death with subscribers.

Enclosed find cash for two subscribers.

THE BEST
FAMILY MEDICINE
She Has Ever Known. Words of Praise from a New York Lady for
AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled.

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent la grippe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-round family medicine I have ever known."—Mrs. MAY JOHNSON, 308 Rider Avenue, New York City.

China's Crisis.

Appeal for Missionaries for China—To All Protestant Churches of Christian Lands.

In May, 1890, the General Conference of Missionaries assembled in Shanghai, and representing the 1296 Protestant missionaries then in China, issued an urgent appeal for 1000 men within five years; and appointed a permanent committee to observe and report the results of the appeal, consisting of Revs. J. Hudson Taylor, of Shanghai; Wm. Ashmore, D. D., of Swatow; H. Corbett, D D., of Chefoo; C. W. Mateer, D. D., LL. D., of Tangchow; C. F. Reid, D. D., of Shanghai.

At the same time the lady missionaries of the Conference put forth an appeal for additional lady workers.

The five years have now elapsed, and the Rev. C. F. Reid, D. D, has carefully collected and tabulated the returns. From these it appears that 45 societies have sent new workers to China since May, 1890. Some unconnected missionaries have also come out. Including these the following numbers are reached:

Male missionaries.....		481
Wives of missionaries	167
Single ladies.....	505	672
Total in five years.....		1153

These numbers do not exactly correspond with the appeal; only 481 of them being men: God knew the needs of China, and sent those He saw would be most helpful. The answer therefore is a gracious response, and shows what may be done by united prayer and effort; and thus adds to our responsibility to use these means still more largely for the advancement of the Redeemer's Kingdom in China. An important crisis in China's history has been reached. The war just terminated does not leave her where she was It will inevitably lead to a still wider opening of the empire and to many new developments. If the Church of Christ does not enter into the opening doors others will, and they may become closed against her. We would reiterate some of the earnest words of appeal, written five years ago, which have to-day on the eve of great changes and of great opportunities still more urgent weight and should lead to more vigorous effort.

The conference said in 1890:

"Realizing as never before the magnitude of China and the utter inadequacy of our present numbers for the speedy carrying into execution of our Lord's command, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature:' therefore,

"Resolved, that we, the four hundred and thirty members of the Missionary Conference, now in session in Shanghai, earnestly and unanimously appeal to you to send out speedily as many hundreds as can possibly be secured of well qualified ordained men." . . .

"We appeal to young men to give themselves to this work . . . to individual congregations to greatly increase their contributions for the support of one or more of these men; to Christian men of wealth to prayerfully consider the duty and privilege of giving themselves personally to this work, or of supporting their representatives."

"This Conference . . . would also present a direct appeal to the home Churches for lay missionaries. . . . It would point to the many millions of our fellow-men who have never heard the Gospel of the Grace of God; and to some millions more who though they have possessed themselves of some portions of His word still fail to comprehend its meaning for want of some one to guide them." . . .

"We appeal then to our lay brethren . . . to solemnly ask themselves whether for the greater glory of God they are not called to meet this pressing need and to devote themselves, their service and their wealth to this missionary enterprise in China."

To the above earnest words we add the following extracts condensed from the Appeal of 204 Lady Members of the Missionary Conference:

"We . . . come to you, our sisters in Christ, with an urgent appeal on behalf of the . . . women and children of China."

"Beloved sisters, if you could see their sordid misery, their hopeless, loveless lives, their ignorance and sinfulness as we see them, mere human pity would move you to do something for their uplifting. But there is a stronger motive that should impel you to stretch out a helping hand, and that we plead—the constraining love of Christ. We who are in the midst of this darkness that can be felt send our voices across the ocean to you, our sisters, and beseech you by the grace of Christ our Savior that you come at once to our help . . . that the holy and loving Spirit of God may incline your hearts to respond to His call is our earnest prayer."

To the above extracts we will only add the last paragraph of the appeal of the Conference for one thousand men:

"We make this appeal in behalf of three hundred millions of unevangelized heathen; we make it with all the earnestness of our whole hearts as men overwhelmed with the magnitude and responsibility of the work before us; we make it with unwavering faith in the power of a risen Savior to call men into His vineyard and to open the hearts of those who are His stewards to send out and support them, and we shall not cease to cry mightily to Him that He will do this thing, and that our eyes may see it."

Time is passing. If 1000 men were needed five years ago they are much more needed now. Of the 1296 missionaries in China only 589 were men; and of them not a few have entered into their rest, or have returned home from various causes. In view of the new facilities and enlarged claims of China the next five years should see a larger reinforcement than that called for in 1890. Will not the Church arise and take immediate and adequate action to meet the pressing needs of this vast land?

On behalf of the Permanent Committee,
J. HUDSON TAYLOR.

What the Negro Should be Doing

By E. L. ROGERS, Oxford, Miss.

Every Afro-American should open his eyes and begin to look about him. He should read papers and books; maintain his integrity, and read colored literature, so he could see what his race is doing toward its own elevation.

Let it be known from every Negro, by his conduct, that though lynching may seem to be perpetual in the Sunny South, that the day is not distant when those who encourage it will be heartily ashamed of it. Let every Negro try to emulate the example of that magnificent statesman and emancipator, Frederick Douglass, and win the esteem and confidence of all men, white or black.

As the heroic Toussaint L'Ouverture said, when in the French dungeon: "Though the French may murder me, the cause of liberty will continue to grow in San Domingo." So should every Negro say by his conduct, "Though the present superior race may persecute and ostracise, yet the cause of truth and justice will prevail!"

Are you ever Annoyed

By a buzzing or roaring sound in your head? Have you difficulty in hearing distinctly? Are you troubled with a continual dropping of mucous, irritating the throat and causing you to cough? Is your breath unpleasantly affected and accompanied with bad taste? Is your hearing less acute? If so, you have catarrh and should at once procure a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, the best known remedy. The Balm will give instant relief.

Edward Bok, the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, has written a book for young men called "Successward: A Young Man's Book for Young Men," which the Revells will publish. The book aims to cover all the important phases of a young man's life: his business life, his social life, his amusements, religious life, dress, his attitude toward women and the question of his marriage. This is Mr. Bok's first book.

What Shall I Do?

THE CHURCH AT ROME.

It reads like a romance—the dedication of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Rome. Italy, a few days ago, was an event of no little sifiuificance. Eighteen huudred years ago, the great apostle to the Gentiles, while a prisoner, for the hope of the Gospel in this historic city, wrote exultingly: "Now therefore, ye are uo more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God. And are built upou the fouudation of the apostles, and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone." Thus sounding the keynote of his great ideal Church, a great Christian confraternity united in soul and spirit, and purpose for the extension of the kingdom of Jesus Christ, who is the chief corner stone.

Graud and thrilliug events have been crowded into the history of the Church since that day. There has indeed been remissness, and a falling away from the truth; there has been persecution and bloodshed. Human efforts have been put forth to divert the faith of the humble followers of the crucified oue, and to plant in its stead the dogmas and creeds of a corrupt hierarchy. But the fouudations have stood firm, and the grand old bnilding "fitly framed together groweth unto a holy temple iu the Lord."

The erectiou and dedication of a Methodist Episcopal house of worship in the Eternal City is a most extraordinary occurrence. The great lines of Christian activity represented by the heroic Paul, and his modern disciple, John Wesley, converge at Rome, where will be tanght the ethics of the true Christian citizenzenship, as well as that fellowship with the saiuts which stands for establishment in the taith of the Son of God. Surely God moves in a mysterious way, and the great providential movement which Dr. Chalmers defiued as "Christianity in earnest" will wiu trophies of its victories iu the very city where once its greatest champion was in chains.

All hail Chilsa Methodista Episcopale.

Rev. Dr. William Burt, onr faithful, consecrated and cultured superintendent at Rome, has put his best life in this enterprise, which will carry his name and fame down to the comiug generations.

All Methodism was houored by the presence and miuistrations of our own bishop, J. N. Fitzgerald, D. D., LL. D. Genial, cultured, eloquent, he stood a most conspicuous figure at this epochal period in the history of the Church, which had wisely exalted him to its highest office. So we go to Rome also in our prayers that the great captain of salvation may send out trom that historic city influeuces which will canse Westeru empires to attend His word.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Prof. W. A. Redmond, formerly iu charge of Meridiau Academy, called Wednesday.

—Rev. G. Jackson, a prominent local deacon of our Church at Yazoo City, Miss., is residing temporarily in this city.

—Rev. H. H. McAllister, pastor of Wesley M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., is one of the strong men of the Central Missouri Conference. The church is greatly revived aud the outlook is bright. On a recent Suuday the collection was six hundred dollars. The Wesleyans have been reading the SOUTHWESTERN.

—Few organizations have so readily found their place and work as has the C. L. S. C. This great Chautauqua Reading Circle has already enrolled more than two hundred aud tweuty-five thousand members and recent reports show that the membership which was but slightly affected by the hard times is again increasing rapidly.

The Master's Prayer and the Negro's Plea.

the sympathetic and helpful administratiou of our bishops.

What the Negro needs is not mere charity, but contact. The hope of the Negro race lies not in the white mau, but iu themselves—in themselves strengthened and inspired to higher life by the brain, heart, sympathy and co operation of the Church. The race needs not only what the Church gives, but what the Church is.

"Not what we give, but what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare."

In the next place, our colored membership is not yet strong enough financially to carry on the enterprises of the Church that would, in the event of separation, be forced upon them. These enterprises have growu up gradnally under the help and gnidance of the Church. Every one of them is essential to the welfare of the kingdom and to the advancement of the Negro. Let us see this propositiou iu the light of the experience of other Churches.

The Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, with a membership half as large as ours, even with the aid of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is unable adequately to equip and to prosecute the work of Paine and Lane Institutes, their only schools of higher grade; and this is true though the Church South has given for leadership such a man as George Williams Walker, one of the saints and moral heroes of our modern Methodism. Now that their former colored members have been set off from the Church South, that Church has cast aside, largely, the responsibility that would have been felt by them had the colored people remained a part of that body. Many broad minded men of that Church express the conviction that it is a misfortune for the South and for the Church that such separatiou ever came.

This view of the case is further enforced by the experience of the African Methodist Episcopal Church. This large Church has one college of high grade at Wilberforce, which, by some aid from the State of Ohio, is well sustained, and under its able president and efficient faculty is doing a noble work. But the several other colleges in the South are but feebly sustained by the Church. Were it not for the institutions of other denominations, largel supported by funds from the North, thousands of bright and promising youth in this great Church would be without the advantages of higher intellectual training. Now this is true of a Church that has a membership more than twice as large as our membership among the colored people. The Church has some strong men as bishops and leaders. They are alive to the importance of Church colleges; their people give liberally; but the support of the bishopric, the building of churches, and the demands of the missionary and other enterprises of this aggressive Church, exhaust their resources. The masses are poor; wages are low; advancement to wealth must necessarily be slow. The race needs and deserves help.

Now suppose our membership should be set off, or even "set up," with churches, buildings and numerous schools justly assigned as their portion. Whence would come the support of our mission work, now carried on at an expense of fifty thousand dollars per year? Whence would come the support of our twenty-three colleges and academies, that are even now struggling hard to do the work with aid to the amount of about $100,000 per year through the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society? If with able and efficient secretaries in the field, with the bishops and Board of Managers and General Committee back of this most worthy enterprise, these schools are crippled by inadequate support given by our united membership of two and one-half millions, what would become of these splendid properties and equipments if the burden should be thrown on a quarter of a million of our colored people, with all the machinery of a Church to support, in addition to this great and most necessary system of schools? It is my conviction that no funds contributed by our Church are bringing larger returns for the kingdom of God than the amount appropriated to this work. Now, in the event of a separation, it is only reasonable to suppose that, with the demands of the home and foreign work pressing directly on the heart of the Church, only a spasmodic and ever decreasing support would be given to the missionary and educational enterprises of a separated and independent Church among the colored people.

And, still further, the encouragement of prejudices, ambitions, or other forms of selfishness in either race that would lead to the separation of our colored members, is opposed to the highest interests of humanity, and is out of harmony with the spirit of the kingdom of Christ. In this age, when the tendency towards unity is strong, it would mean the organization of one more struggling church, and all because certain thousands of members of Christ's kingdom happen to have skins shading off from white into black. The organizatiou of the Negro churches into one organic body would not at present work for the best. Besides, at this stage, it is an impossibility. Unless there be a revolution in sentiment among our preachers, our people would not unite with any existing denomination. Their separation, then, would simply mean one more feeble denominatiou that would not, as now, feel the inspiration which contact with a strong, aggressive, conquering church gives.

It is said by some: "We have already given five millions or so to the work; is it not now time for the Negro to make his own way?" What is that in such a cause? Why, our American University asks for ten millions before it begins its work. It deserves the amount; the church will give it. What, then, is a few millions, when the redemption of a race is at stake? And with all our churches and schools, we must remember that we have only touched the fringes of the race. The great mass yet sit in darkness. With the prejudices of the majority of the white race ever pressing them down and shutting the doors to higher life and endeavor; with the millions of the race who are as yet unredeemed, yea, almost untouched by Christian civilization; with the chains of heredity and environment about their necks, ever dragging them towards to the level of the lower masses—let us not cast off, let us not desert, these struggling, aspiring sons of the race and sons of the church, in whom our church has awakened aspirations, hopes, endeavors after the higher life.

Is it said that they are restless and dissatisfied? Let us thank God that they have not, in our church, settled down into sloth and ignoble ease, or calm of despair. The Indian, for the most part rests satisfied and grunts out his life in his wigwam. No care for vote or representation in Church or State disturbs his satisfied repose. The Negro is a man. He has a right to all the restlessness, aspirations, unsatisfied longings of a man. May God save him from every form of selfish, unchristian ambition, which brings inevitably paralysis of spiritual life! But let us realize that simple equity, to say nothing of the law of Christ, demands that the Negro should be free to achieve just such a standing, not only in civil life, but in the church, as would, had he the same character and ability, be accorded to him if he were white.

The space allotted to me has already been exceeded. But this word from Bryce's "Holy Roman Empire" is in point here and is too significant to be passed by: "It is on the religions life that nations repose.... The first lesson of Christianity was love—a love that was to join in one body those whom suspicion and prejudice and pride of race had hitherto kept apart." Let men think deeply and think far into the future of the Negro and of the nation before they encourage a movement in our church which may have an influence comparable to that of the separatiou in 1844. That was on principle, and wrought ultimately for freedom and peace. What principle is here involved? Is it not prejudice, rather, that prompts men to propose another rending of the "body of Christ?" Instead of bringing in the kingdom of Christ, such a separation on the ground of color—and this is what it means, in the last analysis—would shut one more door of light and hope in the Negro's face. It would intensify race prejudice. It would encourage race isolation. It would do much towards shutting off the Negro from the rights, privileges, and opportunities of a man and brother in the life of the State as well as of the Church. In the light of such an agitation in the church, surely the words of Frederick Douglass at the World's Fair African Congress are as pathetic as they are significant: "There is no African problem! The only problem is whether there be enough Christian character and fidelity in the white people to live up to their professions and the constitution."

A Chance for Women to Make Money.

I saw one of your subscribers tell in your columns a few weeks ago how she made money selling Dish Washers. I wrote to the Iron City Dish Washer Co., 145 S. Highland Ave., Station A, Pittsburg, Pa., and obtained one of their Dish Washers and tried it myself first. It is just lovely; you can wash and dry the dishes for a family in two minutes, without touching your hands to a dish or putting them in hot water. I made the first day, $5.00, and everybody wanted a Dish Washer just as soon as they saw me wash their dishes. Since then I have made as high as $18.00 a day, and I believe that I can get enough money to keep my brother at school next winter and have money in the bank too. Any lady or gentleman can do as well as I am doing, I am sure, as I had no experience. When everybody wants to buy, it is not hard to sell. Anyone can get information by writing the above firm, and I am glad to add my experience, because I think it is my duty to help them over the hard times. MARTHA FRANCIS.

As English comment is just now particularly severe on many things American, it is gratifying to see how unqualified is its continued praise of the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Dictionary.

Christian Manhood.

Rev J. F. MARSHALL, Louisiana Conference.

Every intelligent and thoughtful man finds himself possessing and enjoying an individuality which can only be accounted for as a divine gift, implanted in his nature. How could it be otherwise when man takes the image of his Maker? The self-existing one has delegated to His subjects a part—though small part—of His own absolutism. When Descartes had doubted himself down to a solid rock on which to rest his intellectual foot, he exclaimed, "I think, therefore I am." He was settling the question with himself as to a first cause. This has been long settled with us. We imbibed it from the voice of maternal faith, sang into us by infant lullabies, and later by maturer hymns of faith.

But we find ourselves grappling with the stern realities of this present life. While to some degree there is a similarity, there is in a greater degree a contrast.

Alike and not alike—no two faces alike; no two forms alike; no two voices alike. Our God is a God of variety.

We contemplate; we judge; we compare; we decide. But though our thoughts primarily started from the same source, they run in different channels. Conviction, as a pilot, brings us into different ports.

Influences may be brought in to change a determined course, but the will erects itself and defying suppression strikes more persistently for goal. In this battle of life it is well to emulate worthy examples. A study of the lives of Moses, Paul, Washington and Lincoln cannot fail to bring inspiration and courage.

But Jesus inculcated manhood into his disciples. It is true He taught meekness and humility, but a decision of character, bent of mind and purpose of heart to do the brave and right thing was emphasized by the Master. See Him use the scourge in the temple; hear Him tell one to put up his sword, but again, advises if they have no sword to sell all and buy one. Here we learn that man is not merely a creature of circumstance, but is called upon to prepare himself for the emergencies of a life of constant mutations.

Man, worthy of the term, is not overawed in the presence of his fellow, who perchance from superior advantage or prestige of position may desire or attempt to unman him. Here individuality asserts itself and Christian manhood triumphs.

Let us not mistake rash indiscretion born of inordinate ambition for manhood. This comes from the lack of the quality under discussion.

All have in common rights that others are morally bound to respect. Much friction will be avoided by a concession of these rights. The fatherhood of God implies the brotherhood of man. Yet there are certain immunities that can only be enjoyed after a clash of mental swords backed by a Christian valor inspired by the mind that was in Christ Jesus.

Maudlin sentimentality, superinduced by a hankering after favoritism, only transforms what might be an individual of purpose and deeds into a sycophantic parasite.

May the Christian ministry be of that type of manhood found in the divine Model, seeing through the eyes and bearing with ears of the Holy Spirit.

The Ratio of Ministerial Representation.

By REV. T. B. NEELY, D. D., LL. D.

The annual conferences are now voting upon a proposition to reduce the ministerial representation in the General Conference. Little if anything has been said upon this subject in the Church papers. As no question of amendment to the constitution should be acted upon without consideration and discussion, the writer, even at this late moment, asks the attention of the ministers to the following brief presentation of some important points:

This proposition should be discussed, opposed and voted down.

1st. Because the General Conference is not too large as it is. In any suitable place it can be controlled quite as easily as a smaller number. The Presbyterian General Assembly did not attempt to reduce its ratio until that body had become very much larger than our General Conference now is, and its present ratio of representation is now almost twice as large as ours.

2nd. Because a large representation is more representative and safer than a small number of delegates. Influences may sway a small body that would have no effect upon a large one. Representation may be so small as not to represent at all.

3rd. Because a small ratio practically puts the government into the hands of a few.

4th. Because a large proportionate representation is better for the pastors. As the ratio diminishes, the representation of pastors is in danger of being correspondingly diminished.

5th. Because this whole matter of ratio will come before the next General Conference on the consideration of the proposed new constitution, and that body ought to be left free to consider the whole case in all its bearings.

6th. Because the expense to-day is not proportionately greater than in the days when the Church was smaller and not possessed of as great means.

This is not the time to reduce the number of ministerial delegates, and members of the annual conferences should speak and vote against the proposed change.

Baton Rouge District Conference.

The Baton Rouge District Conference convened in Clinton, La., according to previous announcement. Rev. J. F. Marshall, presiding elder of the district, was in the chair. Rev. Wm. Porter was elected secretary. The report of the presiding elder showed that much good work had been accomplished along all lines. The reports from pastors showed that our Methodism has not only maintained her stronghold, but has made some material advancement.

Rev. J. D. Pool preached an able introductory sermon to a large audience. In the absence of Rev. J. W. Hilton, who was to preach the missionary sermon, Brother J. A. Tircuit preached with great acceptance to a packed audience of white and colored.

A large audience came out to hear Dr. M. C. B. Mason, secretary of the F. A. and S. E. S., who presented his cause eloquently and with satisfaction.

Cols. I. D. Wall and W. H. Stone, white lawyers of the town, were present and gave very timely addresses to the conference. C. C. Morse, business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN; Revs. Z. T. Gayden, A. Hilton and J. Nettles and J. Mitchell of the Baptist Church, were among the visitors. Messrs. J. A. White, Jr., Edward Curry and G. M. Hochendel, leading white merchants of the town, were frequent visitors to the conference.

Presiding Elder J. F. Marshall was the recipient of a fine silk umbrella at the close of the session.

Jackson, La., was selected as the place for the next session of the district conference.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The Roman Papacy; its rise from Pagan sources, its early persecutions, its later plots and conspiracies, and its present frauds, crimes and dangers in the United States; with a broad, fair and full treatment of Papal intrigues and corruptions in public affairs, and bearing upon free institutions in our country. By Scott F. Hershey, Ph. D. This is a book of thrilling interest and should be read by all Protestant Christians. The distinguished author takes high rank as a literateur and this volume shows that he is fully abreast of the times. Boston: Back Bay Book Co.

Lincoln's apprehensive distrust of marriage is revealed in some extremely interesting letters from the great president in the October Ladies' Home Journal. The letters are given publicity for the first time, and are addressed to Lincoln's most intimate friend, Joshua Speed. Edward S. Martin presents a review of the various theories advanced by scientists in the effort to definitely locate the Garden of Eden site, and shows how far from solution is the problem. Dr. Parkhurst's October article treats of "Religion in the Family," and is one of the most forcible arguments that has come from his pen. The Curtis Publishing Company, 421 Arch Street, Philadelphia, at ten cents per copy; one dollar per year.

Josiah Flynt, who has had extended experience as an amateur tramp in this country, England and Germany, writes a paper for the October Century on "How Men Become Tramps." He gives the principal causes or sources of vagabondage: The love of liquor; Wanderlust, or love of wandering; the county jail, owing to the promiscuous herding of boys and homeless wanderers with criminals; the tough and rough element in villages and towns, and the comparatively innocent but misguided pupils of the reform school.

The present outlook is for the erection of the Hall of History as our first building. The beginning of an endowment for this department has already been provided by the gift of $100,755 by a lady in New York, and pledges have recently been received of $150,000 for the erection of the building. The trustees have authorized the selection of a building committee and the immediate securing of competitive plans from leading architects, with the purpose of an early adoption of such as are approved, and the laying of a corner-stone as soon thereafter as contracts can be closed.

One of the most significant and helpful features of the enterprise has been from the very first that our ministers have evinced a most intelligent and ardent interest in its progress. As a practical demonstration of their deep devotion to this educational work on the highest lines, voluntarily from many different localities and quarters of the land there came offers of financial aid from the slender purses of our preachers. These subscriptions have been merged into one fund, known as the Asbury Memorial Fund, which has now grown to be $75,000; and the end, who can tell? It is to be used for a building to be known as Asbury Memorial Hall—a monument to the immortal pioneer bishop of American Methodism—and also for endowment when the fund shall have become sufficiently large. Already $10,000 of this subscription has been paid. The hall will be a reproduction of the Christ Church College, Oxford, the college where John Wesley studied.

At the session of its General Conference in Memphis, in May, 1894, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, suspended its rules, and with great unanimity passed the following resolution:

Whereas, A movement has been set on foot, under the leadership of the Methodist Episcopal Church, for the establishment of a great Protestant university in the capital city of our nation; and

Whereas, It becomes all Protestants, and especially all Methodists, to give encouragement to this important enterprise:

Resolved, That we heartily approve and indorse the undertaking of the trustees of the American University, to establish in Washington City a great university for post-graduate study and original research, under the influence of Protestant Christianity and the auspices of American Methodism.

This graceful and hearty action is a pledge and prophecy of the fraternal and harmonious co-operation of the two great bodies of our common Methodism in maintaining the spirit of consecrated culture that so clearly marked the founders and fathers of the Wesleyan movement. All our friends most highly appreciate these generous resolutions.

The ideals of John Wesley, of a developed and a constantly developing intellectual force side by side with the growth of the spiritual nature in man, have always characterized the leaders of the Wesleyan reform—a reform involving in the operation of the Divine Spirit upon man, first, the renewing of the heart; second, the culture of the mind; and third, the application of the hand. Insisting, as Methodism does and will, upon the first as the great prerequisite to a true life, it hesitates not to affirm and maintain that the second and third must accompany, or closely follow, as seals and proofs of the genuine character of the first.

Education thus forms a prominent feature in the history of our denomination. Our membership has been a large factor in the establishment of the public school system, which is the common pride of our American Protestantism. In intermediate and collegiate instruction we yield to no other denomination in the spirit and success with which institutions of these grades have been brought forth and developed. Leading minds in our common Methodist Church have, however, felt a growing need for a half century that more ample provision should be made for continuous helpfulness to our college graduates as they emerge from institutions of training to take up the special and crowning work of their lives.

As a practical and powerful bond of union between all the bodies of American Methodism, we believe there is, and can be, nothing so appropriate or efficient as this projected university. Here the flower of our youth, from the South and from the North, from the East and from the West, may come and mingle in the common lofty aims of such an institution, and, going hence with appreciation of the merits of one another, learned in the friendly friction of university life, build both in Church and State on the foundations of the first century of the republic a structure more beautiful and enduring than the one our eyes behold.

A Young Man Stricken With Landry's Paralysis and Yet Recovers.

(From the Times, Philadelphia, Pa.)

Stricken with Laudry's Paralysis and yet cured. That means but little to the average layman but it means a miracle to a physician. Such is the experience of O. E. Dallimore now a resident of Madison, N. J., and a rare experience it is.

"Yes, its true that I had Landry's Paralysis," said Mr. Dallimore to a reporter, "or else the most celebrated physicians of London were mistaken.

"It was on the 15th of March, this year," he continued, "when I was in New York city, that I first felt the symptoms of my trouble. I experienced difficulty in going up stairs, my legs failing to support me. I consulted a physician who informed me that I had every symptom of Locomotor Ataxia, but as the case developed he pronounced it a case of Landry's Paralysis and knowing the nature of the disease advised me to start for my home and friends. I gave up my work and on April 1st started for London, Ont. A well-known physician was consulted but I grew rapidly worse and on Saturday, April 7, several eminent physicians held a consultation on my case and informed me that I was at death's door, having but three to six days to live, still I lingered on, by this time completely paralyzed, my hands and feet being dead, I could hardly whisper my wants and could only swallow liquids. Oh, the misery of those moments are beyond all description and death would really have been a welcome visitor.

"Now, comes the part that has astounded the physicians. Rev. Mr. Gondy, a clergyman who visited me in my last hours, as he supposed, told me of the marvelous cures of paralysis that had been performed by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I started to take the pills about April 28 and a week after that felt an improvement in my condition. There was a warm, tingling sensation in the limbs that had been entirely dead and I soon began to move my feet and hands, the improvement continued until May 28 when I was taken out of bed for a drive and drove the horse myself. By the beginning of July I was able to walk upstairs alone and paid a visit to Niagara.

"Slowly but surely I gained my old health and strength leaving Ontario for New York on October 11 and beginning my work again on October 26, 1894. Cured of Landry's Paralysis in eight months." To confirm his story beyond all doubt, Mr. Dallimore made the following affidavit.

Sworn and subscribed before me December 3, 1894. Amos. C. Rathbun, Ruth's Choice.

(Ruth 1. 14-22)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." (Ruth 1. 16.)

The book of Ruth was likely written by Samuel during the early part of the reign of David. The events recorded in it "came to pass in the days when the judges ruled," and probably during the judgship of Gideon. It no doubt derived its name from Ruth its leading character. Its design is to give the genealogy of David; to supplement the book of Judges, and introduce the book of Samuel; and to give a glimpse of the domestic life of that age. It reveals piety, integrity, love, chastity, gentleness and charity. In the time of the judges there was a famine in Canaan. It was likely caused by the Amalekites, Midianites, and others, over-running the land and taking away that which had been raised by the Israelites. This famine may have caused Elimelech with his wife Naomi, and his two sons, Mahlon and Chilion, to leave Palestine and go into the land of Moab. This they were not compelled to do (for they "went out full"), and God was displeased with it. He became joined to that country by his sons marrying daughters of Moab. All went well for a season. Satan ever gives the best first. In a few years Elimelech and his sons died. Their death was likely a judgment from God. Naomi and her daughters-in-law were soon reduced to extreme poverty. Troubles never come singly. She decided to return to Canaan. Many who have apostatized and lived in the ways of sin for a season, have resolved to return to God. Her daughters-in-law started with her on this lonely journey. After a while she urged them to return to their people. She gave them the farewell kiss. They wept aloud. Naomi was no doubt a good mother-in-law. Orpah went back. We see her no more, and may not meet her in heaven. So with those who forsake the people of God. They are in the way to perish forever. But Ruth clave unto her. The same words may drive one from Christ and draw another closer to Him. The ark was a curse to Uzza and a blessing to Obed-Edom.

1. The reply of Ruth to the request of Naomi is one of the most tender, touching passages found in the Word of God. It is intensely feminine in spirit. Only poets can imagine the deepness of her love.

Her request—"Intreat me not to leave thee." It is doubtful if Naomi really desired Ruth to return to her people. She would only put her to a final test. The decision made here must be for life. We sometimes reach that point when we must decide an important matter. We can avoid the issue no longer. The step taken seals our destiny. At such a moment may Jehovah influence every one to decide for their happiness here and hereafter. It is well to let others have their way sometimes, after all they may be right and we wrong.

She would journey with Naomi—"Whither thou goest I will go." She knew not her country, and no doubt had a mean opinion of her people, yet she would go with her. We know the heavenly Canaan to which we are journeying, and earnestly desire all who will to go with us to that "sun-bright clime."

She would dwell with her—"Where thou lodgest I will lodge." Ruth did not consider wealth or poverty, happiness or sorrow, honor or shame. To cast her lot with Naomi was her only thought. So the saint should be wedded to Christ. "There remaineth a rest therefore for the people of God."

She would unite companionship with her—"Thy people shall be my people." Ruth had never seen her mother-in-law's people. It is likely the Moabites had prejudiced her against them. But love hides every fault. The fellowship of saints is most delightful. David and Jonathan were great friends.

She would join her religion with hers—"And thy God my God." Ruth would become a member of her religious sect, and worship Naomi's God, by sacrifice and otherwise. Thousands every day are making her choice. They are coming out from the world and learning to serve her God. A wiser choice was never made by any one.

She would be faithful to the end of life—"Where thou diest will I die." She supposes that both will die, but Naomi being oldest, will likely die first. The Christian cares but little where he falls, but he desires to work till the end comes, and fall on the battle field, wearing his uniform, and bearing his weapons of war. Let it be even so, blessed Christ. The reward is at the end of the race.

She would be true after death—"And there will I be buried also." Ruth did not so much as desire her body, after her exit, to be taken back to the land of Moab. In this respect she was more consecrated than Joseph, who made the Israelites promise to take his bones back to Canaan (Gen. 50. 25). But she would have her body buried beside that of Naomi, and in the final resurrection they would come forth together. The greatness of Ruth's love for her mother-in-law is almost equal to that of Christ for this lost world. Say not there are no good people in heathen lands.

2. When they returned to Bethlehem "all the city was moved about them." This city was at this time a small place. The news of their return spread rapidly. It was likely sympathy or curiosity that moved the city. She no doubt had wealth and influence when she went away: but now how changed. Her husband and sons, the joy of her life, were dead, and her wealth all gone. It is sad when one so high is brought so low. The people said—"Is not this Naomi?" They had, or pretended to have, doubts. This uncertainty was caused by her changed condition. It may be they did not desire to know her.

Her request—"Call me not Naomi"—my pleasantness—"but call me Mara"—bitterness. She desired this because the "Almighty had dealt very bitterly with her." This entire lesson teaches that she went out from Canaan against the will of God; that the death of her husband and sons was a judgment sent on her; and that at last, like the Prodigal son, she came to herself, and returned to her people. God will punish the disobedient. Happy will he be if, like Naomi, he sees His goodness and love in the act, and returns to Him.

In Orpah we see the awakened sinner, who clearly beholds his duty, but suffers the lusts of the flesh, or the desire to be rich, or the pleasures of this life, to prevent him from doing the same. From Naomi we may learn that God may suffer His children to fall into sin; that He will punish the transgressor, and that the offender may repent and return to Him, and if so, He will greatly reward Him. In Ruth we see the true penitent sinner. She dwelt in the land of Moab, sinners are living in a country far from God; she was led to the light of truth by the godly life of Naomi, many sinners are led to Christ by the consecrated lives of others; she left her people and attached herself to the Lord's children, the sinner should renounce his wicked associates and unite with the Church; she gave up all her idols and worshiped the true God, sinners should "lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset," and constantly serve the living God; and she was rewarded with wealth, honor and renown by so doing, sinners who turn to God will be rewarded with happiness here, and glory hereafter.

THE PRIZE BABY OF KANSAS CITY MO.

Cured of Disfiguring ECZEMA By the CUTICURA REMEDIES

Our baby when three weeks old was badly afflicted with Eczema. Her head, arms, neck, limbs, and nearly every joint in her body was raw and bleeding when we concluded to try CUTICURA REMEDIES. We began with CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA SOAP, and after the first application we could see a change. After we had used them one week some of the sores had healed entirely, and ceased to spread. In less than a month, she was free from scales and blemishes, and to-day has as lovely skin and hair as any child. She was shown at the Grange Fair, and took a premium as the prettiest baby, over sixteen others. MR. & MRS. PARK, 1609 Bellevlew Ave., Kan. City. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG & CHEM. CORP., Boston.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Savannah District.

Dear Brethren—This fourth round closes out the conference year, as you know. Let it be brimful of success, as much of it is dependent on our earnest efforts. I will do all I can to make it so. Yours in Christ, J. WATTS, P. E.

Natchitoches District.

Brethren—Let each one of you be ready to make full reports on your benevolent money, or have your vouchers on hand. Also, have your officers and committees selected from among your best men and women. The conference is also to elect a lay delegate, and we trust, who ever is elected, will be a representative of the Church. You are called upon to be up and doing. Yours fraternally,

H. J. WRIGHT, P. E.

Vicksburg District.

Dear Brethren—Let this be a quarter of unusual activity in every department of our church work, and by all means strive earnestly to bring up the full apportionment for the various benevolent causes. The local preachers and exhorters must be ready to pay for the SOUTHWESTERN by the time of holding their conference. We hope all the members will be prepared to subscribe for our church paper.

S. A. COWAN, P. E.

Holly Springs District.

To Ministers and Members—The second session for 1895 will be held at Batesville, Miss., Nov 20, at 9 a. m., and I hope all will be present on the first day and have written reports ready. Every member will have in his possession the SOUTHWESTERN, or have the cash in hand to take it. When I come to hold the fourth quarter, every reader of our church in the district must take the paper. Also, the ministers who pledged themselves for a certain number of the paper in the last district conference, please carry out your pledges. Let us not fail and remember that every cent of our benevolence must be raised.

I pray God's blessing upon each and every one. Yours for Christ and Methodism, W. MCDONALD, P. E.

Notice.

The minutes of the ninth session of the North N. O. District Conference are out. Pastors out of the city will please send their money for same immediately, in accordance with the motion that each member of the district conference would pay twenty-five cents for minutes. City pastors will please be ready. We will make an immediate canvass of the various city churches in the district. Yours fraternally, D. J. PRICE, Sec'y.

A dose of Ayer's Sarsaparilla taken shortly before each meal helps digestion.

Rome District Conference.

The Rome District Conference convened at Carrollton, Ga., as per announcement, with Presiding Elder H. R. Allen in the chair. The roll call showed an attendance of 72 members. F. M. Gordon was elected secretary and A. B. Allon assistant.

Rev. G. W. Lewis preached the introductory and B. Boston the ministerial sermon. The pastors' reports showed that their charges were improving financially and spiritually. Many members have been added to the Church.

Revs. Coates and Giddens offered resolutions on the SOUTHWESTERN. It was urged that each member of the conference become an agent.

Revs. R T Adams, M. M. Alston, S. Smith, G. W. Arnold and M. C. B. Mason, and Prof. L. J. Price were among the visitors. Dr. Mason addressed the conference in the interest of the F. A. and S. E. Society. F. M. GORDON, Sec'y.

The Washing of the Feet

gets to be a weighty matter, in these days when colored stockings will shed their colors. Pearline does this work beautifully.

It's not only thoroughly effective, but it's healthy. Doctors recommend Pearline as a soak for rheumatism.

Try it in the bath. It will give you a new idea of cleanliness. Bathing with Pearline is a perfect luxury.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 432 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Greenville District Conference.

The first District Conference of the Greenville District met at Webb, Miss., as per announcement, with Presiding Elder J. W. Davis presiding. A. J. McAllister was elected secretary, with E. Troupe and J. H. Everett assistants, and G. W. Hunt statistical secretary. P. S. Bowie preached the introductory sermon.

The presiding elder's report showed a very hopeful condition along all lines.

The reports from pastors, local preachers and others were very encouraging.

Presiding Elder W. McDonald, and the Revs. W. M. H. Davis of the A. M. E. Church, and J. W. Johnson of the C. M. E. Church, and Prof. G. G. Logan of Rust University were introduced and made remarks.

Prof. Logan ably represented the work of F. A. and S. E. Society. P. S. Bowie, W. McDonald, E. D. Reed, A. J. McAllister, C. W. Walton, J. H. Everrett, G. G Logan and E. Troupe preached acceptable sermons. The subjects for discussion were ably handled.

A SOUTHWESTERN revival took place, led by Presiding Elder Davis, who spared no pains in representing the grand old paper. Several brethren pledged themselves to send within 100 days the number of subscribers opposite their names.

Sunday was a high day in Isreal. Prof. Logan preached at 11 a. m., and at 3 p m. the memorial services of Rev. L. W. Washington took place and was largely attended by colored and white people.

Resolutions were passed, and then closed one of the best sessions of the district.

A. J. MCALLISTER, Sec'y.

Little Rock District Conference.

The Little Rock District Conference convened at Morrilton, Ark., according to notice, with Presiding Elder W. H. Morris in the chair. John Qualls was elected secretary and John W. Lewis assistant.

The introductory sermon was preached by Elza Roberts.

The presiding elder, who was called to the sick bed of his dear wife for the past two or more weeks, arranged so as to be with us and read his report. It was inspiring and full of comfort, showing an increase along all lines of our work. The reports of pastors and officers show prosperous condition of the churches, Sunday schools and Epworth Leagues.

Dr. W. O. Emory addressed the conference on the work and needs of Philander Smith College.

The F. A. and S. E. Society held its anniversary, and the following brethren preached edifying sermons: John W. Lewis, W. O. Emory, M. N. Langston and John Qualls.

The presiding elder delivered an address on the SOUTHWESTERN, which was forcibly applied and will bring about a revival for our paper before long.

Resolutions were passed, thanking the good people for their generous treatment, etc., and the conference with the love feast adjourned.

JOHN QUALLS, Sec'y.

Brookhaven District.

The second district conference will convene at Brookhaven, Miss., Nov. 28, 1895. Dear brother pastors, officers, members and friends, for the Lord's cause let us do our very best this year for all the benevolent causes of our Church, that have done and are still doing so much for us. For two years our district has stood in front of the other four districts of the Mississippi Conference, for which I am proud. But I would have been happy if all on our district had done something. Only a few have been helping to keep our district in front. Let all fall in line. Please hurry forward every collected dollar to the missionary treasury at once. The missionary committee will soon meet. We hope for no reduction. Send your money in, brother pastors.

I. L. PRATT, P. E.

Waynesboro District.

Dear Brethren—This brings each of us to the annual conference that will judge who we are by what we have accomplished. We have had glorious revivals, many souls converted to God, and the Church edified; but financially we are far below what is expected of us. At the district conference, on the benevolences the smaller charges were fifty to sixty-five per cent in advance of the larger charges. Now, brethren, is the time of money with our people. Let us put the claim before our congregations, show them the importance, and urge them to do their duty, so we can meet the annual conference with our whole assessment. As men of God, asking the help of our Father, for all men want something and will strive to show themselves worthy of the same; let us stir, and success will be ours. Yours in Christ, R. R. O'NEAL, P. E.

Indiana District.

Dear Brethren—The year is half gone and the winter is almost upon us. Permit me to urge you to do two or three things:

First—Pray for a gracious revival in the Church and for the conversion of many souls. We ought to have one thousand on the district. Shall we have them? Let us make our quarterly meetings great spiritual feasts.

Second—Raise every dollar of your benevolent money before Christmas.

Third—Raise and send in to me the money for minutes. Let us work and pray together and God will give us the victory. Fraternally yours,

Lexington District.

Dear Brethren—This fall is the time for revivals. A good revival always brings success. Give your attention to the benevolences of the Church. We must have all the benevolent money on this round. Yours over,

JOSEPH COURTNEY, P. E.

Notice.

Dear Brethren of the Tennessee Annual Conference, M. E. Church—Please inform every brother who wishes to appear before committees to be present on the 24th, at 9 a. m. J. A. W. MOORE, Sec'y.

Topeka District Conference.

The seventh session of the Topeka District Conference, Central Missouri Conference, met at Asbury M. E. Church. Presiding Elder R. E. Gillum, D. D., was present as he always is. W. A. Ray was elected secretary. The presiding elder's report showed a growing condition. Several distinguished visitors were with us. Among them were: Presiding Elder J. J. Clark and Presiding Elder L. K. Billingsly. The session was a source of information. The pastors and delegates were nearly all present. We did not forget the SOUTHWESTERN. God bless the paper and its dear editor.

W. A. RAY, Secretary.

That dull listless feeling every morning indicates the need of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Dadeville District Conference.

The Dadeville District, Central Alabama Conference, convened at Blufton M. E. Church, West Point, Ga., August 1, with Rev. C. Rogers in the chair. W. H. Wright was elected secretary, with Rev. B. G. Smith as an assistant. The presiding elder gave an address upon the business of the conference. Committees were appointed, and the character of the local preachers and exhorters were looked after.

On Thursday night a large audience assembled to hear a lecture given by Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, on the general work of the M. E. Church and the need of it in the South.

On Friday morning each pastor reported the religious condition of his work.

Presiding Elder J. P. Wragg, of Griffin District, and Revs. S. C. Upshaw, J. C. Hunt, J. W. Queen, E. W. Moore, W. A. Hill and Wimbush were introduced.

Presiding Elder Wragg addressed the conference on the benevolent cause. Dr Bowen spoke in the interest of Gammon Theological Seminary and the F. A. and S. E. Society. The conference sermon was preached by Rev. B. G. Smith.

Two were converted and joined the Church.

Saturday at 11 a. m., Brother B. Jackson preached.

Sunday at 11 a. m., the presiding elder preached with power; at 3 p. m., Rev. E. B. McCauley preached; at 7 p. m., Brother J. T. Martin preached.

Mrs. Clara A. Smith, one of Clark University students, organist of Roanoke, Ala., was present with her most excellent choir.

The SOUTHWESTERN was strongly represented by Rev. E. B. McCauley, expresiding elder of the Dadeville District. Each pastor pledged himself to secure twenty subscribers for the paper.

W. H. WRIGHT, Sec'y.

Navasota District Conference.

The Navasota District Conference will convene at Hempstead, Texas, October 23.

Following is the program:

A Chance to Make Money.

I want to tell you of my wonderful success. Being a poor girl and needing money badly, I tried the Dish Washer business and have cleared over $200 every month. It is more money than I ever had before and I can't help telling you about it, for I believe any person can do as well as I have if they will only try. Dish Washers sell on sight; every lady wants one. The Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo., will give you all necessary instructions, so you can begin at once. The Dish Washer does splendid work, you can wash and dry the dishes in two or three minutes without putting your hands in the water at all. Try this business and let us hear how you succeed.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

FOR LIBERTY'S CAUSE.

Social and political circles have beeu nnsually active dnring the past few weeks.

Cuban independence and Irish Home Rule were the great topics which attracted more or less attention. The love of liberty is the common sentiment of hnmanity, and the people who are strnggling to throw off the yoke of the oppressor, win the sympathies of their fellow men more or less. Qnite a large number of people believe Ireland shonld have home rnle, and that Cnban independence shonld be recognized. It has occnrred to ns during these discussions, that many of the people who are clamoring the more loudly for the full and complete political and social freedom of their fellow men abroad, are totally indifferent, if not absolutely opposed, to the investiture of some of their neighbors with rights and privileges which they wonld confer npon others. We are for freedom, pnre and simple. We favor the canse of the oppressed, whether in Cuba, or in Ireland, or in Russia, and we believe the canse of each and all wonld be materially advanced if those who champion them would apply the principles which they advocate, to all men alike. But there is a condition in which the iudividnal can absolutely rest in secnrity nnder any flag, and in any clime. To stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and to be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage, is the highest privilege of those who are fellow citizens with the saints. Let ns aim for that freedom which bears npon its face the impress of the trnth.

THE NORTH CAROLINA AND EAST TENNESSEE DIVISIONS.

Both of these important conferences will meet on the 16th of October. The North Carolina at Greensboro, with Bishop W. F. Mallalieu, D. D., as its presiding officer, and the East Tennessee at Abingdon, Virginia, with Bishop D. A. Goodsell, D. D., as its presiding officer.

The brethren composing these conferences are among the SOUTHWESTERN'S most ardent supporters, and the Editor of this paper is looking forward to a joyful meeting with those who have contributed so largely toward making the work a success. Owing to the fact that the conferences meet on the same day, and taking also in consideration the distance necessary to be traversed in order to be at both places dnring the sessions, the visit of the Editor will be necessarily brief. He hopes, therefore, that the brethren will be prepared to renew their snbscriptions, pay their indebtedness in fnll or in part, and bring in good lists of cash snbscribers. We desire to impress the brethren that our fiscal year closes with the 31st day of this month, and as the reports for this year will determine to a large extent the question of the necessity of the SOUTHWESTERN as an official organ, its enlargement and continnance, or otherwise. The old North State and the loyal East Tennesseeans have stood nobly by us, and we most earnestly nrge these conferences to go beyond all previons records. It is not too mnch to say that the Chnrch, the agents, the manager, and the Editor, indnlge the hope that there may be such a response from these conferences as will give the command to all the other conferences to "go forward." Again we ask that presiding elders, pastors, and all other interested parties, give us their cheerful cooperation in this work.

THE REDEMPTION OF AFRICA.

Among the most conspicnons names connected with the redemption of Africa are those of Henry M. Stanley, M. P., the great African explorer, and Bishop William Taylor, the great missionary bishop of Africa. The news that these heroic men have joined their efforts in giving to the Christian world the benefit of their knowledge of this vast continent of Africa with the facilities which are being used in the redemption of its teeming millions, will be hailed with joy by all who wait for the coming of onr Lord. The following will be read with interest:

It is a token of the increasing interest of the great traveler, explorer, and state builder in the continent which has become an arena of the commercial and political enterprise of the civilized world largely throngh his penetration of its valnable secrets, that Henry M. Stanley, M. P., has more closely identified himself with the evangelization of Africa by becoming the associate editor of Bishop William Taylor's monthly pictorial publication, Illustrated Africa; which, by the way, is a New York enterprise, and has no contemporary. This is another refutation of the false impression that the man who fonnd Livingston, crossed and recrossed the Dark Continent, made possible commercial enterprises beyond compntation, bnilt the Congo State, and relieved Emin Pasha, had not snfficient regard for the highest welfare of the natives. It was he who converted the great King M'tesa "who cansed the ten commaudments of Moses to be written on a board for his daily pernsal, as well as the Lord's Prayer and the golden commandment of our Savior, 'Thon shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.'" It was during his recent brief visit to New York, en route to Canada West, that Mr. Stanley became so closely associated with the well-known Bishop Taylor in the present work of Christianizing Africa, and in a letter received from him he expresses his growing interest in the development of Africa and the Africans as follows:

"ILLUSTRATED AFRICA, New York:

"While I am not thinking of making another jonrney into Africa, my heart is enlisted in the development of that continent, a work which I can help along much better now than if I were on the gronnd. Africa is practically explored, and the intelligence of its inhabitants demonstrated. I think that Africa never will be another North American continent, but we must remember that it is only a short time since it has been penetrated by civilizing forces. Wheu I was at Lake Victoria, eighteen years ago, there was not a missionary there; uow there are forty thonsand native Christians and two hundred chnrches. The natives are enthusiastic converts and would spend their last penny to acqnire a Bible. What we want now is to develop the country, not so mnch for the white man, but for the natives themselves. Yours faithfully. (Signed.) HENRY M. STANLEY."

"THE COLOR LINE" CAUTIONARY WORD.

An esteemed brother writes: "Yonr editorial npon Dr. Berry's article on the colored assistant general secretary for Epworth Leagne was good—only this point: We mnst guard that, under the plea of 'No color line,' we do not let all opportunities pass to put in colored men that are worthy."

There is much force in this cautionary word, and we feel under very many obligations for the frank, manly and intelligent reminder. The color question is a most delicate and complicated one, and it is almost impossible to discuss it without furnishing an opportunity to those who are not so friendly to the colored man to nse their influence against any movement which proposes to advance his interests. We have found frequently that the "No color liue" sentiment was a mere subterfuge, and often used very effectively by those who were not only opposed to the color line, bnt to the colored man. In this case we can only appeal to the tribnnal of common sense. There is a "color line" and always will be while there are colored people, and the practice of discrimination against colored people for the simple and sole reason that they are tinged more or less with an ebony hne is as unchristian as it is unkind. We confess that in discnssing this question, so far as it relates to the Methodist Episcopal Church, that we have inclined to the opinion that here at least, compassed about with such a great cloud of witnesses with all the facts of its providential history, and with its brilliant record in favor of a common brotherhood, that all decisions touching the ecclesiastical and social rights of its members, should bear the stamp of consistency at least. We hope we are not deceived, and that apprehensions that designing and hypocritical people may take advantage of our plea for further recognition on the pretext that such recognition will establish the color line, are gronndless. But "Eternal vigilance is the price of our liberty." In the meantime, we nrge the advancement of worthy colored men, when in its judgmeut snch advaucements will help the general work of the Church. Bnt we hope that no appointments of colored men will be made as the reward of mere fealty to any man or men. Neither shonld such appointments be made as an emollient to the iudividual or his admirers. In snch a case the reaction would be disastrous to all interested. And it ought to be.

From our point of view the important positions in the Chnrch should be filled by men, not so much by the individuals who seek them, but by well qualified men; and in so doing the question of character, fitness, adaptability, and probable commanding nsefuluess and influence, should be considered; rather than questions of nationality or color. In this alignment of official responsibility "worthy" colored men in the very nature of things should be called upon to bear a proportionate part at least. It is useless to deny the fact that of all the nationalities composing our great and grand Methodist Episcopal Church, the colored brother comes into the great spiritnal aggregation we had almost written handicapped, but we will say with greater responsibilities, less opportunities and incentives than auy. Add to this inherited prejndices, with the spiritnal teachings which would everlastingly relegate him to the realm of natural inferiority, and to this social environment not always favoring his largest development, then look at the success achieved and we have a pictnre which is the marvel of this age of wonders. It is not nnreasonable that our colored brethren ask for official recognition in the Chnrch, whose interest and sympathy and love were the elementary lessons which have given inspiration to their hopes, direction to their energies, and enconragement to their aspirations and ambitions. They nnderstand thoronghly that in all such cases the determining factors are the influence and votes of onr white brethren.

While we would not caution them, yet we wonld most respectfully nrge them to do the honorable thing wherever and whenever they have an opportnnity. Such a line of action would be preferable to a lengthy and sometimes acrimonious debate on the color liue whenever some colored man is known to have aspirations to fill some office in the gift of the Church.

—The able article in a recent number of the SOUTHWESTERN from the pen of Dr. W. P. Thirkield, was copied from our esteemed contemporary, Zion's Herald.

TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

Canton, Miss.—P. H. Hill writes: My protracted meetings have closed with glorious results. Conversions, 78; reclaimed, 8; by letter, 1; making a total of 87 souls. Revs. B. S. Steward and C. Steward held the fort at Rick's Chapel, where they baptized 63 souls.

Newbagin, Miss.—N. D. Hopkins writes: We are doing very well at present. We had a grand revival, which resulted in 23 accessions, 10 reclaimed and 13 converted. Brother Fortin Wrathbie, one of the oldest members, died recently. Three of our brothers take the SOUTHWESTERN.

Winsted, La.—F. D. Bowers writes: We have been in the midst of a glorious revival for three weeks, which resulted in 5 conversions, 5 backsliders reclaimed and 8 accessions. Sunday, Sept. 1, we had a glorious time throughout the entire day. We baptized 3 in the old historic Bayon Teche and 3 in the new chapel. The scenes were very impressive. Among the candidates was a gentleman 75 years of age. We set apart Monday night as a prayer meeting for the restoration of Dr. Godman, a tried and true friend of the race.

Patterson, La.—F. McNealy writes: Rev. Pierre Landry visited us in the interest of the M. E. Church recently erected here, and helped us by his wise counsels. We think Hector's Chapel will be a star among her sister churches.

Fredonia, Ala.—O. W. Trammell writes: The third quarterly meeting convened at Mt. Zion, with C. Rogers, presiding elder, in the chair. Rev. F. L. Teague, pastor of the Fredonia Circuit, had just closed a series of meetings, which resulted in the conversion of 111 souls to Christ. There are many anxious mourners here seeking salvation. The Lord has wonderfully blessed us this year. This ends one of the best quarters that we have ever witnessed. The SOUTHWESTERN should be in every Methodist home in the South. Many who are not members of our Church would be greatly benefitted by reading it.

Crystal Springs, Miss.—I have just closed a revival with 25 additions to the church. The old church is alive So writes A. Davis.

Vicksburg District Conference.

This session of the conference was held at Edwards, Miss., as per appointment; Rev. S. A. Cowan, P. E., chairman. S. Jossell, R. T. Thomas, Wm. McMorris and R. McAlpin were elected secretaries. Attendance good. The presiding elder's report spoke favorably of the work generally.

The following distinguished visitors were present: Presiding Elders J. M. Shumpert and J. C. Houston of the Shubuta and Jackson Districts, Mississippi Conference; Revs. A. D. Payne, J. Sharp, J. C. Hibbler, pastors of Yazoo City, Madison Circuit, and Jackson; Rev. J. W. Parks of Upper Mississippi Conference, and Prof. Logan of Rust University.

Prof. Logan, in a very eloquent and masterly address, presented the cause of the F. A. and S. E. Society. The SOUTHWESTERN, in the absence of its worthy Editor, was not forgotten through a committee composed of Revs. Erby, Knox and McMorris. Four subscribers were secured. A general discussion followed, in which the visiting brethren took quite a part, resulting in a determination by each brother to do all in his power for the paper. By resolution each local preacher and exhorter is required to take the paper. Two were granted license to preach. One recommended for traveling connection.

Memorial services were held in memory of Brothers Peter Hirth and Monroe Johnson.

A resolution endorsing and recommending the book, "Sprinkling Christian Baptism," by Rev. J. C. Houston, as being the clearest, plainest, strongest and best suited to the laity and ministry known, was unanimously adopted.

The Sabbath was a day of special blessing. There were sermons by Revs. J. I. Garrett, R. T. Thomas and J. T. Knox, after which the conference closed a pleasant session.

An Auspicious Opening.

George R. Smith College, Sedalia, Mo.

The George R. Smith College at Sedalia, Mo., opened its doors for the admission of students, Thursday, Sept. 18. This is its third opening, and the prospects for a large attendance are very encouraging. Prof. E. A. Robertson, A. M., of Indiana, seems to measure up to the full requirements of the responsible position which he holds. He is comparatively a young man, born in Switzerland County, Indiana, in the year 1863. After graduating in the high school, he entered Moore's Hill College, at Moore's Hill, Indiana, and finished his collegiate course in that institution in the year 1886. During his senior year he filled the position of tutor in Latin and Greek. Shortly after his graduation he was elected to the chair of mathematics in Chattanooga (now U. S. Grant) University, Chattanooga, Tenn., in which capacity he remained three years. On the consolidation of the Chattanooga and Athens schools he was elected to the chair of Latin and Literature in the newly formed institution, which position he held for four years. He was then called to take charge of the department of Latin and Greek in his alma mater, where he taught in 1893-94. He resigned this position to take a post graduate course in the University of Chicago. Besides his intellectual efficiency for the work before him, he seems to possess those business qualities which go to make up the good college president.

Promptly at 9 a. m., the big college bell rang out the announcement that the hour for the opening exercises to commence had arrived. A large and appreciative audience had gathered to witness the interesting proceedings, despite the extremely warm weather and the presence of brass bands and a big show parade in the city. On the platform were to be seen, as visitors on the occasion, the Mesdames Colton and Smith, donors of the ground—twenty-five acres—upon which the building is erected; Presiding Elders J. J. Clark, R. E. Gillum and J. Will Jackson; Revs. H. South, G. Gibson, A. H. Higgs, R. H. Young, R. Davis, D. Bruce, C. W. Holmes, B. F. Abbott and J. H. McAllister.

After a devotional service of Scripture reading, prayer and song, addresses were delivered by the president, R. E. Gillum, J. J. Clark, Miss Smith, and the writer.

Miss Smith is the younger of the two sisters whose munificent benefaction made the George R. Smith College a possibility. She touched the hearts of all present as she tenderly referred to their home of other days when the colored people, slaves of her dead father, protected that home and were faithful to every trust; and how thankful they were to God that he had so smiled upon them as to enable them to do something for the elevation of that race that had done so much for them. Prof. Robertson's address was a straightforward, college president's talk, full of good advice to the students and patrons of the school. The occasion throughout was one of inspiration and enthusiasm.

At night a well prepared musical and literary program was carried out in the presence of a large audience. Addresses were made by Revs. B. F. Abbett, A. H. Higgs, R. Davis and C. N. Keeton. On dispersing from the college campus we all felt that George R. Smith College has a long life of great usefulness before it, and that it is already on solid grounds of success. We left the faculty cheerful and hopeful, the students eager and elated, and the preachers determined to put forth every effort to fill the halls of that promising institution with students, and to raise every dollar of their apportionment of Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education money, since every dollar of it will go to this school.

The college building is a magnificent edifice, accoutered with the latest modern appointments to be found in structures of its character. In this respect it is the most complete building of the kind among the Freedmen's Aid schools. It is beautifully situated within the corporate limits of the "Prairie City," and stands upon an elevation which commands an expansive view of the surrounding country. Students have every encouragement needed from the entire community, and white teachers are not ostracised and relegated to the shades of colorfobia because they happen to be identified with the institution.

The faculty, as at present constituted, consists of the following named Instructors: Prof. E. A. Robertson, A. M., president; Prof. H. L. Billups, B. S., B. P., and Prof. Anna J. Parker, A. B., A. M. The department of music will open in a few days, under the direction of a competent instructor, who is not yet on the grounds.

The enrollment is the largest in the history of the school at its opening, and students are still coming in. Here are found superior advantages for a Christian education. Do not miss them. For any information concerning the school, address the President George R. Smith College, Sedalia, Mo.

J. WILL JACKSON, D. D.

Day of Fasting and Prayer—Indiana District, Lexington Conference.

Dear Brethren—The Indiana Conference, at its session held in Indianapolis, decided to observe Friday, Oct. 18, as a day of fasting and prayer, that the Lord might bless Southern and Central Indiana with a gracious revival of religion and give to them many conversions. As this part of Indiana (Central and Southern) about includes all of our district in Indiana, I must respectfully ask that each pastor observe Friday, Oct. 18, as a day of fasting and prayer, and that the members of our churches be requested to do likewise. Let us have prayer services and praise meetings and preaching that day, asking God to bless us with a mighty downpouring of His spirit, that the Church may be revived and a thousand converts added to the Church during the coming fall. I shall be pleased to hear by postal cards the nature of the services that may be held that day. What a mighty force! The entire membership of the M. E. Church in Central and Southern Indiana praying earnestly for a revival! And we shall have it, brethren, if we trust God.

Fraternally yours,
EDWARD L. GILLIAM.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 27, 1895.

The Sunday School and Epworth League Convention.

The Sunday School and Epworth League convention of the Hot Springs District, Little Rock Annual Conference, convened at Center Point, Ark., with Rev. A. J. Phillips, P. E., in the chair. J. E. Toombs was elected secretary and C. W. Whitehead assistant. Reports from the different schools and leagues were given by the delegates and showed that much has been done by the schools and leagues of the district to help the pastors in the work of raising benevolence and sowing the seed of God's truth.

The literary program would have done credit to any of our city charges. Rev. A. J. Phillips took for his subject on the program, "The Southwestern Christian Advocate," and presented its cause at every session, obtaining 27 subscribers.

The people of Center Point did their part well. The people forty miles around attended in throngs during the entire session. Rev. H. M. Renfro, the much beloved pastor, made for himself many warm friends by the manner in which he, assisted by his amiable wife, looked after our comfort.

A glorious revival was enjoyed during the convention, and a score of young men and women embrace hope in Christ, and joined the Church.

We found, as teachers in almost every district, the students of Philander Smith College, who are making for themselves and the college a good reputation.

J. E. TOOMBS, Sec'y.

Complete Recovery by the Use of
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Shreveport District Conference.

The Shreveport District Conference convened in Wesley Chapel M. E. Church, Mansfield, La., at the time appointed, with Rev. Stephen Duncan in the chair. Fifty-five members were present. J. W. Hudson was elected secretary, and Rev. Hampton James statistical secretary. The presiding elder reported the work of the district, which was very encouraging. The pastors' reports show marked improvement along all lines. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, assistant secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society, was present, and addressed the conference. Our Epworth League work was represented by Miss Susie Legardy.

Brother W. F. Walker was elected district manager of the Epworth Leagues. Brother T. H. Monson was elected district secretary. Rev. H. J. Wright, presiding elder of Natchitoches District, and Rev. B. F. Crews, of the M. E. Church South in Mansfield, addressed the conference on the subject of Prohibition.

Division of the Louisiana Conference was introduced by Rev. J. W. Hudson after the reading of the paper. The conference voted unanimously in favor of the division.

The SOUTHWESTERN was made the order of the day, and an interesting discussion was had. All local preachers were required to subscribe for it. Many subscribed at once.

Savannah District Conference.

The nineteenth session of the Savannah District Conference convened at Trinity M. E. Church, Valdosta, Ga., at the appointed time.

Presiding Elder John Watts was in the chair.

Rev. Wm. Daniels and Prof. S. A. Stripling were chosen secretaries.

The reports of the presiding elder, pastors, stewards, leaders, superintendents and Epworth League presidents showed the work of the district to be moving onward.

Prof. L. J. Price and Dr. M. C. B. Mason were with us. Dr. Mason represented the work of the Freedmen's Aid Society with ability.

This session was a glorious one. God was with us. Good preaching, fine lectures, music and spiritual songs permeated the whole session, making it one long to be remembered.

The SOUTHWESTERN was not forgotten, as each pastor pledged himself to try in the future to place her columns in every home; and may God help us to do so.

"Nothing Venture, Nothing Have."

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mon., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement. "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, pastor Central Pres Church, Helena, Mon.

It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and is worth its weight in gold. I can use Ely's Cream Balm with safety and it does all that is claimed for it.—B. W. Sperry, Hartford, Conn.

Hannibal District Conference.

The second session of the Hannibal District, Central Missouri Conference, convened at Montgomery City, with Presiding Elder Reeves in the chair. J. S. Cravans and G. A. Maston were elected secretaries. The reports were generally encouraging. Mrs. Sullivan, district secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, held two meetings in the interest of the society and reported four "live" auxiliary societies in the district. Mrs. Sullivan is ably assisted by her son, Arthur. At the missionary meeting held Saturday afternoon, a resolution was offered by W. J. Sebal and passed, condemning and denouncing as false a letter written to England to the "Anti-Lynching Society" by J. W. Jacks, of the Montgomery City Standard. Chief among the visitors were: Presiding Elder Clark, of the St. Joseph District; Henry Santhe, of Fayette; R. Davis, of the Sadalia Circuit; Rev. Love, of the Baptist Church, and Rev. G. M. Noble, of the Holiness Church. Eight local preachers and three exhorters were present during the session. There were two or three recommendations to the annual conference for admission. At 9.30 a. m. love feast was conducted. At 11 a. m. Sunday, R. Davis preached; at 3 p. m. Elder Reeves preached and administered the sacrament to 205. At night J. S. Cravans preached. The collections during the week amounted to $70.

Columbus District Conference.

The fourteenth session of the Columbus District Conference convened at Luling, Texas, as per announcement. Presiding Elder B. F. Smith in the chair.

The reports of the various pastors show that some degree of success has attended their labors.

The visit of Rev. O. I. Jones, State Sunday school agent, was a great inspiration. Dr. G. R. Townsend was also present in the interest of the Epworth League work. Sister E. S. Spriggs represented the W. H. M. work.

Brother G. R. Bryant, the pastor, and his faithful members made splendid preparations for the entertainment of the conference.

Sunday services were attended with much enthusiasm. The presiding elder preached with great acceptability at 11 a. m.: after which the sacrament was administered. At 3 p. m. the baptismal sermon was preached by the writer, which was listened to with attention by the vast congregation. A. Jackson filled the pulpit at 8 p. m., preaching to a large number of colored and white.

The SOUTHWESTERN was not forgotten, for the writer drew up a strong resolution which was adopted and you may expect to see the prints of that resolution in the near future, by every local preacher and exhorter subscribing for the paper before their licenses are renewed.

The Sunday School and Epworth League Convention.

The second annual session of the Greenwood District Epworth League and Sunday School convention was held at Pickens, Miss. Nine charges were represented, with 14 chapters and a total membership of 857. The district enrollment is not less than 1,200. The convention voted in favor of building an Epworth church at Lexington. Strong appeals were made in support of the SOUTHWESTERN and Epworth Herald, and a resolution was adopted pledging that every chapter in the district shall subscribe for these two papers.

Impure Blood

Was the cause of my not feeling very well during the spring for several years past.

I had that tired feeling, was weak and so tired that I could not do much work. For several years I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla regularly and it has cleansed my blood, driven off that tired feeling and built up my whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla has also benefited other members of my family, so that we would not be without a supply." STEPHEN MCCLARE, Greenwood, Arkansas.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

It is the general verdict that the session just closed at Nashville, Tenn., was in all respects the most important of its history. The brethren had been looking forward for months, to the time when they would meet their tried and true friend, Bishop Mallalieu; and when the conference opened on Wednesday, Sept. 25, there was an unusually large attendance for the first session. Rev. L. M. Moores, one of the leading young men of the conference, was elected secretary.

From the very beginning the conference was characterized by a deep and fervent spiritual tone, the bishop taking an active part in all the services was one of the most helpful features of the meeting. The pastors of several of the city churches honored the conference with their presence, and there were abundant evidences of a true fraternal spirit manifested. The balloting for delegates to the General Conference resulted in the election of Rev. H. W. Key, one of the most popular and efficient presiding elders of the conference, and Professor D. W. Byrd, a prominent layman and professor in Central Tennessee College. These distingnished brethren have the honor of being the first colored delegates elected to the General Conference. The votes on the "Hamilton Amendment" and the Baltimore Colorado plan showed an almost unanimous vote in favor of the admission of women. On the proposition to change the ratio of representation the conference voted no. Dr. James N. Freeman, representing the Sunday School Union and Tract Society, was a welcome visitor, as was Dr. J. W. Hamilton, secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, who came in just before the conference closed on Monday. He rendered excellent service nevertheless. The Editor of this paper arrived on Saturday, and was given a royal welcome. A conference address on Saturday morning, address at the conference education and Freedmen's Aid anniversaries on Saturday night, with an exhortation on the American University, a sermon on Sunday afternoon, an address at the opening of Central Tennessee College on Monday morning, with numerous short talks at the conference room, will indicate our work among these hospitable Tennesseeans.

Dear President Braden, of Central Tennessee College, belongs to the race. He is a veteran educator, having been in the field more than a quarter of a century, and rendering the Church most acceptable service. The brethren of the conference love him as a father, and gladly accept him as a wise and loving counsel or while they pay tribute to the moral worth of the man who, without partiality and without hypocrisy, has won his way to the hearts of hundreds and thousands of our teachers and preachers. It is almost impossible to give an adequate description of Bishop Willard F. Mallalieu, D. D. He understands men; knows how to handle them. Perhaps the secret of his great strength is his simple, childlike faith in Christ, whose servant he is and whose Gospel he preaches with power, and with an unction that melts the most stubborn heart. His matchless sermon on Sunday was wonderful in its simplicity, and in the vigorous and earnest putting of the truth. At the close of his remarkable sermon, quite a number of penitents arose for prayers.

We greatly enjoyed the extraordinary privilege of attending the opening exercises of the several departments of Central Tennessee College. It was a remarkable gathering. The conference attended in a body, and there were addresses by Drs. J. W. Hamilton, J. N. Freeman, Bishop Mallalieu, Revs. H. W. Key and C. B. Wilson of the conference, and the writer of those notes. It was an impressive occasion, and will never be forgotten. We felt as we looked out upon the sea of faces which greeted us—among whom were full two score of those who will go forth to arrest the progress of disease and alleviate the sufferings of their fellowmen, with others who shall represent the race in the various professions surrounded by these faithful ministers of the Gospel—it was a most inspiring scene. It was the prophecy of a mighty, upward movement which will shake the world. Through these royal sons and daughters of a despised race, "Princes shall come out of Egypt, and Ethiopia shall soon stretch out her hands unto God."

Glorious Meharry! No king upon his throne is happier than Dr. Hubbard, the dean, assisted by Dr. Boyd, one of the most brilliant stars of the medical profession, with others of pre-eminent qualifications, who are putting the great medical college in touch with suffering humanity everywhere, regardless of section or color. Already Africa answers to its thrilling impulses in the recent visit of Miss Georgia Patton, M. D., its first female graduate, and the first female doctor to visit the land of our ancestry. Of course we visited historic old Clark Chapel, where the cultured and popular young pastor, Rev. C. B. Wilson, A. M., holds forth to the delight of increasing congregations. The service was helpful to the speaker in more ways than one. The music, furnished by two well trained choirs, was a special feature. The people are progressive and intelligent, and we shall hope and pray that they will soon see the way clear to get into a better location and into a more modern and commodious house of worship. We were pleased with everything—with the generous hospitality of the pastor and people of Braden Chapel, with the strong and sincere endorsement of the conference, and, in fact, with everything pertaining to our brief yet profitable visit. Presiding Elder H. W. White entertained us, and we found congenial companionship among a number of splendid young men who are pursuing a course of study in Meharry Medical College. These young men are a credit to the race, and will, in the near future, be found among its great leaders. Lawyer Young, one of the most brilliant attorneys of the race, placed the SOUTHWESTERN under many obligations by kindnesses bestowed. Sister White has not forgotten her old time hospitality and ability to make folks feel perfectly at home.

Conference adjourned Monday afternoon, Sept. 30, after a most delightful session. Thus began the march for another year's labor. The writer joined in the procession toward the sunny South.

BALANCE OF THIS YEAR FREE TO SUBSCRIBERS FOR 1896.

All who subscribe for the year 1896 before January 1st, will get the remainder of this year free. Just think of it, fifteen months for only $1.25. Pastors, tell it to your people, and let the people go at once to their pastors and get the most on this offer. Cotton is high and rising; times are going to be better in the South than ever, and the SOUTHWESTERN will help make them so. Yearly subscribers are what we need, for one such is better than four for three months, and costs you less.

—Rev. Homer Eaton, D. D., one of the agents of the Eastern Book Concern, returning from an extended tour of the Western conferences, favored our city with a visit on Thursday and Friday of last week, making the office of the SOUTHWESTERN his temporary headquarters; a most excellent place by the way of studying our Southern work. The doctor was looking hale and hearty, and was hopeful of the work of our Methodism in the conferences visited. His presence was an inspiration to us, and his helpful, sympathetic and brotherly counsels have given us renewed encouragement.

—The California Conference was held at Pacific Grove. It has been held there annually for many years. It is on the ocean and a most delightful place. Only the New York Book Concern and the Board of Church Extension were represented by official visitors. The California Advocate says: "Drs. Hard and Eaton did their work well and added to the interest of the conference."

A CREDITABLE APPOINTMENT.

Governor Foster did an excellent thing when he appointed Isaiah Eugene Mullon, A. M., M. D., a member of the Board of Administrators of the Southern University of this city. Dr. Mullon is an all around representative of his race; cultured, genial, and in every way a credit to his people. His appointment gives general satisfaction. The New Orleans daily Picayune of last week had an excellent portrait of the doctor with the following sketch of his life:

"Isaiah Eugene Mullon, A. M., M. D., who was yesterday appointed by Governor Foster as a member of the Board of Administrators of the Southern University, was born thirty-nine years ago at Vicksburg, Miss. His father, a Baptist minister, died when Dr. Mullon was a mere child. His mother moved to New Orleans, and the boy attended the public schools of this city and subsequently completed his education at the New Orleans University. He taught school for a number of years at Summit, Miss. He was then elected to fill the chair of ancient languages at the New Orleans University, and in 1881 entered the Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn. Completing his studies there, he returned to Pike county, Miss., and passing a very creditable examination before the medical examiners, began practice. In 1889 he removed to New Orleans and took a leading part in the examination of the medical department of the New Orleans University, in which institution he now holds the professorship of the principles and practice of medicine. In 1891 he was appointed by President Harrison a member of the United States Board of Examining Surgeons, and served three years, filling also the position of secretary. Dr. Mullon resides in the sixth district and enjoys a lucrative and rapidly increasing practice. He is well thought of, and his appointment was recommended by many of the most prominent citizens of the district."

We believe that positions of trust and responsibility should be given to those who merit them by their high moral character, ability and integrity. Such we believe are the strong points in the character of Dr. Mullon. We congratulate him.

—We think that if all the names sent in for the last two years had been yearly subscribers, our list would now be 10,000 and yielding a profit for the Book Concern. Make a strong pull for the yearly kind; $1.25 pays to January, '97, with usual commission to pastors.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Mr. Y. T. Morris of Fort Worth, Texas, general colporteur for Texas, M. E. Church, South, called last week.

—Rev. F. D. Bowers, pastor at Winsted, La., is working and lecturing in the interest of Gilbert Academy, in the parishes of La Fourche, Ascension and Assumption.

—The editor of this paper will attend the sessions of the North Carolina and East Tennessee Conferences, at Greensboro, N. C., and Abingdon, Va, respectively. He hopes the brethren will be prepared to subscribe liberally.

—Rev. Dr. Manley S. Hard will represent the Board of Church Extension at the following conferences: Blue Ridge, Clyde, N. C., Oct. 10; Holston, Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 12; East Tennessee, Abingdon, Va., Oct. 17; and North Carolina, Oct. 19.

—The many friends of Prof. A. P. Camphor will be glad to known that he is pleasantly appointed in one of the best appointments of the Delaware Conference, with every prospect of wielding an influence for untold good. In this appointment the SOUTHWESTERN will have another strong friend in the East.

—Do good, and leave behind you a monument of virtue which the storms of time can never destroy. Write your name in kindness, love and mercy on the hearts of thousands you come in contact with year by year; you will never be forgotten. Your name, your deeds, will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind as the stars on the brow of the evening. Good deeds will shine as the stars of heaven.—Dr. Chalmers.

In response to a large demand, Rev. Sylvanus Stall, D. D., associate editor of the Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia, Pa., has in preparation a second volume of Five Minute Object Sermons to Children. The first volume, published by the Funk and Wagnalls Co., New York, has run rapidly through several large editions.

Hotel Howell.

Realizing that large numbers of colored people would be attracted to Atlanta during the exposition, and that accommodations for them were very limited, Mr. G. M. Howell, one of our progressive and public spirited colored citizens, has made arrangements to take care of all who lack the proper hotel accommodations. He has a handsome furnished hotel on Mitchell street, near Whitehall, with handsome residence hotel on Fort street, at No. 235, as a suburban annex. He is prepared to take care of 600 guests, and will be untiring in his efforts to make them comfortable and their stay pleasant. Both hotels are well and conveniently located to places of amusement and convenient by electric cars to the exposition. His rates will be from $1 per day up. Lodging, 50 cents per night, according to location of room.—Atlanta Constitution, Sept. 15.

The Treasury of Religious Thought for October appears with strength. Annual subscription, $2.50; clergymen, $2; single copies, 25 cents. E. B. Treat, publisher, 5 Cooper Union, New York.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

Rev. T. G. Montgomory, of Mt. Zion, is about again after quite a severe spell of sickness. His members called at the parsonage a few days ago with a most liberal supply of groceries, etc., to which was added a snug sum of money by the King's Daughters.

Brother Ford, of Union Chapel, improves quite slowly, but his great vitality and characteristic cheerfulness and patience, added to the skill of an eminent physician, may yet pull him through. His faith is strong, and he is ready for any change the Master may will. Let prayers ascend in his behalf. Surely, Sister Ford and family need the sympathy and prayers of all good people now in the midst of this their greatest trial.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

Just before the devoted young African explorer, E. J. Glave, died at Matadi, on the Congo river, he requested the missionaries who attended him to send his papers to The Century Magazine. These have recently arrived in this country in safety, and are found to consist of copious notes and journals and abundant photographic material. Mr. Glave crossed Africa in the interest of this magazine to study the slave-trade, and was about to embark for home in order to put his conclusions into shape when he was stricken down by the deadly African fever. It is believed, however, that The Century can obtain two or three striking articles from the material that cost Glave his life to gather. There will appear during the coming year, and a paper on Africa has also been promised by Henry M. Stanley, M. P.

The brilliant, logical and incisive writer, Helen H. Gardener, contributes her third paper on the history of the recent legislative Battle for Sound Morality in the October Arena. These contributions are of special value to all persons interested in protecting girlhood, and raising the standard of morality. The unique symposium by representative women on life's social problem now appearing is attracting well-deserved attention. Manual Training for Women and the Problem of Domestic Service is discussed in a very thoughtful manner by G. Vrooman. Arena Publishing Co., Boston, Mass.

The four weekly issues of Littell's Living Age for September are replete with the choicest gleanings of the British reviews and magazines. These issues contain twenty-seven complete papers, many of them of great value and intense present interest. In fiction each number contains a complete story, and of poetry a full page. Littell & Co., Boston.

The movement of New England into the West began very early, and it has gone on with such energy that it is quite right to say that New England is more in the West to-day than she is at home. One of the earliest of these movements was that into the Western Reserve in Ohio, the centennial of which is to be observed next year. This forms the theme of the editor's table in the October New England Magazine. The same number contains a valuable article on New England in New York, which traces the early advances of the men of Massachusetts and Connecticut into central New York. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

It will be fully illustrated and sold only by subscription.

Dr. Jerome R. Riley's new book—The Philosophy of Negro Suffrage—will soon be issued by the American Publishing Co., of Hartford, Conn., and will make a most attractive and readable volume. Vital questions of the day directly concerning every sincere colored thinker are handled by the author in a masterful and scholarly style. The book is to be sold at a popular price—$1—bringing it within the reach of all.

The Lothrop Publishing Co., Boston, Mass., have displayed great energy this season in presenting a varied and attractive line of neat publications. Indeed, it is questionable whether, in the history of this popular house, so strong and unique a list has been offered to the public. In accordance with the traditions of the house, special prominence has been given American authors, and the fall announcements of the Lothrop Publishing Co. include many well-known and favorite names.

Napoleon's Value of Victory—It Finds a Striking Counterpart in Recent World Triumphs.

Napoleon knew well the value of a victory. After Austerlitz the world seemed his. Fame invited, fortune favored, everything stimulated his aspiring ambition. With growing power he gathered the fruits of victory. And so has it ever been. Success succeeds. A notable illustration of this truth is furnished by the great victories won at the World's Fair in '93 and the California Midwinter Fair in '94 by Dr Price's Cream Baking Powder. Ever increasing sales and popularity have been the result. The people have promptly ratified the official verdicts that declared Dr. Price's, for leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence the "foremost baking powder in all the world." Quite as quickly as the great Emperor do they know the value of a victory that means world-wide supremacy.

During the coming year St. Nicholas will print a series of characteristic letters written by Robert Louis Stevenson to a boy-relative, describing the romantic incidents of his life in Samoa. Mr. Lloyd Osbourne will contribute a paper filling out the episodes touched upon by Mr. Stevenson. The letters will be enriched by a series of pictures from photographs, most of them never before published. Critics have dwelt upon the "perennial boyishness" of Mr. Stevenson's nature, and this quality will be strikingly illustrated in those letters.

A Chance to Make Money!

In the past three months we have cleared $660 75 selling Dish Washers. I did most of the work; my brother helped some. I expect to do better next month, as every Dish Washer sold, advertises itself, and sells several more: I don't have to leave the house. People hear about the Dish Washers and send for them, they are so cheap. Any lady or gentleman can make money in this business, as every family wants a Dish Washer. Any of your readers who have energy enough to apply for an agency can easily make from $8 to $12 per day. You can get full particulars by addressing Mound City Dish Washer Co., St. Louis, Mo. They help you to get started, and then you can make money awful fast. A. L. C.

Appropriate to the election season is an article written by Mr. Edward J. McDermott, of Louisville, for the October number of The Century, entitled, Fun on the Stump: Humors of Political Campaigning in Kentucky. Mr. McDermott has gathered many anecdotes of amusing experiences at the polls, but he laments the decline of public speaking, which he declares is by no means up to the old-time standard in Kentucky.

Texas Epworthians.

Let the presidents and officers of the Epworth League Chapters see to it that full reports of their chapters are made at the fourth quarterly conference, and a duplicate given to the presiding elder to be reported at the annual conference. Presiding elders and district presidents are urged to make full reports of the chapters on their districts to conference president.

It was recommended by the conference League at Palestine, Tex., that on November 28, Thanksgiving Day, each chapter be requested to take a collection for the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. Provide a regular educational program. Secure the very best talent, both literary and musical. This is only a request.

Take Notice—It was voted at the conference convention that each and every Epworth League officer should take the SOUTHWESTERN. Yours for "Looking up and lifting up," H. B. PEMBERTON.

A good appetite and refreshing sleep are essential to health of mind and body, and these are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Charleston District Conference.

Charleston District meeting convened as per appointment, at Wesley M. E. Church, Lake City, S. C., with Rev. F. E. McDonald, P. E., in the chair. Rev. T. J. Clark was elected secretary, with Revs. I. H. Fulton and J. F. Page assistants. Rev. B. Brown preached the introductory sermon. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. T. J. Clark. Sinners were convicted and believers edified. Dr. J. E. Wilson, presiding elder of the Orangeburg District, was introdneed. The address of welcome was delivered by the pastor, Rev. S. Stmmons, and Rev. J. F. Page responded. The presiding elder read an excellent report. The pastors' reports showed progress. Benevolences reported, $272. Dr. Wilson, in a few timely remarks, expressed himself as being pleased with the work of the district. Rev. E. C. Brown also preached.

The sketches and essays were read and criticised. Revs. J. E. A. Keeler and J. F. Page were requested by the conference to send the papers read by them to the SOUTHWESTERN for publication.

Resolutions of thanks to the presiding elder, the secretaries, the good people of Lake City and surrounding charges, were unanimously passed.

Revs. J. E. A. Keeler, A. B. Franklin, I. H. Fulton, C. C. Jacobs, our Sunday school agent, and F. E. McDonald, P. E., preached excellent sermons.

The conference adjourned to meet next year at St. Stephen's.

Tupelo District Conference.

The Tupelo District, Upper Mississippi Conference, met in Ripley, Miss., per appointment, with Presiding Elder Nevils presiding.

The pastor, Rev. J. D. Gipson, made liberal preparations for the conference.

J. M. Walton was elected secretary, with H. N. York and B. F. Scarborough assistants.

All the pastors and quite a number of local preachers, exhorters, class leaders, Sunday school superintendents and district stewards were present with excellent reports.

W. C. Clay was elected statistical secretary.

Miss Florida F. Grant delivered the welcome address, and Prof. J. B. Combs responded.

The presiding elder's report showed the district to be in a good condition.

There were a goodly number of conversions and accessions.

The statistical report showed 43 churches, 2,541 full members, 33 local preachers, 41 exhorters and 21 deaths.

Total benevolent collections Freedmen's Aid, Church Extension and missions, $95.50.

Quite a number of brethren pledged to raise subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN.

The conference enjoyed the presence of Rev. A. J. McAlister, of the Greenville District, and Mrs. J. M. Walton, of Pontotoc.

The following brethren preached during the conference: Revs. J. Burton, A. W. Wright, B. F. Scarborough, S. R. Gipson, C. L. Walls, W. H. McCarty, W. E. Logan, W. C. Clay and W. H. Whitlock.

Conference adjourned to meet in Amory, Miss. J. M. WALTON, Sec'y.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, OCT. 27, 1895.

The Child Samuel.

(1. Sam. 3. 1-13)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Speak, Lord: for thy servant heareth." (1. Sam. 3. 9.)

It is not certainly known who wrote the books of Samuel. They were formerly considered as one volume. It is not now necessary to divide them. They cover a period of about 150 years. They were likely called Samuel because the first part of the book is devoted to his life. In the chapters preceding this lesson we have an account of the birth of Samuel, his dedication to the Lord, Hannah's thanksgiving song, the sad story of Eli's wicked sons, and the rejection of his house. Samuel was given in answer to prayer. Almost all we have we receive from our mother.

I. Before the call (1-3). 1. The work of Samuel—"He ministered unto the Lord before Eli." He served Jehovah by helping the aged priest. His chief work was probably lighting the lamps and opening the doors, that is, arranging the curtains of the tabernacle. We serve God by helping humanity, and we offend Him by injuring His children. "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me." The calls of God are always upward. They are from a lower to a higher place.

2. The state of religion—"The word of God was precious in those days." The word precious in this place likely means rare, or scarce. The priesthood was sensual. There were none who were filled with God's Spirit to reveal His will. The people were no doubt worldly and wicked. The had no desire to love and serve the Lord. His sacrifices were given up and his house neglected. There was a state of religious dearth. At this time Samuel was born. God sent him. He came in on time. He was as a lamp shining in a dark place.

3. The reason of this religious dearth—"There was no open vision." There was no vision spread abroad. There were but few revelations from God published to the people. There may have been here and there persons who received Divine impressions, but they were not published to the world. Sad indeed is that land where its ministry becomes so corrupt that God ceases to speak through it to the people. Awful will be the destiny of that nation who makes this world its God.

4. The evening before the call. The darkness of night had stolen over them. Drowsiness had taken possession of them. Eli and Samuel had both laid down to sleep. The lamp of God dimly burned in the temple. The sly goddess sleep began to take possession of them. She gently closed their eyes, locked their ears, and deadened their feelings. Soon every sense was under her control. How long they slept we know not. The calls of God were likely in the early morning. Sleep is one of the Lord's greatest blessings. Without it we would soon die.

II. 1. The call (4-10)—"And the Lord called Samuel." This was likely a distinct voice that clearly pronounced his name. It probably proceeded from the mercy seat, in the holy of holies near where they were sleeping. God called Abraham, Moses and others in a similar way. The prophets and apostle were called of God to their divine mission. The ministry is a calling and not a profession. Faith, repentance, prayer, pardon and cleansing precede a call to the ministry. Love, joy, peace, gentleness, truth, temperance and faith accompany it. And the blessings of God—winning souls to Christ, and building up the Church on its most holy faith—follow it.

2. The call was misunderstood. Samuel supposed it was Eli who had spoken to him. He arose and ran to the aged priest. He was quick and obedient, and had great respect for age. He was told that he had not been called, and sent back to his bed. Thrice was this call repeated, each time he went to Eli and was by him sent back to his sleeping place. This voice was misunderstood because "Samuel did not yet know the Lord." He no doubt had true ideas of God, for he worshiped and served Him. But he had no experimental knowledge of Jehovah, and understood not the work of a prophet. God's call are by some misunderstood—they may run into the ministry when not called, or seek His favor along lines He will not own. By others they are neglected—they do not heed them. Other matters take up their entire time. "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?" But a third class, like Samuel, mind the voice of God. They hear it with joy, and obey it with gladness. God is ever calling out of darkness into light, out of death into life, and out of sin into holiness.

3. The call explained. Eli was at this time old, sensual, and rejected of the Lord. Yet he knew God's will, and could teach the same. Those who are not pure in heart may explain to others the way of life. There was no doubt goodness in the soul of Eli at this time. He surely saw that God, in calling Samuel, was passing him by—rejecting him and accepting another. He was not jealous, but told Samuel how to act if the Lord should again call. There is a disposition on the part of some aged ministers to hold back young men whom God is disposed to elevate above them. This spirit was not in the heart of Eli. The young should be taught how to address the Lord.

4. The call accepted. After Samuel had been instructed by Eli he returned as before to his bed. Soon "the Lord came and called as at other times." The lad said—"Speak: for thy servant heareth." From verse fifteen we learn that Samuel saw a vision. Before this he had only heard a voice, but now he also saw the speaker. It is not too much to suppose the Angel of the Covenant came forth from beneath the wings of the cherubs, and stood before Samuel and delivered His message. The reply of the young prophet teaches—Humble subjection, steadfast dependence in God's free love, and joyful obedience to His will (Lange).

III. The Message (11-13). 1. A certain work will be done—"I will do a thing in Israel." This shows that God has decided to carry out a strange plan. Usually when the Lord decides to do a certain work, that is enough: come away. But "the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man" may cause Deity to change His purpose. When Israel made and worshipped the calf of gold, God was angry and said to Moses—"Let me alone that I may consume them." But Moses prayed earnestly for them, and "the Lord repented of the evil which He thought to do unto them" (Exod. 32). The same may be said of Jonah and the Ninevites. If Eli and his sons had repented and reformed, it is likely his neck would have not been broken, nor his sons slain.

2. This strange work will be done in a certain family. God will make an example of the house of Eli. Although he is the high priest, and his sons are the officiating priests, yet this judgment will come upon them. When Jehovah punishes sin He knows no rank, honor or office. He who fears God and works righteousness will be accepted of Him, but he who fears Him not and works wickedness will be destroyed.

3. God's reason for doing this certain work—"His sons made themselves vile, and He restrained them not." The sons of Eli were "sons of Belial"—worthless, wicked men. "They knew not the Lord"—They had no love or reverence for God's house or service. Nothing will bring the Master's cause into disrepute more quickly than a base, vile ministry. Eli did restrain his sons in a mild way. He likely taught them to do right, but did not punish them for doing wrong. His were sins of omission, theirs were actual transgressions. Yet both were punished with dishonor, shame and death. God will punish parents for neglecting to teach their children His will.

—Fear nothing so much as sin, and your moral heroism is complete.—C. Simmons.

R. from Paris and from Galveston, etc. Preachers, delegates and friends, be sure and purchase your tickets at one and one-third fare for return. Remember, tickets will be on sale from the 22nd to the 23rd. Be on time.

W. L. DUNCAN, P. E.

Starkville District.

Dear Brethren—Please collect all of your benevolences now, and send your collections for the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educational Society to Dr. Libby at once, as he is greatly in need of it. Your second district conference will convene at French Camp, Nov. 7. No local preacher nor exhorters need come to the district conference, expecting their licenses to be renewed, unless they subscribe or are subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN; for if God has called you to preach, He will also prepare a way for you to subscribe and pay for the Church organ. We want full reports and full attendance. Be there the first day. May God bless you and give you grand success in your work. P. O. JAMISON, P. E.

Beaufort District.

Dear Brethren—Never in the history of the M. E. Church were the demands more urgent that we do our whole duty on all lines financially than now. Will not the brothers of the Beaufort District prove to all that we are the men on whom the Church of our choice may always depend? Take the benevolent collections in full. Raise the amount apportioned for General Conference delegates' traveling expenses and forward the same to Hunt & Eaton, or pay same to me for them in your fourth quarterly conference. Get a large list of subscribers for the dear old SOUTHWESTERN. Do you take it? Why not? You can't afford to fail. To the front, my dear brother! The best things are before you!

B. F. WITHERSPOON, P. E.

Worthy Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

Herbert Spencer will show in his next paper on Professional Institutions how the man of science and the philosopher are derived from the priest. The oldest science, astronomy, was first employed to fix the times for religious rites. The roots of mathematical science can also be traced down to the ancient priestly vocation. The article will appear in the October Popular Science Monthly.

A Word to the Members of the Birmingham Dist., Central Ala. Conference.

Brethren, remember a few days ago in the district conference at Springville, we promised to raise a special collection for the Central Alabama Academy on or before the second Sunday in October, and forward the same to Prof. A. W. McKinney at Huntsville, who will send you receipts to be used as vouchers at conference. Don't forget the collection. Remember this is our school, and cannot live without our support. Let us call out our forces, both church and Sunday school, and make one united effort for the advancement of this school. Give it such a send-off as never before. Brethren, act in accordance to your promise. We would be glad if the entire Central Alabama Conference would fall in line with us in this effort. I am sure that there are members on the various districts who have the school at heart, we believe will join us. Every member of the conference should help. Brethren, you are called on. Let us take care of what we have. If every pastor throughout the conference will join the Birmingham District movement, and raise a special collection on or before the second Sunday in October, regardless to what you have already raised for F. A. and S. E. Society, send the same to Prof. McKinney. I am quite sure it will be the best year's work for that society in the history of the conference. Brethren, act; it is a time of work.

Truly yours for the cause,

N. H. SPEIGHT.

An Alpena Miracle.

MRS. JAS. M. TODD, OF LONG RAPIDS, DISCARDS HER CRUTCHES.

In An Interview With a Reporter She Reviews Her Experience and Tells the Real Cause of the Miracle.

[From the Argus, Alpena, Mich.]

We have long known Mrs. Jas. M. Todd, of Long Rapids, Alpena Co., Mich. She has been a sad cripple. Many of her friends know the story of her recovery; for the benefit of those who do not we publish it to-day.

Eight years ago she was taken with nervous prostration, and in a few months with muscular and inflammatory rheumatism. It affected her heart, then her head. Her feet became so swollen she could wear nothing on them; her hands were drawn all out of shape. Her eyes were swollen shut more than half the time, her knee joints terribly swollen and for eighteen months she had to be held up to be dressed. One limb became entirely helpless, and the skin was so dry and cracked that it would bleed. During these eight years she had been treated by a score of physicians, and has also spent much time at Ann Arbor under best medical advice. All said her trouble was brought on by hard work and that medicine would not cure, and that rest was the only thing which would ease her. After going to live with her daughter she became entirely helpless and could not even raise her arms to cover herself at night. The interesting part of the story follows in her own words:

"I was urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and at last did so. In three days after I commenced taking Pink Pills I could sit up and dress myself, and after using them six weeks I went home and commenced working. I continued taking the pills, until now I begin to forget my crutches, and can go up and down steps without aid. I am truly a living wonder, walking out of doors without assistance.

"Now, if I can say anything to induce those who have suffered as I have, to try Pink Pills, I shall gladly do so. If other like sufferers will try Pink Pills according to directions, they will have reason to thank God for creating men who are able to conquer that terrible disease, rheumatism. I have in my own neighborhood recommended Pink Pills for the after effects of la grippe, and weak women with impure blood, and with good results."

Mrs. Todd is very strong in her faith in the curative powers of Pink Pills, and says they have brought a poor, helpless cripple back to do her own milking, churning, washing, sewing, knitting, and in fact about all of her household duties, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

BLEST COMMUNION.

Blest are the sons of peace,
Whose hearts and hopes are one;
Whose kind designs to serve and please
Through all their actions run.

Blest is the pious house
Where zeal and friendship meet;
Their songs of praise, their mingled vows,
Make their communion sweet.

Thus on the heavenly hills
The saints are blest above,
Where joy like morning dew distills,
And all the air is love.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

SELF-DENIAL WEEK.

Every member of the Methodist Episcopal Church is a missionary. Whether at home or abroad, he is thoroughly identified with the work of spreading the gospel. If he be a faithful member, he will bring his tithes into the storehouse of the Lord, and while he prays "Thy kingdom come," will have the blessed assurance that he is doing something to push forward the victories of the cross of the blessed Christ. There never was a greater demand upon the members of the Church for large and liberal giving than now. Happily, there is a deep Christian feeling that the Lord would have our Church stand in the very forefront among the agencies that are instituted for the salvation of men everywhere.

Our Missionary Secretaries are urging the people everywhere to observe as Self-Denial Week November 17–24, when it is proposed, by prayer and other consecration services, to create a deeper missionary spirit, more thorough consecration to the cause, and to bring about such an increase in the collections as will enable the Church to carry the tidings of salvation to the uttermost parts of the earth.

Self-Denial Week—Nov. 17-24.

Five years ago a week of self-denial was observed for the first time by the Methodist Episcopal Church in the interest of the missionary cause. It has steadily grown in favor and will doubtless continue to be observed from year to year. Already inquiries are reaching the Missionary Office as to the time and manner of its observance this year. The time will be Nov. 17–24, and the manner as heretofore. Envelopes, appropriately inscribed, will be sent to all pastors, Sunday school superintendents and presidents of Epworth leagues ordering them, free of charge; the only condition being that the week be duly advertised and observed. Let envelopes be ordered in time to reach their destination one or two weeks previous to the beginning of self-denial week. On Sabbath, Nov. 17, let special announcement be made in all congregations, Sunday schools and Epworth leagues, and the envelopes distributed. At the ensuing mid-week prayer meeting let the theme be self-denial in the interest of missions, and on the following Sabbath let the envelopes be taken up and contents promptly forwarded to the Missionary Office, No. 150 Fifth avenue, New York, and receipts will be returned for use at ensuing annual conferences. If all pastors, Sunday school superintendents and Epworth league presidents will co-operate, great relief will be afforded to our over-burdened treasury. Send in your orders for envelopes at once.

CONGRESS ON AFRICA IN ATLANTA.

A Congress on Africa, with the fullest, clearest, most accurate, most inspiring information from the Dark Continent, given by natives, missionaries and scholars competent to speak of this amazingly interesting land—of its civilization, missions, resources, climate, prospects. This is the plan of the "Stewart Missionary Foundation for Africa in Gammon Theological Seminary." The date is December 13-15. It is one of the congresses officially recognized by the "Cotton States and International Exposition." Eminent representatives of Church and State have already taken places on the program. Latest reports from the great missionary societies carrying on work in Africa will be a feature of the Congress. The Congress is timely. It is greatly needed. Thousands of American Negroes have been misled by misrepresentations of their relation to the civilization and redemption of Africa, their fatherland. This Congress promises to throw a flood of light on this important question. It will immediately follow the Methodist Episcopal Church Congress on December 12. This will be the best time for a visit to the exposition.

We would further emphasize the thought that the Methodist Episcopal Church, through her bishops, has appointed Prof. W. H. Crogman, A. M., LL. D., Rev. Joshua E. Wilson, D. D., of South Carolina Conference, and the Editor of this paper as commissioners to represent the Church at the Religious Congress, which will be held December 12. By a happy arrangement both these important meetings will take place as above stated, and they promise to be among the most important events of the nineteenth century. There ought to be a large attendance of our people during these meetings, and we would suggest to those of our ministers and laymen who desire to attend the exposition, that their visit would be much more profitable if it be arranged to take place during these congresses. Remember the dates: December 12, Congress of the Methodist Episcopal Church; December 13, 14 and 15, Congress on Africa. The program will be published in another number. We urge our people in all parts of the country to make arrangements to attend these important congresses, and get an inspiration from contact with their fellow Christian workers, and be better prepared than ever before to take a more active part in the redemption of Africa.

WHICH WAS THE BETTER?

A saloon keeper attended one of the early morning prayer meetings on Lookout Mountain during the great Epworth League Conference. Although attending from mere idle curiosity, he was so deeply impressed with the services that he then and there resolved to give up the bad business in which he was engaged.

A white lady attending one of these meetings saw a colored brother seated among other professing Christains, exclaimed, "O, why do they insist on allowing colored people to mingle with white people in this way?"

While we rejoice that the saloon-keeper threw away his bad business, we would rejoice also to know that the white lady had thrown away her prejudices.

—Allegheny College has entered upon its eighty-first year. The enrollment of students shows one-third larger attendance than last year. Fifty per cent more new students have matriculated than during the opening week a year ago. There is every indication that the present year will show the largest attendance ever known in the history of the institution and President Crawford is unusually encouraged with the very promising outlook.

LUCK.

One of the most popular words in our vocabulary is luck, usually qualified by the adjectives good or bad. Really there is no such thing as luck, as it is popularly understood. It is an old superstition that has followed the human family almost from time immemorial. It is true there are events which affect our interest or happiness, but it will be found that they are the results, not of chance or fortune, but rather of our ability to choose rightly, and to take advantage of the passing priceless moments. Opportunity, pluck, vim, push and get up are better words, since they imply ability to grasp the situation and the conrage to follow certain lines of thought and action to a finish. Luck, bad or good, is predicated upon a superstition which is a denial of the divine government and a most unwarranted perversion of the holy Scriptures. In proportion as people have simple and unquestioning faith in God, and in the wise arrangement of His providence are they free from these ridiculous superstitions. To the really intelligent the howling of a hound, the lowing of a cow, the singing of a bird at night, the croaking of a frog, etc., are among the most natural things in the world. There are some people who are so foolish that they will not sit down to the table where there are thirteen persons, nor begin a journey on Friday, nor sweep the dust out of a room at night, nor sleep with their heads toward the sunset or sunrise. There are others who regard it as decidedly unlucky for a female to be the first visitor during the day. The farther removed these people are from the essential principles of the higher and better civilization the more superstitions they are. Fortune tellers, clairvoyants, soothsayers and hoodoos fatten upon the credulity of such people who are, of course, their most reliable and pliant tools. There is nothing in luck; but a healthy, level headed, clear-brained man or woman will actually make things come to pass, fortune or no fortune, chance or no chance. Luck is dead, and the sooner the old carcass is buried the better.

THE RIGHT KIND OF A PRESIDING ELDER.

We call attention to the following note from one of our most thoughtful, practical and able presiding elders, and one who renders loyal and faithful service to all of the interests of our great Church. We hope all our presiding elders will read this and do likewise, or surpass it if they can:

COLUMBUS, MISS., Oct. 8, 1895.

Dr. Hammond, Editor, New Orleans, La.:

Dear Editor—I pledge myself to try earnestly and faithfully to send in (10) ten subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE within ninety days. We hope to boom the Aberdeen District in the ninety days for the grand old paper as never before in the history of the Church.

THOS. W. DAVIS,
Aberdeen Dist., Upper Miss. Conf.

BEREA LEADS THE PROCESSION.

From the Western Christian Advocate we take the following:

"The one school, so far as we know, in all the South, that 'gives every man an equal chance,' is Berea College, Berea, Ky., Rev. Wm. G. Frost, president. Both sexes and all races are admitted on equal terms. The courses are numerous and varied. The faculty is able and devoted. Howard Hall for males and the Ladies' Hall are commodious and elegant buildings. There are no saloons in the place; and the expense is very low."

TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

Athens, Ala.—A. G. Gleun writes: Our series ot meetings olosed Sept. 15 with four souls happily converted to Christ and the church greatly revived. Sister Lilly King, the 12 year old daughter of Brother and Sistor King, members of our church, departed this life in full triumph of faith Sept. 10.

Union Church, Miss.—A. Reid writes: I have had a great success this year, and had 23 conversions and 53 accessions.

Dekalb, Miss.—L. J. S. Bell writes: Our third quarterly conference was a grand meeting. Rev. A. M. Trottor presided and preached ably. Total collection, $105. Received 50 into full membership and 36 on trial. The Lord has visited us in two series of meetings. Forty-three were converted and added to our church at New Hope and Poney Grove. At the last named church a full blooded Choctaw Indian was converted and joined our Church. Baptized 10 adults and 28 children during the two meetings.

Forrest City, Ark.—W. S. Sherrill says: We have just closed our meeting at Kynett Chapel M. E. Church with success. We had 11 conversions and 22 accessions. We have raised for Philander Smith College, $9 50; for missions, $10, and for children's funds, $3. The members of this church have also favored their pastor with a new suit of clothes Pray for us.

Woodland, La.—J. H. Rylander writes: We have just closed up a glorious revival meeting at Mt. Carmel, which resulted in the conversion of 18 souls. Eight were reclaimed. The spirit of the Lord is upon us and reformation of heart and life is still progressing.

Como, Miss.—H. B. Hart writes: Third quarterly conference was hold at Spring Hill M. E. Church, with Elder W. McDonald in the chair. Reports were good. The Lord's Supper was given to 84. Raised $54 this quarter. Our revival has just closed with 17 converts. Total added to the church this quarter, 22.

Pearlville, La —Mary L. Porter writes: Our rally day was a success. Collected $31 15. Revs. Ed. Fields of La Harpe M. E. Church, Ed. Jackson of the A. M. E. Church, R. Young and G. Mason of the Baptist Church, and other ministers, were present.

Our Baton Rouge (La.) Letter.

Wesley M. E. Church of this city is enjoying a season of peace, prosperity, harmony and spiritual fervency, which inspires the hope of the realization of great and good things for the Lord in the near future. Already it has begun to be felt. Our audience is increasing weekly, and the people have settled down to real hard earnest work, and will continue in the even tenor of their present way unless again inflamed and interferred with by outside influences.

As a result of our last revival services many were the precious souls converted, among whom was one old man sixty-eight years old. Our third quarterly conference was held Oct. 15. Reports were in keeping with the state of things above mentioned, and $422.50 were collected during the quarter for all purposes. Presiding Elder Marshall's visit was very helpful to us. On Sunday we collected $43.70; the presiding elder was paid and sent off in high glee, and 138 partook of the Lord's Supper.

The writer wishes to thank Mrs. Jennie E. Geddes, Mrs. E. Barrow and Miss E. E. Geddes for the sum of $25 presented to him by them as the result of a concert given and managed by them for his benefit. Thanks also to the liberal hearted gentlemen of the Capital City Brass Band, who furnished the music free of charge for the occasion; not forgetting Mr. J. A. Fourrier, (white) a music store keeper of this city, for the free use of a piano for the occasion. Everything is looking up. Praise God from whom all blessings flow. J. A. Tircuit.

OUR PRESIDING ELDERS.

Rev. Daniel Brooks.

REV. DANIEL BROOKS.

Rev. Daniel Brooks was born of free parentage in Cleveland county, N. C., Sept. 15, 1837; but owing to the very peculiar condition of the free-born Negro in those days, his advantages for intellectual development did not surpass, if even they equaled, that of the slave. But when the opportunity was afforded, young Daniel applied his talents which God had given him, and they were increased a hundred fold. At the age of 16, on Union Camp Ground he acquainted himself with God and immediately joined the M. E. Church South, which was the only Methodist Church available. When the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in Cleveland he found that he could do more for God and his race in her communion, and in 1869 he became a member of this branch of the Christian Church and was soon licensed to preach. The amount of good done by him for the Church of his choice, and, therefore, for humanity, cannot be estimated; but the esteem in which he is held and the position which he fills, show how much his noble services for our Methodism are appreciated. As a pastor, he filled successfully the following charges: Oxford, East Randolph, High Point, Lexington and Oberlin. By this time he had demonstrated his ability to govern men and also his undying zeal and love for the Church; consequently he was appointed presiding elder over the Raliegh District. After serving this district for three years he was sent as presiding elder to the Western District, which he profitably served for six years, making the mountains of the Old North State resonant with the gospel of Christ and bloom as the gardens of Paradise with holy and moral truth. His career as presiding elder was so successful and his services so demanding that Bishop Foster, in the late conference held in Oxford, N. C., found it expedient and necessary to continue him in his office as elder He is now presiding elder of the Wilmington District, and is esteemed by his brethren.

Rev. Robert Smith.

Rev. Robert Smith, of the North Carolina Conference, was born a slave in Chatham County, in North Carolina, July 29, 1849. He was blessed with Christian training and gave his heart to Jesus in his 21st year. Devoting himself to the cause of Christ, he experienced a divine call to preach. Making known his wishes to the proper authorities of the local Church, he received license to preach, and devoted himself assiduously to his work. He was received on trial in the North Carolina Conference in 1877, being subsequently ordained deacon and elder by Bishops Harris and Morrill respectively. In 1867 he was happily married to Miss Nancy J. Owens, who has been an inspiration to him in his chosen life work. He has been a hard student, and is in every way a self-made man. He has filled appointments as follows: Caldwell, N. C., 1877-79; Winston, 1880-83; Lumberton, 1883-86; Newberne, 1886, where he served until October 24 of that year, when he was appointed presiding elder of the Western District, serving until 1888, when he was appointed to the Greensboro District, serving until 1894, when he was again appointed to the Western District, where he has made a splendid record. He is loyal, brave, and true to God, his Church, and his people. T. E.

Hot Springs District Conference.

The District Conference of the Hot Springs, Little Rock Conference, convened at Canfield, Ark., according to announcement. Presiding Elder A. J. Phillips being too ill to preside, D. B. Harston was elected president. J. A. Hamilton and M. B. Cain were elected secretaries, and J. C. Crowley and G. B. Donnelly were appointed agents for the SOUTHWESTERN.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason was introduced and spoke several times touching the work of the F. A. and S. E. S. to the edification of all who heard him.

Complimentary resolutions were passed.

Dr. Mason and Revs. C. N. Whitehead, J. C. Cromley, J. Hamilton, M. B. Cain, J. C. Adams, H. M. Renfro, H. P. Coulter, G. B. Donnelly and M. H. Fostor preached grandly during the session.

Eight subscribers were secured for the SOUTHWESTERN by the president.

J. A. HAMILTON, Sec'y.

Greenville District Conference.

The Greenville District Conference met at Williamston, S. C., as per announcement. Presiding Elder J. A. Brown presided, and J. C. Watin was elected secretary. Reports of presiding elder, pastors and officers showed commendable progress. The essays, debates and talks were all instructive. The papers produced by Mesdames Gassaway and McLeod were among the best, and added greatly to the interest of the meeting.

The SOUTHWESTERN was fully discussed.

Among distingnished visitors were: Dr. Bulkley, of Claflin, who spoke in the interest of that school; Revs. C.C. Jacobs and J. B. Middleton; and Messrs. Marshall and Bulkley,

The presiding elder is working for the furtherance of the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the uplifting of his race. The conference adjourned to meet at Walhalla, J. McLEOD, Reporter.

Waynesboro District Conference.

The second session of the Waynesboro District, Savannah Conference, convened at Augusta, Ga. Rev. R. R. O'Neal, presiding elder, was promptly on hand. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. M. P. Moore, of the Statesboro Circuit. J. D. Jenkins was elected secretary and Rev. W. H. Brown assistant. From day to day the proceedings were characterized by the greatest harmony, much to the credit of the presiding elder. The district seems to be alive spiritually and temporally. Four new Epworth leagues have been organized on the district, and three or four new church buildings have been put up and in course of construction. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, agent of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, delivered one of his delightful addresses. Freedmen's Aid collection, $52. There have been revivals in several of the charges. On the Waynesboro Circuit the late revival there resulted in 149 conversions; total accessions, 160. The SOUTHWESTERN received a large share of attention. One whole evening was given to the discussion of the subject. The matter is to be vigorously pushed in the future. No local preacher or exhorter can hereafter have their licenses renewed who does not take the SOUTHWESTERN. The conference was royally entertained by Pastor Dennis and his good people. Brother Dennis has worked very hard for the upbuilding of our church at Augusta; and, considering the great odds against him there, has succeeded measurably well. He is energetic as a worker and popular with the people. On Sunday evening Rev. R. R. O'Neal, presiding elder, was stricken down with fever. Dr. Bourruss, one of our young physicians, was called in immediately and speedy relief was the result.

The greater portion of Saturday was taken up by the Sunday School and Epworth League convention. Essays on various subjects, relating to Sunday school and Epworth League work, were read by the delegates and interspersed with song. The reports showed that the Sunday School and Epworth League work on the district is alive with interest.

The conference adjourned sine die at a late hour Saturday evening, to meet next year at Statesboro.

Conducted by Rev. E. B. Burroughs, Charaw, S. C

October 17, 1895.

The Forty Days After the Resurrection.

Acts 1, 1-26; 1 Cor. 15, 4-8.

For three months we have been studying the miracles of the Christ. Having carried to a glorious consummation the wonderful place of salvation, He takes His leave of His disciples and ascends on high and sits on the right hand side of God. But the work He began is to be carried on, and through the instrumentality of human agencies, the world is to be brought from darkness unto light. Accordingly for the next three months we will study the Acts of Men, or Lessons from the Early Church. We begin with the Book of Acts.

The Book of Acts is a thrilling narrative. Beginning with the Ascension of Christ, it gives us a succinct account of how the Gospel, though strongly opposed, leaped over every barrier, and spread itself over a hundred provinces and great cities. So intensely interesting is it, that we would exhort every Epworthian to at once take up its study. It can and ought to be read through at our sitting. Having thus done, turn back and begin the study of it in detail. The following outline will help you:

I. Pentecost and the events preceding it. Chaps. 1-2.

II. The Acts among the Jews. Chapters 3-9, 12.

III. Admission of the Gentiles. Chapters 10, 11.

IV. First Missionary Journey. Chapters 13, 14.

V. The Council at Jerusalem. Chapter 15.

VI. Second Missionary Journey. Chapters 16-19.

VII. Third Missionary Journey as far as Rome. Chapters 20-28. (Schell.)

The forty days intervening between the Resurrection and the Ascension of Christ were just so many days of wonder and anxiety. That Christ had risen and ascended was no longer a matter of concern with the disciples. Of these facts they were satisfied. Their only concern now was to await the further pleasure of their Lord and Master. To say, or to attempt to make mention of all that took place between the Resurrection and the Ascension would be useless. Many things took place of which we have no record. But one thing we do know, that Christ did arise from the dead, and afterwards appeared unto His disciples. These appearances were, no doubt, many, out of at least ten, we are certain. They are as follows:

1. To Mary. John 20; 14 16.
2. To the other women. Matt. 28:9.
3. To Peter. Luke 24:34; 1 Cor. 15:5.
4. On the road to Emmaus. Luke 24:13-31; Mark. 16-12.
5. To ten of the disciples. Luke 24:36-43.
6. To the eleven. Mark 16:6; John 20:26-28.
7. To the seven disciples by the Sea of Galilee. John 21:1-24.
8. To five hundred disciples and the eleven. Matt. 28:16-17; 1 Cor. 15:3.
9. To James. 1 Cor. 15:7.
10. At the Ascension. Luke 24:50-51; Acts. 1:6-9.

The appearance of Christ to His disciples, after His resurrection, was altogether different to what it was before. Says Geikie: "He showed himself therefore to them in such a way that they could never count on his taking up his abode with them again, as in former days; that so they might be accustomed gradually to his absence. * * * He showed himself as one about to quit the world, and as no longer belonging to it, but delaying his departure for a time for their good."

Aberdeen District Conference.

The following is the program of the Aberdeen District, Upper Mississippi Conference, to convene at Crawford, Miss., Oct. 30 to Nov. 3:

Wednesday—Opening sermon, Rev. W. Campbell.

Thursday—Organization and conference business. Discussion of topics, Does the Atonement of Christ Unconditionally Save Men, or Does it Only Make it Possible For Them to be Saved on Certain Conditions, and if so What are Those Conditions? L. F. White, A. J. Trice, T. W. Davis and W. S. Leavo. Sermon, L. W. Moseley.

Friday—Conference business. Discussion of topics, Does Morality Increase Without Civilization? T. L. Ingram, O. Gillespie, J. W. Winbush and L. J. Terrill; What Was the Import or Significance of the Epworth League Convention Held at Chattanooga, B. H. S. Ferguson and T. W. Davis. Sermon, H. A. Johnson.

Saturday—Conference business. Devotional exercises, conducted by S M. McLond. Conference business and discussion of topics, Should Those Members of the M. E. Church Who Habitually Withhold Their Support From the Church, be Regarded as Members in Good Standing, and if Not by What Rule of Discipline Can They be Called to Account For Such Neglect of Duty? J. W. Winbush, T. W. Davis and T. L. Ingram. Sermon, J. Mayo.

Sunday—Conference love feast and sermons by the following: H. R. Revels, L. F. White and T. W. Davis.

Dear Brethren—I earnestly request that you, as far as possible, raise your assessments for the various benevolent claims of the Church before coming to the district conference. I trust that you have ere this raised and remitted to Prof. G. G. Logan, at Holly Springs, your assessments for the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society. Local preachers will make neat brief preparations on subjects of their own selections. Drs. Hammond and Mason are most earnestly invited to attend.

The topics of the SOUTHWESTERN and Epworth Leagues will be opened for discussion each day. Pastors and local preachers, come prepared to speak on the subjects.

Your Bent.

Emerson said: "The crowning fortune of a man is to be born to some pursuit which finds him in employment and happiness, whether it be to make baskets, or broadswords, or canals, or statues, or songs." Now, every one of us was born with some gift. There is something that we would rather do than to do anything else. One boy has a fondness for birds—there is an embryo ornithologist. Another has a fondness for rocks—there is your geologist. Another draws pictures over everything—there is your artist. Another is forever tinkering at a machine—there is your machinest, inventor, engineer, or electrician. Now, as Sam Jones says, every man ought to "follow his rathers." Do what God made you to do. He knew best, and fitted you for the place you ought to fill in the world. Fill your place.

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR.

A STRANGE DOCUMENT.

Those of our readers who had the pleasure of reading Dr. Wilbur P. Thirkield's able and comprehensive article in last week's SOUTHWESTERN will be chagrined as well as pained to know that persistent efforts are being made to misrepresent the Church, and put it in a false and equivocating attitude toward its colored constituency. The latest is a circular written by Rev. W. H. Nelson, D. D., of the Central Alabama Conference, and addressed to the colored members of the M. E. Church, with the request that they read it deliberately. The writer of the circular did not favor this office with a copy of his remarkable document, but a brother places us under obligations for the loan of the circular, from which we take some excerpts. Dr. Nelson states that he has been a member of the M. E. Church since childhood, a minister in "fair standing of the Central Alabama Conference," has never been in any other Church, and does not desire to enter any other. He does not complain against the Church "relative to the religious and material kindness of the white element which has done and is doing so much for our welfare," but says that there is "reasonable ground for complaint, and fear that the pail of milk will be overthrown [italics ours] when facts are considered as they really exist toward the colored people in the M. E. Church." We have heard the story of the cow and the milk, but do not see where the analogy comes in. If the doctor compares the colored membership to the cow, then we most respectfully ask him to spare his race from the charge suggested. This is really bad on the cow. It will not be possible to consider "all the facts" concerning the colored people before they really exist. They are making history all the time, and it will be well enough not to arm themselves against imaginary foes.

The circular charges Bishop Foster's book with being the cause of "great unrest and dissatisfaction" among the colored ministry and membership of the Church. His specifications are: 1st. "It comes from a bishop," and therefore arouses very potential influences against the colored people. 2nd. "It takes away from us the hope of aspiration and a covetous desire for the best gifts."

There are other specifications, but they might all be included under the second specification. We wish it could get into the craniums of the doctor and all those who think as he does, that Bishop Foster's book to be understood needs to be studied. No merely superficial reading will enable one to arrive at any definite conclusion. But we would emphasize the impression that Bishop Foster's views, as expressed in the book referred to, are his as a private individual, and are in no sense the official deliverances of the Methodist Episcopal Church. But the Negro should understand that the opinions of men are formed largely by what they read, the character of men being the books. If there are some who believe that there is no chance for the colored man to make his mark in the Church, or to attain to the highest offices within its gift, or if there are those within our communion who believe that the colored member of the M. E. Church is the great obstacle in the way of organic union, there is yet a splendid opportunity for the colored brother to demonstrate that that class of thinkers are mistaken. This he can do. First, by being a man. Holding offices, even being elected bishop, is not the badge of manhood; and there is a manhood which is grander than any office. Second, by being a thinking man. Our colored brethren who read the papers and study the books think more, and are consequently better prepared to act than the mere superficial persons who skim along the surface, and are ready to act with that impetuosity which hinders rather than helps. Thirdly, he should be a level-headed man. He should understand that moral fitness, character, intellectual manhood, will compel respect. These are the growth of a lifetime. A gourd may grow in a night, but the oak, which the days and months and years has made strong, and which has grown quietly yet continuously, impresses the greater truth.

He should be a loyal man. The spirit, polity, policy, sentiment and genius of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as expressed in her creed, in her doctrines, usages, practices, are certainly conducive to the very highest development of all who have the honor to be members of its communion. There is absolutely nothing in its written law, or its constitutional and ecclesiastical authority, which justifies the complaints too often made by thoughtless people, that the Church discriminates against its black membership in favor of the white, and that its failure to put a black man on the Episcopal bench is its determination to rob the race of its manhood. We do not believe anything of the sort. We are speaking of the general Church, however, and not of a segment of it. A study of the great Church through its literature, and its various departments of activity, interest and zeal, will show that our views are correct. If there are those in high places, or in low places for that matter, who may feel disposed to stand in the way of the progress of truth, and justice, and fair play, be it known unto them that although wrong and oppression may be upon the throne for a time, yet truth will ultimately triumph.

In concluding the circular Dr. Nelson says: "I only write you, since there is scarcely any way to express our grievances through the organs of the Church. We are quite completely silenced when we would speak for the Negro on certain lines through them." We regret that the doctor should make use of such an intemperate statement. We do not believe that there is an Advocate, official or unofficial, published throughout the bounds of the Church that would refuse to publish any expression of supposed or real grievances when accompanied by the signature of the writer. Of course, there are communications which are rejected frequently because of utterances which would not add either to the literary character or the dignity of a religious journal. We would have it understood also that almost without an exception the editors of our Methodist Advocates are fearless, constant and unflinching friends of the Negro. We know the brethren personally, have watched their utterances from time to time, and have found them invariably in favor of the very highest possible advancement of the colored man. We would calm the troubled feelings of the good doctor by saying that we have very good reasons to believe that there is no very immediate danger of any great number of our colored members "marching out of the Church" because the Church may not grant the thing which we do not, ought not ask for, viz: Autonomy. We commend Dr. Thirkield's letter to the doctor, and all such as indulge in his way of thinking.

CIVILIZED OR HEATHEN?

An Associated Press dispatch states that the lynching of the Negro convict, Neal Smith, who was accused of assaulting a young white woman at Cole City, Tenn., was one of the most horrible lynchings on record. Then follows the usual horrible details of the arrest, confession and sentence by the Southern presses in the case of Negroes accused of this and other crimes. But in this case the mob acted with unusual and almost unparalleled barbarity. Says the report:

"Upon seeing the Negro the mob made a rush for him. Seizing him, they began torturing him and dragging him to the place where the crime was committed. The Negro confessed fully to the crime, after which he was made to place his fingers upon the railroad track, and with a hammer his fingers were beaten off piece by piece. He begged pitifully for his life, but there was no mercy for him. After horribly mutilating his body and cutting off his ears, which Mr. Henderson, father of the girl, kept as souvenirs, the mob literally perforated his body with shot. He did not even groan. About 10 a. m., more men arrived, and not being satisfied with what had been done, a log heap was built around his body and a match stuck to it, and the flesh began to fry. The last seen of the body to-day was a part of the skull and one foot. Late this evening the fire was rekindled by a man passing by, and now only the ashes remain."

The convict Negro may have been guilty of the heinous crime charged against him, but there is not a scintilla of justification or reason in the way chosen by these bloody wretches to avenge the injured young lady. We can hardly believe that the father of the girl would want to keep the ears of the guilty Negro as souvenirs. It is too ghastly to contemplate. And the burning, and the frying human flesh, and the ashes! How does that sound in the closing years of the nineteenth century? What does it add to the civilization, the Christian civilization of Cole City, in the State of Tennessee? Let the once infuriated but now, we trust, sober men hold up to their neighbors and their neighbors' children those ghastly trophies of their vengeance—the mutilated fingers, the dissevered ears, the shot perforated body, the log pile, the match, the frying flesh, the part of the skull, and one foot, and the ashes of the guilty Negro. What lessons! God pity the deluded people who, thus taking the law in their own hands, invite death by the same law which they have violated. But it was only a Negro. In the meantime an educated young white man is being tried in California for a crime which causes the offense of the Negro, Neal Smith, to dwindle into utter insignificance. This young man is accused of taking the lives of two young girls, and the place selected for the horrible crime was the house of worship. The blood of these innocent girls in the holy sanctuary told an awful tale of the most desperate struggle for that which was dearer than life. The accused is given a fair trial by a jury of his peers. Another educated white man is detected in an attempt to swindle an insurance company. On investigation it is found that he had committed several murders. Although the evidence is convincing, the trial proceeds in the usual orderly way, and the accused is guaranteed the protection of the courts. It does strike us very forcibly, that if mob law were at any time justifiable it might be when the offender was educated and of high social standing in the community; for then it might be argued that the possessor of these qualifications, failing to recognize his obligations to his fellowmen, would deserve the most summary punishment. But to discriminate against the poor, ignorant, vicious, untutored and neglected Negro, and to administer the most summary punishment, often for the most trivial crimes and frequently upon the most flimsy evidence, fails to impress the lesson sought, and only furnishes an opportunity for the display of those frenzied and barbarous outbreaks which bring a disgrace upon our boasted Christian civilization. Why not organize in every community, where these brutal Negroes are found, movements for their moral development. Lynching and burning vicious Negroes does not prohibit these outrages, since the lessons, though terrible, fall upon dull and illiterate minds. Let the Negro be thoroughly manipulated through the great moral agencies which inhere in the development of all Christian society, and the vicious and brutal Negro will disappear forever.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Rev. F. T. Chinn, presiding elder of the Monroe District, left this week to hold his fourth and last round of quarterly meetings.

—We are under many obligations for an invitation to join with the Methodists of Baltimore City and the Historical Society of Harford county, October 18, 1895, in a Pilgrimage to the site of Cokesbury College, which was burned December 4, 1795.

—The Editor of this paper had the pleasure of preaching to the Simpson Chapel congregation on Sunday evening last. The congregation was large, and the singing excellent and inspiring. Rev. F. T. Chinn of the Monroe District was present and inspired us not a little.

—Rev. H. Taylor, pastor of Simpson M. E. Church, preached an excellent sermon to the Ladies of Providence Society last Sunday night. The meeting was held at Union Chapel, which was filled to hear this eloquent young minister.

—We have received from the Chattanooga Times a volume containing the full and official proceedings of the second International Conference of the Epworth League. It is a most instructive book, and we regret very much the absence of the magnificent speech of Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, which, as the compiler says, was "a cause for regret that his speech was not given in this book," the publishers having asked for it. Barring this incident, the book will be favorably received by hundreds and thousands of Epworthians everywhere. Chattanooga Times Printing Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., price 50 cents.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

That was a sad gathering at Union Chapel on Wednesday of last week, to pay the last tribute of respect to its late pastor, Rev. A. J. Ford, who passed up to the Upper Bethel on Tuesday, Oct. 8; aged 43 years. The spacious church was filled with a sorrowing congregation to hear the last words relative to the life of this eminent minister. Rev. A. J. Ford was born in St. Mary's Parish, this State; was lay delegate to the electoral conference in 1879; received on trial in the Louisiana Conference in 1881; served at Houma, Carrollton, Glenoce, Alexandria, Shreveport, Union Chapel of this city. He was the statistical secretary of the Louisiana Conference, which office he filled with signal ability. He was an all around Christian minister and was very greatly loved for his genial qualities. He was faithful unto death, and died giving praise to God. Among the ministers present were Revs. T. J. Johnson, T. G Montgomery, W. R. Butler, Frank Walker, H. Taylor, S Priestley, C. Monroe, E. Fields, D. J. Price, D. G. Butler, Prof. Richards, D. W. Boatner, S. J. Harris, Emperor Williams, S. Duncan, P. Landry, F. T. Chinn, Armston, Davis, L. G. Adkinson, and Revs. Taylor and Wilson of the A. M. E. Church. Rev. G. E. Taylor announced the opening hymn. Rev. W. R. Butler offered the opening prayer. Rev. F. T. Chinn read the Scriptnre selections. Rev. Stephen Priestley read a brief history of the life of the deceased, after which Rev. Stephen Duncan and the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN made remarks. The heartfelt sympathy of the vast congregation went out toward the very greatly bereaved wife and family. The body was tenderly laid away, several of the ministers acting as pall bearers. A more extended notice of the death of our brother will be given in another number.

The Preachers' Meeting on the 8th was largely attended by the representative preachers of New Orleans and vicinity, including Bishop Cottrell, D. D., Dr. Hawkins, Revs. Bates, Smith and Leech, of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church; also Misses Hickman and Gibson, superintendent and assistant of Peck Industrial Home. The subject for discussion was "Sanctification: Its Helps and Hindrances." The editor of this paper introduced the subject, after which Revs. Richards, Boatner, Bishop Cottrell, Revs. Smith, Bates, Hawkins and others made remarks touching the subject and other themes. The venerable Rev. Emperor William gave some interesting reminiscences. Rev. Frank Walker presided and Rev. Edward Fields acted secretary. Rev. Thomas J. Johnson gave a very interesting statement concerning the progress in the erection of the La Fon Old Folks' Home, which gave general satisfaction. Misses Hickman and Gibson made interesting remarks concerning the Peck Home, and invited the co-operation of the pastors and people. President Adkinson added a supplementary word on the same subject. Rev. Henry Taylor, of Simpson Church, will address the meeting on "Baptism: Its Significance and Proper Mode of Administration," on the 29th of October. Rev. Frank Walker will speak on the "Inspiration of the Bible" on November 5.

Brother Stephen Duncan, presiding elder of Shreveport District, left the city for his work last week. Before leaving he gave the office a pleasant call, and assured us that he would work his district thoroughly in the interest of the SOUTHWESTERN. Brother Duncan is in every way reliable, and we are satisfied that his district will stand in the front rank in favor of the official paper.

We regret to learn of the continued illness of Sister Monroe, beloved wife of Rev. C. Menroe, of Williams Chapel. Our heart goes out in sympathy for our fellow laborer.

Don't you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome that tired feeling and give you renewed vigor and vitality?

Christian Education in China.

By REV. G. S. MINER, Foochow, China.

One year ago, in an article bearing the above title, we presented the needs of the young people in this part of China. One of the visible results of said paper is one hundred Christian day schools. To God we tender deepest gratitude and give all praises. The editor of the SOUTHWESTERN has our hearty thanks for publishing our letter, and thus bringing this cause before his thousands of readers. The dear friends who have responded so liberally to our call, we commend to God. He alone can render sufficient reward. Be assured that throughout this territory many Chinese from Foochow will call you blessed.

While war and persecution have raged, the recent war has aroused many of the leading Chinese, and they realize that nothing but Western education and civilization can save their nation. As Christians, we must now teach them that the religion of the Lord Jesus is the only basis of all true reform. As never before the people are looking to us for guidance. The present golden opportunity will never return. Thank God, we are beginning to meet the demands in some degree, and the cause of our dear Saviour is unusually prosperous.

The Anglo-Chinese college, theological school, Biblical training schools, medical work, woman's training schools, boys' and girls' boarding schools and day schools have had an increased attendance; are exerting a wider influence and creating a greater interest than ever before. Bright young men and women are being educated and trained for positions of influence and usefulness. Many who have already gone out from our walls are proving themselves efficient workers; pupils from the day schools are constantly knocking at the doors of our higher educational institutions, which are already thronged. Recently we have taken steps toward enlarging and increasing our educational facilities to meet these demands. At the last conference Bishop W. X. Ninde appointed me "superintendent of day schools supported by special gifts," in addition to teacher in the Anglo-Chinese college, a position I have held for nearly four years. Of these day schools I wish particularly to write, and pray you may become more and more interested therein. Concerning the other schools others will write. Following is Bishop Ninde's testimony concerning my day schools:

"While in Foochow I became deeply interested in the day schools for boys organized and superintended by Rev. G. S. Miner, of the Methodist Episcopal Mission. These schools are sustained by voluntary contributions, and they have been quite fully made in response to Mr. Miner's appeals through the press and by private letters. I took occasion to visit a number of these schools in Foochow and other places, and was greatly impressed with their efficiency and the good being done through them. I believe they are likely to become a great evangelizing agency. There is scarcely a village where the opening of one of these schools would not be welcomed and would be almost certain to prove the forerunner of a preacher and a church. The pupils will be mostly raw heathen children, but they are bright and eager to learn. Many of them will not step with the primary school, but will seek ultimately the better advantages of our higher institutions. In this way we shall have in the near future a Christian constituency in China which will be sure to command the respect of all classes and take a prominent part in the moral and social reconstruction of the empire. I take pleasure in warmly commending Mr. Miner's most valuable enterprise. W. X. NINDE."

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md.

Tennessee Annual Conference.

The thirtieth session of the Tennessee Annual Conference, M. E. Church, met in Braden's Chapel, Sept. 25, 1895. Bishop W. F. Mallalieu presided. After the administration of the sacrament J. A. W. Moore was re-elected secretary by acclamation. Miles Williams was elected statistical secretary. C. E. Alexander was elected conference treasurer. The various standing committees for another year was read by L. M. Moores, presiding elder of the Cumberland River District, and approved by the conference. The following pastors of this city were introduced to the conference: Revs. E. H. Creacy, S. R. Reed, Jas. A. Davis, A. Thorne, I. H. Edwards and Norman. The following General Conference officers were present and delivered addresses to the conference: Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D., editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, and Drs. C. H. Payne and Hamilton. Important resolutions were offered by Dr. Bradon, C. B. Wilson, G. C. Harden, H. W. Key, J. P. Price and J. A. W. Moore. The amount received from the Book Concern was $510. A general increase along all lines was received with applause. Elders Moores, White, Danley and Key showed that they were the right men and in the right place as presiding elders. The amount raised for missions by the conference was $969 76, an increase over 1894 of $100. The Sabbath service was one of joy to all. The love feast was conducted by Rev. Calvin Pickett and Dr. Braden. After the passing of the bread and water 140 spoke in love feast. At 10 o'clock the bishop preached to an overflowing house, and after the conclusion of the sermon the following brothers were ordained deacons: Daniel W. Fields, John W. Atkinson, Francis J. Jacobs, George C. Clark, Gilbert G. Gaiden Williams, D. Petters, Thaddeus W. Stephens, Simon Bidevnh. At 3 p. m., Dr. E. W. S. Hammond preached to an overflowing house. After the sermon the following brethren were ordained elders James S. Foster, Robert A. Dowell, Jessie Stanfield Ephraim, F. Donglass. Under the head of Question 4 the following were received: Joseph Hanison, S. T. Miller, J. M. Moorly, Ambrose Bland, Frank Smith, William D. Peltns. Under the head of Question 5, D. C. Ransom and J. B. Booth were continued on trial. Geo. T. Bolden was discontinued. C. H. Bullington, Andrew Swift, Joel L. Massey and David Scott were each referred to their presiding elder. S. T. Hickerson and R. A. Fletcher were granted supernumerary relation. J. A. W. Moore, A. Porter, Miles Williams, J. P. Price, R. A. Fletcher, P. R. Woodson, G. W. Marsh, G. C. Harden, E. F. Douglass, were nominated and elected as triers of appeals.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 3, 1895.

Samuel The Judge.

(1. Sam. 7. 5-5)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Hitherto hath the Lord helped me." (1. Sam. 7. 12)

It required great courage on the part of Samuel to relate to Eli the words of the heavenly messenger. We must declare the whole truth. The aged priest was resigned to God's will. He had after all more piety than many of us. All Israel soon knew "Samuel was established to be a prophet of the Lord." They went out to battle with the Philistines, were defeated, the ark was taken, and the sons of Eli were slain. When this sad news was conveyed to Eli he fell backwards and his neck was broken. The judgments of God are swift and awful. The ark was taken into a temple of the Philistines and placed beside Dagon, their god. On the morrow he was fallen down. They soon replaced him. On the following morning he had again fallen, and his head and hands were broken off. The ark was then sent from place to place among them, and the curse of God rested on those who received it. It was finally returned, with a trespass offering, to the children of Israel. Seven months were the Philistines plagued with the ark, and the Israelites punished for not having it. The same object may be a curse to one and a blessing to another. Holy things should be kept in sacred place, and handled with sanctified hands. The paragraph, of which this lesson is a part, begins with verse three and ends with verse seventeen. It should be studied as a whole.

I. The sermon (3, 4). 1. "If ye do return unto the Lord with all your heart." If you are returning unto the Lord. If you are in a state of conversion. The assertion indicates a work begun but not finished. The young prophet had doubts about the sincerity of their repentance. It is possible to return to the Lord with only half the heart. Such a turning God will never own or bless. He will be found of those only who seek Him with a whole heart. 2. "Put away the strange God's from among you" It was hard for Israel to give up her idols. They sought to worship God through the work of their hands. We worship strange gods when we bow to pride, honor, pleasure and riches. 3. "Prepare your heart unto the Lord." The power to believe, repent and reform is from the Lord, but the act of believing, repenting and reforming is from man. God and man labor together in man's betterment. "The preparation of the heart belongs to man, but the answer of the tongue is from the Lord" 4. "And He will deliver you." No one ever renounced his sins and returned to the Lord, and prepared his heart to receive Him who was not delivered. God saves all who come to Him as He has directed. 5. The result of this sermon was twofold. (a) They put away their idols. They did not destroy them, but hid them out of sight for a season. We may conceal our sins from men, and yet retain them in our heart. Nothing is hid from God. (b) They "served the Lord." This devotion likely consisted in prayer and sacrifice. We may serve God and not be pure in heart. The more we worship Him the more we will be made like Him.

II. The intercession (5, 6). 1. "Gather all Israel at Mizpeh." This city was located north of Jerusalem in the tribe of Benjamin. It was one of the three cities in which Samuel held court while he judged the people. All Israel may only mean a majority of the men. This assembling of the people was for a religious, and not a military purpose. We should come together to worship God. 1. "I will pray for you unto the Lord." This prayer is not recorded. He likely confessed that the people had sinned, asked that they be forgiven, and gently reminded the Lord of His covenant with their fathers. It was no doubt delivered in fiery eloquence, and repeated many times. We should pray one for another. 3. The people "drew water and poured it out before the Lord." This was likely a symbolical expression. It indicated the pouring out of the soul in penitence or grief. The Psalmest, in speaking of his sorrow, said—"I am poured out like water." Jeremiah exhorted the people to "Pour out thine heart like water before the Lord." The flowing of tears is an expression of grief, and is like the pouring out of water. It is well to be sorry because of transgressions. 4. They "fasted on that day." Fasting, as a religious act, implies sin, repentance and prayer. To abstain from food without a deep seated conviction for so doing will do no good. There is a certain kind of evil spirit that "goeth not out but by prayer and fasting." Abstinance from food is a natural result of great grief.

III. The foe (7, 8). 1. "The Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together at Mizpeh." People are ever eyeing their enemies. They are jealous of them, and often misinterpret their work. They no doubt took this to be a military gathering of the Israelites. It is well to have confidence in others. Yet we know this world abounds with bad people. All confidence and no prudence is a poor condition, and all prudence and no confidence is fully as bad. 2. "The lords of the Philistines went up against Israel." When we think our cause is just we act as though it was just. We may know we are right or wrong not by conviction, or observation, or reason, but by the word of God. Conscience is a good guide, but when he conflicts with Revelation, let it stand aside. What the Bible approves is right, and what it condemns is wrong. Our cause is not just because we say it is just. 3. "The children of Israel were afraid of the Philistines." Sin makes cowards of us all. They had disobeyed God, they knew it, and felt they were not able to withstand their foe. We have many strong enemies to overcome. The saloon, the gambling den and the brothel are hard Philistines to conquer. Who is sufficient for them? 1. "Cease not to cry unto the Lord our God for us." They went to the right source for help. They had faith in prayer. They also believed the petitions of one would effect the condition of another. So it did with Moses, Elijah, Samuel, Peter, and others. God will hear prayer. He has all power, and may be influenced to bring about our desired results.

IV. The battle (9-12). 1. Samuel offered a whole burnt offering unto the Lord. In this sacrifice the entire victim was consumed. It was dedicatory. Those who offered it pledged their entire life to God. This was a very suitable sacrifice to make just at this time. The offering God requires of us is our "reasonable service." 2. While this sacrifice was being made the Philistines drew near in battle. They intended to scatter this gathering of the people. They no doubt felt that it meant mischief to them. Often the wicked labor to overthrow plans of the good. It is very dangerous to disturb people in their devotions. 3. The Philistines were "smitten before the Lord." God's eye is upon His worshipers, and when foes assail He may "thunder with a great thunder" against them. Jehovah is a majority. If the Lord is on our side who can be against us? 4. The stone of memorial. The place was "between Mizpeh and Shen," that is, between the watch tower and the tooth. It was likely a short distance northwest of Jerusalem. It is well to remember the places where God has blessed us. The name—Ebenezer—means "stone of help." It here signifies victory and greatfulness.

V. The triumph (13-14). The Philistines were so completely conquered that "they came no more into the coasts of Israel" during the days of Samuel. They also restored the cities they had taken from God's people. The Lord never half does any work. When He saves the soul He gives complete victory over sin. "Sin shall not have dominion over you." Praise the Lord.

"What makes my lamp smell so!" Wrong chimney, probably. "Index to Chimneys" will tell you.

Here's the Peddler,

with washing-powder. "Prizes," too, for any women brave enough to use it. Reckless—that's a truer word for her, when you think of all the harm that cheap, inferior washing-powders can do.

When you consider the ruined clothes, paint, etc., that you're risking, wouldn't it seem cheaper to buy these trifling "prizes," for yourself, if you want them? Pearline isn't peddled—doesn't give any prizes. It is a prize in itself. You can save more money with Pearline, by reason of its absolute safety, than with any cheap washing-powder. By the way, did you ever get a really good thing from a peddler?

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Tennessee River District.

Dear Brethren—Don't forget to take collections and forward them at once. Let us take the Church Extension this month, the Freedmen's Aid the first week (on Sabbath) in November, and the Missionary collection on Thanksgiving Day or the Sabbath after you have just returned from the conference. When you resolved thus and thus on the grand old SOUTHWESTERN (now if there was any thing in the resolution) act upon it at once. Let us have by January, 1896, 125 yearly subscribers on this district. Let all the local preachers and leaders subscribe at once. Yours most hopefully,

S. B. DANLEY, P. E.

Marion District.

Finally, brethren farewell. You will see from the SOUTHWESTERN, our grand old Church paper, that I have published my fourth and last round on the district. Six years we have toiled side by side in the promotion of the cause of our God. We have seen our Zion strengthened and better fortified than at any other time in our history. More of our people have homes, and better homes. We are building the eleventh church, almost two per year. Twelve churches have been either remodeled, seated or supplied with church furniture. Four parsonages have been built and one paid out of debt. Five wells have been dug, which to us is a great blessing. The Marion Institute building has been remodeled, seated and furnished. Also a day school building built on the church ground at Eutaw. Three teachers are employed in the institute at Marion and one at Eutaw. God has blessed the work, and the schools are prosperous. The district is standing by the institute as never before. Over 1000 souls have been converted and added to our church. Over $1000 has been raised for benevolent claims. More Church papers have been taken than at any other time, and yet we can and shall increase the number. See to it brethren. Let no one break rank, but keep at the business and let us do better on all lines. Lookout for your benevolent money and be at the conference on time. Your brother,

H. N. BROWN, P. E.

Palatka District.

Dear Brethren—There have been several changes made in the fourth quarterly rounds, as you will notice in the time table in this paper. Please have your officers nominated in the various board meetings preceding the quarterly conferences, and all reports made out in writing. We will be glad to have you report your benevolent collections in full. Begin now and press the work with all your might. Now is the season for revivals; let the fire burn throughout the rank and file of the district. Push the canvass for the SOUTHWESTERN. Put the resolutions passed at the last district conference into action. Let us work together to make this the grandest year in the history of the district. S. A. HUGER, P. E.

Alexandria District.

Dear Brethren—I am anxious that we hold the ground we have, and advance beyond and away over last year's work. We can do it. Don't let us fall back an inch in our benevolent work nor a cent in the collections. God is with us to help. Remember the SOUTHWESTERN and the other matters about which we made strong pledges.

S. E. H. MORANT, P. E.

Western District.

The district conference will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 13, and will continue to the 16th, at Atoka. All the brethren are required to be present on the first day—matters of importance to be attended. The Sunday School Institute and Epworth League will be held in connection with the district conference. Come, brethren, prepared to make a good beginning. H. W. KEY, P. E.

Served in Two Wars.

THE GRIP ALMOST WON WHERE THE BULLET FAILED.

Our Sympathies Always Enlisted in the Infirmities of the Veteran.

[From the Herald, Woodstock, Va.]

There is an old soldier in Woodstock, Va., who served in the war with Mexico and in the war of the rebellion, Mr. Levi McInturff. He passed through both these wars without a serious wound. The hardships, however, told seriously on him, for when the grip attacked him four years ago it nearly killed him. Who can look on the infirmities of a veteran without a feeling of the deepest sympathy? His townspeople saw him confined to his house so prostrated with great nervousness that he could not hold a knife and fork at the table, scarcely able to walk too, and as he attempted it, he often stumbled and fell. They saw him treated by the best talent to be had—but still he suffered on for four years, and gave up finally in despair. One day, however, he was struck by the account of a cure which had been effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He immediately ordered a box and commenced taking them. He says he was greatly relieved within three days time. The blood found its way to his fingers and his hands which had been palsied, assumed a natural color, and he was soon enabled to use his knife and fork at the table. He has recovered his strength to such an extent that he is able to chop wood, shock corn and do his regular work about his home. He now says he can not only walk to Woodstock, but can walk across the mountains. He is able to lift up a fifty-two pound weight with one hand and says he does not know what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for others, but knows that they have done a great work for him.

He was in town last Monday, court day, and was loud in his praises of the medicine that had given him so great relief. He purchased another box and took it home with him. Mr. McInturff is willing to make affidavit to these facts.

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not a patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, hearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Notice—Texas Conference.

The brethren and friends who are going to help pay for the new bell for Wiley University will please send in their donation just as soon as possible. A number have done so already, but I am sure there are others who will help us. We need $63. A complete list will be published. Yours truly, I. B. SCOTT,
Marshall, Texas.

Cumberland River District.

In making your reports please say how many times that you have urged upon the people to take the SOUTHWESTERN. I wish for all the pastors to go and stay on their work this year. We made a great success last year in everything, and we wish to make greater gains this year. Oh, brethren, to the work; to the work! For we are servants of God. Let us follow the path that our Master has trod. We must do a grand work this year for Christ. We have voted on the resolutions at the annual conference, now we must put them in action. Begin your revivals at once. This is a good time for them. And while the people are happy give them something to read to keep them happy, and the old SOUTHWESTERN is the best thing to put into their hands so as to keep them posted. Plan and take your collections while the people are happy. We cannot fool away the year, then come to the conference saying what the people have not paid you; at the same time you have not given the people the service that is due them. We must have more papers taken this year and more money—conversion and paying off church debts. Please get in line the first part of this conference year and stay in line all the year for God and his Church. Write to me how you are moving things. Yours for Christ, L. M. MOORES, P. E.
